U.S. 'New Isolationists' Blasted

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — President Richard M. Nixon pledged today to keep U.S. defenses strong despite what he called an "open season" on criticism of the armed forces. The President also ruled out unilateral disarmament by the United States.

Nixon, using some of the strongest terms he has ever used as President against the advocates of unilateral disarmament and critics of American military power, said it would be easy to "buy some popularity by going along with the new isolationists—but it would be disastrous for our nation and the world."

"If America were to turn its back on the world, a deadening form of peace would settle over this planet—the kind of peace that suffocated freedom in Czechoslovakia," he said.

"We must rule out unilateral disarmament," Nixon said. "In the real world, that simply will not work."

Speaking in Falcon Stadium to 676 seniors and other members of the academy cadet corps, the President said "the aggressors of this world are not going to give the United States a period of grace in which to put our domestic house in order—just as the crises within our society cannot be put on a back burner until we resolve the problem of Vietnam."

Nixon's aggressive attitude against critics of the American military was broadly aimed, apparently to include opponents of his ABM Safeguard system, as well as advocates of unilateral withdrawal from Vietnam.

"It is open season on the armed forces," he told the graduating air cadets, over two-thirds of whom will go immediately into pilot training.

"On a fighting front," he told the future officers of the Air Force, "you are asked to be ready to make unlimited sacrifice in a limited war. On the home front, you are under

GOP Chiefs Back Withholding Tax

Monagan, Way Air Opinions

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The legislature's two leading Republicans, in a position directly opposite to Gov. Ronald Reagan's, today tentatively endorsed payroll withholding of the state income tax.

Senate President Pro Tem Howard Way and Assembly Speaker Robert T. Monagan discussed withholding of the income tax at a joint news conference. The get-together apparently will be a regular successor to the old "Hughie-Jessie Show" featuring former pro tem Hugh M. Burns and former speaker Jess M. Unruh.

WAY 'RETHINKS'

Way, previously an opponent of withholding, said he is "rethinking priorities" in view of the state's mounting fiscal needs for building construction.

Monagan said he, too, would support withholding if it were a part of a major tax reform program involving the shift of burden from the property tax to the income tax.

The disclosure of Way and Monagan's position gives Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, vital support for his bill to install full withholding. Bagley, as chairman of the lower house Revenue and Taxation Committee, will lead the drive for passage of the bill in the Legislature.

Reagan is an adamant foe of compulsory withholding, although his tax reform program provides a system of "voluntary" withholding of the income tax.

NO MIRACLES

But Way told reporters, "I'm personally not expecting any miracles in tax reform this session."

He said tax reform "comes about gradually. Hopefully we can take some significant steps this session and one of them might be the implementation of withholding."

Way, of Exeter, said he will soon appoint a task force of Senate tax and fiscal staff consultants to analyze and

School Tax Hikes Drubbed At Polls

Mill Valley's bid for a 75-cent increase in the district's general purpose tax rate limit was defeated by a vote of 3,084 to 2,585.

With 12,063 voters eligible; the Mill Valley turnout was about 47 per cent.

The proposed increase would have boosted the general purpose limit from $2.25 to $3 per $100 assessed valuation, and the total tax rate, including overrides and bond redemption, from $3.135 to $3.885.

Fairfax School District voters rejected a proposed 95-cent increase in the maximum general operating tax rate by a vote of 843 to 711.

If the increase had been approved the district's operating tax rate would have been hiked from $2.05 to $3 per $100 assessed valuation; and the total tax rate from $3.015 to $3.965.

If the increase had been approved the district's operating tax rate would have been hiked from $2.05 to $3 per $100 assessed valuation: and the total tax rate from $3.015 to $3.965.

With 3,603 voters eligible, the turnout was about 43 per cent.

Defeat came in Mill Valley although trustees had promised they wouldn't levy more than 55 cents of the proposed increase during the 1969-70 fiscal year, and would operate within the 75-cent hike for at least three years. Before the vote in Fairfax; Supt. H. Reginald Hammon said the district would have to stop running the district's two buses if the increase were rejected.

New Deputies Up County Tax Rate

Next year's anticipated basic county tax rate, which started at $2.445 on Monday, rose a penny this morning with the addition of four sheriff's deputies and a sergeant to the sheriff's patrol division.

For the patrol division, Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos asked for seven additional deputies, two sergeants and one meter maid to patrol the Civic Center and Hall of Justice. County Administrator Alan Bruce recommended against any additions, but county supervisors compromised by adding four deputies and a sergeant.

This would require the addition of two patrol cars with radio equipment, for a total cost in manpower and equipment of $66,708, Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell reported. That represents 1.3 cents on the tax rate, bringing the basic county rate to $2.455, as compared with this year's $2.27.

The total anticipated rate would have been slightly higher, except that the county assessor on Monday agreed to leave one position unfilled, thus lowering the anticipated tax rate by three mills.

Supervisors this morning spent most of their time on a portion of the sheriff's total budget of $1,942,156, as compared with this year's $1,766,361.

Only the patrol division was decided this morning. Other divisions in the sheriff's department still to be considered include investigation, civil, identificaion, drug abuse, crime laboratory, administration and county jail.

Supervisors Ask Army To Speed Creek Job

By WAT TAKESHITA

Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday voted 4 to 1 to write the Army Corps of Engineers, urging that flood control work on controversial Tamalpais Creek in Kent Woodlands proceed posthaste "to minimize exposure to damage."

(Other supervisors stories, page 26, 27.)

Over strenuous objections by attorney Roger Kent of Kent Woodlands, the supervisors voted a go-ahead for repair and construction of a concrete channel between Kent Avenue and Goodhill Road. The action came on a motion by Louis H. Baar and a second by William A. Gnoss.

Lone dissenter, Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., argued that residents in the area never had a chance to reject the Tamalpais Creek portion of the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control project.

The majority action came on the recommendation of both Public Works Director Donald R. Frost and Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino, who warned that further delays could subject the county to damage liability.

The stopwork order issued by Marin Superior Court and damage that resulted from flooding of the creek by vandals has already caused about $75,000 worth of damage, reported Frost.

Kent, who filed the stopwork action, declared that in his opinion, the county is not yet liable for damages, but it would be liable if the letter is sent to the Army Corps of Engineers urging that the work proceed.

"The Army was in error," said Kent. "They cannot throw any liability on the county unless you sign this letter . . ."

Kent pointed out that Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court had described the legal proceedings on the Tamalpais Creek portion of the project as "void." He asked for more time so that a private engineer can meet with the Army Engineers and work out some solution.

Supervisor Baar, in moving for a go-head, explained he must take the advice of the county counsel. There may be a better design, but with the channel collapsing and trees in danger of toppling, he said, it is too late to stop the work.

Supervisor Gnoss recalled that the county had paid damages when work was halted on the Civic Center about eight years ago. "I don't want to go through with that again. I'll have to depend on the advice of the county counsel and the Department of Public Works."

Immediately after the vote, the supervisors voted unanimously to urge Kent Woodlands property owners to meet with the Army and the county staff to work out any improvements on Tamalpais Creek that would not halt or delay the work.

BULLETIN

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Assembly overwhelmingly approved legislation today aimed at tightening restrictions on the sale of pornography to youngsters under 18 years of age.

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Legislature's major antipornography bills, backed by both Gov. Ronald Reagan and Atty. Gen. Thomas Lynch, today faced their final crucial hurdle.

The measures were set for debate in the Assembly. The floor sponsor, Assemblyman Frank Murphy, R-Santa Cruz, predicted passage. If correct, only routine Senate concurrence in previous Assembly amendments would remain before being signed into law by Reagan.

The bills, authored by Sen. Robert Lagomarsino, R-Ojai, do two key things: establish a separate standard for judging what is obscene for juveniles and what is obscene for adults; and incorporate a "pandering" concept so advertising methods can be used to determine if literature legally is obscene.

Words Replace Acts Over People's Park

BERKELEY (AP) — Debate has replaced violence and mass marches here as city and University of California officials try to resolve the People's Park controversy.

Berkeley's City Council spent all morning yesterday listening to heated discussion about the three acres of fenced university land that precipitated violence May 15, a march to the state Capitol and marches through Berkeley streets.

The U.C. Board of Regents' Grounds and Buildings Committee is scheduled to discuss on Saturday, a proposal that Berkeley lease the U.C. acreage for park use.

Catherine Hearst, who resigned yesterday as vice chairman of the committee, said the full 24-member Board of Regents might not accept the committee's decision when it meets June 19 in Berkeley.

"I don't want to be a party to anything that might inflame any more violence," she said. "I want the whole matter attended to with dispatch and promptness."

The city council adopted a resolution commending Friday's peaceful march but condemning noise during the weekend at the "people's park annex" a mile northwest of the disputed land.

Meanwihle, the Alameda County Board of Supervisors rejected a Berkeley City Council request that the supervisors order the sheriff to investigate alleged cruel treatment of "people's park" demonstrators.

The sheriff, Frank Madigan, already has said the complaints are under investigation.

"Let Berkeley mind its own business," declared Supervisor Robert Hannon. "It is no business of the Berkeley City Council to demand to know how the sheriff runs his job."

Further debate is expected on the park annex. The location is owned by the Bay Area Rapid Transit District, which has offered to lease it to the city for a park.

State Sleuths Ask Anti-Mafia Laws

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A special "mob squad" organized by California Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch today requested tough new legislation to permit it to crack down on Mafia activities.

The special 18-man crime unit, organized nine months ago, said the Mafia, Cosa Nostra, Syndicate and "The Mob" have moved into the legitimate fields of banking, savings and loan associations, restaurants, night clubs, real estate and other businesses.

The report, prepared at the request of the Legislature, cites several reputed crime lords by name, including Frank Anthony (Big Frank) Matranga, now in San Quentin, and Salvatore Vincent Bonanno, alias Bill Bonanno, of San Jose, son of reputed New York Mafia chieftain Joe Bonanno.

The crime busters asked for legislation which would grant immunity to persons who testify against mob leaders and would permit a conviction for perjury when two statements under oath are in conflict and one is "necessarily false."

"The war against organized crime is a continuing battle requiring the maximum efficiency of a well-coordinated unit working in cooperation with local, federal and other state law enforcement agencies to conduct a comprehensive investigation...and to prosecute and convict the criminal offenders," the report said.

Although the law officers did not attempt to explore the complete extent of organized crime in California, it said an "insight into the existence and scope of organized crime can be achieved."

The unit report also said an investigation of paramilitary organizations in the state showed these private armies were "well equipped and well organized" and pose a "real and immediate threat to all citizens.

"Although the goals and objectives of these paramilitary groups are distinguishable from those aims normally associated with organized crime, the basic elements of a conspiratorial entity functioning through the use or threatened use of violence present a common (method of operation) and hence a formidable target," the report said.

The unit report also said an investigation of paramilitary organizations in the state showed these private armies were "well equipped and well organized" and pose a "real and immediate threat to all citizens.

"Although the goals and objectives of these paramilitary groups are distinguishable from those aims normally associated with organized crime, the basic elements of a conspiratorial entity functioning through the use or threatened use of violence present a common (method of operation) and hence a formidable target," the report said.

Vietnam Struggle Turning To 'De-Americanized' War

Reds Planning Countermoves

SAIGON (AP) — Piles of captured documents show the Communist high command in Vietnam is acknowledging grave battlefield reverses, but insisting its forces still occupy "the most advantageous position."

Plans have been drawn for a series of summer and fall campaigns which the Reds hope will drive that latter point home to the United States and to the world.

FEAR OF SAIGON

Extensive documentation indicates that the prime fear of Hanoi's war strategists is that a strong government may emerge in Saigon behind a shield of American guns, a shield that stays in place even though U.S. public opinion seeks a troop pullout.

Instructions carried by courier to many parts of Vietnam in the past month make future strategy clear: "Destroy the belief of the United States in the illusion that the war can be de-Americanized successfully, and that they can attain a superior position in peace negotiations."

To bring this about the high command evidently has ordered a new summer offensive against Saigon.

The objective is to collapse or discredit the central government "and force the United States to accept the inevitable one way or another, either honorably or dishonorably," as one recent document from Liberation Army headquarters put it.

RED WORRIES

The South Vietnamese army is being rapidly consolidated and rebuilt.

A "much more sophisticated and consequently much more dangerous" pacification plan is bringing back under control areas lost long ago to enemy forces.

B52 bomber strikes are becoming more effective.

The defenses of Saigon and its Chinese quarter, Cholon, are being expanded into the rural areas, making it much more difficult for attacking forces to function.

South Vietnamese political forces are being consolidated.

PRO-RED FACTORS?

Differences are increasing between the U.S. government and the Saigon administration, and in the political field the United States is becoming increasingly confused and isolaed.

Having been forced by last year's Tet offensive into negotiations, America is seeking a political solution to a problem that it once throught could be settled by arms, and this has greatly shaken its reliance in the force of weapons.

The 'honeymoon period" President Nixon's political opponents accorded him will soon end, and Nixon will be compelled to take a new course of action which, in all likelihood, will decide the outcome of the war.

RED JET WINS SPUR SEARCH FOR WEAPONS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Faster-firing, harder-hitting guns are being planned for U.S. jet fighters because of dramatic progress made by North Vietnamese pilots against American planes.

Air Force work on developing the gun will start in the coming fiscal year and the weapon will be installed in the F15, a jet fighter designed to provide clear U.S. superiority over any Russian-built jets in the 1970s.

Dr. John S. Foster, the Pentagon's research chief, disclosed recently that North Vietnam's fighter pilots were battling U.S. war planes on almost even terms in the latter stages of the air war.

One Survives Long Trip In Jet's Wheel

MADRID (AP) — Two young Cubans stowed away above the wheels of a Spanish jetliner in Havana last night, but one apparently fell to his death a few minutes after the plane took off.

The other stowaway, 22-year-old Armando Socarras Ramirez, fell unconscious and half frozen from his hiding place behind the DC8's left wheel after it landed in Madrid. He was reported in grave condition.

Later, Dr, Juan Amalbia said at Madrid General Hospital that Socarras had regained consciousness and was out of danger. "He's going to live, definitely," the physician said.

ADMITS COMPANION

After regaining consciousness, he told hospital officials that he had a companion who hid behind the plane's right wheel.

The pilot of the Iberia Airlines plane, Cmdr. Valentin Vara del Rey, had said earlier he noticed nothing unusual about the flight. But later he told officials his right wheel didn't retract properly after he took off.

Vara del Rey said he notified the Havana tower of this, but he said a second attempt brought the wheel up without any trouble. Officials theorized that Socarras' companion fell out when the pilot lowered the wheel for the second retraction try.

Hospital officials did not immediately disclose the identity of the second stowaway.

Two other Latin Americans stowed away in the wheel wells of jetliners, but only one was successful.

1966 PIONEER

The pioneer was Francisco Cuevas Garcia, a 17-year-old Mexican, who traveled that way in 1966 from Bogota, Colombia, to Mexico City with no ill effects. His flight lasted four hours.

In 1967, the body of another 17-year-old Mexican, Humberto Garcia Gutierrez, was found on a Los Angeles playground. Police said he apparently had stowed away in Mexico City and then fallen out when the pilot let his wheels down to land.

ARVN Bearing Battle Load

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese troops and heavy American air and artillery strikes have killed 945 North Vietnamese in three weeks of fighting around Dak To in the Central Highlands, military spokesmen reported today.

The South Vietnamese and their American advisers also suffered heavy losses. More than 700 casualties were reported, including 157 government troops and 13 Americans killed, 455 South Vietnamese and 32 Americans wounded; 71 government soldiers and two Americans missing.

TEST OF STRATEGY

The operation, named People's Rights, is providing a test of U.S. plans to turn over more and more of the war to South Vietnamese forces so American forces can begin withdrawing from Vietnam.

"It is an entire ARVN (Army of the Republic of Vietnam) show with the exception of such American combat support as artillery, tactical air strikes, gunships and medical evacuation helicopters," one U.S. spokesman said.

Other spokesmen said that American support had accounted for roughly half of the North Vietnamese killed. Hundreds of U.S. B52 bombers and smaller fighter-bombers have pounded the enemy with more than 10,000 tons of bombs.

HANOI VERSION

Hanoi claimed more than 3,000 government soldiers had been killed or wounded, wiping out one South Vietnamese battalion and crippling or decimating six others.

"The new victory of the liberation forces has further proved that for all the efforts of the U.S. to help the puppet army get back on its feet, the latter is irrevocably doomed to complete disintegration," said the Hanoi newspaper Quan Doi Nhan Dan.

The South Vietnamese army is using the equivalent of about two regiments in Operation People's Rights, perhaps as many as 3,000 troops. Field reports said their mission is to smash the North Vietnamese 66th and 28E infantry regiments and an artillery regiment which in early May moved out of bases in neighboring Cambodia and Laos to threaten Dak To and the nearby Ben Het special forces camp.

OTHER ACTION

Elsewhere in South Vietnam, tank-riding troops of the U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment clashed twice with North Vietnamese forces and killed 43 while sweeping an enemy staging area in War Zone C, 55 miles northwest of Saigon.

Twenty-two Vietnamese civilians were killed and 27 wounded in two incidents in the Mekong Delta today. A bus hit a mine 60 miles south of Saigon, killing 17 civilians and wounding seven. Five other civilians were killed and 20 wounded when a bomb exploded in a market place 15 miles southwest of Saigon.

A U.S. Air Force F100 Super Sabre jet was shot down deep in the delta 161 miles southwest of Saigon and the pilot was killed yesterday. An Army observation helicopter was destroyed by enemy fire 65 miles southeast of Da Nang, killing the three Americans aboard.

Volpe Wants 'Airbags' On All New Cars

NEW YORK (AP) — Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe wants all new automobiles to come with "airbags"—a balloon-like device that inflates to protect passengers in event of a crash.

Volpe told an Automotive Safety Foundation luncheon yesterday: "I would think by 1972, they should be a must."

The secretary said the Nixon administration was prepared to "get tough" with automobile manufacturers if they don't step up safety efforts.

"I would hope they do it voluntarily," he said, "but if they don't I can get tough." He said the federal government might require installation of airbags if car makers were reluctant to adopt them voluntarily.

Volpe said the device is stored in a car's steering wheel hub, dashboard or behind the front seat, and inflates almost instantly on impact to cushion passengers from a crash.

He said the airbag "promises to be a major breakthrough in injury prevention." The new safety feature would replace seat belts.

In 1790, the population of New York City was 33,131.

Strike Is Off

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao (AP) — Union leaders on this riot-scarred Caribbean island have dropped plans for a general strike following a government pledge to dissolve Parliament this week and hold new elections.

The union men suffered a defeat in Parliament yesterday but then put more pressure on Prime Minister Ciro Kroon and persuaded him to bow to their demands.

Striking oil workers went on a rampage Friday when police fired into their ranks. Four persons were killed and 70 per cent of Willemstad's business district was burned out. Labor leaders charged following the riots that the island's workers, who are mostly blacks, are not adequately represented in the government, which is dominated by Dutch settlers. They demanded that the government resign.

The tariff cuts, which were not scheduled to be in full effect until 1972, are designed to spur foreign competition for Canadian industry. Benson said they should help keep prices and wages down.

Probe Explosions

An estimated six explosions ripped through a 10-square-block area of the Glen Park suburb in about 15 minutes yesterday. Officials said six homes were demolished and concussion and fire triggered by the blasts damaged 19 other residences.

The exact cause of the blasts was under investigation, but Mayor Richard G. Hatcher of Gary said, "One thing is very clear — that is there was a buildup of gas pressure in this particular area which created several explosions. As to why they occurred, we don't know"

Witness At Mutiny Trial Is Arrested

FORT ORD (UPI) — A defense witness dressed in civilian clothes startled the court trying 14 San Francisco Presidio GIs for mutiny yesterday when he announced he was an AWOL soldier and then surrendered.

George Rey, 21, of San Francisco, was taken into custody by a swarm of military police after testifying that informers among Presidio stockade prisoners received special privileges and that living conditions were bad for the inmates.

Rey testified on behalf of the 14 soldiers who were among 27 prisoners at the stockade to participate in a singing sit-down strike in the prison's courtyard.

Members of the group said they were protesting poor conditions in the stockade and the fatal shooting of inmate Richard Bunch, 19, who was shotgunned by a guard while allegedly trying to escape.

When asked his status, Rey replied, "I am AWOL."

attack from those who question the need for a strong national defense, and indeed see a danger in the power of the defenders.

"You are entering the military service of your country when the nation's potential adversaries abroad were never stronger and your critics at home were never more numerous."

Then the chief executive proceeded to list some of the fundamental differences of opinion between his critics and his thoughts on defense. He rejected one school of thought that held to the idea that understanding with the Soviet Union and Communist China would come through downgrading of American alliances and what would amount to a unilateral reduction of U.S. arms.

He rejected, too, the idea that by becoming conciliatory, accommodating and unable to cope with the threat of war that the United States would increase the chances of peace.

Some critics, he asserted, picture the United States as "blocking the road to peace by maintaining its military strength at home and its defense forces abroad."

Such attitudes, he said, ignored the reality of the world situation.

"Can we ever be left in peace if we do not actively assume the burden of keeping the peace?" he asked.

As for specific criticism of the military and so-called military-industrial complex, Nation said first that he had to bear the responsibility for determining the necessary level of military spending and that his requests thus far were, in his belief, the minimum essential for the United States to meet its current and long-range obligations to itself and the free world.

Nixon planned to fly during the afternoon to his new California residence at San Clemente for two days of intensive activity involving domestic programs either pending before Congress or about to be submitted, before going to Hawaii then.

Employees Veto New Merit Plan

College of Marin classified employees voted 72-14 yesterday not to accept the merit system of personnel operations.

If the employees had approved the civil service type system, it would have meant appointing a three-man commission with a paid personnel director. The system would also entail a testing system for prospective employees. Ninety-five persons were eligible to vote.

Correct Donor

Muskie Denies Panel Feuding

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie has denied he quit the investigative subcommittee of Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., because of personal conflict with the Arkansas senator.

In a letter to McClellan, revealed yesterday, Muskie said "the only reason for my resignation was that, in my judgment, I cannot give the time which I expect the subcommittee's work will require this year."

Muskie, a possible presidential candidate in 1972 and presently keeping to an intensive speaking schedule, added that he was, "deeply distressed" by reports "attributing my resignation to 'repeated disagreements' with you."

Fairfax Woman Is Found Dead

The body of a 45-year-old Fairfax housewife was found at 7:40 a.m. yesterday on the floor of the living room of her home at 7 Crescent Lane by her 7-year-old son.

The county coroner's office said the woman, Lois Edna Cannon, mother of four children, appeared to have intentionally taken an overdose of sleeping pills. There was an empty pill bottle near her body and notes indicating despondency were found, the coroner's office said.

She was the wife of Alton I. Cannon and mother of children ranging in age from 7 to 22.

make recommendations on a tax reform program developed in the Assembly.

A special bipartisan committee of assemblymen was named by Monagan earlier to study the six major reform packages pending in the lower house and to make recommendations for a committee bill to the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee led by Bagley.

The recommendations are expected soon.

Way said he had discussed his new position on withholding with Reagan, but said he detected no changes in the governor's opposition.

Monagan repeated his belief that the Legislature can enact a tax reform program during the current session but indicated a major reform is not likely.

He said if a reform program failed, a joint Senate-Assembly tax reform committee should be created to develop a program acceptable to both houses and report back to the 1970 session in January.

Monagan expressed opposition to holding a special session later in the year on tax reform.

"I see no value to be gained from holding a special session of the Legislature on this," he said. "I think we ought to do it in this session if we can."

Backhoe Cuts Phone Service

Approximately 50 Bolinas telephone subscribers were without service for six to eight hours yesterday after a backhoe cut through an underground cable at Mesa Road and the Bolinas-Olema Road.

A workman for the Bolinas Community Public Utility District cut the cable at 9:15 a.m., reported Steven C. Kanewske, Mill Valley manager of Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.

charge, it can be construed to be utterly without redeeming social importance" and therefore possibly obscene.

Lynch has contended that "the sex-oriented industry is determined to solicit every household in the state." He says "one million pieces of sex mail are mailed in California each month."

The bills passed the Senate overwhelmingly in March. Then they underwent an extensive technical overhaul in Murphy's Criminal Procedure Committee. The idea was to make reasonably sure they were constitutional.

The legislation defines obscenity as, "matter, taken as a whole, the predominant appeal of which to the average person, applying contemporary standards, is to prurient interest, i.e., a shameful or morbid interest in nudity, sex or excretion; and is matter which taken as a whole goes substantially beyond customary limits of candor in description or representation of such matters; and is matter which taken as a whole is utterly without redeeming social importance."

The definition is the same for juveniles, except tacked onto the end are two words: "for minors." A jury would decide what was obscene for minors.

Driver Booked In Drug Probe

A Cleveland, Ohio, man was booked at Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of possessing marijuana after his car was stopped for an equipment violation, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Neil J. Winnen, 19, was released on his own recognizance to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

The patrol said Winnen's car was stopped at 2:20 p.m. on Highway 101 north of Sausalito for lacking an outside mirror. Seeing furtive movements inside the car, the officer reported, the searched the car and found a plastic bag containing enough suspected marijuana for four cigarettes. A hitchhiker with Winnen was released.

Injuries Minor In Collision

A four-car crash yesterday on Third Street west of Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, sent a 16-year-old girl to Marin General Hospital for treatment of a scalp cut.

The girl, Carol Johnson of San Geronimo, was a passenger in a car driven by Ronald D. Grubb, 20, also of San Geronimo, who, according to police, said his brakes failed while westbound on Third Street. His auto, police said, struck a parked car, setting off a chain reaction crash involving autos driven by Doreen L. Kahler, 19, of 105 H Street, San Rafael, and Lars A. Pedersen, 24, of El Cerrito.

The accident happened shortly after 1 p.m.

MOUNT TAMALPAIS CEMETERY in the Heart of our County

Marin pioneers chose a site in the heart of our county as a final resting place for their families. Today this location—at the west end of Fifth Avenue in San Rafael—is still convenient to all Marin points.

Marinites who choose Mount Tamalpais do so with the assurance that its beauty will grow with the years. The interest from a quarter-million dollar endowment fund—twice the legal requirement—is dedicated to the constant care and improvement of this 57-acre site.

Perhaps—like many Marin families—you wish to make your own final arrangements to spare others difficult decisions. If so, we invite your inquiry or a personal visit.

Traffic Brought To Hissing Halt

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — Forty cars and a big truck and trailer hissed to a stop with flat tires on the Bayshore Freeway yesterday seconds after 5,008 nails were scattered on the highway.

The hiss of escaping air was overwhelming, said Highway Patrolman Don Osterman, and the resulting traffic jam was monumental. The truck alone had five flats.

Osterman said a case of roofing nails bounced off a southbound truck and the case burst when it hit the pavement—with predictable results.

An emergency call went out for a street sweeper, but by the time it arrived, most of the nails had been picked up by tires or scattered to the side of the road.

ing used to put the transit underground in Berkeley.

Irene Hickman, the Sacramento County assessor, planted a flower at the annex yesterday and said the whole controversy stems from an unfair tax system.

She said she favors "involvement of the people in the activities of the community . . . even if they make some mistakes along the way."

Meanwhile, the Senate's 1969 subcommittee report on un-American activities will cover "mainly the Berkeley situation," Sen. Hugh M. Burns said today. in the report, and this year's

Burns, D-Fresno, is chairman of the Senate Fact-Finding Committee on Un-American Activities, which has issued reports since the 1940s. He said this year's version probably won't be ready until late August or September.

Burns said this month's "Peoples' Park" turmoil near the University of California's Berkeley campus would be included in the report.

Burns said that this year's findings will include "mainly the personalities involved," as in past reports.

In a television interview (over station KOVR) earlier this month, Burns said Red China and other Communist nations were supporting student unrest in the United States.

Msgr. Leonard, who has been auxiliary bishop of Pittsburgh, succeeds John Joseph Cardinal Wright. The cardinal after his elevation was named prefect of the Vatican Congregation for the Clergy.

Weapons Stolen

Dwight J. Johnson, a Marin County deputy sheriff, reported yesterday to San Rafael police that a thief broke into his car in the municipal parking lot at Third and Lindaro streets and stole a .38-caliber Smith and Wesson revolver from the vehicle's console. Johnson valued the weapon at $60.

attack from those who question the need for a strong national defense, and indeed see a danger in the power of the defenders.

"You are entering the military service of your country when the nation's potential adversaries abroad were never stronger and your critics at home were never more numerous."

Then the chief executive proceeded to list some of the fundamental differences of opinion between his critics and his thoughts on defense. He rejected one school of thought that held to the idea that understanding with the Soviet Union and Communist China would come through downgrading of American alliances and what would amount to a unilateral reduction of U.S. arms.

He rejected, too, the idea that by becoming conciliatory, accommodating and unable to cope with the threat of war that the United States would increase the chances of peace.

Some critics, he asserted, picture the United States as "blocking the road to peace by maintaining its military strength at home and its defense forces abroad."

Such attitudes, he said, ignored the reality of the world situation.

"Can we ever be left in peace if we do not actively assume the burden of keeping the peace?" he asked.

As for specific criticism of the military and so-called military-industrial complex, Nation said first that he had to bear the responsibility for determining the necessary level of military spending and that his requests thus far were, in his belief, the minimum essential for the United States to meet its current and long-range obligations to itself and the free world.

Nixon planned to fly during the afternoon to his new California residence at San Clemente for two days of intensive activity involving domestic programs either pending before Congress or about to be submitted, before going to Hawaii then.

College of Marin classified employees voted 72-14 yesterday not to accept the merit system of personnel operations.

If the employees had approved the civil service type system, it would have meant appointing a three-man commission with a paid personnel director. The system would also entail a testing system for prospective employees. Ninety-five persons were eligible to vote.

Muskie Denies Panel Feuding

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie has denied he quit the investigative subcommittee of Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., because of personal conflict with the Arkansas senator.

In a letter to McClellan, revealed yesterday, Muskie said "the only reason for my resignation was that, in my judgment, I cannot give the time which I expect the subcommittee's work will require this year."

Muskie, a possible presidential candidate in 1972 and presently keeping to an intensive speaking schedule, added that he was, "deeply distressed" by reports "attributing my resignation to 'repeated disagreements' with you."

make recommendations on a tax reform program developed in the Assembly.

A special bipartisan committee of assemblymen was named by Monagan earlier to study the six major reform packages pending in the lower house and to make recommendations for a committee bill to the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee led by Bagley.

The recommendations are expected soon.

Way said he had discussed his new position on withholding with Reagan, but said he detected no changes in the governor's opposition.

Monagan repeated his belief that the Legislature can enact a tax reform program during the current session but indicated a major reform is not likely.

He said if a reform program failed, a joint Senate-Assembly tax reform committee should be created to develop a program acceptable to both houses and report back to the 1970 session in January.

Monagan expressed opposition to holding a special session later in the year on tax reform.

"I see no value to be gained from holding a special session of the Legislature on this," he said. "I think we ought to do it in this session if we can."

charge, it can be construed to be utterly without redeeming social importance" and therefore possibly obscene.

Lynch has contended that "the sex-oriented industry is determined to solicit every household in the state." He says "one million pieces of sex mail are mailed in California each month."

The bills passed the Senate overwhelmingly in March. Then they underwent an extensive technical overhaul in Murphy's Criminal Procedure Committee. The idea was to make reasonably sure they were constitutional.

The legislation defines obscenity as, "matter, taken as a whole, the predominant appeal of which to the average person, applying contemporary standards, is to prurient interest, i.e., a shameful or morbid interest in nudity, sex or excretion; and is matter which taken as a whole goes substantially beyond customary limits of candor in description or representation of such matters; and is matter which taken as a whole is utterly without redeeming social importance."

The definition is the same for juveniles, except tacked onto the end are two words: "for minors." A jury would decide what was obscene for minors.

Driver Booked In Drug Probe

A Cleveland, Ohio, man was booked at Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of possessing marijuana after his car was stopped for an equipment violation, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The patrol said Winnen's car was stopped at 2:20 p.m. on Highway 101 north of Sausalito for lacking an outside mirror. Seeing furtive movements inside the car, the officer reported, the searched the car and found a plastic bag containing enough suspected marijuana for four cigarettes. The girl, Carol Johnson of San Geronimo, was a passenger in a car driven by Ronald D. Grubb, 20, also of San Geronimo, who, according to police, said his brakes failed while westbound on Third Street. His auto, police said, struck a parked car, setting off a chain reaction crash involving autos driven by Doreen L. Kahler, 19, of 105 H Street, San Rafael, and Lars A. Pedersen, 24, of El Cerrito.

The accident happened shortly after 1 p.m.

MOUNT TAMALPAIS CEMETERY in the Heart of our County

Marin pioneers chose a site in the heart of our county as a final resting place for their families. Today this location—at the west end of Fifth Avenue in San Rafael—is still convenient to all Marin points.

Marinites who choose Mount Tamalpais do so with the assurance that its beauty will grow with the years. The interest from a quarter-million dollar endowment fund—twice the legal requirement—is dedicated to the constant care and improvement of this 57-acre site.

Perhaps—like many Marin families—you wish to make your own final arrangements to spare others difficult decisions. If so, we invite your inquiry or a personal visit.

Traffic Brought To Hissing Halt

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — Forty cars and a big truck and trailer hissed to a stop with flat tires on the Bayshore Freeway yesterday seconds after 5,008 nails were scattered on the highway.

The hiss of escaping air was overwhelming, said Highway Patrolman Don Osterman, and the resulting traffic jam was monumental. The truck alone had five flats.

Osterman said a case of roofing nails bounced off a southbound truck and the case burst when it hit the pavement —with predictable results.

An emergency call went out for a street sweeper, but by the time it arrived, most of the nails had been picked up by tires or scattered to the side of the road.

ing used to put the transit underground in Berkeley.

Irene Hickman, the Sacramento County assessor, planted a flower at the annex yesterday and said the whole controversy stems from an unfair tax system.

She said she favors "involvement of the people in the activities of the community . . . even if they make some mistakes along the way."

Meanwhile, the Senate's 1969 subcommittee report on un-American activities will cover "mainly the Berkeley situation," Sen. Hugh M. Burns said today. in the report, and this year's Burns, D-Fresno, is chairman of the Senate Fact-Finding Committee on Un-American Activities, which has issued reports since the 1940s. He said this year's version probably won't be ready until late August or September.

Burns said this month's "Peoples' Park" turmoil near the University of California's Berkeley campus would be included in the report.

Burns said that this year's findings will include "mainly the personalities involved," as in past reports.

In a television interview (over station KOVR) earlier this month, Burns said Red China and other Communist nations were supporting student unrest in the United States.

Navy Halts Hunt For 73 Lost Seamen

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) — The Navy has called off its search for 73 seamen missing from a U.S. destroyer cut in half by an Australian carrier during SEATO maneuvers.

"We have absolute confidence that we have picked up all survivors" said a Navy spokesman in announcing the end of search operations by 10 ships from three nations.

Most of those given up for lost —nearly a third of the destroyer Evans' crew—were presumed sleeping in their bunks in the forward part of the ship when it was hit by the carrier Melbourne, flagship of the Australian Navy, in predawn hours about 650 miles southwest of Manila in the Philippines late Monday. The forward section quickly sank in 5,400 feet of water.

Seas were calm and skies clear at the time of the collision and remained so during the rescue efforts.

Adm. John J. Hyland, Pacific Fleet commander, ordered a court of inquiry similar to the Navy's probe into the seizure of the intelligence ship Pueblo.

The still-floating stern section of the Evans was being towed to the Philippines by a fleet tug late yesterday when the Pentagon began releasing names of the casualties.

Among the lost were the three Sage brothers of Niobrara, Neb. — Boatswain's Mate 2/C Gary, 22, Radarman 3/C Gregory, 21, and Seaman Appren. Kelly, 19.

Fireman Lawrence J. Reilly Jr. of Costa Mesa perished, but his father, Senior Chief Gunner's Mate Lawrence J. Reilly Sr. was a survivor.

Navy headquarters listed 199 Evans survivors and one dead in addition to the 73 missing. The Melbourne had no casualties.

One of the survivors was Seaman Marcus Rodriguez, 20, Fresno, who was flown to a hospital in Cam Rahn Bay with a broken leg.

"I still can't believe it," he said. "The only thing I recall is a helicopter taking me somewhere."

Other survivors were en route to Subic Bay, the Philippines, aboard the carrier Kearsarge. They included the skipper, Cmdr. A. S. McLemore.

Brazil Still Keeping Rockefeller Date

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazil's foreign minister, Jose de Magalhaes Pinto, yesterday lamented the interruption of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's Latin-American fact-finding mission but said the U.S. government already has the facts it needs.

Magalhaes said the New York governor's three-day visit to Brazil beginning June 16 is still on. Uruguay and Chile are reported considering cancellation of Rockefeller's trips to those countries, and Argentina is in the midst of an internal political crisis.

The first two legs of the four-part mission for President Richard M. Nixon were marred by protest demonstrators and at least 10 deaths. The trip was cut short Sunday after Peru had said Rockefeller was not welcome because of curtailment of U.S. arms aid, Venezuela asked him to stay away because of the threat of violence, and the Bolivians wouldn't let him out of the La Paz airport.

Last night, about 500 rock-throwing students battled police in Montevideo, the Uruguyan capital, and two senators called for Rockefeller to cancel his trip there. Some 200 high school students stoned the U.S. consulate in Santiago, Chile, in protest against the Rockefeller mission.

There have been reports that students may attempt to organize demonstrations in Rio and in Sao Paulo during Rockefeller's visit, but Brazil's military dictatorship seems confident it can control any outbreaks.

Instructions Are Discussed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Prosecution and defense attorneys yesterday discussed with Superior Court Judge oseph Karesh instructions he will give the jury when the murder case of Larry Taylor and John Lynn is given to it next week.

The jury of eight women and four men got a two-day vacation in the seven week trial while Karesh discussed instructions and various motions. Final arguments will begin tomorrow and the jury will get the case sometime next week.

The two 24-year-old men are being tried for the slaying of a Lake County deputy sheriff, William David Hoyt, during a jailbreak attempt in Lakeport in 1967.

The case was transferred to San Francisco on a defense motion for change of venue.

Safeguards For Free TV First Says FCC Chairman

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pay-television will be yanked off the air in any area where it begins putting free TV out of business, says Rosel H. Hyde, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission.

Hyde said in an interview yesterday, however, that fears the proposed authorization of pay TV would spell the end of free programs are unjustified.

In two months, the FCC has received about 150 letters from TV fans who believe—as opposition advertising suggests—that free TV is in danger.

Last Dec. 13, the FCC issued general rules for permitting pay-TV service, in which a broadcast signal is transmitted in a scrambled form that can only be unscrambled on the home TV set by use of a rented decoder.

The rules take effect June 12, but this does not mean an immediate start on pay TV.

An appeal by the National Association of Theater Owners and Joint Committee Against Toll TV is under consideration by the District of Columbia Circuit Court of Appeals, and the FCC has agreed not to authorize any pay-TV operations for 60 days after the court decision.

Bushmen in Africa's Kalahari region never take women on a hunt or allow them to touch arrows. To do either brings bad luck, they believe.

Irate Youths Considering Ways To Watchdog Police

By JOANNE GRANT

A rally calling for formation of a committee to keep watch on police activities in Marin County — sparked by incidents at a dance in Fairfax Friday — was held yesterday in Fairfax Memorial Park.

The rally prompted another meeting, last night, at the San Anselmo home of Betty Huddleston, to continue plans for forming a group to keep a continual check on police.

THIRD MEETING

Last night's gathering was the third in 24 hours. The initial meeting, attended by about 35 persons Monday night, grew out of concern for the arrest of David E. Pratt, 17, for investigation of resisting arrest and assaulting an officer outside the dance.

Pratt was released from juvenile hall following a detention hearing yesterday, his attorney, Salle Seaman Soladay, reported. The tall, slender Shasta High School student appeared at the rally but on the advice of his attorney did not comment on the Friday incident.

A statement recounting the Memorial Day incident, commenting generally on police oppression and racism and announcing the rally was distributed at College of Marin and in Fairfax yesterday.

The unsigned statement, developed at the Monday meeting at the Huddleston home where Pratt stays, said "peace officers had been hassling 'hip' looking people all night (at the Friday dance) — ordering and pushing them around as well as making derogatory remarks.

POLICE 'EXPLODED'

"Bad as these police actions were, their 'police violence' virtually exploded when Chief (James R.) Orr arrived out of uniform at the pavilion."

The statement gave one of several conflicting accounts of the incident and noted Pratt was "busted for resisting and assaulting those four or five fully equipped policemen."

The statement contends that the arrest of Pratt, a black man, was an act of racism. No one else was arrested.

Witnesses to the incident have contacted the Marin district attorney's office but because of the possibility of a civil rights violation local authorities have asked the U.S. Attorney's office in San Francisco to investigate.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Michael Anthony, assigned to the case locally, said it would take about a week before federal authorities decide whether they will handle it.

Meanwhile, Fairfax Mayor Francis J. O'Connell reported he has asked for a written report from everyone involved in the park and recreation department sponsored dance.

"I have to see something in writing besides the police report," O'Connell said.

O'Connell emphasized he didn't want to do anything that would stop the teen recreation program in Fairfax.

He said one of the problems appeared to the the lateness of the dance. Scheduled to begin at 8 p.m., it didn't get underway until 9 p.m. because the band, the Sons of Champlin, was late. The crowd was then let in slowly and it was some time before the hall was filled, he said.

O'Connell said such Friday night dances are held regularly in Fairfax but usually only 150 to 200 young people attend. Last Friday, a more popular band was hired — "I guess Fairfax can't stand success," the mayor said.

He said the expected the matter would be discussed at the council meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the Women's Club.

Persons attending the rally yesterday, about 40 in all, were urged to go to the city council meeting Monday.

Speaking above the noise of the motorcycle policeman who drove up and down Bolinas Road regularly during the rally, John Turner, a student at the University of California at Berkeley predicted there would be an increasing number of persons joining the group and urged them to find a means of rapid, widespread communication.

Among the suggestions for a central system was Switchboard of Marin.

Computer Finds Duplicate Claims

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Computers have uncovered about 15,700 duplicate claims for the $70 property tax rebate which goes to California homeowners soon.

About 2.5 million homeowners have filed for the rebates and checks will be mailed June 13.

A spokesman for the controller's office said most of the double claims are considered to be honest mistakes made by persons who own more than one home. A homeowner can qualify only once for the rebate, approved by the legislature and the voters last year as a form of property tax relief.

Double filing for claims were discovered when computers detected duplicate Social Security numbers, which had to be listed on the rebate claim forms.

S. African Orange Import Permit Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — A permit allowing the importing of South African oranges could lead to a latter day version of the Boston Tea Party—an "Orange Party," says Rep. Charles eC. Diggs Jr., D-Mich.

Diggs, in a telegram to the Agricultuhe Department yesterday, protested the import permit granted to Amcan Sales Inc., saying, "to foster the further economic growth of racist South Africa spreads an even worse kind of pestilence."

Ex-Planner Is Found Guilty Of Permit Violation

A Marin Municipal Court judge yesterday found a former Marin County planning commissioner guilty of a misdemeanor offense of keeping a horse and a pony at his San Rafael home without a permit.

A secon charge of refusing to remove a public nuisance against Edward K. Wachsman of 50 Palm Avenue was dismissed by Judge Peter Allen Smith at the request of San Rafael City Atty. David Menary Jr.

Judge Smith set sentencing for 10 a.m. Friday.

Wachsman's animals have been the subject of complaints from his neighbors in the Dominican section since last December, when neighbors appeared before the San Rafael City Council to say that Wachsman was not complying with an order to clean the horse area daily.

Army Cadets Advised They'll Face Critics

Westmoreland, Army Chief of Staff, spok at a ceremony in sunny Michie Stadium before 800 graduates, the largest class in the academy's 167-year history.

"We find our military establishment, that has helped to forge the shield behind which this country has lived in prosperity, is now under attack," Westmoreland said.

"We find some of our countrymen are ever clamoring louder for us to pull out, to withdraw, to reduce our international comitments."

"As young officers about to embark on a military career in the midst of an unpopular war, you are aware of public attitudes. You will require an unusual sense of balance and rare judgement to avoid discouragement and disillusionment."

Westmoreland said the graduates would have to expect periodic criticism of the military as inevitable, even if it were unfair and irresponsible.

"However, you should not be a slave to this criticism," he said. "But take solace in the knowledge that you are defending a civilian society that permits free expression."

Profs Blast Dumke Over Screen Plan

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A presidential selection committee at San Francisco State College yesterday accused Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke of a "breach of trust" in the search for a permanent head for the strife-torn school.

Dumke, the committee told the San Francisco State Academic Senate, wants to bypass the usual selection methods and establish a special screening group to choose a successor to Acting President S. I. Hayakawa of Mill Valley.

The committee suggested by the chancellor would consist of himself; two state college trustees; Dr. Mansel Keene, special assistant to the chancellor's office; a member of the advisory board of the college, and three members of the faculty. The usual committee consists solely of members of the Academic Senate.

"The members of this committee refuse to participate in a 'rainbow' selection procedure," the group told the senate. "We have informed the chancellor of this fact. This would put more say in the hands of the state people."

The Academic Senate, during a two and a half hour meeting, elected new officers. Fred Terrien, professor of sociology, is the new chairman and Curtis Aller, professor of economics and a key negotiator in settling a campus student strike, is the vice chairman.

In one of its first actions, the senate passed a resolution calling for a third attempt to elect officers of the Associated Students—the campus governing organization.

Two earlier elections were voided because of "serious flaws" which could "well lead to further campus difficulties."

O'Connell emphasized he didn't want to do anything that would stop the teen recreation program in Fairfax.

He said one of the problems appeared to the the lateness of the dance. Scheduled to begin at 8 p.m., it didn't get underway until 9 p.m. because the band, the Sons of Champlin, was late. The crowd was then let in slowly and it was some time before the hall was filled, he said.

O'Connell said such Friday night dances are held regularly in Fairfax but usually only 150 to 200 young people attend. Last Friday, a more popular band was hired — "I guess Fairfax can't stand success," the mayor said.

He said the expected the matter would be discussed at the council meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the Women's Club.

Persons attending the rally yesterday, about 40 in all, were urged to go to the city council meeting Monday.

Speaking above the noise of the motorcycle policeman who drove up and down Bolinas Road regularly during the rally, John Turner, a student at the University of California at Berkeley predicted there would be an increasing number of persons joining the group and urged them to find a means of rapid, widespread communication.

Among the suggestions for a central system was Switchboard of Marin.

Computer Finds Duplicate Claims

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Computers have uncovered about 15,700 duplicate claims for the $70 property tax rebate which goes to California homeowners soon.

About 2.5 million homeowners have filed for the rebates and checks will be mailed June 13.

A spokesman for the controller's office said most of the double claims are considered to be honest mistakes made by persons who own more than one home. A homeowner can qualify only once for the rebate, approved by the legislature and the voters last year as a form of property tax relief.

Double filing for claims were discovered when computers detected duplicate Social Security numbers, which had to be listed on the rebate claim forms.

S. African Orange Import Permit Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — A permit allowing the importing of South African oranges could lead to a latter day version of the Boston Tea Party—an "Orange Party," says Rep. Charles eC. Diggs Jr., D-Mich.

Diggs, in a telegram to the Agricultuhe Department yesterday, protested the import permit granted to Amcan Sales Inc., saying, "to foster the further economic growth of racist South Africa spreads an even worse kind of pestilence."

Ex-Planner Is Found Guilty Of Permit Violation

A Marin Municipal Court judge yesterday found a former Marin County planning commissioner guilty of a misdemeanor offense of keeping a horse and a pony at his San Rafael home without a permit.

A secon charge of refusing to remove a public nuisance against Edward K. Wachsman of 50 Palm Avenue was dismissed by Judge Peter Allen Smith at the request of San Rafael City Atty. David Menary Jr.

Judge Smith set sentencing for 10 a.m. Friday.

Wachsman's animals have been the subject of complaints from his neighbors in the Dominican section since last December, when neighbors appeared before the San Rafael City Council to say that Wachsman was not complying with an order to clean the horse area daily.

Army Cadets Advised They'll Face Critics

Westmoreland, Army Chief of Staff, spok at a ceremony in sunny Michie Stadium before 800 graduates, the largest class in the academy's 167-year history.

"We find our military establishment, that has helped to forge the shield behind which this country has lived in prosperity, is now under attack," Westmoreland said.

"We find some of our countrymen are ever clamoring louder for us to pull out, to withdraw, to reduce our international comitments."

"As young officers about to embark on a military career in the midst of an unpopular war, you are aware of public attitudes. You will require an unusual sense of balance and rare judgement to avoid discouragement and disillusionment."

Westmoreland said the graduates would have to expect periodic criticism of the military as inevitable, even if it were unfair and irresponsible.

"However, you should not be a slave to this criticism," he said. "But take solace in the knowledge that you are defending a civilian society that permits free expression."

Profs Blast Dumke Over Screen Plan

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A presidential selection committee at San Francisco State College yesterday accused Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke of a "breach of trust" in the search for a permanent head for the strife-torn school.

Dumke, the committee told the San Francisco State Academic Senate, wants to bypass the usual selection methods and establish a special screening group to choose a successor to Acting President S. I. Hayakawa of Mill Valley.

The committee suggested by the chancellor would consist of himself; two state college trustees; Dr. Mansel Keene, special assistant to the chancellor's office; a member of the advisory board of the college, and three members of the faculty. The usual committee consists solely of members of the Academic Senate.

"The members of this committee refuse to participate in a 'rainbow' selection procedure," the group told the senate. "We have informed the chancellor of this fact. This would put more say in the hands of the state people."

The Academic Senate, during a two and a half hour meeting, elected new officers. Fred Terrien, professor of sociology, is the new chairman and Curtis Aller, professor of economics and a key negotiator in settling a campus student strike, is the vice chairman.

In one of its first actions, the senate passed a resolution calling for a third attempt to elect officers of the Associated Students—the campus governing organization.

Two earlier elections were voided because of "serious flaws" which could "well lead to further campus difficulties."

Judge Orders Houseboat Electricity

A Marin Superior Court judge today issued a preliminary injunction which orders the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. to provide power to houseboats at Gate 5 until the case is decided on its merits.

Judge E. Warren McGuire said that although the shutting of the electricity had been properly noticed to residents, that they were more likely to suffer irreparable damage than PG&E.

The electicity was cut off for a few hours last Thursday when the county ordered PG&E to discontinue service because of hazardous wiring. The houseboat dwellers led by landscape architect Piro Caro won a temporary court order restoring power later in the day.

In his ruling, Judge McGuire noted that the county had set a time limit for faulty wiring to be corrected and said that the evidence "showed little if any corrective work had been done."

However, he said shutting off electricity would make pumps inoperable as well as causing dangers from lack of lights and refrigeration.

His order today does not apply to the county, he said, which presumably could disconnect the electricity again.

No date has been set yet for the case to come to trial.

Sentence Date For Robbery

Robert Eugene Waller, 48, will be sentenced June 13 in U.S. District Court for the May 23 holdup of the Fidelity Savings and Loan Co. office in Mill Valley, a court spokesman reported today.

Waller, of Menlo Park, entered a guilty plea to the robbery charge earlier this week. Sentence is to be imposed by Judge Oliver J. Carter.

Waller was arrested about five minutes after he fled the office at 130 Throckmorton Avenue with $180 in the first robbery of a Mill Valley bank or savings company company in more than 35 years.

Net Gain: $1,000 From Reassessment

Fairfax School District has gained $14,000 and lost $15,000 as the result of a hike in the assessed valuation of the district.

Supt. H. Reginald Hammond reported the district gained 5.6 per cent in assessed valuation in the recent reassessment. The district had counted on a 2 per cent gain in its original revenue estimates of about $812,000 so the extra 3.6 per cent is expected to add $14,000.

The gain in assessed valuation, however, put the district in a different category for state aid and will result in a loss of about $15,000 from that source, Hammond said.

The district board, meeting last night, directed Hammond to prepare a working budget based on known income in time for the next meeting. Hammond said the board would probably adopt a budget slightly higher than that because "it's unrealistic to expect the state won't do anything."

The Farifax School District board also:

INSURANCE — Areed to comply as far as possible with insurance company requirements in order to get reasonable premiums. Hammond said firms are becoming reluctant to issue policies to shcools because of the losses and the firms are asking such things as annual inspections of heating and electrical systems and a public statements on riots.

TITLE I — Learned that funds for the Title I program aimed at helping youngsters who have a difficult time in school have been cut from the currrent $22,473 to $18,466 for the 1969-70 fiscal year.

WATER MAIN — Worried that Marin Municipal Water District's plan to run a water main through district property at White Hill School might limit future building plans and directed Hammond to work with the water company to find a better place.

READING — Agreed to submit a Miller-Unruh reading project for state funding but decided not to staff it had not been funded.

PERSONNEL — Accepted the resignation of Lorraine Haaland; who is moving from the state, and hired Jean Van Gundy, first grade, at $7,800; Barbara Jean Snowgrass, first grade, Julia Ann Broadfoot, second grade, and Barbara O'Neill; Title I, each at $7,400; George Fanakos at $10,100 and David Mangine at $7,700, both as seventh and eighth grade teachers.

Three Hurt In Two Accidents

Three Novato residents received minor injuries in two separate accidents last night in Novato, according to Novato police.

Treated for minor head injuries at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in Terra Linda were Cynthia Marie Keyes, 17, and her sister, Patricia Ann, 16, both of 1373 Denlyn Street.

Police reported that the girls pulled out from Novato Fair Shopping Center onto Diablo Avenue at 7:05 p.m. and collided with a car eastbound on Diablo driven by Arthur B. Christiana, 19, of 55 Paladini Drive. Cynthia Keyes was cited for failure to yield the right-of-way.

David B. Colclough Sr. 40, 1020 Greenwood Drive, was treated for skinned areas on his face and lips at Novato General Hospital. He was injured at 8:20 p.m. when his motorcycle overturned at Greenwood and Leafwood Drives, Novato poice reported.

'Angel Dust' Booster Guilty

William Olaf Hendrickson, 25, of San Anselmo, who claimed that his "angel dust" was the coming thing in narcotics, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to possessing cocaine and LSD.

A marijuana possession charge was dismissed by Judge Peter Allen Smith. Hendrickson was ordered to appear in Superior Court Monday for a sentencing date.

Dep. Disty. Attny. Joshua Thomas said that chemists have not yet been able to ascertain what is in Hendrickson's chemically treated parsley which he claimed was 30 times as powerful as marijuana.

Hendrickson, who was arrested at his home at 867 San Anselmo Avenue, May 18, is on parole for an earlier burglar conviction, Thomas said.

Chamber To Tell Of Bonds Need

The Petaluma Chamber of Commerce will host "bond information days" Saturday and Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. at the Kenilworth Recreation Center to explain the five bond measures on the June 10 ballot.

President Rollan Rea said displays have been prepared to illustrate the two measures that deal with street improvements. Slides, maps and pictures will illustrate the routes of the work intended to improve traffic flow.

Also to be exhibited are the design and location of proposed park improvements and descriptions of fire and police station additions. City staff members will be present to answer questions.

Alto Sanitary District Budget May Be Sliced

A preliminary budget of $3,800 for fiscal 1969-70, a decrease of $3,200 from the current budget, has been approved by the Alto Sanitary District board, Carl O. Heynen Jr., director, reported.

Heynen said he did not know how much the district's tax rate would drop next year from the current 41.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

A major reason for the decrease, Heynen said, was that the board, meeting Monday night, did not allocate funds for capital outlay. During the current year, the board has spent $3.500 on capital outlay.

Of the budget total, approximately $3,000 will be used to pay sewage treatments fees charged by the City of Mill Valley and $800 for maintenance and supplies, Heynen said.

A public hearing on the proposed budget will be held at 8 p.m. July 7, at the Alto-Richardson Bay Fire Station, 27 Shell Road.

The board adjourned in memory of Franklin W. Gamble of Alto, founder of the Alto Sanitary District, who died May 26.

Alto Sanitary District Budget May Be Sliced

A preliminary budget of $3.800 for fiscal 1969-70, a decrease of $3,200 from the current budget, has been approved by the Alto Sanitary District board, Carl O. Heynen Jr., director, reported.

Heynen said he did not know how much the district's tax rate would drop next year from the current 41.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

A major reason for the decrease, Heynen said, was that the board, meeting Monday night, did not allocate funds for capital outlay. During the current year, the board has spent $3.500 on capital outlay.

Of the budget total, approximately $3,000 will be used to pay sewage treatments fees charged by the City of Mill Valley and $800 for maintenance and supplies, Heynen said.

Building Permit Tangles Bring Work Halt Of New Restaurant

A tangled web of charges and counter-charges was laid before the Sausalito City Council last night as the council ordered a halt on work for a proposed new restaurant at Bridgeway and Turney Street.

The order backed up a stop-work order issued Thursday by city officials on complaints that Edgewater Yacht Co. had taken out building permits improperly.

Edgewater's attorney, Albert Bianchi, said the complaints were part of a continuing "legalistic," fight by San Zagessian had threatened to fight the new restaurant until it "went down the tubes."

Zakessian's lawyer, Richard V. Bettini, said Edgewater had made major structural changes on the Turney Street building although city codes limit remodeling of the nonconforming structure to less than half its valuation. Nearly $50,000 worth of work on the building has been started, Bettini said.

Bettini also charged Edgewater had violated the city's orders by presenting a different plan to the Bay Conservation and Development Commission to get permission for bay fill for a parking lot.

Bianchi said Edgewater had proceeded with fill and remodeling at the same time. Bettini said this violated the city's conditions in granting a variance, which he said was not to take effect until approval of the parking and landscaping plans by city planners.

The issue cleared somewhat when City Atty. Leland H. Jordan told the council the only issue at present was to decide what the council's aim was in issuing the variance — to require approval of plans before construction could start, or simply to require approval before the restaurant could be used.

The council was divided on its intentions of the Feb. 4 action, but at length agreed on a motion Jordan outlined — to suspend the building construction permits and variance issued, to require Edgewater to past a bond guaranteeing completion of the fill and to let Edgewater proceed with construction at its own risk until the planning commission approves plans for parking, landscaping and access.

The city staff will investigate factual questions raised, including whether alterations exceeded 50 per cent of the building's value, and whether the parking plan, has the required street access.

The council would have to set a public hearing before revoking building permits permanently, Jordan said.

Sausalito Council Splits On Location Of Sculpture

The Sausalito City Council split 3-2 last night on location of a proposed 24-foot sculpture offered the city by Chilean artist Sergio Castillo, but agreed unanimously in praising the proposed design.

The council agreed 3-2 the sculpture should go in Carl Gabrielson Park on the sandspit, as proposed by the artist. Mayor Earl N. Dunphy and Councilman Robin Sweeny opposed the location, favoring a site near the city entrance on lower Bridgeway. They were outvoted by Councilmen George Hoffman, Jan Paul Dyk and Alexander R. Imlay.

The statue will cost approximately $4,000, but the Sausalito People to People Program plans to raise funds for it, Mrs. Sweeny said.

The council opened the path for the Sausalito Arts Association when it approved conditions for a variance sought by the association to use the old Bayside School as an arts center.

The council ordered a ban on amplified sound outside the building, an end to outside activities at 9 p.m. during Daylight Saving Time and 7 p.m. the rest of the year, closing of inside activities at 11 p.m. weekdays and 1 a.m. Friday and Saturday nights. No sound from inside may be audible to neighbors, the council said.

The Sausalito City Council also:

PARADE — Approved a patriotic Fourth of July parade and festival by Operation Give a Damn, which will raise funds to expand its program of helping black youths in Marin City. The parade will start at 11 a.m. in the new city parking lot behind the Post Office and proceed to Martin Luther King school where booths, games and refreshments are are scheduled.

PARKING — Amended the parking ordinance to let the city set higher parking requirements for educational uses in cases where it is needed. The present requirement is one space for each two employees.

LEGISLATION — Went on record opposing Senate Bill 994, which would require cities to pay for subdivision land dedicated for parks, and Assembly Bill 1400, requiring arbitration of labor disputes with police and firemen.

APPOINTMENT — Reappointed Mary L. Perrone to the recreation commission, and announced the city still wants applicants for the recreation commission post of Eleanor Cruikshank, who resigned last month.

ORDINANCES — Adopted a dog control ordinance and an ordinance prezoning the American Distillery property north of the city.

Redalia said he would study the effect of radiation on cancer with the fellowship. His work will be done at the University of California Medical Center, San Francisco.

The physician said he would be available to his pateints through June 13 to aid them in acquiring another doctor.

Master Plan Given Review In Petaluma

In reviewing the growth of the city, McGivern said the east side has shown the most rapid growth and recommended that additional development on the west side be encouraged to achieve a better balance. He recommended, specifically, that multiple residentail areas be developed on the west side to balance growth and also to meet increasing demands for rentals.

The planner also urged that the potential of growth along the Petaluma River be encouraged with emphasis on eliminating pollution and channel obstructions. He also suggested that park planning could be stepped up with revenue from the recently enacted "bedroom tax."

He also said the general plan map should be redrawn to show increased commercial development on East Washington Street and North McDowell Boulevard and proposed increased commercial development at Ely Road and East Washington Street and east of the Petaluma River between East Washington and D Streets.

The commission will continue its review of the general plan at the June 17 meeting and will later make recommendations to the city council.

The Petaluma Planning Commisspon also:

MOBILE HOMES — Continued discusspon on the proposed ordinance to regulate mobile home parks. Regulations on density and building standards will be continued at the June 17 meeting.

ACADEMY — Recommended the county planning commission grant a use permit to Mrs. Marie F. Wolff to operate a riding academy at 1815 Chapman Lane.

REZONING — Recommended the county planning commission grant the rezoning request of Norman P. Higby to rezone land on the east side of Highway 101 near Kastania Road from agricultural to heavy industrial.

Fatal Wreck Victim Is Identified

The man killed yesterday in a flaming crash in Lagunitas was Pat Morgan of Huntington Beach, Los Angeles County, his companion has told the California Highway Patrol.

Francisco Lujan of South Gate, questioned at Letterman Hospital in San Francisco, also said he, himself, was driving the sports car when it crashed into a tree at 2:05 a.m., killing Morgan and injuring himself.

The highway patrol report, however, maintained that Morgan was driving, and said Lujan may have been confused by shock, drink or drugs. Lujan suffered hand burns, a head cut and a severed finger on the left hand.

Lujan told the patrol they were driving from San Francisco to Inverness where Morgan was staying with a girlfriend.

Morgan's body was badly burned when the car was gutted by fire after the crash. The Marin County Coroner's office is still seeking further identification of Morgan. Funeral is pending at Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

FBI Arrests 7 Black Panthers In Chicago Raid

CHICAGO (AP) — Federal agents raided the headquarters of the militant Black Panthers today, arrested eight persons and seized a quantity of weapons and ammunition.

About 35 FBI agents conducted the early morning raid on the two-story headquarters.

A number of city police were stationed nearby in case of trouble in the predominantly Negro neighborhood.

Marlin W. Johnson, special agent in charge of the Chicago FBI office, said the agents were seeking George Sams Jr., a fugitive from New Haven, Conn., who is charged with murder and kidnaping.

Sams was not among those arrested.

The agents cordoned off the area around the headquarters and then, using a bullhorn, called on those inside to come out. The agents were armed with machine guns, shotguns, rifles and pistols. Several took up positions on the roof of the headquarters.

Johnson said two women were among those arrested. The surrenders were without resistance.

High-Speed Tire Advertising Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tire manufacturers whose advertising implies safety for their products at high speeds have 30 days to stop the claims or face formal action from the Federal Trade Commission.

The FTC yesterday offered these examples of advertising it objects to: "Built low and wide like a racing car; tested at 130 miles per hour" and, "Certified safe at 100 miles per hour, so you're sure you're safe at 60, 70 or 80."

Speed tests cannot foretell how tires will perform under all road conditions, the FTC said, adding, "such deception involves obvious and serious hazards to life and safety.

Home Is Looted

Penelope Chambers told Larkspur police that between 10:15 a.m. and 1:10 p.m., yesterday, someone entered her home at 36 Francis Avenue through an unlocked front door and stole $400 worth of radio equipment including an amplifier, turntable and two speakers, police reported today.

Fatal Wreck To Petaluma Motorcyclist

A 19-year-old Petaluma motorcyclist was killed yesterday at 12:15 p.m. after colliding with a car on Magnolia Avenue near Cherry Street in Petaluma.

Police reported that Deaton was apparently speeding when he entered a curve in the road near Cherry Street and collided with a car driven by Mrs. Marie L. Andrea, 27, of 619 Kentucky Street, Petaluma, who was turning right onto Magnolia from Cherry.

Deaton was thrown 20 feet from the motorcycle and Mrs. Andrea's car struck a high embankment after attempting to avoid Deaton. She and her daughter, Connie, 5, were treated by a private physician for head cuts.

A native of Petaluma, Deaton was a 1968 graduate of Petaluma Senior High School and attended Santa Rosa Junior College. He was employed by Van Bebber Brothers Plumbing Contractors, Petaluma.

He is survived by his wife, Erin; his parents, Jan and Phyllis Deaton of Petaluma; a brother, J. D. Sumner of San Rafael, and a sister, Joanne Kruger of Santa Rosa.

Funeral will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at the Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma. Burial wil be at Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

Transfer Of Bolinas Title Is Delayed

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislative action on a bill to transfer title to Bolinas Lagoon to Marin County from the Bolinas Harbor District whose dissolution was approved by voters in March was delayed last night when Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, failed to get enough votes for it.

The bill was put "under submission," a move designed to delay action until enough members of the ways and means committee are available to take a vote. Only 11 of the 19 committee members were at last night's session.

Bagley, sponsor of the bill (AB 2295) declared yestrday he would accept no "harbor of refuge" amendment or any other amendement which would weaken his bill.

He also said he would oppose an amendment tagged to the bill in the Assembly Natural Resources Committee by Minority Leader Jesse M. Unruh, D-Los Angeles, which would require Marin County to submit its plans for development of the lagoon to the State Lands Commission within three years. If the commission rejected the plans, the lagoon would then revert to the state.

Usual policy is to grant state lands a 10-year deadline for "substantial improvements" but no deadline on planning.

Mail Order Pastor Loses Doctor Right

I-J Special Report

STOCKTON — Controversial mail order minister Kirby J. Hensley yesterday lost the right to issue doctor of divinity degrees by mail for his Universial Live Church Inc. of Modesto — but he can still create instant ministers.

Hensley "makes" ministers two ways — through doctor of divinity degrees and minister certificates. San Joaquin County Superior Court Judge John B. Cechine issued a permanent injunction barring Hensley from issuing the doctorate degrees only.

The doctorate degrees cost $20, but Hensley issued them for less, sometimes for free, according to state Deputy Atty. General William Goode. It was his main source of income, Goode said.

The minister certificates were generally free, said Goode, who prepared the case against Hensley. He was not restrained from that part of the operation because "we haven't gone into whether it's a church," Goode reported.

Hensley announced yesterday he would appeal the decision and instead of continuing to represent himself would be represented by attorney Vincent Hallinan of Belvedere.

Hensley maintained the action was an attempt at interference by the state with affairs of the church, forbidden under the Bill of Rights.

Hallinan said his interest in the case centered on discrimination against Hensley.

"I think Hensley is a fake, but he's no more a fake than all the others who claim they have a special in with God," said Hallinan who has been involved in anticlerical causes in the past.

Hallinan maintained it shows discrimination to allow "the richer and more ancient churches" to claim the right to put others in communication with God and not allow Hensley to do essentially the same thing.

Hensley claims he has ordained some 17,000 clergymen at fees up to $20 each.

JAMES KIMO CAMPBELL
Wins by two votes

Campbell Is Winner In Close Vote

James Kimo Campbell squeaked out a two-vote victory over Harry C. Gilbert in runoff elections held Monday and yesterday to become College of Marin student body president next fall.

Campbell received 290 votes to Gilbert's 288.

In other runoffs the tallies were also close. George J. Shea received 293 votes for vice president to Larry Mariani's 273. Melanie Annin was named secretary with 296 votes to Bonnie Aby's 267 while Luana Lang beat out Richard W. Beban for treasurer by a 299 to 280 tally.

Brother's Dope Charge Referred

The case of one of two Novato brothers charged with selling drugs at their father's service station in Novato has been referred to the probation department by Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court for possible transferral to juvenile court.

George Bonomolo, 19, who is charged with selling marijuana to a narcotics agent, was told to return to court June 17.

The judge also reduced bail to $2,500 for his older brother, Frank Joseph, 22, who is charged with selling LSD, and continued his case until Friday.

The older brother also faces charges of possessing LSD and marijuana for sale in Sonoma County, where he lives.

Compromise On Bagley Ballot Bill

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A compromise "political incest" bill authorized by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, cleared the Senate Elections Committee yesterday for a floor vote.

Bagley said the compromise virtually assures the bill's passage and signature by Gov. Ronald Reagan who vetoed, a similar bill last year.

As originally drawn this year, Bagley's bill would have prevented an appointee to any governing body from using the term "incumbent" or any comparable designation on the ballot. The appointee, if appointed for reasons other than to fill a vacancy caused by death or disability, also could not use the favored ballot placement of an incumbent.

Under the compromise, due to go before the Senate Elections Committee next week, the appointee could use the designation "appointed incumbent" on the ballot and would be listed on the ballot after the regular incumbents but before other candidates.

A similar bill by Bagley was vetoed by Reagan last year without explanation. There was heavy lobbying against it, however, by small election districts, particularly irrigation districts.

Bagley told the Independent-Journal yesterday that representatives of groups that opposed the original bill have agreed to the compromise and would ask Reagan to sign it when passed by the Assembly and Senate.

Bagley introduced the bill, he said, to end the practice of "instant incumbency" by which a board member resigns and allows other board members to appoint a friend right before the election so he can take advantage of the title "incumbent."

Tape Recorder And Cash Are Stolen

Forty dollars in a cash box and a $179 tape recorder were stolen from the secretary's office at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo between 4:45 p.m., Sunday and 9 a.m., Monday, police reported today.

Transfer Of Bolinas Title Is Delayed

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislative action on a bill to transfer title to Bolinas Lagoon to Marin County from the Bolinas Harbor District whose dissolution was approved by voters in March was delayed last night when Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, failed to get enough votes for it.

The bill was put "under submission," a move designed to delay action until enough members of the ways and means committee are available to take a vote. Only 11 of the 19 committee members were at last night's session.

Bagley, sponsor of the bill (AB 2295) declared yestrday he would accept no "harbor of refuge" amendment or any other amendement which would weaken his bill.

He also said he would oppose an amendment tagged to the bill in the Assembly Natural Resources Committee by Minority Leader Jesse M. Unruh, D-Los Angeles, which would require Marin County to submit its plans for development of the lagoon to the State Lands Commission within three years. If the commission rejected the plans, the lagoon would then revert to the state.

Usual policy is to grant state lands a 10-year deadline for "substantial improvements" but no deadline on planning.

Mail Order Pastor Loses Doctor Right

I-J Special Report

STOCKTON — Controversial mail order minister Kirby J. Hensley yesterday lost the right to issue doctor of divinity degrees by mail for his Universial Live Church Inc. of Modesto — but he can still create instant ministers.

Hensley "makes" ministers two ways — through doctor of divinity degrees and minister certificates. San Joaquin County Superior Court Judge John B. Cechine issued a permanent injunction barring Hensley from issuing the doctorate degrees only.

The doctorate degrees cost $20, but Hensley issued them for less, sometimes for free, according to state Deputy Atty. General William Goode. It was his main source of income, Goode said.

The minister certificates were generally free, said Goode, who prepared the case against Hensley. He was not restrained from that part of the operation because "we haven't gone into whether it's a church," Goode reported.

Hensley announced yesterday he would appeal the decision and instead of continuing to represent himself would be represented by attorney Vincent Hallinan of Belvedere.

Hensley maintained the action was an attempt at interference by the state with affairs of the church, forbidden under the Bill of Rights.

Hallinan said his interest in the case centered on discrimination against Hensley.

"I think Hensley is a fake, but he's no more a fake than all the others who claim they have a special in with God," said Hallinan who has been involved in anticlerical causes in the past.

Hallinan maintained it shows discrimination to allow "the richer and more ancient churches" to claim the right to put others in communication with God and not allow Hensley to do essentially the same thing.

Hensley claims he has ordained some 17,000 clergymen at fees up to $20 each.

JAMES KIMO CAMPBELL
Wins by two votes

Campbell Is Winner In Close Vote

James Kimo Campbell squeaked out a two-vote victory over Harry C. Gilbert in runoff elections held Monday and yesterday to become College of Marin student body president next fall.

Campbell received 290 votes to Gilbert's 288.

In other runoffs the tallies were also close. George J. Shea received 293 votes for vice president to Larry Mariani's 273. Melanie Annin was named secretary with 296 votes to Bonnie Aby's 267 while Luana Lang beat out Richard W. Beban for treasurer by a 299 to 280 tally.

Brother's Dope Charge Referred

The case of one of two Novato brothers charged with selling drugs at their father's service station in Novato has been referred to the probation department by Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court for possible transferral to juvenile court.

George Bonomolo, 19, who is charged with selling marijuana to a narcotics agent, was told to return to court June 17.

The judge also reduced bail to $2,500 for his older brother, Frank Joseph, 22, who is charged with selling LSD, and continued his case until Friday.

The older brother also faces charges of possessing LSD and marijuana for sale in Sonoma County, where he lives.

Compromise On Bagley Ballot Bill

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A compromise "political incest" bill authorized by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, cleared the Senate Elections Committee yesterday for a floor vote.

Bagley said the compromise virtually assures the bill's passage and signature by Gov. Ronald Reagan who vetoed, a similar bill last year.

As originally drawn this year, Bagley's bill would have prevented an appointee to any governing body from using the term "incumbent" or any comparable designation on the ballot. The appointee, if appointed for reasons other than to fill a vacancy caused by death or disability, also could not use the favored ballot placement of an incumbent.

Under the compromise, due to go before the Senate Elections Committee next week, the appointee could use the designation "appointed incumbent" on the ballot and would be listed on the ballot after the regular incumbents but before other candidates.

A similar bill by Bagley was vetoed by Reagan last year without explanation. There was heavy lobbying against it, however, by small election districts, particularly irrigation districts.

Bagley told the Independent-Journal yesterday that representatives of groups that opposed the original bill have agreed to the compromise and would ask Reagan to sign it when passed by the Assembly and Senate.

Bagley introduced the bill, he said, to end the practice of "instant incumbency" by which a board member resigns and allows other board members to appoint a friend right before the election so he can take advantage of the title "incumbent."

RELAXES AFTER TESTIMONY — Suspended Detroit policeman Ronald August, on trial for the slaying of a Negro during Detroit's 1967 racial riot, relaxes following four hours on the witness stand yesterday. The trial is being held in Mason, Mich. (UPI Telephoto)

Policeman Details Algiers Motel Death

MASON, Mich. (AP) — A suspended white policeman on trial for murder says he killed a Negro youth in a struggle for a shotgun during Detroit's 1967 racial riot.

"I felt sick," Ronald August, 30, told an all-white jury of 13 women and one man yesterday.

August was on the witness stand for nearly four hours giving his version of what happened on the night of July 26, 1967, at the Algiers Motel, where three black youths were slain by close-range shotgun blasts.

August is charged with first-degree murder in the death of 19-year-old Aubrey Pollard.

The bodies of Pollard, Fred Temple, 18, and Carl Cooper, 17, were left behind at the motel by police and National guardsmen who had raided the building in a search for reported snipers.

August testified he took Pollard into a room after being advised that the youth wanted to talk to a police officer.

August said he was carrying a shotgun and the youth asked whether he intended to shoot him. August said he told Pollard he had no intention of shooting anyone.

Pollard pushed the shotgun away and said "don't point that gun at me," August testified.

After he aimed the gun back at Pollard, August said, the teen-ager grabbed it by the barrel and pulled. Both fell onto a bed, August added, with Pollard on top.

He said he pushed Pollard away but the youth lunged at him again. August said he pulled the shotgun trigger but the safety was on.

"He ducked and came back again—and the gun went off" August said, his voice choking.

"Pollard fell to the floor. I bent down and looked at the man and he was dead. I was sick.

"I walked . . . outside and leaned against a tree. I was weak and I wanted to vomit."

Los Angeles Suburb Picks Negro Mayor

COMPTON (AP) — City councilman Douglas F. Dollarhide defeated Dr. Walter Tucker yesterday in a runoff election between two Negroes for mayor of this Los Angeles suburb of 78,000 persons.

Officials complete returns from all 30 precincts gave Dollarhide 5,711 votes, 58 per cent of the total cast. Tucker had 4,072 for 42 per cent.

New industries and need for more and better schools were key issues of the nonpartisan race.

Compton, 12 miles south of downtown Los Angeles, has growing industry and residential sections where family income averages $9,736. Its population is 65 per cent Negro and 10 per cent Mexican-American.

Richmond Seats A Negro Mayor

Livingston, a city councilman since 1965, was selected unanimously as mayor this week by the council. He succeeds John H. Sheridan, who was defeated last month in a re-election bid.

The new mayor is a 36-year-old salesman for Continental Paper Co.

George D. Carroll was the first black mayor of this city of 71,000. He served from 1959 to 1961.

New Jersey Ex-Governor Renominated

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Former Democratic Gov. Robert B. Meyner and Republican U.S. Rep. William T. Cahill emerged as the candidates today for a November governor's race matching two men of similar political style and similar political problems.

Both won nominations yesterday in crowded primary contests that left potentially party-damaging scars. Both stressed party unity.

Cahill, a moderate, narrowly defeated U.S. Rep. Charles W. Sandman Jr., who campaigned as the only unmistakable conservative in the Republican field of five.

Meyner withstood a dual challenge—from the old-line Democratic organization in populous Hudson County and from a new coalition of liberals. But his margin was 3-to 2 in a field of six.

Meyner scheduled an immediate meeting with Gov. Richard J. Hughes, a Democrat who succeeded him eight years ago. Hughes, neutral in the primary, promised general election support. Meyner called on his primary opponents "to join ranks so we can have a great Democratic victory on Nov. 4."

As recently as the early 1950s, horse-drawn freight wagons and buggies were a common sight on the streets of Papeete, capital of Tahaiti. Today you can't find a parking space.

Voters Drub Oakland School Tax Rate Hike

OAKLAND (AP) — Final returns showed today that voters rejected a proposed tax increase for Oakland schools by more than a 2-1 margin.

With the count complete in all 133 precincts, the totals were 36,334 no and 17,484 yes. The figures included all absentee ballots.

The measure to boost the tax $1.95 to a new rate of $4.72 had been supported by the chamber of commerce and the League of Women Voters, but it lost the support of the Alameda County Central Labor Council following a demonstration protesting the hiring of Dr. James Mason of Las Vegas, Nev., as superintendent.

Mason, who had been involved in a controversy over alleged conflict of interest in Las Vegas, resigned later before assuming office.

The Support Oakland Schools Committee said the additional money would have been used to eliminate double school sessions, beef up counseling, restore summer sessions and raise teachers' salaries.

The result of yesterday's election contrasted with balloting last November in which San Francisco voters approved a measure boosting the school tax to $3.53.

Low Operating Train Bid Is Boom To BART

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Bay Area Rapid Transit — with its latest bid far below estimates —hopes it is over its last financial hump.

Rohr Corp., a Southern California aerospace firm from Chula Vista, submitted a bid of $59.1 million yesterday to manufacture BART trains. This was $1.8 million lower than the nearest other bidder and $6 million to $8 million below estimates.

BART previously developed a deficit of more than $100 million, but to eliminate the red ink the Legislature voted a half-cent increase in the state sales tax in counties where BART will operate.

Now, the new bid will permit BART to operate within its projected budget.

Terra Linda High Slates Awards Night

Five National Merit Scholarships, the second annual Human Relations Award and various other scholarships awards and certificates of merit will be given to Terra Linda High School students at awards night ceremonies at 8 p.m. today in the school cafeteria.

Among the presentations, 12 certificates and engraved plaques will be awarded by the Terra Linda High School PT-A to outstanding students in each department.

Burglary Case Charge Delayed

No complaint was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against John Perry Teters, 20, of San Geronimo, who was arrested Monday in San Anselmo on suspicion of burglary.

Further investigation is planned by the district attorney's office, a spokesman said.

Teters was arrested in back of the U and I Trading Post, where police said burglary had taken place.

Tips On Use Of British Condiments

British condiments and their use will be a part of the Festival of British Foods to be held by the Marin Co-op in Corte Madera tomorrow through Saturday.

One of the drawbacks of following the sea is the monotony of the diet. This was the case before the days of refrigeration; when British sailing ships ruled the waves and hordes of young Englishmen left home comforts for the rigors of the maritime world. At the same time thousands of other young English men were pursuing careers overseas in the Indian civil service, the army or in busines. To make their daily fare more varied they would take along chests of relishes; pickles, chutneys and preserves. When in India or the far east they would sample other relishes; those used by Indians, Chinese, Malayans, to season their basic rice or pulses.

Home again, they would instruct their womenfolk in the preparation of exotic chutneys and pickles hot enough to disguise poor meat or stringy chicken. Thus a great industry came into being, commercial pickling and preserving which had its beginnings in the kitchens of the homes that sent their young men overseas.

THE ENGLISH kitchen garden yields a great variety of produce suitable for preserves and pickles. Pickled onions, walnuts, cauliflower, beetroot, cucumber, tomatoes, to name but a few, are staples in the store cupboard of the frugal countrywoman.

Pickled walnuts, made from the whole fruit before the nut is formed, are delicious with cold meats; and especially veal. Pickled onions are always to be found in English pubs; since with bread, cheese and beer they make up a favorite lunch. Long before the little cocktail onion had made its dive into the martini the crunchy pickled onion of old England was delighting the epicure as well as the peasant.

Pickled red cabbage and pickled beetroot are excellent with cold beef; as is grated horse radish sauce and, of course, piccalili. The latter is a hot, mustard sauce with many vegetables added.

CAPERS ARE essential to accompany a favorite English dish which brings shudders to Americans, boiled mutton. However try capers chopped and added to a sauce for fish; or braised lamb. A few put zest into scrambled eggs. Nasturtium seeds, pickled when tender and green, are sometimes used as a substitute.

On the subject of preserves, the English are adamant on one point—marmalade. This is only eaten at breakfast, when other preserves are never in sight. There are many varieties of marmalade to choose from, but all are made from citrus fruits. Coarse marmalade is considered an excellent hangover remedy. This perhaps is why Oxford marmalade is so popular among students at the university of the same name.

A word on semi-sweet biscuits, packaged cookies as they are found on the shelves of supermarkets. These time-honored varieties, Marie, Osborne, Petit Beurre, are similar to arrowroot cookies. They are delicious with coffee or tea. English children prefer them to the richer cookies considered children's fare here.

At Marin Co-op during the festival there will be many British imports for tasting. There wil be tea-making and trifle, Scotch eggs and Scottish dancing, and helpful suggestions as to the use of unfamiliar items.

Take Golden Syrup to be found on the same shelf as molasses — this canned sweet extract of pure cane sugar is delicious as a pie filling when used with half its own weight of soft bread crumbs and a dash of ginger or lemon.

A word of warning on the uses of jelly—red currant jelly is not a spread, but an accompaniment to veal. Mint jelly; although imported from England, is never to be seen there. Mint sauce, made from malt vinegar is the usual accompaniment to roast lamb. As for mustard, the English like it very hot, mixed to a paste with water. They also use it in a hot bath as a precaution against catching cold

RELISHES, PICKLES and preserves are all an important part of traditional British cuisine, and they have their traditional use in English households. Marin Co-op as a part of its British Festival is featuring tips and suggestions for interesting and authentic uses of English foods for the American table.

UNDER THE WATCHFUL eye of a parent, teens can learn the art of firebuilding safely with barbecue briquets and the art of broiling a popular cut of lamb as these chops shown sizzling on a hibachi placed in a fireplace or other well ventilated area. This is something young people can enjoy indoors or outdoors.

Let The Teen-Agers Do The Indoor-Or Outdoor Grilling

Cave men with no room partitions enjoyed meat cooked over an open fire in their living quarters and now there is a trend toward more of this type feasting. Today's fireplace cookery equipment may be found in the kitchen, the family room, the living room, the patio or the backyard.

The occasion makes no difference. It's frequently in operation for breakfast, lunch, dinner or snack time. Ham, hot dogs, bacon, pork chops, beef steaks, hamburgers, spareribs, popcorn or marshmallows — a grill in the fireplace is fun for cooking them.

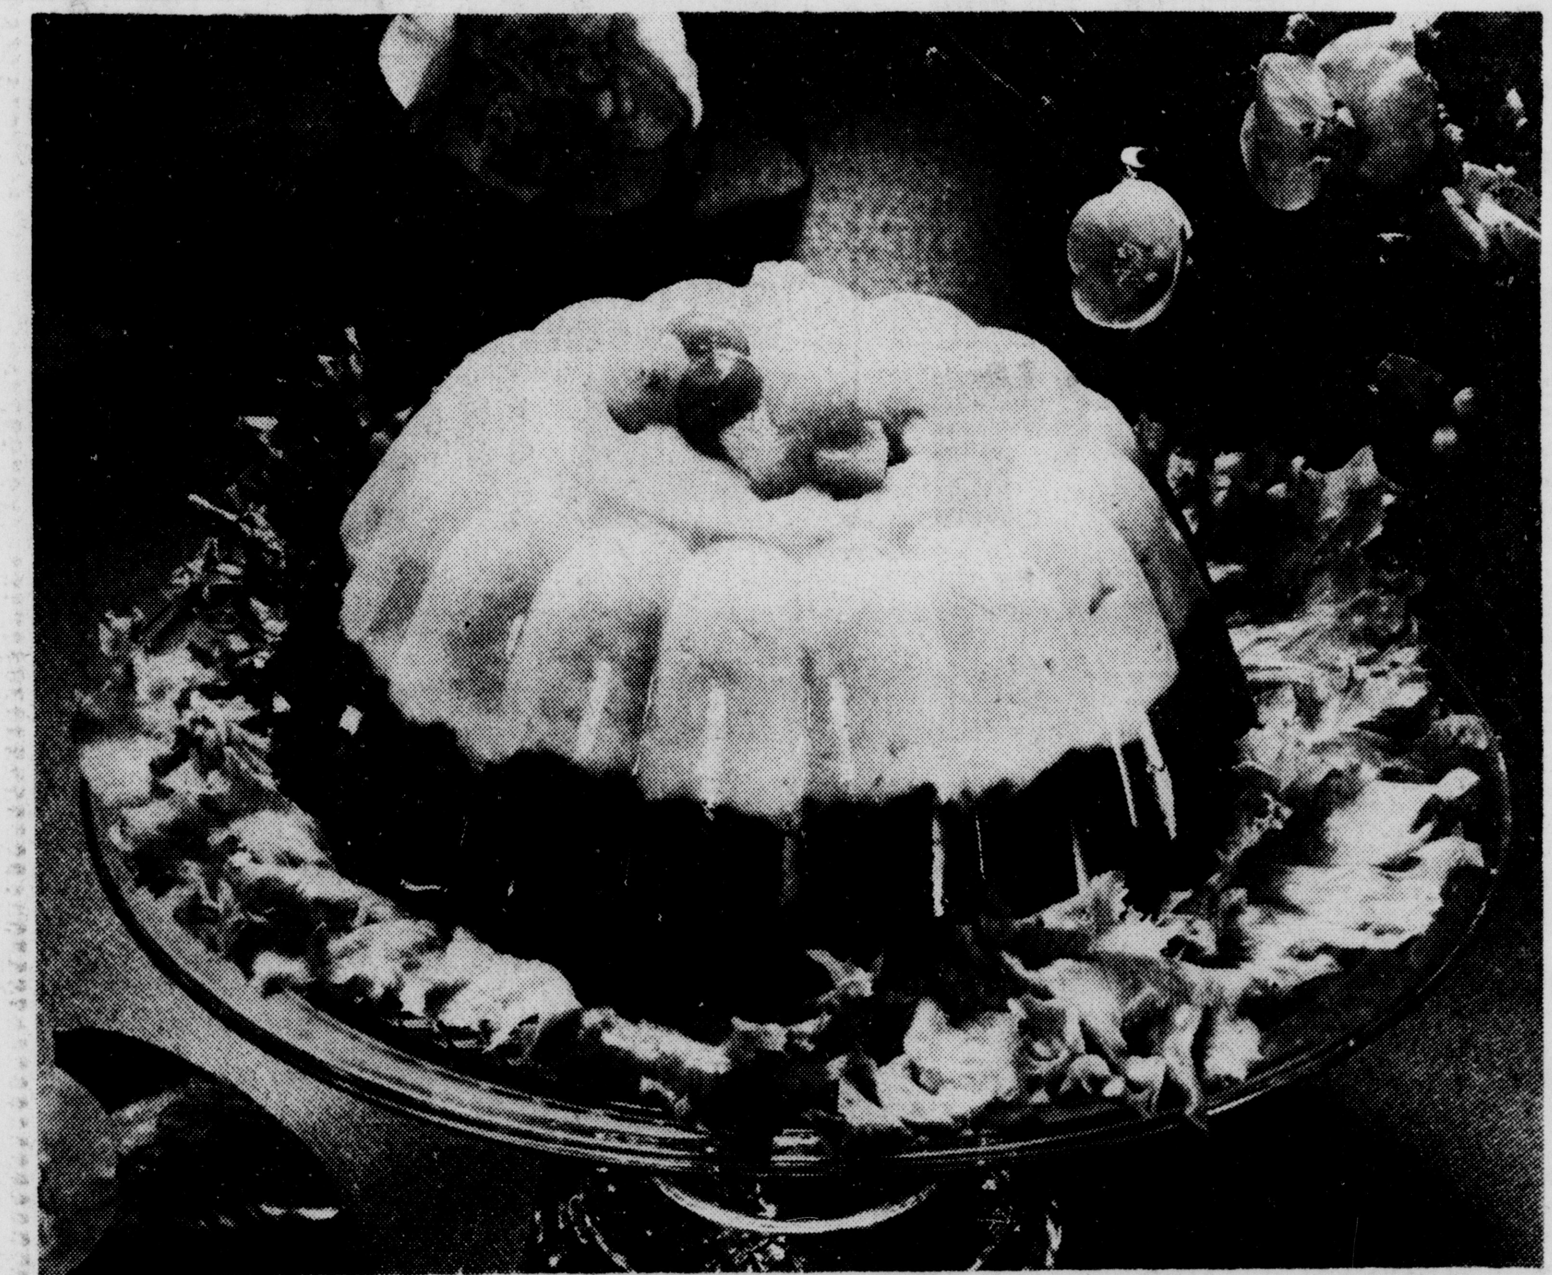
A FEW REMINDERS make the grilling easy. Shape heavy duty aluminum foil to form a shallow pan for placing under the grill. This will catch the ashes and any drippings, making it easier to keep the fireplace clean. Use enough briquets to keep the heat at a moderate rather than hot temperature at the surface of the food. It will cook more uniformly, and meat cooked at a moderate temperature will lose fewer drippings and be more juicy. A moderate temperature also means less turning and less watching during grilling. A bit of experimenting will soon show how hot the fire should be.

Beef sirloin, porterhouse, club, filet mignon, strip, rib eye (Delmonico) — all are super fare and fireplace grilling or broiling can provide them rare, medium or well done.

Arrange charcoal on the grate in a pyramid shape. Light briquets and let them burn until covered with gray ash. Spread briquets for grilling and put grill over coals. Place steaks on grill and broil until the first side is browned. Turn, season and broil second side. Turn steaks with long-handled tongs. Cooking time will vary from 6 to 8 minutes per side for a 1-inch medium-rare steak to 10 to 15 minutes for a 1½-inch medium-well steak.

Use a grill thermometer to measure temperature at grill level. Control temperature by adding or removing coals. Keep a small supply of ignited briquets along edge of fire bowl.

Other menu accompaniments including potatoes, corn on the cob or foil packets of vegetables can be cooked easily alongside the steaks.



SPRING-GREEN SALAD made with cottage cheese and fruit cocktail has a special taste surprise—crunchy celery, a touch of onion and a dash of vinegar.

Serve A Crunchy Spring Green Salad

Cottage cheese blends so well with so many other foods that an imaginative cook need never duplicate a dish containing this dairy food.

Because one-half cup of cottage cheese has as much protein as two cups of fresh milk, this dairy food is ideal for a family which includes a weight-watching father, a calorie counting daughter, a teen-age athlete and a very young child. They all need lots of good body-building protein, calcium, and other minerals and vitamins.

The great variety of cottage cheese available makes daily menu-planning a simple matter. Choose from small or large curd, creamed or diet-packed, mixed with fruit or chives, or blend your own with herbs, onion or fresh canned fruits.

Crunchy celery, a touch of onion, and even a dash of vinegar make this a special salad.

SPRING-GREEN SALAD

2 packages (3 oz. each) lime gelatin
2½ cups boiling water
1 can (1 lb.) fruit cocktail
2 tablespoons vinegar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups cottage cheese
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 teaspoon grated onion
¼ cup chopped celery
Lettuce

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Drain fruit cocktail. Set fruit aside. Add fruit syrup to gelatin with vinegar and salt. Pour off 1 cup gelatin mixture and chill until mixture mounds on a spoon. Stir in cottage cheese, mayonnaise and grated onion. Pour into bottom of six cup mold. Chill. Chill remaining gelatin mixture until mixture mounds on spoon. Stir in drained fruit cocktail and celery. Pour over cheese layer in mold. Chill until set. Unmold on lettuce. Serves eight.

Of course, there's virtually no end to the things you can do with cottage cheese in salads. It is as compatible with any combination of fruits as it is with vegetables.

Cottage cheese will not only taste good, in itself, but the protein in the cheese will act as an appetite appeaser to stretch your lunch while slimming your figure.

For an especially eye-appealing salad, select a red, ripe tomato and slice it horizontally into three uniformly thick slices. Spread a thick layer of chive flavored cottage cheese between each slice of tomato, like a three decker sandwich. The amount of serving is determined by the size of the tomato and can range from a main dish salad to a colorful accompaniment to your entree.

Marin Women

Marin Stewardess With Medic Team In Laos

By BETTY FROST

For three months Doris Dieter, who now makes her home in Tiburon, was a volunteer with a team of five persons, making a medical survey of conditions in Laos under the auspices of the Thomas A. Dooley Foundation.

Glad to have assisted with the project, the World Airways stewardess nevertheless said, "I wouldn't do it again. You have to be really idealistic about it and have more training to really help the people."

THE STEWARDESS, working with Loren Senseman, a medical technician, usually went ahead to map out the town and make the initial contact with the villagers. Then the three members of the medical team would come in later to observe environmental conditions, make routine medical examinations and inquire about health problems.

Near the small town of Ban Houei Sai in Northern Laos, Doris and Senseman were stranded when the boat that was supposed to pick them up did not arrive.

"When it didn't come by dusk, we knew it wasn't coming," she explained. "It is too dangerous to cruise the Mekong River after dark because of the rapids in that part of the river and because of the activities of the Pathet Lao, the communist party fighting against King Sri Savang Vatthana of Laos."

After radio contact with the rest of the team failed, as did an attempt to flag down a plane taking off from a landing strip near the edge of the next town, they stayed in a nearby village, resting on small mattresses in an empty wooden building, as the guests of the King of Laos. Miss Dieter did not meet the King, but she did have an audience with his brother, the prime minister, Prince Souvanna Phouma.

THE MEDICAL survey, making a year-long investigation of 30 villages in Laos, is being conducted jointly by the Foundation and the School of Public Health, University of Hawaii. Findings will be turned over to the Lao Ministry of Health as a guide to a nation-wide medical care and health education program.

The Tiburon girl is one of 130 stewardesses from 15 airlines who have volunteered to help in the Dooley Foundation's overseas programs. The Foundation also operates programs in India, Nepal and Vietnam.

An advantage to Doris in her assignment was her skill in French. A native of Darmstadt, Germany, she was living and working in Paris as a French-German translator, when she was recruited by World Airways.

"Lots of European girls want to come to California," she said. She frequently flies to Europe where she has an opportunity to visit her family.

The brown-haired young woman with sparkling blue eyes has also been in Cambodia, Thailand and Vietnam in the course of her airline duties. She felt that the mission of her group in Laos was useful.

"The most underdeveloped country I've ever seen," she called Laos. "There is a lot of culture, but behind this people are poor. There is electricity only in the capital, Vientiane. Rarely is there running water."

AS FOR THE need for medical guidance, she observed "They need a great deal of help with medical problems. In the beginning it would have to come from outside the country. There is no university where medicine is taught, and people are too poor to send their children out of the country for training. The French established schools, but they are for the lower grades only. It is rare to find anyone in Laos with more than a fourth-grade education."

The German-born girl continued "Travel is difficult. The roads are dangerous because of the political situation. Laos is land-locked, and it has no seaport. The Mekong River however, provides a means of travel and is also important to the country's economy because it provides fish, crab and frogs for food."

After her education in Germany, where she completed the abitur of the gymnasium in her home town, she took secretarial training, then spent two years in Paris.

Doris said "I had no medical background, and without it, I don't think I could be very helpful in making the next step in the program to improve health in Laos."

BACK IN Tiburon, Doris shares an apartment with two German stewardesses, one Swedish stewardess and an American girl from Miami, Fla. Their apartment is furnished with objects from their travels. Pottery from Peru, a kangaroo rug from Australia and paintings from Europe are eye-catching.

After their long flights, "We love to be at home and to cook. Everybody has a specialty from all over," she confided in her soft voice with a trace of German accent.

What is Doris's contribution to the culinary department? "French cuisine, learned in my two years in Paris," she said.

"BEING STRANDED in the mountains of Laos was just one of the adventures we came across in our trek along the Mekong River Regino", said Doris Dieter, airline stewardess, at home in Tiburon. Doris spent three months assisting with a health survey sponsored by the Thomas A. Dooley Foundation in Laos. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

JUST 50 YEARS AGO

Bitter, Militant Campaign Resulted In Vote For Women

NEW YORK (UPI)—The wording of the 19th Amendment to the Constitution is simple —"The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex."

It's called the Women's Suffrage Amendment and on this day it is 50 years old, having been approved by the U.S. Senate June 4, 1919. (It wasn't until Aug. 26, 1920, however, that the necessary three quarters of the states had ratified the amendment.)

Behind that right that women won in 1919-1920 lies one of the most militant, most courageous, often bitterest, most prolonged campaigns for a cause in the nation's history.

AND THE BATTLE is not over; Florida, for instance, only got around to ratifying the amendment last May 13 and sources at the Lucy Stone League say New Mexico still is lagging.

Even so, the early suffragettes were convinced that with the right to vote, women could change the world for the better.

Did they? Are they?

At least they haven't blown it off the map as some of the anti-suffrage leaders direly predicted.

THEY HAVE accomplished much in the half century, but the consensus is they still have a long way to go. The fact stands in a sampling of opinions of women leaders, from the comments of one who helped to lead the movement in the early 1900's to modern day females like Betty Friedan who are starting "the second wave of women's campaign for equality."

One of these women doers is Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, who says, "women have made encouraging progress . . . but not nearly enough. If the rate of progress is unsatisfactory, then we can blame only ourselves for lack of initiative."

Mrs. Smith is the only woman in the nation's 100-member Senate and is the ranking Republican on the powerful Armed Services and Aeronautical and Space Sciences committees.

ANOTHER POWERFUL woman in Washington, Virginia Mae Brown, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, agrees with Mrs. Smith. "They (the women) have been responsible for many changes" she says," . . . but much still remains to be accomplished."

"The women who have done things have had to assert themselves . . . be more aggressive," says Mrs. Bruce Benson, of Amherst, Mass., president of the powerful League of Women Voters.

One of the women leaders who thinks that feminine accomplishments in the last 50 years have been "almost unbelievable" is Mrs. Walter Varney Magee, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs (GFWC), which worldwide has 11 million members.

"We supported suffrage, you know," she said. She conceded that women may not hold many top spots in government, but adds, "we're active in pushing legislation. . .our women keep after officials at the local, state and national levels."

To those who underestimate the power of feminine persuasion, Mrs. Magee points out that "we started kindergarten in this country, the U.S. Children's Bureau. . .we were campaigning for conservation as early as 1898. Of course, now it's a red hot issue in Washington."

BETTY FRIEDAN is less enthusiastic. The author, who set off a world of debate on women's role with her "the Feminine Mystique" in 1963, currently heads an activist group called the National Organization for Women NOW. One of its objectives — to "outlaw" any discrimination in any way against women.

NOW currently has chapters in 45 states and to Miss Friedan this "second wave" is a "whole new ball game. We've got to reconstruct society so that mom no longer is the woman-at-home symbol."

What do the women who helped with the suffragette movement "way back when" think their voting rights have wrought?

"Well, we've managed to change a lot of laws that needed changing," says Elsie Hill, of South Norwalk, Conn.

"BUT YOU KNOW," says lively woman of 85, "the suffrage amendment doesn't even mention women." She argues that women still do not have equality and that just a few words in the Constitution would take care of the matter— "equality of rights under the law shall not be abridged . . . ."

The onetime suffragette belongs to the Lucy Stone organization, named for one of the first leaders of the suffrage movement and still active in the battle to banish numerous discriminations it contends still exist—such as the right to equal pay for equal work, the right for equal education.

Suggestions Listed For Care Of Gifts

June . . . the month for wedding bells, brides and the excitement of furnishing a new home. A typical young couple's wedding gifts will include many small appliances, and they will have to purchase some major home appliances. Here are some tips from the San Francisco Better Business Bureau to make homemaking a bit easier.

With more than 200 million major home appliances in use, the average American housewife operates thousands of dollars worth of complex mechanical equipment.

IT IS not necessary for the brides of today to be mechanical experts regarding these appliances, either large or small, if they remember the following suggestions.

Most new appliances are under either a guarantee or warranty. These, usually, are for a definite period of time specified on the tag. In some instances, defective parts are covered for an additional period, but this does not include labor costs.

Terms and conditions of these guarantees or warranties differ in many respects. Therefore, it is advisable to read them carefully and ask questions regarding warranty terms, rights and obligations. It does not generally provide for replacement of the entire appliance and does not apply to mishandling or misuse.

A MANUFACTURER may have his own service organization in your area. Or he may depend upon authorized dealers or distributors to carry out the guarantee. The manufacturer directs how his guarantee shall be honored and may decline responsibility except as authorized.

As in most lines of business, the Better Business Bureau finds the majority of dealers are fair and honest. However, the bureau cautions new homemakers to be aware of objectionable selling and advertising practices by a small minority, such as:

BAIT ADVERTISING which is an alluring offer to sell something which the advertiser does not intend to sell but will either bring the customer to the store or the salesman to the home to sell an item at a higher price.

BUY WHOLESALE . . . dealers claiming to sell to the retail trade at wholesale prices, which are usually not true, since it is virtually impossible to sell to the public at wholesale prices and stay in business.

FICTICIOUS, COMPARATIVE, DISCOUNT AND LIST PRICES . . . These are found on the tags attached to the appliances listing two prices, one of which is the price the appliance is actually sold for, and the other, a higher price which indicates a ficticious higher than customary price or value.

IF IN DOUBT as to the value of the offer, don't hesitate to shop around. See if it is, in fact, the best price you can get for the purchase you wish to make.

Never sign a contract just to get rid of the salesman. Contracts are legally binding and enforceable.

Small Budgets Are No Handicap

By JEANNE LESEM

NEW YORK (UPI)—A small kitchen and a budget to match are not necessarily handicaps for a bride. She's more likely to choose utensils and appliances for their practicality as well as their prettiness.

Take multiple-use articles: A covered shallow metal casserole shaped like a skillet but with two short metal handles can double as a skillet and an oven utensil. Some come in decorator colors, intended for cook-and-serve use. Remove the lid and add a rack, sold separately and you have a small roasting pan or broiler.

A dutch oven also can serve many purposes, particularly if it is flame and oven proof. The enameled iron ones make handsome serving dishes and, because they hold heat so well, are especially good for buffet service. Oval shapes are ideal for braising whole chickens or ducks or making pot roasts. The foods cook better and need less liquid when the solids fit the shape of the container.

IF YOU WANT to use the dutch oven as a deep fat fryer, buy a round model and a frying basket, sold separately. The same pan can be used for boiling small amounts of spaghetti or macaroni and for heating boil-in-bag frozen prepared foods. The boiling point returns more quickly in a large quantity of liquid than it does in a small amount.

Add a rack to the dutch oven to convert it to a steamer for puddings and custards or to a sterilizer for small canning jars and jelly glasses.

Another versatile utensil is a deep saucepan with tightfitting lid—for cooking vegetables, especially rice and other foods that have a tendency to foam and boil over. This, too, can be used as a steamer when you add a rack—either the shallow variety or an adjustable one with metal petals that fold out to make the rack skillet-size.

MOST STARTER sets of pots and pans include a double boiler but a makeshift one works as well or better for some foods. Since egg yolk mixtures may discolor when cooked in aluminum, I prefer to use a heatproof mixing bowl that fits the top of a saucepan for making sauces and puddings that require indirect heat.

Gratin dishes or pans in graduated sizes have many uses. The classic French shape is a shallow oval but rectangular ones also are available, usually in ovenproof china of ceramic. These and the metal variety are useful as small roasting pans for cooking cut-up chicken, small fish or fish fillets in a single layer. Metal ones can go into the broiler for top-browning. China and ceramic ones also are handy serving dishes for celery and carrot sticks, relishes and snacks.

Cookie sheets, the sideless kind, are good for more than cookies. Used under shallow disposable aluminum trays of frozen prepared food, the food heats faster because of reflected heat. The rigid tray also makes for easier und safer removal of the flexible light-weight containers from the oven. Unless you plan to bake muffins regularly, forget about a conventional muffin pan. Instead, buy disposable aluminum baking cups and place them on a cookie sheet before filling and baking them.

IF YOUR KITCHEN has metal cabinets, use magnetized hooks on the outside of them to keep frequently used small utensils within easy reach of the work areas where you use them. Things like tongs, strainers, a vegetable peeler, graduated measuring cups and spoons can go here.

Another space-saver: Stacking canisters, particularly plastic-topped glass ones. To avoid mixups of look-alike ingredients — such as cornstarch and confectioner's sugar — use adhesive-backed labels, usually available at variety and stationery stores.

The labels are easy to change, if you remember to peel them off before you wash the container. Hot water tends to make the adhesive more so. Once set, it can be removed from glass with cotton swabs soaked in nail polish remover, but this solvent will damage plastic and painted surfaces.

After her education in Germany, where she completed the abitur of the gymnasium in her home town, she took secretarial training, then spent two years in Paris.

Doris said "I had no medical background, and without it, I don't think I could be very helpful in making the next step in the program to improve health in Laos."

BACK IN Tiburon, Doris shares an apartment with two German stewardesses, one Swedish stewardess and an American girl from Miami, Fla. Their apartment is furnished with objects from their travels. Pottery from Peru, a kangaroo rug from Australia and paintings from Europe are eye-catching.

After their long flights, "We love to be at home and to cook. Everybody has a specialty from all over," she confided in her soft voice with a trace of German accent.

What is Doris's contribution to the culinary department? "French cuisine, learned in my two years in Paris," she said.

"BEING STRANDED in the mountains of Laos was just one of the adventures we came across in our trek along the Mekong River Regino", said Doris Dieter, airline stewardess, at home in Tiburon. Doris spent three months assisting with a health survey sponsored by the Thomas A. Dooley Foundation in Laos. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

JUST 50 YEARS AGO

Bitter, Militant Campaign Resulted In Vote For Women

NEW YORK (UPI)—The wording of the 19th Amendment to the Constitution is simple —"The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex."

It's called the Women's Suffrage Amendment and on this day it is 50 years old, having been approved by the U.S. Senate June 4, 1919. (It wasn't until Aug. 26, 1920, however, that the necessary three quarters of the states had ratified the amendment.)

Behind that right that women won in 1919-1920 lies one of the most militant, most courageous, often bitterest, most prolonged campaigns for a cause in the nation's history.

AND THE BATTLE is not over; Florida, for instance, only got around to ratifying the amendment last May 13 and sources at the Lucy Stone League say New Mexico still is lagging.

Even so, the early suffragettes were convinced that with the right to vote, women could change the world for the better.

Did they? Are they?

At least they haven't blown it off the map as some of the anti-suffrage leaders direly predicted.

THEY HAVE accomplished much in the half century, but the consensus is they still have a long way to go. The fact stands in a sampling of opinions of women leaders, from the comments of one who helped to lead the movement in the early 1900's to modern day females like Betty Friedan who are starting "the second wave of women's campaign for equality."

One of these women doers is Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, who says, "women have made encouraging progress . . . but not nearly enough. If the rate of progress is unsatisfactory, then we can blame only ourselves for lack of initiative."

Mrs. Smith is the only woman in the nation's 100-member Senate and is the ranking Republican on the powerful Armed Services and Aeronautical and Space Sciences committees.

ANOTHER POWERFUL woman in Washington, Virginia Mae Brown, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, agrees with Mrs. Smith. "They (the women) have been responsible for many changes" she says," . . . but much still remains to be accomplished."

"The women who have done things have had to assert themselves . . . be more aggressive," says Mrs. Bruce Benson, of Amherst, Mass., president of the powerful League of Women Voters.

One of the women leaders who thinks that feminine accomplishments in the last 50 years have been "almost unbelievable" is Mrs. Walter Varney Magee, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs (GFWC), which worldwide has 11 million members.

"We supported suffrage, you know," she said. She conceded that women may not hold many top spots in government, but adds, "we're active in pushing legislation. . .our women keep after officials at the local, state and national levels."

To those who underestimate the power of feminine persuasion, Mrs. Magee points out that "we started kindergarten in this country, the U.S. Children's Bureau. . .we were campaigning for conservation as early as 1898. Of course, now it's a red hot issue in Washington."

BETTY FRIEDAN is less enthusiastic. The author, who set off a world of debate on women's role with her "the Feminine Mystique" in 1963, currently heads an activist group called the National Organization for Women NOW. One of its objectives — to "outlaw" any discrimination in any way against women.

NOW currently has chapters in 45 states and to Miss Friedan this "second wave" is a "whole new ball game. We've got to reconstruct society so that mom no longer is the woman-at-home symbol."

What do the women who helped with the suffragette movement "way back when" think their voting rights have wrought?

"Well, we've managed to change a lot of laws that needed changing," says Elsie Hill, of South Norwalk, Conn.

"BUT YOU KNOW," says lively woman of 85, "the suffrage amendment doesn't even mention women." She argues that women still do not have equality and that just a few words in the Constitution would take care of the matter— "equality of rights under the law shall not be abridged . . . ."

The onetime suffragette belongs to the Lucy Stone organization, named for one of the first leaders of the suffrage movement and still active in the battle to banish numerous discriminations it contends still exist—such as the right to equal pay for equal work, the right for equal education.

Suggestions Listed For Care Of Gifts

June . . . the month for wedding bells, brides and the excitement of furnishing a new home. A typical young couple's wedding gifts will include many small appliances, and they will have to purchase some major home appliances. Here are some tips from the San Francisco Better Business Bureau to make homemaking a bit easier.

With more than 200 million major home appliances in use, the average American housewife operates thousands of dollars worth of complex mechanical equipment.

IT IS not necessary for the brides of today to be mechanical experts regarding these appliances, either large or small, if they remember the following suggestions.

Most new appliances are under either a guarantee or warranty. These, usually, are for a definite period of time specified on the tag. In some instances, defective parts are covered for an additional period, but this does not include labor costs.

Terms and conditions of these guarantees or warranties differ in many respects. Therefore, it is advisable to read them carefully and ask questions regarding warranty terms, rights and obligations. It does not generally provide for replacement of the entire appliance and does not apply to mishandling or misuse.

A MANUFACTURER may have his own service organization in your area. Or he may depend upon authorized dealers or distributors to carry out the guarantee. The manufacturer directs how his guarantee shall be honored and may decline responsibility except as authorized.

As in most lines of business, the Better Business Bureau finds the majority of dealers are fair and honest. However, the bureau cautions new homemakers to be aware of objectionable selling and advertising practices by a small minority, such as:

BAIT ADVERTISING which is an alluring offer to sell something which the advertiser does not intend to sell but will either bring the customer to the store or the salesman to the home to sell an item at a higher price.

BUY WHOLESALE . . . dealers claiming to sell to the retail trade at wholesale prices, which are usually not true, since it is virtually impossible to sell to the public at wholesale prices and stay in business.

FICTICIOUS, COMPARATIVE, DISCOUNT AND LIST PRICES . . . These are found on the tags attached to the appliances listing two prices, one of which is the price the appliance is actually sold for, and the other, a higher price which indicates a ficticious higher than customary price or value.

IF IN DOUBT as to the value of the offer, don't hesitate to shop around. See if it is, in fact, the best price you can get for the purchase you wish to make.

Never sign a contract just to get rid of the salesman. Contracts are legally binding and enforceable.

Small Budgets Are No Handicap

By JEANNE LESEM

NEW YORK (UPI)—A small kitchen and a budget to match are not necessarily handicaps for a bride. She's more likely to choose utensils and appliances for their practicality as well as their prettiness.

Take multiple-use articles: A covered shallow metal casserole shaped like a skillet but with two short metal handles can double as a skillet and an oven utensil. Some come in decorator colors, intended for cook-and-serve use. Remove the lid and add a rack, sold separately and you have a small roasting pan or broiler.

A dutch oven also can serve many purposes, particularly if it is flame and oven proof. The enameled iron ones make handsome serving dishes and, because they hold heat so well, are especially good for buffet service. Oval shapes are ideal for braising whole chickens or ducks or making pot roasts. The foods cook better and need less liquid when the solids fit the shape of the container.

IF YOU WANT to use the dutch oven as a deep fat fryer, buy a round model and a frying basket, sold separately. The same pan can be used for boiling small amounts of spaghetti or macaroni and for heating boil-in-bag frozen prepared foods. The boiling point returns more quickly in a large quantity of liquid than it does in a small amount.

Add a rack to the dutch oven to convert it to a steamer for puddings and custards or to a sterilizer for small canning jars and jelly glasses.

Another versatile utensil is a deep saucepan with tightfitting lid—for cooking vegetables, especially rice and other foods that have a tendency to foam and boil over. This, too, can be used as a steamer when you add a rack—either the shallow variety or an adjustable one with metal petals that fold out to make the rack skillet-size.

MOST STARTER sets of pots and pans include a double boiler but a makeshift one works as well or better for some foods. Since egg yolk mixtures may discolor when cooked in aluminum, I prefer to use a heat-proof mixing bowl that fits the top of a saucepan for making sauces and puddings that require indirect heat.

Gratin dishes or pans in graduated sizes have many uses. The classic French shape is a shallow oval but rectangular ones also are available, usually in ovenproof china of ceramic. These and the metal variety are useful as small roasting pans for cooking cut-up chicken, small fish or fish fillets in a single layer. Metal ones can go into the broiler for top-browning. China and ceramic ones also are handy serving dishes for celery and carrot sticks, relishes and snacks.

Cookie sheets, the sideless kind, are good for more than cookies. Used under shallow disposable aluminum trays of frozen prepared food, the food heats faster because of reflected heat. The rigid tray also makes for easier und safer removal of the flexible light-weight containers from the oven. Unless you plan to bake muffins regularly, forget about a conventional muffin pan. Instead, buy disposable aluminum baking cups and place them on a cookie sheet before filling and baking them.

IF YOUR KITCHEN has metal cabinets, use magnetized hooks on the outside of them to keep frequently used small utensils within easy reach of the work areas where you use them. Things like tongs, strainers, a vegetable peeler, graduated measuring cups and spoons can go here.

Another space-saver: Stacking canisters, particularly plastic-topped glass ones. To avoid mixups of look-alike ingredients — such as cornstarch and confectioner's sugar — use adhesive-backed labels, usually available at variety and stationery stores.

The labels are easy to change, if you remember to peel them off before you wash the container. Hot water tends to make the adhesive more so. Once set, it can be removed from glass with cotton swabs soaked in nail polish remover, but this solvent will damage plastic and painted surfaces.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Son Attempts To Break Up Mother's Marriage With Threat

DEAR HELEN:

My son, age 18, told me I must leave my present husband of three years or he will show me.

I was widowed over 10 years ago, and until I met my wonderful second husband my son was my whole life. But the two don't get along. I love them both but evidently I can't have them both. My husband says Dirk is selfish and spoiled, and Dirk calls him bossy and mean. Sparks fly whenever they're together. As Dirk wants to live at home, you can see this is an impossible situation. He says I must leave my husband, and I'll always have a home with him, even when he is married. Otherwise he may go bad, just to teach me how wrong I am.

My family says I should protect my son, but my minister says I should stay with my husband. What would you suggest?
—TORN APART

DEAR TORN:

Your son has been protected long enough. Only a spoiled and selfish child would make such demands, and only a boy who is looking for an excuse would say "I'll go bad to get even."

If a talk with your minister doesn't straighten Dirk out, then I'd suggest 1. Further counselling, and 2. Either college or a job away from home. —H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm a black, 33-year-old live-in maid. Although I'm fully aware of the racial turmoil, I'm thoroughly confused about one thing. Why do people who visit act as though I'm the poor soul? I am not.

Is there some reason why I should be made to feel pitied because I'm a maid? My work requires skill, patience, thought and time. Except for the depression I feel when guests arrive, I am proud of being able to handle what is expected of me, and I am well paid for my services.

This situation doesn't exist, as far as I know, in the southern city from which I come. My employer is a fine person who accepts people as they are, but some of her wealthy friends — I'm embarrassed by their inability to treat me as another human beng. How does one cope?
—M.T.

DEAR M:

. . . With pride in your work, your ability and yourself — and humor for those poor small souls who think they're doing their bit for the race problem when they view with pity. You should learn what I'm sure your employer has already discovered: Certain uncomfortably rich people can best be taken with a grain of laughter. —H.

DEAR HELEN:

In spite of what they'd like you to believe, husbands do need a change of wife. They're great happy guys at home after an occasional affair, and they're better husbands for it.

I don't know why, because what Ben Franklin said is certainly true, but I'll wager 90 per cent of married men would step out on their wives if given the chance. This doesn't mean they want divorces — just a small harmless spree. A man gets tired of the same old routine, but when he compares, finds he is pretty lucky after all, then he becomes a new man at home.—
GEORGE

DEAR GEORGE:

Sorry, Im the reactionary type who thinks a marriage license rules out comparison shopping. And in spite of your 90 per cent estimate, I think most men still agree with me.

OPERA REVIEW

Rich Voices In Puccini Work Get Season Off To Good Start

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

SAN FRANCISCO — While the San Francisco Spring Opera may still be in its formative years, it rang up its ninth season last night with a winner in Puccini's lyrical beauty, "La Rondine."

Revived last year, it proved such a success, opera chieftans decided to bring this work of Puccini's later years back as this year's opener with much the same stellar cast.

And what a blessing. The four principals — Carol Todd as Madga, Vahan Khanzadian as Ruggero, Karan Armstrong as the maid Lisette and Bernard Fitch as the poet Prunier — were sheer delight in solo, duet and quarter offerings of the velvety Puccini lyrics.

Miss Todd, no stranger to the Opera House, was in rich vocal control from the opening "ore dolci e divine" (what hours of sweetness divine) to the tearful farewell lovers' duet with Khanzadian, whose tenor voice seemed to take on richer scope as the opera developed.

Fitch, who sang the same role last year had an excellent partner in 1966 Metropolitan Opera auditions winner Karan Armstrong, who added spice in her saucy lyrical portrayal of Lisette.

As operas go "La Rondine" is like a delicious sundae to enjoy and savor. The dye is cast in the first act in the salon of Magda's home in Paris, where she decides to take a young lover. She works her spell in the ballroom scene of Act II. In the final act it comes crashing down. Like "La Rondine" which means swallow, Magda abandons her lover and returns to her elderly keeper Rambaldo, who was portrayed by Archie Drake.

Giving able support as Madga's friends in the first act were Shigemi Matsumoto as Yvette, Claudia Lindsey as Bianca and Karen Wilson as Suzy. They later added strength to Also Danieli's fine choral work in Act II.

While guest conductor Anton Guadagno of the Philadelphia Lyric Opera Company seemed to let the orchestra overpower the singers in the first few minutes of the production, he soon leveled it off, bringing the singers and instruments into tightly honed harmony. This was especially evident in the principals' love toast near the end of Act II.

Adding to the overall enjoyment of the bouncy second act was Dennis Rosa's choreography. The corps de ballet work was delicate to almost an understatement — the element which gave it so much charm.

The production was wrapped up in colorful period costumes and light, airy sets under the artful eye of Matthew Farruggio.

It was an excellent starter for the season which will also offer Menotti's "The Consul," "The Marriage of Figaro" by Mozart and Gounod's Romeo et Juliette.

"La Rondine" will be presented for the final time at 8 p.m. on Friday. "The Consul" follows next Tuesday and June 13.

$500 Accordion Taken From Home

Burglars who broke a window and entered the home of Harry Webster at 304 Melrose Avenue, Mill Valley while he was on vacation took a $500 accordion, a jewelry box, $20 in cash and five bottles of liquor as well as assorted canned goods, sheriff's deputies said yesterday.

Webster reported the burglary Friday.

'Dead End Kid' Leo Gorcey Succumbs At 52

OAKLAND (AP) — From the day he began acting as one of the original "Dead End Kids" Leo Gorcey was typecast.

It was 1935 and he was 18 when the stage play opened. It was about a gang of tough New York slum kids on a street deadending at the East River. Leo was the leader, Spit.

Samuel Goldwyn put the Kids in the movies in 1937 in a film starring Humphrey Bogart. Warner Brothers next signed them for gangster films starring Bogart and Edward G. Robinson. In their "Angels With Dirty Faces" the stars were James Cagney and Pat O'Brien.

Gorcey is survived by his fifth wife, the former Mary E. Gannon, 26, whom he married last year, and his son, Army Pfc. Leo B. Gorcey Jr.

Aquacade To Benefit Marindale

A cast of 217 Marin girls will participate in two afternoons of splashy pageantry at the 24th annual Marin Ballet-Aquacade this weekend at the Peacock Gap Beach Club.

The show will feature seven numbers, with such intriguing titles as Pink Flamingo, Yellow Submarine and Space Odyssey, and a grand finale with the entire cast.

The swimmers and dancers range in age from 5 to 18-year-old. The show, a benefit to aid the Marindale School for orthopedically handicapped children in Terra Linda, will climax months of rehearsals.

Show time both Saturday and Sunday is 2:30 p.m.

Black Thespians Aid Boys Club

A benefit performance of "Back to Black" by the Black Thespians, an Oakland acting group, will be presented at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Manzanita Center in Marin City.

Playwright and director is Dezie Jones. Narrator will be her husband, Bob Jones, a disk jockey with Radio KDIA.

Proceeds from the performance will go to the Boys' Club of Southern Marin. Producing the performance are Gabe Jackson and Melvin Randolph of Marin City.

'Hair' To Open San Francisco Run In August

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The American Conservatory Theatre today announced it was cutting its third San Francisco season a month short to make room for a local production of "Hair."

ACT will co-produce the rock musical, opening in mid-August at the Geary, with Michael Butler, producer of the Broadway and Los Angeles versions; Tom Smothers, comedian and television producer, and Martheater owner who unsuccessfully tried to stage "Hair" recently in Acapulco, Mexico.

"Hair" will become the final play of the current ACT season.

OPERA REVIEW

Rich Voices In Puccini Work Get Season Off To Good Start

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

SAN FRANCISCO — While the San Francisco Spring Opera may still be in its formative years, it rang up its ninth season last night with a winner in Puccini's lyrical beauty, "La Rondine."

Revived last year, it proved such a success, opera chieftans decided to bring this work of Puccini's later years back as this year's opener with much the same stellar cast.

And what a blessing. The four principals — Carol Todd as Madga, Vahan Khanzadian as Ruggero, Karan Armstrong as the maid Lisette and Bernard Fitch as the poet Prunier — were sheer delight in solo, duet and quarter offerings of the velvety Puccini lyrics.

Miss Todd, no stranger to the Opera House, was in rich vocal control from the opening "ore dolci e divine" (what hours of sweetness divine) to the tearful farewell lovers' duet with Khanzadian, whose tenor voice seemed to take on richer scope as the opera developed.

Fitch, who sang the same role last year had an excellent partner in 1966 Metropolitan Opera auditions winner Karan Armstrong, who added spice in her saucy lyrical portrayal of Lisette.

As operas go "La Rondine" is like a delicious sundae to enjoy and savor. The dye is cast in the first act in the salon of Magda's home in Paris, where she decides to take a young lover. She works her spell in the ballroom scene of Act II. In the final act it comes crashing down. Like "La Rondine" which means swallow, Magda abandons her lover and returns to her elderly keeper Rambaldo, who was portrayed by Archie Drake.

Giving able support as Madga's friends in the first act were Shigemi Matsumoto as Yvette, Claudia Lindsey as Bianca and Karen Wilson as Suzy. They later added strength to Also Danieli's fine choral work in Act II.

While guest conductor Anton Guadagno of the Philadelphia Lyric Opera Company seemed to let the orchestra overpower the singers in the first few minutes of the production, he soon leveled it off, bringing the singers and instruments into tightly honed harmony. This was especially evident in the principals' love toast near the end of Act II.

Adding to the overall enjoyment of the bouncy second act was Dennis Rosa's choreography. The corps de ballet work was delicate to almost an understatement — the element which gave it so much charm.

The production was wrapped up in colorful period costumes and light, airy sets under the artful eye of Matthew Farruggio.

It was an excellent starter for the season which will also offer Menotti's "The Consul," "The Marriage of Figaro" by Mozart and Gounod's Romeo et Juliette.

"La Rondine" will be presented for the final time at 8 p.m. on Friday. "The Consul" follows next Tuesday and June 13.

$500 Accordion Taken From Home

Burglars who broke a window and entered the home of Harry Webster at 304 Melrose Avenue, Mill Valley while he was on vacation took a $500 accordion, a jewelry box, $20 in cash and five bottles of liquor as well as assorted canned goods, sheriff's deputies said yesterday.

Webster reported the burglary Friday.

'Dead End Kid' Leo Gorcey Succumbs At 52

It was 1935 and he was 18 when the stage play opened. It was about a gang of tough New York slum kids on a street deadending at the East River. Leo was the leader, Spit.

Samuel Goldwyn put the Kids in the movies in 1937 in a film starring Humphrey Bogart. Warner Brothers next signed them for gangster films starring Bogart and Edward G. Robinson. In their "Angels With Dirty Faces" the stars were James Cagney and Pat O'Brien.

Gorcey is survived by his fifth wife, the former Mary E. Gannon, 26, whom he married last year, and his son, Army Pfc. Leo B. Gorcey Jr.

Aquacade To Benefit Marindale

A cast of 217 Marin girls will participate in two afternoons of splashy pageantry at the 24th annual Marin Ballet-Aquacade this weekend at the Peacock Gap Beach Club.

The show will feature seven numbers, with such intriguing titles as Pink Flamingo, Yellow Submarine and Space Odyssey, and a grand finale with the entire cast.

The swimmers and dancers range in age from 5 to 18-year-old. The show, a benefit to aid the Marindale School for orthopedically handicapped children in Terra Linda, will climax months of rehearsals.

Show time both Saturday and Sunday is 2:30 p.m.

Black Thespians Aid Boys Club

A benefit performance of "Back to Black" by the Black Thespians, an Oakland acting group, will be presented at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Manzanita Center in Marin City.

Playwright and director is Dezie Jones. Narrator will be her husband, Bob Jones, a disk jockey with Radio KDIA.

Proceeds from the performance will go to the Boys' Club of Southern Marin. Producing the performance are Gabe Jackson and Melvin Randolph of Marin City.

'Hair' To Open San Francisco Run In August

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The American Conservatory Theatre today announced it was cutting its third San Francisco season a month short to make room for a local production of "Hair."

ACT will co-produce the rock musical, opening in mid-August at the Geary, with Michael Butler, producer of the Broadway and Los Angeles versions; Tom Smothers, comedian and television producer, and Mar-theater owner who unsuccessfully tried to stage "Hair" recently in Acapulco, Mexico.

"Hair" will become the final play of the current ACT season.

CAMPUS COOKOUT AT COLLEGE OF MARIN

Students and faculty at the College of Marin enjoyed hamburgers cooked over charcoal yesterday after a transformer blew and put most of the campus without power Frank Kalman (left) and Helen Perry (right) of Slater Food Service prepare the picnic fare. The Pacific Gas and Electric Co. was expected to hook up temporary service by 2 p.m. today until the transformer can be repaired. (Independent-Journal photo)

Strike Idles Tiburon Ferries Across Bay

A strike by marine engineers idles Tiburon ferry service to San Francisco and Angel Island State Park today.

About 200 Marin residents who normally commute to and from their jobs in San Francisco across the waters of the Golden Gate were forced to join other thousands on the freeway.

A spokesman for Harbor Tours, Inc., which operated the ferry service, said no negotiations had yet been scheduled with representatives of the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association.

He said the regular commuters were informed yesterday afternoon on their return to Tiburon of the strike.

Only a few cars were parked this morning at the normally heavily-used parking lot near the ferry dock in Tiburon.

Lester Bedient, general manager of Harbor Tours, said the dispute was "basically over wages."

A union spokesman said ferry engineers were seeking raises over three years from $690 to "at least" $1,000 a month. The company's last offer, made three days before the old contract expired June 1, called for raises to $790, he said.

The union also is seekeing in pensions from $50 to $100 a month. About 20 engineers are involved.

The union said negotiations broke off Monday when representatives of both sides could not reach agreement on counter proposals to the company.

Accord On Sewer Service Along Sonoma County Line

The North Marin County Water District and Novato Sanitary District boards agreed last night on sewer service to the area along the Sonoma County line.

The water board voted 5-0 to refer a request for sanitary service to the sanitary district; according to Eugene Churchill; water district manager.

John D. Kinney asked the water district for further studies for sanitary service for the proposed Enchanted Valley mobile home park west of Highway 101, just south of the Sonoma County line, which is San Antonio Creek.

The original request for sanitary service in this area had come in 1967, Churchill said.

Thomas D. Hardcastle, sanitary district board chairman, told the water board that they considered their area of expansion to go to the Sonoma County line, Churchill reported.

At Hardcastle's request Kinney was told to take his request for sanitary service to the Novato Sanitary District, according to Churchill.

North Marin Water District Board Also:

SALARY — Increased Churchill's salary by 5.5 per cent, from $17,500 to $18,360.

BLACK POINT — Appointed James D. Fritz, chief engineer, to be the engineer of work on the Black Point Improvement District 1, replacing former manager Jerome B. Gilbert. Although construction has been completed, an engineer is required to split assessments when land is divided. Fritz was asked to report on this at the 8 p.m. June 17 meeting and hold a public hearing on recent lot splits at 8 p.m., July 1.

Budget Of $775,014 Asked For Water District

A $775,014 operating budget for fiscal 1969-70 was presented last night to the North Marin County Water District board by Eugene Churchill, manager.

This is $45,950 more than the current budget of $729,064.

Operating expenditures for next year were estimated at $504,200, which is $17,840 more than the current $486,360, according to Churchill.

The budget calls for keeping the present tax rate of 15 cents per $100 assessed valuation, Churchill said.

The budget has listed $545,930 for capital improvements in the coming year, the largest item $410,000 for a five-million-gallon tank to be located above San Marin Drive. The board asked Churchill to see if another location could be found for the tank, he said.

Churchill's budget estimated the cash surplus at the end of the coming fiscal year at $1,110,317.

Trial Opens In Sabella Kidnaping

The trial of two men accused of robbing and kidnaping restaurant owner Luciano A. Sabella last November opened today in Marin Superior Court with a deputy district attorney saying that an alleged former confederate of the pair will testify for the prosecution.

On trial are Daniel Thomas Stathos and Kenneth Lee Harnal, both 22. Stathos is also charged with the armed robbery of the Greenbrae Lanes in October.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Jerry Herman said today that Walter John Hoefler of Petaluma, who has already confessed his part in the Sabella crime as well as the bowling alley robbery, will be a witness.

Hoefler is now serving a term at San Quentin, Herman said.

Other witnesses to be called by the prosecution include Sabella, employees of the Greenbrae Lanes and Hoefler's wife, Herman said.

Carleton Innis, attorney for Stathos, told prospective jurors that his witnesses will include Stathos' wife, Sharon, who entered the courtroom today with another young woman.

Public defender Jerome C. Durham declined to name possible witnesses for Harnal.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner today asked a clerk to call more prospective jurors from another courtroom as he said he thought the case might require an unusually large number.

Sack Of Mail Found Inside Stolen Car

A San Francisco deputy postal inspector said today that a sack full of U.S. mail, discovered yesterday in an abandoned stolen car in San Anselmo, may connect with recent wholesale thefts of mail in Marin County.

A San Anselmo policeman, on patrol, found a 1957 Volkswagen sedan at 11 a.m. at 475 Scenic Road and stashed in the car was the bag of mail.

The car was found to have been stolen May 21 from Ann Diesane in San Francisco.

Police Chief Raymond R. Buchignani said his department did not open the sack but immediately notified the chief postal inspector in San Francisco.

"We are investigating particularly from the standpoint that this may connect with the prior wholesale mail thefts which have occurred in Marin," deputy inspector Elmer L. Jacobson reported.

Jacobson said he could not disclose at this time where the mail was stolen from or what type of mail the bag contained.

Jail Ordered In Burglary Try

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court yesterday sentenced Claude William Allen Jr., 25, of Oakland to 60 days in the county jail for the attempted burglary of a San Rafael home.

He also placed Allen on one year probation.

Long-Haired Teen Hurt By Taunters

A 14-year-old San Anselmo boy was under observation today at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Francisco after a fight over his long hair with four other youths yesterday while en route to school, police reported.

John Andrew Fatooh, sonm of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Fatooh of 21 Holstein Road, was reported in fair condition but hospital authorities would not specify his injuries.

However, Mrs. Fatooh told police last night that her son is being observed to see if he has a ruptured spleen.

Frank Mulholland, dean of boys at Sir Francis Drake High School where John is a student, reported to police at 9 a.m. yesterday that the boy learned of his injuries when he visited the school nurse complaining of a pain in his left side.

The boy told Mulholland, police said, that he has been bothered the last week by four youths — all Hidden Valley School students — enroute to school. They harassed him, he told Mulholland, touching his long hair, pulling at his clothing and taunting him about hippies.

One of them yesterday grabbed a paper from him. Then all four jumped him, he reported to Mulholland.

The boys, two of whom are 13, one 14 and one 12 years old, were reprimanded by school authorities and told to raise $2.50 for John's torn shirt.

Reed District Employees Get 8 Per Cent Pay Hike

An 8 per cent cost-of-living increase across the board for district employees was approved last night by the Reed School District board, according to Supt. Robert B. Gaw.

Exempted from the increase were administrative personnel, who receive merit raises instead, Gaw said.

The district will allocate $992,647 for teachers salaries in its 1969-70 budget, Gaw said, an increase of $13,207 over the current year's allocation.

Classified salaries will cost the district $194,857 next year, compared to $221,844 during the current fiscal year, a decrease of $26,997.

The salary hike for 140 employees covers cost-of-living increases for both the 1968-69 and 1969-70 fiscal years because employees received only a 1 per cent cost of living increase this past year, Gaw said.

In addition, trustees agreed to pay an additional $10 per month per employee on the district's health plan, Gaw said. The fringe benefit will cost the district an additional $26,800, he noted.

Salary increases were also granted to James Justeson, principal of Granada School, and John Finch, principal of Del Mar School. Juteson will receive $16,200 next year, an increase of $1,200, and Fitch will be paid $17,800, an hike of $1,300.

The board also hired Robert Gowan, former superintendent-principal of the Ross School District, as principal of Bel Aire School at an annual salary of $16,000. Gowan has taught for 11 years and has four years' administrative experience, Gaw said.

Edward Mosconi; former principal in the Jefferson School District in Daly City, was hired as principal of the Reed School complex at an annual salary of $17,400. Mosconi has taught for nine years and has nine years, administrative experience.

Tentative Nod To Stinson's Water Budget

A tentative 1969-70 budget of $9,530 was adopted last night by the Stinson Beach County Water District board, an increase from this year's figure of $8,875.

No tax rate will be set until the district gets assessment figures from the county assessor, secretary Harriet M. Greene reported. She said a tax rate increase was likely, since last year the district financed approximately half the budget from reserves, raising only $4,505 by a 10-cent tax levy.

The board will use reserves again this year but the amount will be determined after assessment figures are in, Mrs. Greene said.

The board also was told that the Bolinas Community Public Utility District board has approved in principle the latest draft of a joint powers agreement to set up a Bolinas-Stinson sewage treatment system.

$13 Million Marin City Development Plan Unveiled

An outline of a $13 million, three-year program for development of housing, shopping center and industrial park in Marin City was unveiled last night by a San Francisco urban consultant.

Ulysses J. Montgomery, former consultant to the Development Corp. of Marin City, unexpectedly presented the outline to the Marin County Redevelopment Agency at the Manzanita Center in Marin City.

"Marin City has been a half-baked potato too long," Montgomery said as he urged completing development of the community.

He proposed development in three phases, with 123 multi-family units, 40 single family homes and a neighborhood shopping center in the first phase (1969-70) estimated to cost $4.25 million.

The second phase, 1970-71, would consist of 123 multifamily units of 39 single family homes at a cost of $3.75 million, he reported.

The third phase, 1970-71, would be development of a science and industrial park in the flatland area, once designated for a high school site, at a cost of $5 million.

As planned there would be federal financing with Federal Housing Administration mortgages and planning grants, Montgomery said.

Montgomery said the interests of residents of Marin City would have top priority in any planning, and the proposal will be presented to groups thro7ghout the community for their reaction.

He explained that it was being presented to put the agency "on notice" that he had a proposal, and that it just happened to be presented to groups throughout "because you met first."

Development would be under a "community-based, nonprofit corporation, he explained.

"We have to go down in the ditch with the people and find out what's needed, and get the job done," Montgomery asserted.

He said he represented a group in San Francisco which handled the Martin Luther King Square project, and said the Fillmore Community Association could co-sponsor development along with the community group.

Montgomery pointed out that although he was no longer associated with the Development Corp. of Marin City, he was presenting the proposal "at the request of a number of people" in Marin City.

Montgomery's proposal, which wasn't listed on the agenda, overshadowed earlier discussion about the status of plans by Marin Development Co. to construct 17 townhouses in Marin City.

Attorney Richard M. Adams, representing the firm, reported that the possibility of leasing some of the proposed homes under the housing authority's program didn't "appear hopeful."

Adams said the firm is still studying ways to present "a better package to serve the community," and asked that the firm not be found in default of its contract during the study time.

Directors didn't act one way or the other on the default matter.

The plan for 17 townhouses on tht north side of Donahue Street, opposite Buckelew Street, ran into strong opposition from residents at a meeting of the Marin City Council last month.

"We're trying to meet the needs of the community, and we're not sure 17 houses would do it adequately, and we'd like to reexamine," Adams said.

He emphasized that the firm wasn't withdrawing its proposal, but it didn't want to proceed immediately.

Directors noted the need for a survey of the community on housing needs, and agreed if the Marin City Council's bid for a planning grant, which would include a survey, wasn't approved in two weeks, the agency would start its own.

The Marin County Redevelopment Agency also:

OFFICERS — Reelected James O. Quiett as chairman and elected Vera Schultz as vice chairman to succeed Richard S. Harding, who noted that he had increased demands on his time.

GEODETIC HOMES — Heard a report from William Kirsch, Sausalito architect, on the advantages of houses of geodetic design, which he said can be easily constructed at low cost, and referred him to the housing committee of the Marin County Human Rights Commission.

Director Collie B. Gaines was absent.

Marin City's Fire Protection Due Study

Marin County Housing Authority directors last night agreed to review fire protection in Marin City after a rash of weekend brush fires and charges that firemen were lax.

Melvin Randolph, Marin City housing manager, reported that the Black Panther, Party distributed a bulletin yesterday criticizing firemen because they don't seem to be showing real concern when fires break out.

During a three-day period, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, there were 17 grass fires and two false alarms in Marin City, and County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom believes they were set by youngsters.

"We're facing a 'cry wolf' situation," Randolph said. There are so many small fires that firemen don't hurry, but there's always the possibility that with "wind the wrong way" a blaze could get away, he noted. The calls "still have to be treated as important," Randolph asserted.

Director Arthur Miller said possibly the fire station is short-handed, noting that there was only one man responding when there was a fire at Manzanita School.

"If they are short-handed, they're doing all you can expect," he said.

Directors agreed to ask Chief Bloom for a report on the number of personnel and number of calls handled at the Marin City substation.

Several residents suggested that the fire department burn off the high grass in the flatland area where many fires have broken out.

Jesse Berry, a member of the Marin City Homeowners and Improvement Association, pointed to the responsibility of parents to be aware of what their children are doing. "It's everybody's job," he said. "We can't leave it to two or three men."

It was proposed that a volunteer fire force might be formed in Marin City, and directors felt this idea could be explored by the Marin City Community Services District board.

The Marin County Housing Authority Also:

HILARITA HOUSING — Heard a report from Wallace K. Shepherd, administrative assistant, that the Ecumenical Association for Housing in Marin has expressed interest in obtaining options on land at Hilarita Housing project in Tiburon, scheduled to be phased out by the authority.

AIR RIGHTS — Gave Donald O. Stutsman, executive director, approval to continue studying the possibility of obtaining air rights over existing developments, such as city parking lots, for low-cost housing.

AFDC REPORT — Received a report from the task force on Aid to Families to Dependent Children recommending promoting low cost housing for such families, and agreed to discuss it at its June 18 meeting. Chairman Philip S. Ehrlich Jr. suggested changing the meeting place from Marin City that night since the topic was of countywide interests, and other directors agreed, but the location wasn't set.

MEETING PLACE — Agreed that whenever appropriate the agency would meet at various locations in Marin, rather than holding all sessions at the Manzanita Center in Marin City.

MODERNIZATION — Approved applying for $298,731 in federal funds to upgrade the low-rent project with painting, grounds improvements, outside lighting and renovating.

Director Norman Campbell was absent.

Strike Idles Tiburon Ferries Across Bay

A strike by marine engineers idles Tiburon ferry service to San Francisco and Angel Island State Park today.

About 200 Marin residents who normally commute to and from their jobs in San Francisco across the waters of the Golden Gate were forced to join other thousands on the freeway.

A spokesman for Harbor Tours, Inc., which operated the ferry service, said no negotiations had yet been scheduled with representatives of the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association.

He said the regular commuters were informed yesterday afternoon on their return to Tiburon of the strike.

Only a few cars were parked this morning at the normally heavily-used parking lot near the ferry dock in Tiburon.

Lester Bedient, general manager of Harbor Tours, said the dispute was "basically over wages."

A union spokesman said ferry engineers were seeking raises over three years from $690 to "at least" $1,000 a month. The company's last offer, made three days before the old contract expired June 1, called for raises to $790, he said.

The union also is seekeing in pensions from $50 to $100 a month. About 20 engineers are involved.

The union said negotiations broke off Monday when representatives of both sides could not reach agreement on counter proposals to the company.

Accord On Sewer Service Along Sonoma County Line

The North Marin County Water District and Novato Sanitary District boards agreed last night on sewer service to the area along the Sonoma County line.

The water board voted 5-0 to refer a request for sanitary service to the sanitary district; according to Eugene Churchill; water district manager.

John D. Kinney asked the water district for further studies for sanitary service for the proposed Enchanted Valley mobile home park west of Highway 101, just south of the Sonoma County line, which is San Antonio Creek.

The original request for sanitary service in this area had come in 1967, Churchill said.

Thomas D. Hardcastle, sanitary district board chairman, told the water board that they considered their area of expansion to go to the Sonoma County line, Churchill reported.

At Hardcastle's request Kinney was told to take his request for sanitary service to the Novato Sanitary District, according to Churchill.

North Marin Water District Board Also:

SALARY — Increased Churchill's salary by 5.5 per cent, from $17,500 to $18,360.

BLACK POINT — Appointed James D. Fritz, chief engineer, to be the engineer of work on the Black Point Improvement District 1, replacing former manager Jerome B. Gilbert. Although construction has been completed, an engineer is required to split assessments when land is divided. Fritz was asked to report on this at the 8 p.m. June 17 meeting and hold a public hearing on recent lot splits at 8 p.m., July 1.

AGREEMENT — Approved a $39,536 agreement for water service to Pleasant Valley Unit 6 of 71 homes on Sutro Avenue at Center Road.

Budget Of $775,014 Asked For Water District

A $775,014 operating budget for fiscal 1969-70 was presented last night to the North Marin County Water District board by Eugene Churchill, manager.

This is $45,950 more than the current budget of $729,064.

Operating expenditures for next year were estimated at $504,200, which is $17,840 more than the current $486,360, according to Churchill.

The budget calls for keeping the present tax rate of 15 cents per $100 assessed valuation, Churchill said.

The budget has listed $545,930 for capital improvements in the coming year, the largest item $410,000 for a five-million-gallon tank to be located above San Marin Drive. The board asked Churchill to see if another location could be found for the tank, he said.

Churchill's budget estimated the cash surplus at the end of the coming fiscal year at $1,110,317.

Sack Of Mail Found Inside Stolen Car

A San Francisco deputy postal inspector said today that a sack full of U.S. mail, discovered yesterday in an abandoned stolen car in San Anselmo, may connect with recent wholesale thefts of mail in Marin County.

Reed District Employees Get 8 Per Cent Pay Hike

An 8 per cent cost-of-living increase across the board for district employees was approved last night by the Reed School District board, according to Supt. Robert B. Gaw.

Exempted from the increase were administrative personnel, who receive merit raises instead, Gaw said.

The district will allocate $992,647 for teachers salaries in its 1969-70 budget, Gaw said, an increase of $13,207 over the current year's allocation.

Tentative Nod To Stinson's Water Budget

A tentative 1969-70 budget of $9,530 was adopted last night by the Stinson Beach County Water District board, an increase from this year's figure of $8,875.

$13 Million Marin City Development Plan Unveiled

An outline of a $13 million, three-year program for development of housing, shopping center and industrial park in Marin City was unveiled last night by a San Francisco urban consultant.

Ulysses J. Montgomery, former consultant to the Development Corp. of Marin City, unexpectedly presented the outline to the Marin County Redevelopment Agency at the Manzanita Center in Marin City.

"Marin City has been a half-baked potato too long," Montgomery said as he urged completing development of the community.

The third phase, 1970-71, would be development of a science and industrial park in the flatland area, once designated for a high school site, at a cost of $5 million.

Montgomery's proposal, which wasn't listed on the agenda, overshadowed earlier discussion about the status of plans by Marin Development Co. to construct 17 townhouses in Marin City.

Attorney Richard M. Adams, representing the firm, reported that the possibility of leasing some of the proposed homes under the housing authority's program didn't "appear hopeful."

Adams said the firm is still studying ways to present "a better package to serve the community," and asked that the firm not be found in default of its contract during the study time.

Directors didn't act one way or the other on the default matter.

The plan for 17 townhouses on tht north side of Donahue Street, opposite Buckelew Street, ran into strong opposition from residents at a meeting of the Marin City Council last month.

"We're trying to meet the needs of the community, and we're not sure 17 houses would do it adequately, and we'd like to reexamine," Adams said.

He emphasized that the firm wasn't withdrawing its proposal, but it didn't want to proceed immediately.

Directors noted the need for a survey of the community on housing needs, and agreed if the Marin City Council's bid for a planning grant, which would include a survey, wasn't approved in two weeks, the agency would start its own.

The Marin County Redevelopment Agency also:

OFFICERS — Reelected James O. Quiett as chairman and elected Vera Schultz as vice chairman to succeed Richard S. Harding, who noted that he had increased demands on his time.

GEODETIC HOMES — Heard a report from William Kirsch, Sausalito architect, on the advantages of houses of geodetic design, which he said can be easily constructed at low cost, and referred him to the housing committee of the Marin County Human Rights Commission.

Director Collie B. Gaines was absent.

Marin City's Fire Protection Due Study

Marin County Housing Authority directors last night agreed to review fire protection in Marin City after a rash of weekend brush fires and charges that firemen were lax.

Melvin Randolph, Marin City housing manager, reported that the Black Panther, Party distributed a bulletin yesterday criticizing firemen because they don't seem to be showing real concern when fires break out.

During a three-day period, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, there were 17 grass fires and two false alarms in Marin City, and County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom believes they were set by youngsters.

"We're facing a 'cry wolf' situation," Randolph said. There are so many small fires that firemen don't hurry, but there's always the possibility that with "wind the wrong way" a blaze could get away, he noted. The calls "still have to be treated as important," Randolph asserted.

Director Arthur Miller said possibly the fire station is short-handed, noting that there was only one man responding when there was a fire at Manzanita School.

"If they are short-handed, they're doing all you can expect," he said.

Directors agreed to ask Chief Bloom for a report on the number of personnel and number of calls handled at the Marin City substation.

Several residents suggested that the fire department burn off the high grass in the flatland area where many fires have broken out.

Jesse Berry, a member of the Marin City Homeowners and Improvement Association, pointed to the responsibility of parents to be aware of what their children are doing. "It's everybody's job," he said. "We can't leave it to two or three men."

It was proposed that a volunteer fire force might be formed in Marin City, and directors felt this idea could be explored by the Marin City Community Services District board.

The Marin County Housing Authority Also:

HILARITA HOUSING — Heard a report from Wallace K. Shepherd, administrative assistant, that the Ecumenical Association for Housing in Marin has expressed interest in obtaining options on land at Hilarita Housing project in Tiburon, scheduled to be phased out by the authority.

AIR RIGHTS — Gave Donald O. Stutsman, executive director, approval to continue studying the possibility of obtaining air rights over existing developments, such as city parking lots, for low-cost housing.

AFDC REPORT — Received a report from the task force on Aid to Families to Dependent Children recommending promoting low cost housing for such families, and agreed to discuss it at its June 18 meeting. Chairman Philip S. Ehrlich Jr. suggested changing the meeting place from Marin City that night since the topic was of countywide interests, and other directors agreed, but the location wasn't set.

MEETING PLACE — Agreed that whenever appropriate the agency would meet at various locations in Marin, rather than holding all sessions at the Manzanita Center in Marin City.

MODERNIZATION — Approved applying for $298,731 in federal funds to upgrade the low-rent project with painting, grounds improvements, outside lighting and renovating.

Director Norman Campbell was absent.

County Keeps Own Radio Maintenance

The county will continue to maintain its own radio equipment instead of contracting the work with a private firm for at least the next fiscal year, the Marin County Board of Supervisors decided yesterday in a 4 to 1 vote.

The decision came on a motion by William A. Gnoss, with Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. dissenting.

Arrigoni said he would rely on figures provided by the county's communications director, who reported the county can save $17,500 next year by letting a private firm maintain the county's radio equipment.

Chairman John F. McInnis said he had heard from qualified electronics men that the $17,500 savings and cost figures provided by Communications Director John H. Atkinson "are unrealistic."

Since the communications budget review is coming up in three days, McInnis said there is no time to gather enough factual information to make a change for the next fiscal year.

Supervisors also took note of requests by several cities including San Rafael, Ross, Fairfax and Novato that the matter be postponed for further study.

Chief opposition to having a private company maintain county radio equipment came from J. Mansfield Lewis, retired county communications director. Lewis began shooting down Atkinson's cost figures, declaring that the county can maintain its own equipment more cheaply than a private firm.

The supervisors authorized the county administrator to dig up accurate figures on what savings if any would come from a private contract.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

FLOOD CONTROL — Set 4 p.m., June 24 as time for public hearing on phase 3 of the Corte Madera Flood Control Project, which would extend from College Avenue Bridge through the Town of Ross.

FIXED BASE OPERATOR — Assigned to Spectrum Air Incorporated the fixed base operator's lease now owned by Navair Corp., which did not provide services as agreed. Spectrum Air is owned by Holiday Magic, the San Rafael cosmetics firm.

BOLINAS PARK — Approved condemnation proceedings to acquire 11 acres of tidelands on the northwest side of Bolinas Lagoon, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Letter.

TYPEWRITERS — Authorized the county purchasing agent to buy Remington typewriters through the State Cooperative Purchasing Program. Supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and John F. McInnis warned that Remingtons may not hold up as well as other makes. The county administrator said he is making an experimental purchase because the cost difference is so great — $235 for Remingtons as compared with $495 for IBM.

JANITOR SERVICE — Awarded a $12,840 per month contract to Service Technicians Inc. of San Rafael for maintenance of the Civic Center Administration Building, new Hall of Justice and Juvenile Hall school complex. Five bonds ranged to a high of $14,272.

BUS SUBSIDY — Turned down a request by Tamalpais High School District for $20,000 to finance bus transportation for Marin City students attending Tamlapais High School. The county counsel said such payment is illegal under present law, and supervisors feared that such an appropriation would bring similar requests from other high school districts.

CONDOLENCE — Voted a resolution of condolence to the family of the late Ethel H. Tomkins, who organized the Marin County Humane Society in 1907.

AGE LIMIT — Decided to retain the present maximum age limit of 35 for hiring of safety personnel such as sheriff's deputies and firemen. The Marin County Personnel Commission had asked that the age 35 limit be lifted so that older sheriff's matrons could be hired.

CHILD CENTERS — Approved an amendment to the county zoning code to permit child care centers for more than six children in apartment districts by use permit.

HOWARD JOHNSON — Set 9 a.m., June 17 as time for hearing on the Howard Johnson motel, restaurant and service station development in front of Fireside Motel. The Mill Valley Planning Commission objected to the site plan and six-story high rise.

NURSERY SCHOOL — Set June 17 as hearing time for a rifle range planned on the William Souza ranch near the Sonoma County border, and a nursery school planned at 1100 Las Gallinas Avenue in Terra Linda.

WASHINGTON TRIP — Received a report from Chairman John F. McInnis on his May 25 trip to Washington, where he urged top officials in the Bureau of Budget and the Department of Interior to approve $38 million appropriation to purchase Point Reyes Seashore land.

AFDC — Accepted the report of the task force on Aid to Families with Dependent Children, promised to consider all recommendations and referred the report to the Marin Housing Authority, county planning department and county administrator for study and reports.

Board Clamps Muzzle On Noises, Bans Damage To Public Property

Ordinances to prohibit loud and unnecessary noises and to protect public property were approved by unanimous vote of Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday.

The ordinances, which will go into effect in 30 days, were drawn up by County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney at the request of Supervisor Louis H. Baar.

The antinoise ordinance would prohibit loud and unnecessary noises that disturb others such as prolonged honking of horns; loud music that can be heard plainly at 50 yards; and yelling, shouting and singing on public roads between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m. that would disturb others.

The second ordinance, to protect public property, prohibits damaging public property of any kind, erecting structures on public property, or loitering and blocking public access.

Violations are misdemeanors and subject to a maximum of six months in jail, $500 fine or both.

"This was brought about by problems in the county, more particularly in Muir Beach, Stinson Beach and San Geronimo Valley," said Baar.

Supervisor Michael Wornum wanted to know if motorcycle noises and chain saws early in the morning can be controlled, and Chairman John F. McInnis wondered about the "shirtless monsters" in the downtown areas.

County Counsel Maloney explained that motorcycles come under the state vehicle code, but chain saws and youths without shirts would be difficult to control by county ordinance.

Baar reported that nudity had been considered, but this is preempted by the state.

"We considered it because a couple in Bolinas likes to go around in the nude outside their home, and the fella likes to go up the ladder all the time."

Wornum wanted to make sure this was not an emergency ordinance, and that anyone who objects would have 30 days in which to express his views.

$50,000 Asked In Shooting Case

STOCKTON (AP) — A young Negro man filed a $50,000 damage suit yesterday against owners and employees of a Stockton liquor store where he was shot in the chest and his football star brother was killed a year ago.

Clifton Watkins, 24, an employee of the U.S. Public Health Service, filed the suit in Superior Court through his attorney, Lawrence K. Karlton of Sacramento.

Killed in the incident June 2, 1968 was Ted Watkins, 27, star offensive end for the Hamilton, Ont., Tiger Cats.

Clifton was acquitted April 2 of a robbery charge after a six-week trial.

Named in the suit were the owners of Delta Liquor and Sporting Goods Store, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taylor; a clerk, Louis Huerta, 26, who wounded Clifton, and the former manager, Fred E. Larsen, who shot Ted to death in the store after a violent struggle.

Guilty Plea Averts Heroin Charge Trial

As his trial was about to start in Marin Superior Court yesterday, David Forbes Allen, 21, of San Rafael, pleaded guilty to a felony charge of pssessing heroin in July 21, 1968.

Judge Harold J. Haley set sentencing for June 23.

Health Plan Set Instead Of Hike

Teachers in the Bolinas-Stinson School district will have a dental and medical plan paid for by the district but will get no pay increase beyond the automatic annual step increae for the 1969-70 school year.

Cost of the plan, the board estimated, will add approximately 3 cents to the district tax rate, currently $2.14 per $100 assessed valuation. Vote on the proposal was 4-0 in favor with trustee Alyce Thompson absent.

Houseboat Dwellers Face Cleanup Again

County supervisors voted yesterday to go ahead with plans to clean up houseboats and debris from county streets at Waldo Point in Richardson Bay, despite an impassioned plea by landscape architect Piro Caro of the ferryboat San Rafael.

On a motion by Louis H. Baar and a unanimous vote, the supervisors called for bids on the cleanup project, which Public Works Director Donald R. Frost estimated would cost $44,000.

The cleanup area is on Donlan J. Arques' property, and Arques has signed an agreement to allow the county to enter his property. That agreement ends on Aug. 25.

"Tell us what to do and we'll do it," pleaded white-haired Caro, who claims ownership of the old ferryboat San Rafael. "When you vote for this, you are either going to put me in jail or shoot me."

Caro and several other houseboat dwellers expressed indignation over last Thursday's sudden cutoff of electricity from the houseboats in Arques' harbor. They charged that a power cutoff can cause baby food to spoil and some boats to sink because pumps would stop operating.

"I'm not voting to demolish anyone's house," said Supervisor Michael Wornum. He said the county merely wants to clean out the underwater streets to keep as much of the bay in open water as possible, in line with the county's efforts to save the bay. He said the houseboat encroachments on underwater streets "is like a person who builds a house on the highway."

Bids on the cleanup project will be opened on June 23.

63 Cases Of Strep Reported

Sixty-three cases of streptococcus were reported in Marin County last week, Health Officer Carolyn B. Albrecht said yesterday.

Novato had 29 cases and San Rafael 13. Four cases were reported in Mill Valley, three in San Anselmo and Corte Madera and 11 elsewhere.

Fifteen incidents of gonorrhea were reported. Eight were in San Rafael, two in Sausalito and one each in Novato, Fairfax, Larkspur, Mill Valley and Marin City.

Five cases of infectious hepatitis were reported in outlying areas and one each in Mill Valley and San Rafael.

Dangerous Drug Sale Denied By Novatan

David Lee Worley, 21, of Novato has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court ot charges of selling a dangerous drug (desoxephedrine), selling marijuana and possessing marijuana. A preliminary hearing was set for July 17.

Worley is accused by drug agents of being responsible for sales of drugs to young persons in Novato.

Seashore Plans To Be Described

Plans for completion of Point Reyes National Seashore will be discussed tomorrow on the KTIM Sounding Board at 9 a.m.

Scheduled to participate are Edward J. Kurtz, superintendent of the seashore; Douglas J. Maloney, county counsel; Boyd Stewart, an Olema rancher, and Dr. Joel Gustafson, president of the Point Reyes National Seashore Foundation.

Maloney, Stewart and Gustafson will report on their visit to Washington, D.C., on behalf of seashore completion.

The show, during which audience questions may be phoned in, will be rebroadcast Sunday at 10:45 a.m.

Unitarians To Hear Former Dope Addicts

Two reformed narcotics addicts have been invited to speak Friday at 8 p.m. at a public meeting sponsored by the Unitarian Fellowship of Marin, 240 Channing Way, San Rafael.

The pair will discuss their personal experiences as addicts and offer views on Synanon, the self-help organization established for persons seeking to rechannel their energies away from the drug scene.

Supervisors Veto Tarrant Apartments

The design and layout of a 56-unit apartment project in Gallinas Village was turned down late yesterday by unanimous vote of the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

On a motion by William A. Gnoss, the supervisors rejected developer P. J. Tarrant's design and layout for the two-story apartments at North San Pedro Road and La Brea Way.

The Marin County Planning Commission had approved the design, but a delegation of irate residents appealed for a rejection of the plans and won their point.

McINNIS ASKS TIME

Chairman John F. McInnis, in whose area the project is located, asked for the rejection "simply in an effort to give more time to reconsider and to develop to better standards."

Tarrant, represented by his attorney son, Richard T. Tarrant, presented plans with adequate parking, play area and some landscaping to meet all zoning requirements. Werner Von Gundell, chief of current planning, said the project was a "minimal" one that he can accept.

Herbert C. Belben, representing the Gallinas Village Improvement Association, led a group of about 40 residents, who declared they had been saddled with poor county planning for years and would not stand for what they termed "slum development."

Belben charged that the residents in Gallinas Village and Santa Venetia had to pay for a million-dollar bond issue to correct sewer, flood and subsidence problems resulting from poor planning, "and we can't stand any more."

NEIGHBORS' STAND

Other residents complained that fire protection is inadequate, schools are overflowing, and 56 units are too much for less than two acres of land.

McInnis declared that Tarrant was not to blame because the lot was zoned for apartments in 1963, long before Tarrant bought it. He blamed the county for lag in planning on sewer, fill and subdivision requirements in the Santa Venetia area.

The supervisors asked that the plans go back to the planning commission for revision and expressed hope that the density can be reduced.

"I'd like to see fewer units, say 40 or 35 units," said Michael Wornum.

Marin Teener In Resort Arrest

William Marvin Cuneo of 3 Golden Hinde Boulevard, a 19-year-old student, was charged with sale of heroin and released on $3,125 bail. A preliminary hearing in Central Sonoma Municipal Court was set for June 10 at 9:15 a.m.

Thousands of Bay Area youngsters converged on the resort area with Sonoma sheriff's deputied and California highway patrolmen making more than 40 arrests. Most charges involved possession of drugs and failure to disperse.

County Keeps Own Radio Maintenance

The county will continue to maintain its own radio equipment instead of contracting the work with a private firm for at least the next fiscal year, the Marin County Board of Supervisors decided yesterday in a 4 to 1 vote.

The decision came on a motion by William A. Gnoss, with Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. dissenting.

Arrigoni said he would rely on figures provided by the county's communications director, who reported the county can save $17,500 next year by letting a private firm maintain the county's radio equipment.

Chairman John F. McInnis said he had heard from qualified electronics men that the $17,500 savings and cost figures provided by Communications Director John H. Atkinson "are unrealistic."

Since the communications budget review is coming up in three days, McInnis said there is no time to gather enough factual information to make a change for the next fiscal year.

Supervisors also took note of requests by several cities including San Rafael, Ross, Fairfax and Novato that the matter be postponed for further study.

Chief opposition to having a private company maintain county radio equipment came from J. Mansfield Lewis, retired county communications director. Lewis began shooting down Atkinson's cost figures, declaring that the county can maintain its own equipment more cheaply than a private firm.

The supervisors authorized the county administrator to dig up accurate figures on what savings if any would come from a private contract.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

FLOOD CONTROL — Set 4 p.m., June 24 as time for public hearing on phase 3 of the Corte Madera Flood Control Project, which would extend from College Avenue Bridge through the Town of Ross.

FIXED BASE OPERATOR — Assigned to Spectrum Air Incorporated the fixed base operator's lease now owned by Navair Corp., which did not provide services as agreed. Spectrum Air is owned by Holiday Magic, the San Rafael cosmetics firm.

BOLINAS PARK — Approved condemnation proceedings to acquire 11 acres of tidelands on the northwest side of Bolinas Lagoon, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Letter.

TYPEWRITERS — Authorized the county purchasing agent to buy Remington typewriters through the State Cooperative Purchasing Program. Supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and John F. McInnis warned that Remingtons may not hold up as well as other makes. The county administrator said he is making an experimental purchase because the cost difference is so great — $235 for Remingtons as compared with $495 for IBM.

JANITOR SERVICE — Awarded a $12,840 per month contract to Service Technicians Inc. of San Rafael for maintenance of the Civic Center Administration Building, new Hall of Justice and Juvenile Hall school complex. Five bonds ranged to a high of $14,272.

BUS SUBSIDY — Turned down a request by Tamalpais High School District for $20,000 to finance bus transportation for Marin City students attending Tamlapais High School. The county counsel said such payment is illegal under present law, and supervisors feared that such an appropriation would bring similar requests from other high school districts.

CONDOLENCE — Voted a resolution of condolence to the family of the late Ethel H. Tomkins, who organized the Marin County Humane Society in 1907.

AGE LIMIT — Decided to retain the present maximum age limit of 35 for hiring of safety personnel such as sheriff's deputies and firemen. The Marin County Personnel Commission had asked that the age 35 limit be lifted so that older sheriff's matrons could be hired.

CHILD CENTERS — Approved an amendment to the county zoning code to permit child care centers for more than six children in apartment districts by use permit.

HOWARD JOHNSON — Set 9 a.m., June 17 as time for hearing on the Howard Johnson motel, restaurant and service station development in front of Fireside Motel. The Mill Valley Planning Commission objected to the site plan and six-story high rise.

NURSERY SCHOOL — Set June 17 as hearing time for a rifle range planned on the William Souza ranch near the Sonoma County border, and a nursery school planned at 1100 Las Gallinas Avenue in Terra Linda.

WASHINGTON TRIP — Received a report from Chairman John F. McInnis on his May 25 trip to Washington, where he urged top officials in the Bureau of Budget and the Department of Interior to approve $38 million appropriation to purchase Point Reyes Seashore land.

AFDC — Accepted the report of the task force on Aid to Families with Dependent Children, promised to consider all recommendations and referred the report to the Marin Housing Authority, county planning department and county administrator for study and reports.

Board Clamps Muzzle On Noises, Bans Damage To Public Property

Ordinances to prohibit loud and unnecessary noises and to protect public property were approved by unanimous vote of Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday.

The ordinances, which will go into effect in 30 days, were drawn up by County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney at the request of Supervisor Louis H. Baar.

The antinoise ordinance would prohibit loud and unnecessary noises that disturb others such as prolonged honking of horns; loud music that can be heard plainly at 50 yards; and yelling, shouting and singing on public roads between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m. that would disturb others.

The second ordinance, to protect public property, prohibits damaging public property of any kind, erecting structures on public property, or loitering and blocking public access.

Violations are misdemeanors and subject to a maximum of six months in jail, $500 fine or both.

"This was brought about by problems in the county, more particularly in Muir Beach, Stinson Beach and San Geronimo Valley," said Baar.

Supervisor Michael Wornum wanted to know if motorcycle noises and chain saws early in the morning can be controlled, and Chairman John F. McInnis wondered about the "shirtless monsters" in the downtown areas.

County Counsel Maloney explained that motorcycles come under the state vehicle code, but chain saws and youths without shirts would be difficult to control by county ordinance.

Baar reported that nudity had been considered, but this is preempted by the state.

"We considered it because a couple in Bolinas likes to go around in the nude outside their home, and the fella likes to go up the ladder all the time."

Wornum wanted to make sure this was not an emergency ordinance, and that anyone who objects would have 30 days in which to express his views.

$50,000 Asked In Shooting Case

STOCKTON (AP) — A young Negro man filed a $50,000 damage suit yesterday against owners and employees of a Stockton liquor store where he was shot in the chest and his football star brother was killed a year ago.

Clifton Watkins, 24, an employee of the U.S. Public Health Service, filed the suit in Superior Court through his attorney, Lawrence K. Karlton of Sacramento.

Killed in the incident June 2, 1968 was Ted Watkins, 27, star offensive end for the Hamilton, Ont., Tiger Cats.

Clifton was acquitted April 2 of a robbery charge after a six-week trial.

Named in the suit were the owners of Delta Liquor and Sporting Goods Store, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taylor; a clerk, Louis Huerta, 26, who wounded Clifton, and the former manager, Fred E. Larsen, who shot Ted to death in the store after a violent struggle.

Guilty Plea Averts Heroin Charge Trial

As his trial was about to start in Marin Superior Court yesterday, David Forbes Allen, 21, of San Rafael, pleaded guilty to a felony charge of pssessing heroin in July 21, 1968.

Judge Harold J. Haley set sentencing for June 23.

Health Plan Set Instead Of Hike

Teachers in the Bolinas-Stinson School district will have a dental and medical plan paid for by the district but will get no pay increase beyond the automatic annual step increae for the 1969-70 school year.

Cost of the plan, the board estimated, will add approximately 3 cents to the district tax rate, currently $2.14 per $100 assessed valuation. Vote on the proposal was 4-0 in favor with trustee Alyce Thompson absent.

Houseboat Dwellers Face Cleanup Again

County supervisors voted yesterday to go ahead with plans to clean up houseboats and debris from county streets at Waldo Point in Richardson Bay, despite an impassioned plea by landscape architect Piro Caro of the ferryboat San Rafael.

On a motion by Louis H. Baar and a unanimous vote, the supervisors called for bids on the cleanup project, which Public Works Director Donald R. Frost estimated would cost $44,000.

The cleanup area is on Donlan J. Arques' property, and Arques has signed an agreement to allow the county to enter his property. That agreement ends on Aug. 25.

"Tell us what to do and we'll do it," pleaded white-haired Caro, who claims ownership of the old ferryboat San Rafael. "When you vote for this, you are either going to put me in jail or shoot me."

Caro and several other houseboat dwellers expressed indignation over last Thursday's sudden cutoff of electricity from the houseboats in Arques' harbor. They charged that a power cutoff can cause baby food to spoil and some boats to sink because pumps would stop operating.

"I'm not voting to demolish anyone's house," said Supervisor Michael Wornum. He said the county merely wants to clean out the underwater streets to keep as much of the bay in open water as possible, in line with the county's efforts to save the bay. He said the houseboat encroachments on underwater streets "is like a person who builds a house on the highway."

Bids on the cleanup project will be opened on June 23.

63 Cases Of Strep Reported

Sixty-three cases of streptococcus were reported in Marin County last week, Health Officer Carolyn B. Albrecht said yesterday.

Novato had 29 cases and San Rafael 13. Four cases were reported in Mill Valley, three in San Anselmo and Corte Madera and 11 elsewhere.

Fifteen incidents of gonorrhea were reported. Eight were in San Rafael, two in Sausalito and one each in Novato, Fairfax, Larkspur, Mill Valley and Marin City.

Five cases of infectious hepatitis were reported in outlying areas and one each in Mill Valley and San Rafael.

Dangerous Drug Sale Denied By Novatan

David Lee Worley, 21, of Novato has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court ot charges of selling a dangerous drug (desoxephedrine), selling marijuana and possessing marijuana. A preliminary hearing was set for July 17.

Worley is accused by drug agents of being responsible for sales of drugs to young persons in Novato.

Seashore Plans To Be Described

Plans for completion of Point Reyes National Seashore will be discussed tomorrow on the KTIM Sounding Board at 9 a.m.

Scheduled to participate are Edward J. Kurtz, superintendent of the seashore; Douglas J. Maloney, county counsel; Boyd Stewart, an Olema rancher, and Dr. Joel Gustafson, president of the Point Reyes National Seashore Foundation.

Maloney, Stewart and Gustafson will report on their visit to Washington, D.C., on behalf of seashore completion.

The show, during which audience questions may be phoned in, will be rebroadcast Sunday at 10:45 a.m.

Unitarians To Hear Former Dope Addicts

Two reformed narcotics addicts have been invited to speak Friday at 8 p.m. at a public meeting sponsored by the Unitarian Fellowship of Marin, 240 Channing Way, San Rafael.

The pair will discuss their personal experiences as addicts and offer views on Synanon, the self-help organization established for persons seeking to rechannel their energies away from the drug scene.

Supervisors Veto Tarrant Apartments

The design and layout of a 56-unit apartment project in Gallinas Village was turned down late yesterday by unanimous vote of the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

On a motion by William A. Gnoss, the supervisors rejected developer P. J. Tarrant's design and layout for the two-story apartments at North San Pedro Road and La Brea Way.

The Marin County Planning Commission had approved the design, but a delegation of irate residents appealed for a rejection of the plans and won their point.

McINNIS ASKS TIME

Chairman John F. McInnis, in whose area the project is located, asked for the rejection "simply in an effort to give more time to reconsider and to develop to better standards."

Tarrant, represented by his attorney son, Richard T. Tarrant, presented plans with adequate parking, play area and some landscaping to meet all zoning requirements. Werner Von Gundell, chief of current planning, said the project was a "minimal" one that he can accept.

Herbert C. Belben, representing the Gallinas Village Improvement Association, led a group of about 40 residents, who declared they had been saddled with poor county planning for years and would not stand for what they termed "slum development."

Belben charged that the residents in Gallinas Village and Santa Venetia had to pay for a million-dollar bond issue to correct sewer, flood and subsidence problems resulting from poor planning, "and we can't stand any more."

NEIGHBORS' STAND

Other residents complained that fire protection is inadequate, schools are overflowing, and 56 units are too much for less than two acres of land.

McInnis declared that Tarrant was not to blame because the lot was zoned for apartments in 1963, long before Tarrant bought it. He blamed the county for lag in planning on sewer, fill and subdivision requirements in the Santa Venetia area.

The supervisors asked that the plans go back to the planning commission for revision and expressed hope that the density can be reduced.

"I'd like to see fewer units, say 40 or 35 units," said Michael Wornum.

Marin Teener In Resort Arrest

William Marvin Cuneo of 3 Golden Hinde Boulevard, a 19-year-old student, was charged with sale of heroin and released on $3,125 bail. A preliminary hearing in Central Sonoma Municipal Court was set for June 10 at 9:15 a.m.

Thousands of Bay Area youngsters converged on the resort area with Sonoma sheriff's deputied and California highway patrolmen making more than 40 arrests. Most charges involved possession of drugs and failure to disperse.

AN IDEA
Are you reading the Want Ads every day, hoping to spot a good buy? Then consider for a moment another way of doing the same thing which we think may be better.

It is a fact that often OUR best buys never get advertised at all. We have over $13 million in Marin property listed for sale at any one time, and naturally we can't advertise all we have for sale every day. And furthermore, we call OUR buyers BEFORE a property gets to the papers, and if it is what they want, it is sold before it is advertised at all!

So our suggestion is that you tell us what it is that YOU are looking for in Marin. Chances are we have it listed now, or if not, that we will have it listed soon, because we have a continuous flow of new listings from a backlog of FIFTY-NINE YEARS of selling here (relistings) as well as from our complete coverage with SIX MARIN COUNTY OFFICES.

As soon as we spot what you are looking for, WE WILL CALL YOU FIRST, BEFORE WE ADVERTISE THE PROPERTY. Become one of our buyers . . . call

AN IDEA

Are you reading the Want Ads every day, hoping to spot a good buy? Then consider for a moment another way of doing the same thing which we think may be better.

It is a fact that often OUR best buys never get advertised at all. We have over $13 million in Marin property listed for sale at any one time, and naturally we can't advertise all we have for sale every day. And furthermore, we call OUR buyers BEFORE a property gets to the papers, and if it is what they want, it is sold before it is advertised at all!

So our suggestion is that you tell us what it is that YOU are looking for in Marin. Chances are we have it listed now, or if not, that we will have it listed soon, because we have a continuous flow of new listings from a backlog of FIFTY-NINE YEARS of selling here (relistings) as well as from our complete coverage with SIX MARIN COUNTY OFFICES.

As soon as we spot what you are looking for, WE WILL CALL YOU FIRST, BEFORE WE ADVERTISE THE PROPERTY. Become one of our buyers . . . call

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Initiative Launched On School Tax Curb

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The effort to block elimination of school tax override elections today moved from the legislature to the streets.

An initiative petition was filed yesterday with the attorney general's office in a new effort to repeal a law permitting school boards after 1971 to set higher tax rates without voter approval.

Repeal of the law is favored by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Reagan told his news conference yesterday: "That is one of our proposals...this giving the people the right to vote and decide on whether there will be an increase in their property taxes.

"There is no question but that the school financing is tied right into the tax reform. You can't have one without the other," he said.

It appeared doubtful the Legislature would approve a bill repealing the scheduled end to maximum school district tax rates.

A repeal bill by Sen. John G. Schmitz, R-Tustin, passed the Senate but was killed by an Assembly education subcommittee.

Schmitz said he might try to tack his repealer to another education bill and if that failed would re-introduce the bill next year.

The initiative petition was filed by Ronald J. Kennedy of Penryn. He said he was acting as an individual but hoped other persons and organizations would volunteer help to collect signatures.

Antotal of 325,173 signatures would be needed to put the initiative on the June 1970 primary election ballot.

LOBBYIST BAN?

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Two Republican senators warned an upper house committee yesterday a bill to outlaw picketing in the State Capitol also could ban lobbyists from the building.

Sens. George Deukmejian of Long Beach and Gordon Cologne of Indio made the observation as the Judiciary Committee considered a measure primarily aimed at preventing persons from parading through the Capitol carrying signs.

"Some of the third house members (lobbyists) are more disruptive and take up more time than picketers who walk up and down corridors," said Cologne, a committee member.

Deukmejian, another member, said, "Yes, this (bill) could outlaw lobbyists."

TEACHERS GAIN

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—California teachers would be able to count up to three years of out-of-state teaching experience toward retirement benefits under a bill which cleared the Assembly Ways and Means Committee yesterday.

The bill, sent to the lower house floor, won approval despite strong objections by Gov. Ronald Reagan's administration which fears the measure will set a precedent allowing all state employees to obtain retirement credits for employment in other states.

OIL BILL DELAY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A Senate committee has decided to take a longer look at a petroleum industry-opposed measure requiring oil companies to pay for damage caused by ruptured wells.

An industry spokesman told the Governmental Efficiency Committee yesterday that the bill by Assembly Democratic Leader Jess M. Unruh may be unconstitutional.

The committee took the proposal under submission for more study after Unruh amended it to meet certain industry objections.

The Inglewood Democrat removed a provision imposing liability on oil company works such as storage tanks and made the bill apply only to oil extraction and production.

DDT PROBE

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Assembly Public Health Committee yesterday voted to authorize a state investigation of the effects of the bug killer DDT on plants an animals.

The study, proposed in a resolution by Assemblyman Charles Warren, D-Los Angeles, would be carried out by the Public Health Department and the University of California. The resolution was sent to the Ways and Means Committee.

HOUSING PLAN

SACRAMENTO (AP)—A bill designed to increase production of low cost housing by setting up statewide standards for construction and installation of prefabricated units has passed its first Assembly committee test.

The measure by Assemblyman Pete Wilson, R-San Diego, was approved by voice vote last night in the Urban Affairs and Housing Committee and sent to the Ways and Means Committee.

Wilson said factory-built housing offers the possibility of home ownership to families with annual incomes under $7,000 who are priced out of the conventional housing field.

Huge Crowd At School Hearing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Dozens of speakers lauded and condemned a controversial plan to integrate some of San Francisco's elementary schools last night.

About 2,000 persons and the city's board of education heard speakers alternate five-minute talks for and against the report.

The plan was drafted by a citizens committee and has been backed by Supt. Robert Jenkins. It calls for the creation of more closely integrated elementary school complexes in the Richmond District and in the area southeast of Golden Gate Park.

San Rafael High Hit By Holiday Burglars

Two electric typewriters, value not listed, were stolen during the Memorial Day weekend from the main office of San Rafael High School, school officials have reported to police.

Other parts of the school also were entered by the thieves, but nothing was apparently missing. The school was entered via a broken window.

Novato Trims Only $11,250 From Budget In Long Session

After reviewing eight sections of the $1,761,680 budget for fiscal 1967-70, the Novato City Council last night succeeded in cutting only $11,250.

This was for the city's animal control officer, who was left in the budget but will not be needed under the new countywide animal control ordinance. Councilman M. E. (Babe) Silva said that if the county ordinance does not work, the city may have to put part of that back into the budget.

The budgets which were left as recommended by City Mgr. Charles A. Brown were city council, $10,700, up $1,450 from the current $9,250; administration, $40,400, up $395 from $40,005; finance, $39,385, down $5,365 from $44,750; city attorney, $8,500, down $3,500 from $12,050 because the city has no major legal cases pending; planning, $71,855, up $19,730 from $52,125, which calls for the addition of two planners and a secretary not formally approved by the council; nondepartmental, $132,660, down $2,730 from $135,390; memberships and community promotion, $14,680, down $11,250, and the cost of the animal control officer and elections, $2,500, up $250 from $2,250.

At the request of the planning commission, the council voted to retain Paule Schwabacker as recording secretary to the commission, a position which she has held since the commission was formed. Her position had been eliminated in the city manager's budget as the new secretary for the planning department.

The council adjourned to 8 p.m. today in the Novato Community House to continue its budget study.

Police Post Applications Now At 107

The Novato Police Department has more applications than in five years, and this is due to the pay, prestige of the department and the educational opportunities offered in the department, City Mgr. Charles A. Brown told the Novato City Council last night.

The subject came up when Brown proposed hiring a psychiatrist on a part-time basis to give police officers counseling, as does the City of Sausalito.

Mayor Harley A. McAskill said he understood that Novato now had more applications for police positions than ever before. (The department is three men below authorized strength.)

Police Chief Robert Di Grazia today confirmed that Novato has 107 applicants at the present time. Of these, 17 will not be required to take the written examination because they are working for other police departments. The other 90 will be given the written examination Friday in Los Angeles, Sacramento and Novato. The oral examinations for those that pass the written examination will be given June 19 and 20, DiGrazia said.

Bus Commuters Face Greyhound Mechanic Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Mechanics at Greyhound Bus Lines have authorized a strike which could strand 23,000 Bay Area commuters and eventually affect the firm's operations in 11 Western states.

More than 4,000 commuters in Marin would be affected.

Greyhound last week issued notices of a possible layoff of about 500 drivers who work in Greyhound's Division 5—stretching from Novato to Palo Alto. The notices were required under the drivers' contract.

More than 300 members of the International Association of Machinists Lodge 1350 gave strike authorization to their negotiating committee yesterday, after rejecting a company offer of a three-year contract providing for wage increases totaling 67 cents hourly and other improvements.

No date was set for the threatened walkout. Despite the stalemate, federal mediator Roger Randall said both sides have indicated a willingness to resume bargaining at any time.

BSU Leader's Victory Gets Panel Approval

The Sonoma State College Elections Commission yesterday voted to validate last week's election that saw James Gilette of Cotati, leader of the Black Students Union, chosen student body president.

Russell Grindle, elections commissioner, said five students appeared before the commission and charged that high school students had stuffed ballot boxes and that candidate Gilette was politicking at voting areas.

Grindle said the commission, however, found no evidence to substantiate the charges. A high school student, who was mentioned by name in a ballot box stuffing charge, submitted an affadavit denying the charge, Grindle said.

He said the students can continue their appeals when the commission decision is weighed by the Student Senate directors tomorrow at noon. He said if the dissatisfied students wished to carry the fight even further, they could appeal to the student-faculty judicial board or directly to the administration.

Gilette defeated Jon Owen of Novato by a margin of 673 to 650. Owen, a junior political science major, had previously won both the general and runoff elections, which were overturned when procedures were questioned.

Winner Gilette was elected chairman of the BSU in April and drew up a new statement of purposes for the organization that was more militant in nature than in the past. Quoting occasionally from Ho Chi Minh, Gilette said the group will work for freedom, justice and equality for black people "by any means necessary."

During the San Francisco State College disorders last winter, Gilette led a large group of Sonoma State students to San Francisco to participate in the demonstrations. He also assisted in organizing Sonoma State's ineffectual strike in support of San Francisco students.

Goldstein Proposes New Category In Drug Crimes

A new classification of crimes, classified as self-destructive crimes, is proposed by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein, Jr. of Marin Municipal Court.

Such crimes, suggests Judge Goldstein, would be classified as misdemeanors only. They would include drug use and public drunkenness — but not the sale of narcotics, which would remain punishable as a felony.

The Marin judge's proposal is contained in "Judicial Dilemmas in Enforcement of Drug Abuse Laws," in Cal Law, published by Bancroft-Whitney Co., San Francisco law book publishers.

The article deals at length with the difficulties of finding proper punishment in marijuana cases. Judge Goldstein takes the position that, since marijuana is nonaddictive, its use is "conscious volitional disregard of law" and should be punished as such. But since the user is injuring only himself, Goldstein holds, the punishment should not be so severe as for a felony.

Also, he contends, since most marijuana arrests are of young users, "the very group society has set out to protect through enactment of drug laws (but who nonetheless have been victimized by the purveyors of illicit drugs) have become the primary targets of the enforcement scheme."

Treasurer Picked In Drake Runoff

The two girls were the top finishers in a three-way race. The regular election was May 29.

In two other runoffs Kate McKee outpolled Marianne Soldavini for senior class secretary and Millie Mensing downed Sue Conine for sophomore class vice president.

The school administration withheld vote counts, which it said might embarrass defeated candidates.

Apartment Hit; TV Set Dropped

Burglars took a portable radio, camera, clothes, jewelry and a tape recorder from the apartment of James Talley, 255 East Blithedale Avenue between 8 a.m. and 2 p.m. yesterday, police reported.

Police said the burglars also took a portable television set but dropped it in the carport on their way out.

Newsman's Wife Killed In Wreck

MENDOCINO (UPI) — Mrs. Nina de Leom Dusheck, 42, wife of a San Francisco newsman, George Dusheck, was killed yesterday when theilr small foreign-made bus collided with a logging truck on Coastal Highway 1.

Dusheck, a regular commentator on television station KQED's "Newsroom" program, suffered minor injuries. Truck driver Larry Carpenter of Navarro was treated at a hospital and released.

The California Highway Patrol said Dusheck's vehicle apparently pulled onto the highway in front of the truck and was cut in half by the impact, which scattered debris for more than 100 feet. The truck went over a 90-foot embankment.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Trichinosis Is Acquired By Failing To Cook Pork Well

VAN DELLEN

We know a great deal about human trichinosis, a disease acquired by eating partially cooked or raw pork products. These edibles may contain the larvae of tiny roundworms that are activated on reaching the intestines. Here the parasites become adults, mate, and the offspring burrow through the wall of the intestine and invade the bloodstream. Their next stop is muscles tissue where they are covered with a protective membrane and exist as larvae. The life cycle stops here because man is not cannibalistic. Pigs get the disorder when they eat raw or uncooked infested garbage, dead rats, or wild fowl. The difference is that the pig finally goes to market where he ends up as a nice thick chop. Humans might escape the disease if they cooked pork products thoroughly before eating them. But many people continue to eat raw hamburger and sausage containing infested pork. Bear meat was recently implicated in Alaska.

Inspecting pork in the market is of little value because the larvae are too small to be seen. On the other hand, the critters are destroyed when the pork is frozen for 30 days at -5 to -20 degrees Fahrenheit or at -31 degrees Fahrenheit for one to two hours, depending upon the thickness of the meat.

This adds to the expense and some housewives prefer fresh meat to that which is frozen and thawed. Wursts, sausages, and frankfurters are usually heat processed.

BUT AGAIN, not all packing plants are inspected by federal agents. Hence the housewife must rely on the thorough cooking of pork. No longer can raw garbage be fed to pigs unless it is heated under agitation to 212 degrees Fahrenheit for one-half hour. This also takes government red tape. And the farmer must not throw dead rats or other animals into the hog pen.

Thiabendazole kills the trichinae worms in humans and swine but this is another story. Thankfully there have been no deaths from the disease and its prevalence in humans has decreased from 16 to 5 per cent in the past 20 years.

HARD SLEEPING

M. S. writes: Is it beneficial or harmful to sleep on a board, with only a blanket for a mattress?

REPLY

Sleeping on this type of bed does no harm; people slept on the ground for thousands of years before beds were invented. In fact, the original meaning of the word mattress was a mat thrown on the floor to make a bed. Many with back trouble find a hard mattress more satisfactory than a soft one.

AIRLESS HEADACHE

H. A. writes: I have been told that my headache is referred to as vacuum-type head pain. Please tell me what this means.

REPLY

It doesn't mean empty headed but refers to the vacuum that develops in the frontal sinuses when these structures are blocked and the air within is absorbed. As a result, pain occurs over the eyebrows.

PROVING PATERNITY

A reader writes: To roll the clouds away in doubtful paternity, can the family doctor do the blood test?

REPLY

These tests should be done in special laboratories where it is possible to identify O-A-B, M-N, and Rh-Hr factors. The evidence should be used only to exclude the man as being the father.

Tax Structure On Suburban Building Is Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Present tax rules encourage building in the suburbs and the city's edge may be tomorrow's slum, House subcommittee members have been told.

In testimony yesterday, real estate appraiser McCloud B. Hodges Jr., criticized the practice of taking the maximum depreciation on a building, then selling it to another operator who repeats the process.

"A companion of short term ownership is bad property management and maintenance," Hodges said. "We are merely adding more instant slums in the periphery areas.

"The real victims of greed exercised in connection with land are not the first, second, or third occupants of inexpensively built and poorly located apartments.

"They are the lowest income families who will be compelled to live in these concrete slab rooms in the last stages of their economic existence," Hodges said.

A Blood Donor Day Is Planned

Blood donor day will be reactivated in Marinwood this month, president Jerry C. Leith of the Marinwood Association announced last night at a meeting of association directors.

A bloodmobile from the Irwin Memorial Blood Bank will be at Lucas Valley Community Church at Las Gallinas Avenue and Lucas Valley Road on Saturday, June 14, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The donor day is sponsored by the association, with help from Boy Scouts, who will distribute literature, and art students from Mary Silveira and Lucas Valley schools, who will provide posters.

Leith said that a committee, headed by Robert Wales, was appointed to see if apartment residents are paying their share of school taxes as compared with homeowners.

Marin Trio Still Facing Giant Marijuana Tax Liens

Three Marin residents still face $1.5 million in property liens imposed by the Internal Revenue Service despite a U.S. Supreme Court ruling on self-incrimination in the marijuana case of psychedelics advoate Timothy Leary.

An IRS spokesman said yesterday the San Francisco division has been levying liens on bank accounts and other properties of the three ever since they were arrested in marijuana raids last October and in March 1968.

The IRS slapped a $412,850 lien on the property of Frank N. Werber after narcotics agents allegedly seized 250 pounds of marijuana at his Richardson Bay home last Oct. 15.

Two liens of $544,017 were levied against Mr. and Mrs. Darren Erlin following their arrest in a raid March 23, 1968, at their Fairfax home. Agents allegedly seized 300 pounds of marijuana at the house.

The Supreme Court May 19 overturned Leary's conviction of possession and importing marijuana on grounds federal laws requiring payment of a $100-an-ounce tax on marijuana were self-incriminatory.

The Erlins and Werber also were accused of failure to pay the tax.

However, the spokesman said, local authorities are not basing their cases against the three solely on the alleged failure of pay the tax.

He said local cases have never been prosecuted on the tax matter only.

But he acknowledged that division IRS offices have been advised by Washington that future proesecution of alleged marijuana offenders could be impaired under the Leary ruling if law enforcement authorities are allowed to use tax payment lists to secure arrests.

Mrs. Erlin pleaded guilty to possession charges and was fined $500. She filed for an annulment from her husband, whose case is pending.

Mills Co-Ed Is Offered Planned Parenthood Post

OAKLAND (AP) — A pretty co-ed who renounced motherhood in her commencement valedictory says she has received an appropriate job offer — from the Planned Parenthood Association.

Stephanie Mill of Phoenix, Ariz., 20-year-old valedictorian of Mills College, shocked a commencement audience by declaring that in view of mankind's present condition "the most humane thing for me to do is to have no children at all."

That was Sunday and since then it's been nothing but television, radio and newspaper interviews, plus a flood of requests for copies of her speech.

Will she take the job with Planned Parenthood?

She is not yet certain of her career plans.

Medical Bag With Narcotics Stolen

A physician's bag containing narcotics was stolen Monday night, Petaluma police reported yesterday.

Dr. Raymong Jewell said his medical bag was taken from his locked car while parked in front of Hillcrest Hospital. The bag contained mostly antibiotics, he said, but also a supply of morphine and codeine.

Summer School Plans Announced

Registration is now open for the Pacific Day School summer school which will run for five weeks beginning June 23.

The program, open to children ages 4 to 10, will feature a special study project on the Miwok Indians of Marin County.

The study course will include field trips, clam shell necklace and making and reed basket weaving, teepee building, fishing and the preparation and tasting of Indian dishes. Making glue from soap root, mush from acorns and mud clothes and excavation of a shell mound.

The school is located at 40 Shell Road, Mill Valley.

Jail Sentence In Money Case

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court on Monday sentenced Warren Dahl, 39, of Corte Madera to 30 days in jail and ordered him to make restitution to his employer from whom he had stolen about $1,500.

Dahl had earlier pleaded guilty to taking the money from Goodman Building Supply Co. in Mill Valley and spending it gambling in Nevada.

The judge also placed Dahl on three years probaton.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Initiative Launched On School Tax Curb

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The effort to block elimination of school tax override elections today moved from the legislature to the streets.

An initiative petition was filed yesterday with the attorney general's office in a new effort to repeal a law permitting school boards after 1971 to set higher tax rates without voter approval.

Repeal of the law is favored by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Reagan told his news conference yesterday: "That is one of our proposals...this giving the people the right to vote and decide on whether there will be an increase in their property taxes.

"There is no question but that the school financing is tied right into the tax reform. You can't have one without the other," he said.

It appeared doubtful the Legislature would approve a bill repealing the scheduled end to maximum school district tax rates.

A repeal bill by Sen. John G. Schmitz, R-Tustin, passed the Senate but was killed by an Assembly education subcommittee.

Schmitz said he might try to tack his repealer to another education bill and if that failed would re-introduce the bill next year.

The initiative petition was filed by Ronald J. Kennedy of Penryn. He said he was acting as an individual but hoped other persons and organizations would volunteer help to collect signatures.

LOBBYIST BAN?

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Two Republican senators warned an upper house committee yesterday a bill to outlaw picketing in the State Capitol also could ban lobbyists from the building.

Sens. George Deukmejian of Long Beach and Gordon Cologne of Indio made the observation as the Judiciary Committee considered a measure primarily aimed at preventing persons from parading through the Capitol carrying signs.

"Some of the third house members (lobbyists) are more disruptive and take up more time than picketers who walk up and down corridors," said Cologne, a committee member.

Deukmejian, another member, said, "Yes, this (bill) could outlaw lobbyists."

TEACHERS GAIN

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—California teachers would be able to count up to three years of out-of-state teaching experience toward retirement benefits under a bill which cleared the Assembly Ways and Means Committee yesterday.

The bill, sent to the lower house floor, won approval despite strong objections by Gov. Ronald Reagan's administration which fears the measure will set a precedent allowing all state employees to obtain retirement credits for employment in other states.

OIL BILL DELAY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A Senate committee has decided to take a longer look at a petroleum industry-opposed measure requiring oil companies to pay for damage caused by ruptured wells.

An industry spokesman told the Governmental Efficiency Committee yesterday that the bill by Assembly Democratic Leader Jess M. Unruh may be unconstitutional.

The committee took the proposal under submission for more study after Unruh amended it to meet certain industry objections.

The Inglewood Democrat removed a provision imposing liability on oil company works such as storage tanks and made the bill apply only to oil extraction and production.

DDT PROBE

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Assembly Public Health Committee yesterday voted to authorize a state investigation of the effects of the bug killer DDT on plants an animals.

The study, proposed in a resolution by Assemblyman Charles Warren, D-Los Angeles, would be carried out by the Public Health Department and the University of California. The resolution was sent to the Ways and Means Committee.

HOUSING PLAN

SACRAMENTO (AP)—A bill designed to increase production of low cost housing by setting up statewide standards for construction and installation of prefabricated units has passed its first Assembly committee test.

The measure by Assemblyman Pete Wilson, R-San Diego, was approved by voice vote last night in the Urban Affairs and Housing Committee and sent to the Ways and Means Committee.

Wilson said factory-built housing offers the possibility of home ownership to families with annual incomes under $7,000 who are priced out of the conventional housing field.

Huge Crowd At School Hearing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Dozens of speakers lauded and condemned a controversial plan to integrate some of San Francisco's elementary schools last night.

About 2,000 persons and the city's board of education heard speakers alternate five-minute talks for and against the report.

The plan was drafted by a citizens committee and has been backed by Supt. Robert Jenkins. It calls for the creation of more closely integrated elementary school complexes in the Richmond District and in the area southeast of Golden Gate Park.

San Rafael High Hit By Holiday Burglars

Two electric typewriters, value not listed, were stolen during the Memorial Day weekend from the main office of San Rafael High School, school officials have reported to police.

Other parts of the school also were entered by the thieves, but nothing was apparently missing. The school was entered via a broken window.

Novato Trims Only $11,250 From Budget In Long Session

After reviewing eight sections of the $1,761,680 budget for fiscal 1967-70, the Novato City Council last night succeeded in cutting only $11,250.

This was for the city's animal control officer, who was left in the budget but will not be needed under the new countywide animal control ordinance. Councilman M. E. (Babe) Silva said that if the county ordinance does not work, the city may have to put part of that back into the budget.

The budgets which were left as recommended by City Mgr. Charles A. Brown were city council, $10,700, up $1,450 from the current $9,250; administration, $40,400, up $395 from $40,005; finance, $39,385, down $5,365 from $44,750; city attorney, $8,500, down $3,500 from $12,050 because the city has no major legal cases pending; planning, $71,855, up $19,730 from $52,125, which calls for the addition of two planners and a secretary not formally approved by the council; nondepartmental, $132,660, down $2,730 from $135,390; memberships and community promotion, $14,680, down $11,250, and the cost of the animal control officer and elections, $2,500, up $250 from $2,250.

At the request of the planning commission, the council voted to retain Paule Schwabacker as recording secretary to the commission, a position which she has held since the commission was formed. Her position had been eliminated in the city manager's budget as the new secretary for the planning department.

The council adjourned to 8 p.m. today in the Novato Community House to continue its budget study.

Police Post Applications Now At 107

The Novato Police Department has more applications than in five years, and this is due to the pay, prestige of the department and the educational opportunities offered in the department, City Mgr. Charles A. Brown told the Novato City Council last night.

The subject came up when Brown proposed hiring a psychiatrist on a part-time basis to give police officers counseling, as does the City of Sausalito.

Mayor Harley A. McAskill said he understood that Novato now had more applications for police positions than ever before. (The department is three men below authorized strength.)

Police Chief Robert Di Grazia today confirmed that Novato has 107 applicants at the present time. Of these, 17 will not be required to take the written examination because they are working for other police departments. The other 90 will be given the written examination Friday in Los Angeles, Sacramento and Novato. The oral examinations for those that pass the written examination will be given June 19 and 20, DiGrazia said.

Bus Commuters Face Greyhound Mechanic Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Mechanics at Greyhound Bus Lines have authorized a strike which could strand 23,000 Bay Area commuters and eventually affect the firm's operations in 11 Western states.

More than 4,000 commuters in Marin would be affected.

Greyhound last week issued notices of a possible layoff of about 500 drivers who work in Greyhound's Division 5—stretching from Novato to Palo Alto. The notices were required under the drivers' contract.

More than 300 members of the International Association of Machinists Lodge 1350 gave strike authorization to their negotiating committee yesterday, after rejecting a company offer of a three-year contract providing for wage increases totaling 67 cents hourly and other improvements.

No date was set for the threatened walkout. Despite the stalemate, federal mediator Roger Randall said both sides have indicated a willingness to resume bargaining at any time.

BSU Leader's Victory Gets Panel Approval

The Sonoma State College Elections Commission yesterday voted to validate last week's election that saw James Gilette of Cotati, leader of the Black Students Union, chosen student body president.

Russell Grindle, elections commissioner, said five students appeared before the commission and charged that high school students had stuffed ballot boxes and that candidate Gilette was politicking at voting areas.

Grindle said the commission, however, found no evidence to substantiate the charges. A high school student, who was mentioned by name in a ballot box stuffing charge, submitted an affadavit denying the charge, Grindle said.

He said the students can continue their appeals when the commission decision is weighed by the Student Senate directors tomorrow at noon. He said if the dissatisfied students wished to carry the fight even further, they could appeal to the student-faculty judicial board or directly to the administration.

Gilette defeated Jon Owen of Novato by a margin of 673 to 650. Owen, a junior political science major, had previously won both the general and runoff elections, which were overturned when procedures were questioned.

Winner Gilette was elected chairman of the BSU in April and drew up a new statement of purposes for the organization that was more militant in nature than in the past. Quoting occasionally from Ho Chi Minh, Gilette said the group will work for freedom, justice and equality for black people "by any means necessary."

During the San Francisco State College disorders last winter, Gilette led a large group of Sonoma State students to San Francisco to participate in the demonstrations. He also assisted in organizing Sonoma State's ineffectual strike in support of San Francisco students.

Goldstein Proposes New Category In Drug Crimes

A new classification of crimes, classified as self-destructive crimes, is proposed by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein, Jr. of Marin Municipal Court.

Such crimes, suggests Judge Goldstein, would be classified as misdemeanors only. They would include drug use and public drunkenness — but not the sale of narcotics, which would remain punishable as a felony.

The Marin judge's proposal is contained in "Judicial Dilemmas in Enforcement of Drug Abuse Laws," in Cal Law, published by Bancroft-Whitney Co., San Francisco law book publishers.

The article deals at length with the difficulties of finding proper punishment in marijuana cases. Judge Goldstein takes the position that, since marijuana is nonaddictive, its use is "conscious volitional disregard of law" and should be punished as such. But since the user is injuring only himself, Goldstein holds, the punishment should not be so severe as for a felony.

Also, he contends, since most marijuana arrests are of young users, "the very group society has set out to protect through enactment of drug laws (but who nonetheless have been victimized by the purveyors of illicit drugs) have become the primary targets of the enforcement scheme."

Treasurer Picked In Drake Runoff

The two girls were the top finishers in a three-way race. The regular election was May 29.

In two other runoffs Kate McKee outpolled Marianne Soldavini for senior class secretary and Millie Mensing downed Sue Conine for sophomore class vice president.

The school administration withheld vote counts, which it said might embarrass defeated candidates.

Apartment Hit; TV Set Dropped

Burglars took a portable radio, camera, clothes, jewelry and a tape recorder from the apartment of James Talley, 255 East Blithedale Avenue between 8 a.m. and 2 p.m. yesterday, police reported.

Police said the burglars also took a portable television set but dropped it in the carport on their way out.

Newsman's Wife Killed In Wreck

MENDOCINO (UPI) — Mrs. Nina de Leom Dusheck, 42, wife of a San Francisco newsman, George Dusheck, was killed yesterday when theilr small foreign-made bus collided with a logging truck on Coastal Highway 1.

Dusheck, a regular commentator on television station KQED's "Newsroom" program, suffered minor injuries. Truck driver Larry Carpenter of Navarro was treated at a hospital and released.

The California Highway Patrol said Dusheck's vehicle apparently pulled onto the highway in front of the truck and was cut in half by the impact, which scattered debris for more than 100 feet. The truck went over a 90-foot embankment.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Trichinosis Is Acquired By Failing To Cook Pork Well

VAN DELLEN

We know a great deal about human trichinosis, a disease acquired by eating partially cooked or raw pork products. These edibles may contain the larvae of tiny roundworms that are activated on reaching the intestines. Here the parasites become adults, mate, and the offspring burrow through the wall of the intestine and invade the bloodstream. Their next stop is muscles tissue where they are covered with a protective membrane and exist as larvae. The life cycle stops here because man is not cannibalistic. Pigs get the disorder when they eat raw or uncooked infested garbage, dead rats, or wild fowl. The difference is that the pig finally goes to market where he ends up as a nice thick chop. Humans might escape the disease if they cooked pork products thoroughly before eating them. But many people continue to eat raw hamburger and sausage containing infested pork. Bear meat was recently implicated in Alaska.

Inspecting pork in the market is of little value because the larvae are too small to be seen. On the other hand, the critters are destroyed when the pork is frozen for 30 days at -5 to -20 degrees Fahrenheit or at -31 degrees Fahrenheit for one to two hours, depending upon the thickness of the meat.

This adds to the expense and some housewives prefer fresh meat to that which is frozen and thawed. Wursts, sausages, and frankfurters are usually heat processed.

BUT AGAIN, not all packing plants are inspected by federal agents. Hence the housewife must rely on the thorough cooking of pork. No longer can raw garbage be fed to pigs unless it is heated under agitation to 212 degrees Fahrenheit for one-half hour. This also takes government red tape. And the farmer must not throw dead rats or other animals into the hog pen.

Thiabendazole kills the trichinae worms in humans and swine but this is another story. Thankfully there have been no deaths from the disease and its prevalence in humans has decreased from 16 to 5 per cent in the past 20 years.

HARD SLEEPING

M. S. writes: Is it beneficial or harmful to sleep on a board, with only a blanket for a mattress?

REPLY

Sleeping on this type of bed does no harm; people slept on the ground for thousands of years before beds were invented. In fact, the original meaning of the word mattress was a mat thrown on the floor to make a bed. Many with back trouble find a hard mattress more satisfactory than a soft one.

AIRLESS HEADACHE

H. A. writes: I have been told that my headache is referred to as vacuum-type head pain. Please tell me what this means.

REPLY

It doesn't mean empty headed but refers to the vacuum that develops in the frontal sinuses when these structures are blocked and the air within is absorbed. As a result, pain occurs over the eyebrows.

PROVING PATERNITY

A reader writes: To roll the clouds away in doubtful paternity, can the family doctor do the blood test?

REPLY

These tests should be done in special laboratories where it is possible to identify O-A-B, M-N, and Rh-Hr factors. The evidence should be used only to exclude the man as being the father.

Tax Structure On Suburban Building Is Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Present tax rules encourage building in the suburbs and the city's edge may be tomorrow's slum, House subcommittee members have been told.

In testimony yesterday, real estate appraiser McCloud B. Hodges Jr., criticized the practice of taking the maximum depreciation on a building, then selling it to another operator who repeats the process.

"A companion of short term ownership is bad property management and maintenance," Hodges said. "We are merely adding more instant slums in the periphery areas.

"The real victims of greed exercised in connection with land are not the first, second, or third occupants of inexpensively built and poorly located apartments.

"They are the lowest income families who will be compelled to live in these concrete slab rooms in the last stages of their economic existence," Hodges said.

A Blood Donor Day Is Planned

Blood donor day will be reactivated in Marinwood this month, president Jerry C. Leith of the Marinwood Association announced last night at a meeting of association directors.

A bloodmobile from the Irwin Memorial Blood Bank will be at Lucas Valley Community Church at Las Gallinas Avenue and Lucas Valley Road on Saturday, June 14, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The donor day is sponsored by the association, with help from Boy Scouts, who will distribute literature, and art students from Mary Silveira and Lucas Valley schools, who will provide posters.

Leith said that a committee, headed by Robert Wales, was appointed to see if apartment residents are paying their share of school taxes as compared with homeowners.

Auto Racing Can Be Fun For Commuters To See

Those of you who commute along 101 each day should thoroughly enjoy this weekend's NASCAR races at Sears Point International Raceway.

I will, because I commute a bit daily and find myself spitting bullets, growing ulcers, losing hair and cussing at some of the frustrating conditions I inevitably come upon. And, being the pilot and chief navigator of a Volkswagen, I blame all the traffic mess on the big, noisy Detroit iron which surrounds me coming and going. I'm not saying those big bullies make me feel insignificant, but I'm the only commuter with a security blanket, pacifier and, hanging from the rear-view mirror, a bronzed baby shoe. Mine.

Well, what I'm getting around to is that the races this weekend will feature those same type cars that bully me around on the highways—late model Fords, Chevvies, Plymouths, Pontiacs, Oldsmobiles, Dodges, etc. and it will be a delight to sit high in the safety of the Sears Point natural amphitheater to watch Michigan marauders maul THEMSELVES around for a change without a chance of taking a shot at me, my VW or my fellow small, economy car drivers.

Deserve Special Hillside

I think Sears Point officials should reserve a special spectating hillside for us drivers of small cars so that we can organize a rooting section against the Detroit iron. Give me a beanie, a pom pon, a megaphone, a St. Christopher medal and a canteen of STP and I'll be the head jeer leader.

"Hit 'em again, hit 'em again, harder, HARDER!"

"Two, four, six, crash, give 'em another whiplash."

"A tisket, a tasket, we hope you blow your gasket."

Our motto will be: "Don't tread on me, Buster; I'm already tired."

NASCAR races usually are merry-go-rounders on an oval track, making it difficult to get lost, so it will be fascinating to watch these lead-footed rounders negotiate the hairy, 12-turn asphalt ribbon at Sears without a road map. The course at one point reaches an elevation of 175 feet. I hope they get the bends. Or at least vapor lock.

Nyaah, nyaah, the big bullies, I hope when they pull in for pit stop for some Wiki-Wiki Dollars they find the biffy locked and three VWs, three Datsuns, two Toyotas and four Volvos ahead of them at the pumps.

And if that won't do it. then I dearly hope the bluebirds of happiness will dirty their windshields. So there!

Top Stockers In Lineup

Some of the top stockers on the West Coast will be in the lineup for the weekend program, first NASCAR event at the new Sonoma County raceway, opening with qualifying on Saturday and capped by the Weibel-150 on Sunday.

As the 150-miler will award points toward season championship competition, all the leaders in the Pacific Coast Division of NASCAR will be on hand, led by Ray Elder of Caruthers, Jack McCoy of Modesto, 1968 champion Scotty Cain of Fresno and Marty Kinerk of Southgate, winner of a recent Sacramento 100-miler.

They may be good, but I'll take the 101 commute crowd any day.

Palmer Makes The Grade

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Arnie's Army will march again in the U.S. Open golf championship this year, but the followers of Tommy Bolt, Bob Goalby and Ed Furgol will have to break ranks and parade elsewhere.

Arnold Palmer, whose army of followers has attracted attention for over a decade, yesterday earned the right to compete in the 1969 Open at Houston, June 12-15, by turning in the low medal score at the McKeesport, Pa., qualifying site.

Palmer, forced to qualify for the Open for only the second time in his illustrious career, had rounds of 70 and 68 and was one of eight qualifiers from a field of52 at McKeesport.

However, Bolt, Goalby and Furgol failed to qualify at their respective sites and thus will deprive the Open of three of professional golf's biggest names.

Dutch Harrison, who finished second once in the Open, and Charlie Sifford were two other "name" pros who failed to make the grade.

Among the current crop of tour regulars who did qualify Tuesday were Bob Rosburg, Mike Souchak, George Knudson, Al Balding Lee Elder and Deane Beman.

Marin Golfer Fails In Bid For U.S. Open

Gary Nolen, assistant pro at Marin Country Club golf course in Novato, failed in his bid yesterday to make the field for, the U.S. Open June 12-15 at Houston.

Nolen, who lives at Bel Marin Keys, shot 18-hole rounds of 82 and 78 for a 160 at Napa's Silverado South Course, finishing far down the list of aspirants in the regional playoffs for three open berths in the big golf tournament.

Scotty McBeath, associate pro at Cambrian Golf Club in San Jose led qualifiers at Silverado with a five-under par 139. Also qualifying for the Open were amateur Terry Small, a Presidio soldier, 143, and Francisco Lopez, pro at Skywest G. C., Hayward, 144.

Texas Junior College Wins Baseball Title

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (UPI)—Pitcher Doug Ault and his teammates from Panola Junior College of Carthage, Tex., scored six times in the fourth inning yesterday for an 8-6 win over Mesa, Ariz., for the National Junior College baseball championship.

S.F. Gives Canadians The Willies

MONTREAL (UPI) — This Canadian city's baseball populace got its first look at San Francisco's Willies—Mays and McCovey, naturally and it came away impressed.

With a crowd of 19,399 looking on, McCovey cracked his 17th home run of the season, tops in the National League, and Mays added his sixth to power the Giants to a 9-3 victory over the fledgling Expos, whose defeat—their 17th straight—equalled the major league record for an expansion team.

In addition to his homer, McCovey also chased in two runs with a bases-loaded double to highlight the Giants' five-run third inning. After San Francisco refilled the bases, Dave Marshall smacked a two-run single and Jack Hiatt accounted for the final run of the inning with a hit.

Don Mason led off the fourth inning with a single and then Mays and McCovey hit back-to-back homers which boosted the Giants' lead to 8-2. Their final run came in the sixth as Bobby Bonds was hit by a pitch, Mays singled and McCovey hit into a double play.

All told, Mays scored three times and batted in a pair of runs and McCovey scored twice and drove in three markers.

The two teams conclude their rain-shortened series tonight with a pair of Mikes opposing each other. For the Giants, it will be McCormick (2-2) and for the Expos, Wegener (1-2).

After tonight's game, San Francisco returns home Friday to host the Philadelphia Phillies in the start of a 13-game homestand.

MAY LOCK DOORS

NFL Meetings Again Bog Down

NEW YORK (UPI)—If past performances are any indication, National Football League club owners will wait until they are again locked behind closed doors before agreeing on divisional realignment.

The 13 NFL owners have another six months before they will be forced to reach a decision, since schedules for the 1970 season will not be drawn up until December and the realignment, which is part of the National and American League merger, does not go into effect until next year. Another attempt to reach some sort of agreement failed yesterday.

NON-STOP

It took a series of continuous, all-night sessions last month before NFL owners could agree on which three teams would shift to the AFL to balance both leagues with 13 teams for the start of the merger agreement. And non-stop meetings might be needed again before the owners can agree on internal realignment.

The biggest hangup confronting the owners, according to Commissionar Pete Rozelle, is the provision calling for a unanimous vote on any realignment plan. Rozelle revealed yesterday that the owners had reduced from 16 to nine the number of plans still under consideration, but admitted "at least one or two owners' objected to each plan. In each case, different owners voiced their disapproval.

TEAMS SHIFT

Following the shifting of Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Baltimore from the NFL to the AFL the American League quickly agreed on its three division makeup for the start of the 1970 season. Cleveland and Pittsburgh joined with Cincinnati and Houston to form one division while Baltimore, New York, Boston, Buffalo and Miami formed a second grouping. Denver, San Diego, Oakland and Kansas City will comprise the third division.

The desire to preserve traditional rivalries and play "money-making" opponents motivates each NFL owner and each, naturally, has his own ideas about what's best for his team and the league.

Speedy Maury Quietly Quits

Fast as a whippet, Wills flashed past baseball immortal Ty Cobb to establish the major league record of 104 stolen bases while playing for the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1962. Cobb's record was 96 set in 1915.

Wills, now with the Montreal Expos, retired just before his team took the field against the San Francisco Giants. The announcement was made by Jim Fanning, general manager of the Expos.

"Tonight, Maury Wills asked for and submitted a letter requesting voluntary retired status," said Fanning. "We had a nice visit and there is no doubt in my mind that he is sincere. We hate to lose him, but we are respecting his wishes."

Wills had no immediate comment, but called a press conference for today.

Full Racing Program Planned For Andretti

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A full program of American racing confronts Mario Andretti in his quest of the national driving championship, and will preclude more than an occasional jaunt to Europe.

Andretti, the Indianapolis 500 miles auto race champion, and car owner Andy Granatelli outlined their plans for the coming year at a West Coast victory celebration yesterday.

"We plan to run in every single championship race in order to make Mario the national U.S. Auto Club driving champion," Granatelli told a news conference.

Andretti agreed with those plans, and said he will drive the same Hawk-Ford this weekend at Milwaukee that he piloted to victory at Indianapolis.

The Memorial Day win was the first at the Indianapolis Speedway for Both Andretti and Granatelli and they toasted each other in a spaghetti dinner at an Italian restaurant while conducting the news conference.

"It wasn't easy losing for 22 years," Granatelli said as he recalled the many years he had tried to win the most famous auto race in the nation. "But it was worth waiting 23 years for Mario."

And the owner praised the young driver for his courage in coming back two days after crashing a Lotus-Ford to qualify in the backup car, and then using it to score his clearcut victory.

Joe Frazier Lashes Out At Cassius

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Frazier, who holds a piece of the world heavyweight boxing title, blasted Cassius Clay today as a "big mouth phony" and a "disgrace" and said "I think the public is fed up with all his fussin' and fumin'."

The unbeaten, 25-year-old Philadelphian made the comments in a telephone interview with the Associated Press from his training camp at the Concord Hotel at Kiamesha Lake, N.Y. He is preparing for a defense of his six-state title against Jerry Quarry of Bellflower at Madison Square Garden, June 23.

"All this hollerin' he's doing about not wanting to fight is just a defense," said Frazier. "He knows I can beat him...knock him out. I'd like to button his big mouth once and for all, knock him out and get rid of him. I think the public is fed up with his fussin' and fumin'."

"What kind of a man is this, who don't want to fight for his country? If he was in Russia, or some place else, they'd put him up against the wall. He walks around like he's one kind of a big hero, but he's just a phony, a disgrace."

FOUR OUT OF FOUR

Orioles Continue Mastery Over A's

OAKLAND (UPI) — Young slugger Reggie Jackson has dispelled any doubt he is a team player.

After swatting an offering of southpaw Mike Cuellar 435 feet into the rightfield seats to open the seventh inning for the Oakland Athletics last night to tie Baltimore 1-1, he laid down a perfect sacrifice bunt in the ninth inning to advance a baserunner.

The efforts went for naught, however, as Frank Robinson and Boog Powell hit back-to-back homers off reliever Lew Krausee (0-3) leading off the 11th inning to give the Orioles a 3-1 win and spoil a fine pitching performance by John Odom. Oakland has dropped all four of its games with Baltimore this season.

HUNTER VS. PHOEBUS

Jackson, who turned 23 last month, hit a slider for his 17th homer of the season to tie him with Willie McCovey and Rico Petrocelli for the major league lead. The next time he came up, he laid down his first bunt of the season.

"Sure (A's manager Hank) Bauer told me to lay it down," said Jackson. "It made perfect baseball sense. We needed a run and I had two .300 hitters (Sal Bando and Danny Cater) coming up behind me.

Oakland leadoff batters reached base in 8 of the 11 innings but seven runners were erased by three Baltimore double plays.

FANS SIX

Odom, unsuccessful for the third straight time in trying to notch his eighth victory, allowed only five hits and fanned six over 10 innings. An errant pickoff throw got him into hot water in the first inning.

Krausse came on in the 11th and ran the count to 2-1 on Frank Robinson before he clouted his 13th homer of the season 375 feet into the leftfield stands. Powell then tagged a 2-2 pitch deep over the centerfield fence for his ninth of the year.

RELIEF HELP

Bauer, hurting for bullpen help, said he plans to give rookie righthander Marcel Lachemann some relief work in the near future. Lachemann was called up yesterday along with Cater Federico Valazquez from Des Moines, Iowa, of the American Association. Lachemann had a 4-2 record, earned-run average of 2.25 and 25 strikeouts in 39 innings.

To make room for the two players, Oakland assigned pitcher Ed Sprague and reserve outfielder Joe Nossek to Des Moines.

Marin Trio Still Facing Giant Marijuana Tax Liens

Three Marin residents still face $1.5 million in property liens imposed by the Internal Revenue Service despite a U.S. Supreme Court ruling on self-incrimination in the marijuana case of psychedelics advoate Timothy Leary.

An IRS spokesman said yesterday the San Francisco division has been levying liens on bank accounts and other properties of the three ever since they were arrested in marijuana raids last October and in March 1968.

The IRS slapped a $412,850 lien on the property of Frank N. Werber after narcotics agents allegedly seized 250 pounds of marijuana at his Richardson Bay home last Oct. 15.

Two liens of $544,017 were levied against Mr. and Mrs. Darren Erlin following their arrest in a raid March 23, 1968, at their Fairfax home. Agents allegedly seized 300 pounds of marijuana at the house.

The Supreme Court May 19 overturned Leary's conviction of possession and importing marijuana on grounds federal laws requiring payment of a $100-an-ounce tax on marijuana were self-incriminatory.

The Erlins and Werber also were accused of failure to pay the tax.

However, the spokesman said, local authorities are not basing their cases against the three solely on the alleged failure of pay the tax.

He said local cases have never been prosecuted on the tax matter only.

But he acknowledged that division IRS offices have been advised by Washington that future proesecution of alleged marijuana offenders could be impaired under the Leary ruling if law enforcement authorities are allowed to use tax payment lists to secure arrests.

Mrs. Erlin pleaded guilty to possession charges and was fined $500. She filed for an anulment from her husband, whose case is pending.

Mills Co-Ed Is Offered Planned Parenthood Post

OAKLAND (AP) — A pretty co-ed who renounced motherhood in her commencement valedictory says she has received an appropriate job offer — from the Planned Parenthood Association.

Stephanie Mill of Phoenix, Ariz., 20-year-old valedictorian of Mills College, shocked a commencement audience by declaring that in view of mankind's present condition "the most humane thing for me to do is to have no children at all."

That was Sunday and since then it's been nothing but television, radio and newspaper interviews, plus a flood of requests for copies of her speech.

Will she take the job with Planned Parenthood?

She is not yet certain of her career plans.

Medical Bag With Narcotics Stolen

A physician's bag containing narcotics was stolen Monday night, Petaluma police reported yesterday.

Dr. Raymong Jewell said his medical bag was taken from his locked car while parked in front of Hillcrest Hospital. The bag contained mostly antibiotics, he said, but also a supply of morphine and codeine.

Summer School Plans Announced

Registration is now open for the Pacific Day School summer school which will run for five weeks beginning June 23.

The study course will include field trips, clam shell necklace and making and reed basket weaving, teepee building, fishing and the preparation and tasting of Indian dishes. Making glue from soap root, mush from acorns and mud clothes and excavation of a shell mound.

Jail Sentence In Money Case

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court on Monday sentenced Warren Dahl, 39, of Corte Madera to 30 days in jail and ordered him to make restitution to his employer from whom he had stolen about $1,500.

Dahl had earlier pleaded guilty to taking the money from Goodman Building Supply Co. in Mill Valley and spending it gambling in Nevada.

The judge also placed Dahl on three years probaton.

Pro Football 'Hams' Excel In Hollywood

I guess the only sports star who ever made it big in pictures (unless you count Seabiscuit) with Esther Williams. And even of her, a disgruntled exhibitor once observed, "Wet, she's a star. Dry, she ain't."

Esther shared billing with her bathing suit. But football heroes, track stars, and other star swimmers had to share it with animals — usually monkeys who got more lines than they did. Their dialog consisted solely of chest-beating and screaming from treetops for a friendly elephant. The pictures might as well have been silents except for an occasional, "Me, Tarzan. You, Jane."

THEY EVEN tested Lou Gehrig for an ape man once but Lou had trouble keeping a straight face and, since the producers didn't want to make Tarzan into a baggy-pants comedian, they contented themselves with releasing a series of embarrassing stills of Lou in a leopard skin, bending a crowbar over his knee.

Occasionally, sports stars have played their own lives. The results were fairly ludicrous as might have been expected, because the casting made as much sense as putting Greer Garson in the Giant outfield or having Paul Newman fight Sonny Liston.

HOLLYWOOD CONTENTED itself thereafter with putting wrestlers in roles where they stood outside the boss' office with their arms folded. Or, they wore turbans and held Tony Curtis' camel for him in sand operas co-starring Piper Laurie.

But, lately, pro football, of all things, has been turning out more leading men than the Pasadena Playhouse. And, while none of them could play the Old Vic, they do give a little masculine charm to movies which, Lord knows, could use it.

JIM BROWN is never going to make anyone forget Spencer Tracy — or even Lee — but he does project a kind of sullen, good-looking menace, and seasoned actors would rather play a scene with a dimple-dancing moppet or a cute dog than with him. When Brown is on screen the rest of the people might as well be wearing masks. They get his shirt off at every opportunity, and, if they gave an Academy Award for muscles, he would win it.

MERLIN OLSEN of the Rams is the latest to crash the sound stages. They cast Merlin (and Roman Gabriel) in an oater called "The Undefeated" (the title prompted someone to wonder if Ohio State players wouldn't be more appropriate).

The plot didn't call for Merlin to say anything more than "Ugh!" at first. They thought they might beef up his role to an "Aw, shucks!" with cue cards.

THE MOVIE was one of those John Waynes where everybody goes around hitting everybody, and the trouble with casting John Wayne flicks is, Wayne himself comes 6-5 or 6-6 and a horse sags when he climbs on. So, he can't go around beating up on chorus boys or actors who might have to wear elevator shoes so he wouldn't step on them. The audience wouldn't like it.

Merlin, who was a Phi Beta Kappa in college, was so good at it, and believable as a guy who was so strong he was afraid of hitting somebody hard for fear he'd put a hole through them, that he ended up with more speaking lines than some actors get in a life-time of hanging around Central Casting. They're not thinking of putting him in "Hamlet" yet, or dusting off a few old John Barrymore leads for him, but he may have as lively a career as the late Ward Bond, another football player who parlayed a career out of playing Wayne's sidekick. If Merlin gets any better, Wayne may play HIS sidekick in the next boots-and-saddles.

MERLIN THINKS there is a reason football players excel in films where other athletes from other fields embarrass themselves. "First of all, there's college," he theorizes. "That's not critical, but football is because we're used to taking orders and executing them in unison. We are used to working ourselves up to an emotional pitch. You have to have a little ham in you to play football. Also, athletes today can't be just big, uncoordinated hulks. You have to have grace as well as strength, agility as well as speed. You have to FEEL a football game, too, if you know what I mean. I wouldn't be surprised to see more and more pro football players in acting."

That, of course, will solve Hollywood's problem — but where do the Chicago Bears go then? To the June Taylor dancers? Or do they ring up the William Morris office and say, "We need somebody who can run a buttonhook. Have him report to wardrobe at 9 o'clock and we'll rush him right over to makeup so they can put his muscles on. And, by the way, that placekicker you sent last week had the gout. And, no more fullbacks who lisp, please!"

IN FORM — Nancy Richey of Dallas fired one at Julie Heldman of New York during women's singles quarter-finals match of French Tennis Championships in Paris yesterday. Miss Richey won in two sets. (AP Wirephoto)

Gals Duel For Berths In French Tennis

PARIS (UPI)—Three professionals and a lone Australian "amateur" bid today for women's singles semifinals berths at the French Open tennis championships.

The non-pro is Lesley Turner Bowrey, current Australian No. 2, who upset predictions by eliminating French professional Francoise Durr, seeded seventh at the Roland Garros Hard Courts tournament.

She meets formidable opposition in second-seeded Billie Jean King of Long Beach, who lost in a semifinal last year to fellow American Nancy Richey.

TWO PROS

The other two professionals, diminutive Rosemary Casals of San Francisco, and Britain's Ann Jones, clash for the right to meet the winner of the King-Bowrey encounter.

Miss Casals, who lost a memorable semifinal to Mrs. Jones two years ago, reached the quarters here by beating another Briton, tempestuous Virginia Wade.

The other semifinal pairing has already been settled. Miss Richey of San Angelo, Tex., meets top-seeded Margaret Court of Australia.

VICTORIES

The American, defending champion but seeded no. 4 this year, ousted Julie Heldman of New York 6-3, 9-7 and Mrs. Court dismissed fellow Australian Kerry Melville 9-7, 6-1 in quarterfinals play Tuesday.

The four survivors in the men's ranks rest today after a bristling action yesterday which saw Tom Okker of the Netherlands oust fourth-seeded John Newcombe of Australia and top-seeded Australian Rod Laver down Andres Gimeno of Spain.

Okker and Laver will meet in one semi, with defending champion Ken Rosewall facing Tony Roche in the other, an all Australian match. Rosewall and Roche had gained the round by victories on Monday.

Ryun To Run In Compton

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Jim Ryun, the famed Kansas flyer, belatedly has submitted his entry to run in the featured mile event of the 30th annual Coliseum-Compton Invitational track and field meet Saturday night, meet director Rusty Harland announced today.

Harland said he had invited Ryun at the UCLA-Kansas dual meet early in spring but at that time the world champion distance star did not believe his schedule would permit him to appear.

Mets Really Flying High; Mauch Low

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The New York Mets have never before been so high and Gene Mauch is still trying to forget the only other time he has been so low.

The Mets, once a synonym for defeat, moved past the .500 mark for the first time in their eight-year history when they beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-2 last night. They've won six straight and have become so confident that Ed Kranepool, once one of their biggest disappointments, insisted no fluke is involved.

Mauch, manager of the Philadelphia Phillies when they lost a major league record 23 straight games in 1961, had the kind of a night which makes a manager think of the gas pipe.

WILLS RETIRES

First, Mauch lost one of his best players when third baseman Maury Wills retired moments before the Montreal Expos' game with the San Francisco Giants. Then Mauch was ejected in the third inning of the game for disputing a call by umpire Richard Stello. And then Gene sweated in the clubhouse as the Giants romped 9-3 and dealt the Expos their 17th straight loss.

The 17 straight losses equal the record for an expansion team which was set—you guessed it—by the Mets in 1962.

SCORES

The Chicago Cubs defeated the Houston Astros, 4-2, the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Atlanta Braves, 5-2, the Cincinnati Reds downed the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-3, and the San Diego Padres shaded the Philadelphia Phillies, 6-5, in other National League games.

Randy Hundley singled home one run and Don Young followed with a run-scoring double in the sixth inning to help extend the Cubs' winning streak to five games.

Steve Carlton struck out nine batters in a five-hitter.

PERPENDICULAR TUG-O'-WAR

With an assist from bleacherites, an unidentified youth climbed out of reach of pursuing ushers during some hi-jinks at Cubs-Houston baseball game in Chicago yesterday. The lad and two others interrupted the game by running around the infield, then raced to the safety of the grandstands. The others were apprehended, but this one escaped. (AP Wirephoto)

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Killebrew Living Up To His Nickname

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The New York Yankees are learning why Harmon Killebrew is called "The Killer."

Killebrew smashed a two-run home run in the first inning last night to start the Minnesota Twins on their way to a 4-0 victory over the Yankees. Killebrew had beaten the Yankees with a home run only the night before when he smashed a three-run shot off Stan Bahnsen in a 3-2 Twins' victory.

Tony Oliva had a solo home run in the sixth inning and tripled in Killebrew with the other Minnesota run.

BOSTON WINS

Elsewhere in the American League, Boston ripped Chicago, 8-2, Kansas City downed Washington, 5-3, Baltimore outlasted Oakland, 3-1 in 11 innings, California beat Detroit, 4-2, and Cleveland shaded Seattle, 3-1.

Rico Petrocelli, Carl Yastrzemski and Reggie Smith homered to give Jim Lonborg his fifth straight victory as the Red Sox drubbed the White Sox. Petrocelli hit his 17th homer of the season in the fifth to tie Oakland's Reggie Jackson and Willie McCovey of San Francisco for the major league lead.

Joe Foy's two-run single ignited a four-run fifth inning rally which enabled the Kansas City Royals to snap a six game losing streak with their victory over the Senators.

Wally Bunker pitched a six-hitter and struck out 10 in pitching his first complete games since last August. The Royals trailed 2-1 in the fifth when they put runners on second and third with two walks and an infield out. Foy singled to give Kansas City a 3-2 lead and they boosted the advantage to 5-2 when Ed Kirkpatrick walked and Lou Piniella ripped a two-run double.

SIX-HITTER

Aurelio Rodriguez and Jim Hicks hit home runs and Andy Messersmith pitched a six-hitter for his first victory of the year after five consecutive losses as the Angels stunned the Tigers.

Rodriguez homered in the fourth to snap a 1-1 tie and Hicks, acquired last Friday from St. Louis, homered in the fifth after Rodriguez was safe on an error. It was Hicks' first hit in an Angels' uniform.

Too Good In One Stretch And You'll Suffer Later

OAKLAND — One of the dumb things about baseball is the built-in irony of being so good during one stretch that you suffer later.

The A's were confronted with this curious mini-nuisance last month. While winning 9 of 11 early in May, their front-line pitching was so consistently good that the relief pitchers got little work. And when the starters soured slightly later in the month and help was needed from the bullpen, there were problems.

The relief pitchers were suffering from lack of exercise — and game conditions. They had grown too stale to be steady. It's not that a relief pitcher needs to work every day to be sharp. But in most cases, a reliever is used when the slightest variation from concentration and sharpness can be fatal.

"ONE MISTAKE and a relief pitcher has had it," said former Oakland bullpenner Diego Segui, now a Seattle relief fellow. "Starters can get away with letting down once in a while. But not us guys in the bullpen."

The unemployment charts on the A's relievers in May are revealing. Rollie Fingers pitched only three innings between May 4 and 21. For Lew Krausse there were but five frames of toil — and ineffective labor at that — between May 1 and 21. In those five innings Lew gave up seven runs. He's simply used to working more.

Between May 2 and 20, Paul Lindblad, the number one left-handed reliever, worked only three innings. Jim Roland, the ex-Twin lefty, pitched only one-third of an inning in a 25-day period. He might have been happier sitting at home waiting for an extension of the bullpen phone to ring.

JOHN WYATT toiled for one inning on May 1 and never saw action again before he was cut May 26. He could always maintain he didn't have a chance to prove himself. And would any jury return a guilty finding?

Lastly, side-arming Eddie Sprague, who was idled part of the month after falling on the clubhouse steps and bruising an ankle, worked only three innings between May 2 and 25. Thus when it came time for him to do some serious relief pitching on May 29 and 30, he was bashed for three home funs and nine runs in seven innings.

LINDBLAD, THE most savvy and frequently most capable of the Athletic bullpen fraternity, can do naught but smile disgustedly over the peculiar problem of a good streak turning into a bad one.

"They try to work us somehow even when we're not seeing any game action," says Lindy. "But of course, it's not the same.

"FOR INSTANCE, every day each of us will try to throw an inning in the bullpen sometime. Our inning will correspond to the same time as one inning the guy's working on the mound, except we'll throw four times as many pitches. But of course it's not the same."

Of course. But there are no B games in the regular season as at spring training. And young pitchers need consistent work and pressure if they're to learn and mature.

JUST SITTING around may be fine for bullpen veterans like Wilhelm, Abernathy, Regan, Wood, Perranoski — although they aren't that idle because their clubs have fewer good starters. But gathering splinters in May cost the A's some half dozen games on Minny, which could mean an awfully painful paradox come September.

Novato To Host Cross Country Race June 14

The cross-country race, which has drawn hundreds of entries from all over the Bay Area in past years, will again be a featured part of Western Weekend Country Fair in Novato, according to Carl Jensen, chairman of the run sponsored by the Marin Athletic League.

The run is 6.87 miles long and will start at the main fire station on Grant Avenue at Highway 101 at 9:30 a.m., June 14, Jensen said. Runners should report in to the fire station at 7:30 a.m. for assignment of their numbers, he said.

There will be trophies for the first three winners and ribbons for the next 75, as in previous years.

Why Wes Westrum Would Never Be Giant Manager

By JACK HANLEY

MONTREAL — As Air Canada's flight 773 sped toward Montreal, Wes Westrum turned to his seat mate and pointed to the scene thousands of feet below.

Manhattan's towering skyscrapers looked like little needles. Shea Stadium, where the Giants had just finished a weekend series with the Mets, already had faded from sight.

"DO YOU miss it?" Westrum was asked.

"Both."

"They both treated me good," said Westrum, "the city and the ball park. But as for missing them, no. I'm happy where I am — with the Giants. I began my career with them almost three decades ago. I guess I'll wind it up with them. Not that I have any thoughts about retiring in the near future. After all, I still have a few years to go before I'm even 50."

When Westrum's playing days with the Giants were over, Horace Stoneham gave him a coaching berth but repeatedly passed him over as manager. Stoneham is a sentimental club owner when it comes to former ball players, particularly ex-Giant greats such as Westrum.

Stoneham respects Westrum's knowledge of the game. He admired the job Westrum did as manager of the Mets for three seasons after Casey Stengel's retirement was hastened by a hip injury. He didn't try to dissuade Westrum in 1963 from quitting his job as a Giant coach to become Casey's chief assistant and heir apparent.

"You'll always have a coaching job with us if things don't work out," Stoneham told Westrum.

And Stoneham was as good as his word. When Westrum resigned as Met manager because he knew Gil Hodges was being groomed as his successor, Stoneham contacted him immediately and requested him to return to the Giants.

"We need you on the coaching lines," said Stoneham who knew that Westrum had been offered a front office Met job at $17,000.

Stoneham pays his coaches more than any other club — $15,000. But he matched the $17,000 the Mets had offered Westrum.

"I never had a better boss," Westrum has said on many occasions when Stoneham's name has popped up in conversations.

BUT WESTRUM'S happiness with the Giants never will be complete because he knows Stoneham never will appoint him manager of the team. Why? Not because Stoneham lacks confidence in Westrum.

Some years ago when the Pacific Coast League farm club of the Giants at Phoenix had a managerial opening, Westrum's name was brought up.

"No," said Stoneham. "I don't want him to take the job. Sooner or later the time comes when a manager must be fired. I never want to fire Westrum. I like him too much."

S.F. Gives Canadians The Willies

MONTREAL (UPI) — This Canadian city's baseball populace got its first look at San Francisco's Willies—Mays and McCovey, naturally and it came away impressed.

With a crowd of 19,399 looking on, McCovey cracked his 17th home run of the season, tops in the National League, and Mays added his sixth to power the Giants to a 9-3 victory over the fledgling Expos, whose defeat—their 17th straight—equalled the major league record for an expansion team.

In addition to his homer, McCovey also chased in two runs with a bases-loaded double to highlight the Giants' five-run third inning. After San Francisco refilled the bases, Dave Marshall smacked a two-run single and Jack Hiatt accounted for the final run of the inning with a hit.

Don Mason led off the fourth inning with a single and then Mays and McCovey hit back-to-back homers which boosted the Giants' lead to 8-2. Their final run came in the sixth as Bobby Bonds was hit by a pitch, Mays singled and McCovey hit into a double play.

All told, Mays scored three times and batted in a pair of runs and McCovey scored twice and drove in three markers.

The two teams conclude their rain-shortened series tonight with a pair of Mikes opposing each other. For the Giants, it will be McCormick (2-2) and for the Expos, Wegener (1-2).

After tonight's game, San Francisco returns home Friday to host the Philadelphia Phillies in the start of a 13-game homestand.

MAY LOCK DOORS

NFL Meetings Again Bog Down

NEW YORK (UPI)—If past performances are any indication, National Football League club owners will wait until they are again locked behind closed doors before agreeing on divisional realignment.

The 13 NFL owners have another six months before they will be forced to reach a decision, since schedules for the 1970 season will not be drawn up until December and the realignment, which is part of the National and American League merger, does not go into effect until next year. Another attempt to reach some sort of agreement failed yesterday.

NON-STOP

It took a series of continuous, all-night sessions last month before NFL owners could agree on which three teams would shift to the AFL to balance both leagues with 13 teams for the start of the merger agreement. And non-stop meetings might be needed again before the owners can agree on internal realignment.

The biggest hangup confronting the owners, according to Commissionar Pete Rozelle, is the provision calling for a unanimous vote on any realignment plan. Rozelle revealed yesterday that the owners had reduced from 16 to nine the number of plans still under consideration, but admitted "at least one or two owners' objected to each plan. In each case, different owners voiced their disapproval.

TEAMS SHIFT

Following the shifting of Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Baltimore from the NFL to the AFL the American League quickly agreed on its three division makeup for the start of the 1970 season. Cleveland and Pittsburgh joined with Cincinnati and Houston to form one division while Baltimore, New York, Boston, Buffalo and Miami formed a second grouping. Denver, San Diego, Oakland and Kansas City will comprise the third division.

The desire to preserve traditional rivalries and play "money-making" opponents motivates each NFL owner and each, naturally, has his own ideas about what's best for his team and the league.

Joe Frazier Lashes Out At Cassius

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Frazier, who holds a piece of the world heavyweight boxing title, blasted Cassius Clay today as a "big mouth phony" and a "disgrace" and said "I think the public is fed up with all his fussin' and fumin'."

The unbeaten, 25-year-old Philadelphian made the comments in a telephone interview with the Associated Press from his training camp at the Concord Hotel at Kiamesha Lake, N.Y. He is preparing for a defense of his six-state title against Jerry Quarry of Bellflower at Madison Square Garden, June 23.

"All this hollerin' he's doing about not wanting to fight is just a defense," said Frazier. "He knows I can beat him...knock him out. I'd like to button his big mouth once and for all, knock him out and get rid of him. I think the public is fed up with his fussin' and fumin'."

"What kind of a man is this, who don't want to fight for his country? If he was in Russia, or some place else, they'd put him up against the wall. He walks around like he's one kind of a big hero, but he's just a phony, a disgrace."

FOUR OUT OF FOUR

Orioles Continue Mastery Over A's

OAKLAND (UPI) — Young slugger Reggie Jackson has dispelled any doubt he is a team player.

After swatting an offering of southpaw Mike Cuellar 435 feet into the rightfield seats to open the seventh inning for the Oakland Athletics last night to tie Baltimore 1-1, he laid down a perfect sacrifice bunt in the ninth inning to advance a baserunner.

The efforts went for naught, however, as Frank Robinson and Boog Powell hit back-to-back homers off reliever Lew Krausee (0-3) leading off the 11th inning to give the Orioles a 3-1 win and spoil a fine pitching performance by John Odom. Oakland has dropped all four of its games with Baltimore this season.

HUNTER VS. PHOEBUS

Jackson, who turned 23 last month, hit a slider for his 17th homer of the season to tie him with Willie McCovey and Rico Petrocelli for the major league lead. The next time he came up, he laid down his first bunt of the season.

"Sure (A's manager Hank) Bauer told me to lay it down," said Jackson. "It made perfect baseball sense. We needed a run and I had two .300 hitters (Sal Bando and Danny Cater) coming up behind me.

Oakland leadoff batters reached base in 8 of the 11 innings but seven runners were erased by three Baltimore double plays.

FANS SIX

Odom, unsuccessful for the third straight time in trying to notch his eighth victory, allowed only five hits and fanned six over 10 innings. An errant pickoff throw got him into hot water in the first inning.

Krausse came on in the 11th and ran the count to 2-1 on Frank Robinson before he clouted his 13th homer of the season 375 feet into the leftfield stands. Powell then tagged a 2-2 pitch deep over the centerfield fence for his ninth of the year.

RELIEF HELP

Bauer, hurting for bullpen help, said he plans to give rookie righthander Marcel Lachemann some relief work in the near future. Lachemann was called up yesterday along with Cater Federico Valazquez from Des Moines, Iowa, of the American Association. Lachemann had a 4-2 record, earned-run average of 2.25 and 25 strikeouts in 39 innings.

To make room for the two players, Oakland assigned pitcher Ed Sprague and reserve outfielder Joe Nossek to Des Moines.

Auto Racing Can Be Fun For Commuters To See

Those of you who commute along 101 each day should thoroughly enjoy this weekend's NASCAR races at Sears Point International Raceway.

I will, because I commute a bit daily and find myself spitting bullets, growing ulcers, losing hair and cussing at some of the frustrating conditions I inevitably come upon. And, being the pilot and chief navigator of a Volkswagen, I blame all the traffic mess on the big, noisy Detroit iron which surrounds me coming and going. I'm not saying those big bullies make me feel insignificant, but I'm the only commuter with a security blanket, pacifier and, hanging from the rear-view mirror, a bronzed baby shoe. Mine.

Well, what I'm getting around to is that the races this weekend will feature those same type cars that bully me around on the highways—late model Fords, Chevvies, Plymouths, Pontiacs, Oldsmobiles, Dodges, etc. and it will be a delight to sit high in the safety of the Sears Point natural amphitheater to watch Michigan marauders maul THEMSELVES around for a change without a chance of taking a shot at me, my VW or my fellow small, economy car drivers.

Deserve Special Hillside

I think Sears Point officials should reserve a special spectating hillside for us drivers of small cars so that we can organize a rooting section against the Detroit iron. Give me a beanie, a pom pon, a megaphone, a St. Christopher medal and a canteen of STP and I'll be the head jeer leader.

"Hit 'em again, hit 'em again, harder, HARDER!"

"Two, four, six, crash, give 'em another whiplash."

"A tisket, a tasket, we hope you blow your gasket."

Our motto will be: "Don't tread on me, Buster; I'm already tired."

NASCAR races usually are merry-go-rounders on an oval track, making it difficult to get lost, so it will be fascinating to watch these lead-footed rounders negotiate the hairy, 12-turn asphalt ribbon at Sears without a road map. The course at one point reaches an elevation of 175 feet. I hope they get the bends. Or at least vapor lock.

Nyaah, nyaah, the big bullies, I hope when they pull in for pit stop for some Wiki-Wiki Dollars they find the biffy locked and three VWs, three Datsuns, two Toyotas and four Volvos ahead of them at the pumps.

And if that won't do it, then I dearly hope the bluebirds of happiness will dirty their windshields. So there!

Top Stockers In Lineup

Some of the top stockers on the West Coast will be in the lineup for the weekend program, first NASCAR event at the new Sonoma County raceway, opening with qualifying on Saturday and capped by the Weibel-150 on Sunday.

As the 150-miler will award points toward season championship competition, all the leaders in the Pacific Coast Division of NASCAR will be on hand, led by Ray Elder of Caruthers, Jack McCoy of Modesto, 1968 champion Scotty Cain of Fresno and Marty Kinerk of Southgate, winner of a recent Sacramento 100-miler.

They may be good, but I'll take the 101 commute crowd any day.

Palmer Makes The Grade

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Arnie's Army will march again in the U.S. Open golf championship this year, but the followers of Tommy Bolt, Bob Goalby and Ed Furgol will have to break ranks and parade elsewhere.

Arnold Palmer, whose army of followers has attracted attention for over a decade, yesterday earned the right to compete in the 1969 Open at Houston, June 12-15, by turning in the low medal score at the McKeesport, Pa., qualifying site.

Palmer, forced to qualify for the Open for only the second time in his illustrious career, had rounds of 70 and 68 and was one of eight qualifiers from a field of52 at McKeesport.

However, Bolt, Goalby and Furgol failed to qualify at their respective sites and thus will deprive the Open of three of professional golf's biggest names.

Dutch Harrison, who finished second once in the Open, and Charlie Sifford were two other "name" pros who failed to make the grade.

Among the current crop of tour regulars who did qualify Tuesday were Bob Rosburg, Mike Souchak, George Knudson, Al Balding Lee Elder and Deane Beman.

Marin Golfer Fails In Bid For U.S. Open

Gary Nolen, assistant pro at Marin Country Club golf course in Novato, failed in his bid yesterday to make the field for, the U.S. Open June 12-15 at Houston.

Nolen, who lives at Bel Marin Keys, shot 18-hole rounds of 82 and 78 for a 160 at Napa's Silverado South Course, finishing far down the list of aspirants in the regional playoffs for three open berths in the big golf tournament.

Scotty McBeath, associate pro at Cambrian Golf Club in San Jose led qualifiers at Silverado with a five-under par 139. Also qualifying for the Open were amateur Terry Small, a Presidio soldier, 143, and Francisco Lopez, pro at Skywest G. C., Hayward, 144.

Texas Junior College Wins Baseball Title

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (UPI)—Pitcher Doug Ault and his teammates from Panola Junior College of Carthage, Tex., scored six times in the fourth inning yesterday for an 8-6 win over Mesa, Ariz., for the National Junior College baseball championship.

Speedy Maury Quietly Quits

Fast as a whippet, Wills flashed past baseball immortal Ty Cobb to establish the major league record of 104 stolen bases while playing for the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1962. Cobb's record was 96 set in 1915.

Wills, now with the Montreal Expos, retired just before his team took the field against the San Francisco Giants. The announcement was made by Jim Fanning, general manager of the Expos.

"Tonight, Maury Wills asked for and submitted a letter requesting voluntary retired status," said Fanning. "We had a nice visit and there is no doubt in my mind that he is sincere. We hate to lose him, but we are respecting his wishes"

Wills had no immediate comment, but called a press conference for today.

Full Racing Program Planned For Andretti

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A full program of American racing confronts Mario Andretti in his quest of the national driving championship, and will preclude more than an occasional jaunt to Europe.

Andretti, the Indianapolis 500 miles auto race champion, and car owner Andy Granatelli outlined their plans for the coming year at a West Coast victory celebration yesterday.

"We plan to run in every single championship race in order to make Mario the national U.S. Auto Club driving champion," Granatelli told a news conference.

Andretti agreed with those plans, and said he will drive the same Hawk-Ford this weekend at Milwaukee that he piloted to victory at Indianapolis.

The Memorial Day win was the first at the Indianapolis Speedway for Both Andretti and Granatelli and they toasted each other in a spaghetti dinner at an Italian restaurant while conducting the news conference.

"It wasn't easy losing for 22 years," Granatelli said as he recalled the many years he had tried to win the most famous auto race in the nation. "But it was worth waiting 23 years for Mario."

And the owner praised the young driver for his courage in coming back two days after crashing a Lotus-Ford to qualify in the backup car, and then using it to score his clearcut victory.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, June 4, the 155th day of 1969 with 210 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn. The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1800 the finishing touches were put on the White House.

In 1896 Henry Ford wheeled his first car from a brick shed in Detroit and drove it around the darkened streets for a trial run.

In 1942 the Battle of Midway began, an encounter in which the Japanese fleet suffered its first decisive defeat of World War II.

In 1967 war broke out between Israel and Egypt. It lasted five days and Israel got much Arab territory.

A thought for the day: Roman playwright Terence said, "Nothing is so difficult but that is may be found out by seeking."

45 To Graduate At St. Anselm's

Forty-five students are to be graduated at St. Anselm's School in San Anselmo on Saturday.

There will be a mass for the class at 10 a.m. at Saint Anselm's Church. Following mass, Rev. John J. Hayes will address the graduates at a breakfast to be held in the school hall.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Traditional Lead Can Telegraph Your Hand To Other Players

The traditional lead against a notrump contract is the fourth-highest card in your longest and strongest suit. This practice permits other players to draw inferences about the nature of your hand.

SPADE PLAY

West opened the deuce of spades, and South immediately assumed that West had led from a four-card suit. Sometimes a player has a card lower than his lead, a fifth-best card, but the leader cannot have a card lower than the deuce.

South confirmed the spade position by refusing East's queen and then the king. East continued with a low spade, and South on. Now it was clear that West had led from a four-card spade suit headed by the jack.

This information became important when declarer then began to run his heart tricks and discovered that, West had started with only one heart. Oddly enough, the fact that West was known to have four spades and one heart in his original hand told South how to play the diamonds.

NO FIVE-CARD SUIT

Since North and South had bid only notrump, West could yave had no reason to avoid leading a suit. He would surely lead his best suit, whichever it happened to be. If he had a five-card suit he would open it in preference to leading from a four-card suit. In other words, West could not have five diamonds or five clubs since he had chosen to open from a four-card spade suit.

South knew that West had started with eight cards in clubs and diamonds combined. If West couldn't have a five-card suit, he surely held four clubs and four diamonds.

To play the diamonds correctly, therefore, South took the ace and king and then led his low diamond to win a finesse with dummy's ten. This somewhat unusual finesse was necessary for the contract.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with no trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold:

♠—A 7 4
♥—K Q 10 6
♦—A K 6
♣—10 9 7

ANSWER: Bid two clubs, the Stayman Convention, asking partner to show a major suit of four or more cares.

If partner bids two hearts, you will raise to four hearts; and if he bids two diamonds you can afford to bid two hearts. But if partner bids two spades, you plan to bid two notrump since your hand is not quite strong enough for a bid of three hearts.

Pro Football 'Hams' Excel In Hollywood

I guess the only sports star who ever made it big in pictures (unless you count Seabiscuit) with Esther Williams. And even of her, a disgruntled exhibitor once observed, "Wet, she's a star. Dry, she ain't."

Esther shared billing with her bathing suit. But football heroes, track stars, and other star swimmers had to share it with animals — usually monkeys who got more lines than they did. Their dialog consisted solely of chest-beating and screaming from treetops for a friendly elephant. The pictures might as well have been silents except for an occasional, "Me, Tarzan. You, Jane."

THEY EVEN tested Lou Gehrig for an ape man once but Lou had trouble keeping a straight face and, since the producers didn't want to make Tarzan into a baggy-pants comedian, they contented themselves with releasing a series of embarrassing stills of Lou in a leopard skin, bending a crowbar over his knee.

Occasionally, sports stars have played their own lives. The results were fairly ludicrous as might have been expected, because the casting made as much sense as putting Greer Garson in the Giant outfield or having Paul Newman fight Sonny Liston.

HOLLYWOOD CONTENTED itself thereafter with putting wrestlers in roles where they stood outside the boss' office with their arms folded. Or, they wore turbans and held Tony Curtis' camel for him in sand operas co-starring Piper Laurie.

But, lately, pro football, of all things, has been turning out more leading men than the Pasadena Playhouse. And, while none of them could play the Old Vic, they do give a little masculine charm to movies which, Lord knows, could use it.

JIM BROWN is never going to make anyone forget Spencer Tracy — or even Lee — but he does project a kind of sullen, good-looking menace, and seasoned actors would rather play a scene with a dimple-dancing moppet or a cute dog than with him. When Brown is on screen the rest of the people might as well be wearing masks. They get his shirt off at every opportunity, and, if they gave an Academy Award for muscles, he would win it.

MERLIN OLSEN of the Rams is the latest to crash the sound stages. They cast Merlin (and Roman Gabriel) in an oater called "The Undefeated" (the title prompted someone to wonder if Ohio State players wouldn't be more appropriate).

The plot didn't call for Merlin to say anything more than "Ugh!" at first. They thought they might beef up his role to an "Aw, shucks!" with cue cards.

THE MOVIE was one of those John Waynes where everybody goes around hitting everybody, and the trouble with casting John Wayne flicks is, Wayne himself comes 6-5 or 6-6 and a horse sags when he climbs on. So, he can't go around beating up on chorus boys or actors who might have to wear elevator shoes so he wouldn't step on them. The audience wouldn't like it.

Merlin, who was a Phi Beta Kappa in college, was so good at it, and believable as a guy who was so strong he was afraid of hitting somebody hard for fear he'd put a hole through them, that he ended up with more speaking lines than some actors get in a life-time of hanging around Central Casting. They're not thinking of putting him in "Hamlet" yet, or dusting off a few old John Barrymore leads for him, but he may have as lively a career as the late Ward Bond, another football player who parlayed a career out of playing Wayne's sidekick. If Merlin gets any better, Wayne may play HIS sidekick in the next boots-and-saddles.

MERLIN THINKS there is a reason football players excel in films where other athletes from other fields embarrass themselves. "First of all, there's college," he theorizes. "That's not critical, but football is because we're used to taking orders and executing them in unison. We are used to working ourselves up to an emotional pitch. You have to have a little ham in you to play football. Also, athletes today can't be just big, uncoordinated hulks. You have to have grace as well as strength, agility as well as speed. You have to FEEL a football game, too, if you know what I mean. I wouldn't be surprised to see more and more pro football players in acting."

That, of course, will solve Hollywood's problem — but where do the Chicago Bears go then? To the June Taylor dancers? Or do they ring up the William Morris office and say, "We need somebody who can run a buttonhook. Have him report to wardrobe at 9 o'clock and we'll rush him right over to makeup so they can put his muscles on. And, by the way, that placekicker you sent last week had the gout. And, no more fullbacks who lisp, please!"

Gals Duel For Berths In French Tennis

PARIS (UPI)—Three professionals and a lone Australian "amateur" bid today for women's singles semifinals berths at the French Open tennis championships.

The non-pro is Lesley Turner Bowrey, current Australian No. 2, who upset predictions by eliminating French professional Francoise Durr, seeded seventh at the Roland Garros Hard Courts tournament.

She meets formidable opposition in second-seeded Billie Jean King of Long Beach, who lost in a semifinal last year to fellow American Nancy Richey.

TWO PROS

The other two professionals, diminutive Rosemary Casals of San Francisco, and Britain's Ann Jones, clash for the right to meet the winner of the King-Bowrey encounter.

Miss Casals, who lost a memorable semifinal to Mrs. Jones two years ago, reached the quarters here by beating another Briton, tempestuous Virginia Wade.

The other semifinal pairing has already been settled. Miss Richey of San Angelo, Tex., meets top-seeded Margaret Court of Australia.

VICTORIES

The American, defending champion but seeded no. 4 this year, ousted Julie Heldman of New York 6-3, 9-7 and Mrs. Court dismissed fellow Australian Kerry Melville 9-7, 6-1 in quarterfinals play Tuesday.

The four survivors in the men's ranks rest today after a bristling action yesterday which saw Tom Okker of the Netherlands oust fourth-seeded John Newcombe of Australia and top-seeded Australian Rod Laver down Andres Gimeno of Spain.

Okker and Laver will meet in one semi, with defending champion Ken Rosewall facing Tony Roche in the other, an all Australian match. Rosewall and Roche had gained the round by victories on Monday.

Mets Really Flying High; Mauch Low

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The New York Mets have never before been so high and Gene Mauch is still trying to forget the only other time he has been so low.

The Mets, once a synonym for defeat, moved past the .500 mark for the first time in their eight-year history when they beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-2 last night. They've won six straight and have become so confident that Ed Kranepool, once one of their biggest disappointments, insisted no fluke is involved.

Mauch, manager of the Philadelphia Phillies when they lost a major league record 23 straight games in 1961, had the kind of a night which makes a manager think of the gas pipe.

WILLS RETIRES

First, Mauch lost one of his best players when third baseman Maury Wills retired moments before the Montreal Expos' game with the San Francisco Giants. Then Mauch was ejected in the third inning of the game for disputing a call by umpire Richard Stello. And then Gene sweated in the clubhouse as the Giants romped 9-3 and dealt the Expos their 17th straight loss.

The 17 straight losses equal the record for an expansion team which was set—you guessed it—by the Mets in 1962.

SCORES

The Chicago Cubs defeated the Houston Astros, 4-2, the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Atlanta Braves, 5-2, the Cincinnati Reds downed the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-3, and the San Diego Padres shaded the Philadelphia Phillies, 6-5, in other National League games.

Randy Hundley singled home one run and Don Young followed with a run-scoring double in the sixth inning to help extend the Cubs' winning streak to five games.

Steve Carlton struck out nine batters in a five-hitter.

Killebrew Living Up To His Nickname

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Killebrew smashed a two-run home run in the first inning last night to start the Minnesota Twins on their way to a 4-0 victory over the Yankees. Killebrew had beaten the Yankees with a home run only the night before when he smashed a three-run shot off Stan Bahnsen in a 3-2 Twins' victory.

Tony Oliva had a solo home run in the sixth inning and tripled in Killebrew with the other Minnesota run.

BOSTON WINS

Elsewhere in the American League, Boston ripped Chicago, 8-2, Kansas City downed Washington, 5-3, Baltimore outlasted Oakland, 3-1 in 11 innings, California beat Detroit, 4-2, and Cleveland shaded Seattle, 3-1.

Rico Petrocelli, Carl Yastrzemski and Reggie Smith homered to give Jim Lonborg his fifth straight victory as the Red Sox drubbed the White Sox. Petrocelli hit his 17th homer of the season in the fifth to tie Oakland's Reggie Jackson and Willie McCovey of San Francisco for the major league lead.

Joe Foy's two-run single ignited a four-run fifth inning rally which enabled the Kansas City Royals to snap a six game losing streak with their victory over the Senators.

Wally Bunker pitched a six-hitter and struck out 10 in pitching his first complete games since last August. The Royals trailed 2-1 in the fifth when they put runners on second and third with two walks and an infield out. Foy singled to give Kansas City a 3-2 lead and they boosted the advantage to 5-2 when Ed Kirkpatrick walked and Lou Piniella ripped a two-run double.

SIX-HITTER

Aurelio Rodriguez and Jim Hicks hit home runs and Andy Messersmith pitched a six-hitter for his first victory of the year after five consecutive losses as the Angels stunned the Tigers.

Rodriguez homered in the fourth to snap a 1-1 tie and Hicks, acquired last Friday from St. Louis, homered in the fifth after Rodriguez was safe on an error. It was Hicks' first hit in an Angels' uniform.

Northwest Route For Oil Tapping

WASHINGTON (AP) — A "$30 million gamble" to open up a 20th Century Northwest Passage—across the Arctic ice to Alaska oil fields—was announced yesterday by one of the nation's largest petroleum producers.

Humble Oil Co. officials said a giant ice-breaking tanker, the Manhattan, is scheduled to leave Philadelphia July 15, to plow through ice across the top of North America to the oil fields on the north coast of Alaska.

If the route proves practical, they said, they hope to be freighting oil year-around to the East Coast by 1972.

Beyond that, they said, the experiment could open up a new international searoute that could cut the London-Tokyo sea distance by almost half — from 14,000 miles to 8,000—and open up Canada's and Alaska's rich northern mineral resources.

Humble President Charles F. Jones said one point on the route is equidistant from London, New York and Tokyo and added:

"History teaches us that new sea routes have frequently had unforeseen consequences, actually altering the relationships and balance among nations."

Jones and other company officials announced their plans in an elaborate news conference conducted by closed-circuit television simultaneously in Washington and New York.

They said they have no assurance the Northwest Passage will be practical.

If it's not, they indicated, the alternative will be oil delivery by pipeline, probably across the northern United States.

"Right now the whole operation is a big question," said project manager Stanley B. Haas, "a $30 million gamble."

The ice-clogged passage has been crossed several times. Haas indicated the question to be answered is whether drifting ice conditions will prevent regular, year around trips by ice-breaking tankers.

Il the passage can be opened, he said, various companies should be sending some 30 ships back and forth on an average of every day and a half—maintaining a channel through most of the passage in which ice would have little time to build up.

Humble's goal, said Jones, is to tank up to two million barrels of oil a day to the East Coast by 1980 from the oil fields it operates with Atlantic Richfield near Prudhoe Bay near the middle of Alaska's north coast.

Atlantic Richfield and the British Petroleum Oil Co. each are contributing $2 million to the Manhattan's attempt to open up the passage this summer, officials said.

The 1,000-foot Manhattan was cut up into four sections and distributed to shipyards from Bath, Maine, to Mobile, Ala. for modifications, including a n32 125-foot ice-breaking bow.

The 9,000-ton ship is being reassembled at Chester, Pa.

It is to break through the up to seven-foot ice thicknesses on a "down breaking principle." The ship moves up and over the ice, collapsing it as well as cutting it.

Stocks Close Weak After Firm Start

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks closed on a weak note today after holding firm for most of the session.

Early strength stemmed from a report President Nixon and South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu may announce plans for the first unilateral withdrawal of U.S. forces from Vietnam at their meeting Sunday.

The overall easiness was traced to growing concern over the possibility of tighter money. Also discouraging was a decline in late May automobile sales.

The UPI stock market indicator, measuring all stocks traded, showed a loss of 0.07 per cent on 1,579 issues traded. Of these, 731 declined and 603 advanced.

Electronics showed scattered strength, with a few such issues up a point or more.

Motors showed slight easiness following the disappointing industry news. Oils moved in both directions, with Atlantic Richfield generally on the winning side. Superior, however, backtracked.

Steels were narrowly mixed, with conglomerates also moving on both sides of previous closings.

CBS Acquisition

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS) has announced acquisition of Tele-Vue Systems Inc., a community antenna television system operator in California and Washington State. CBS said the acquisition involved an exchange of 346,424 shares of CBS common stock for the outstanding shares of Tele-Vue stock. A spokesman said 79,868 additional shares of CBS common stock may be issued if the results of Tele-Vue's operations through Jan. 1, 1972, fulfill conditions which have been agreed upon.

Contract Award

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Force has awarded General Electric Co. a $12.2 million contract for seven computerized information systems.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Litton Shares Good For Growth Income

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. My husband buys shares of Litton Industries through a company plan. We know nothing about stocks and wonder if we should hold the share. — W. R.

A. Because your husband is buying stock through an employe profit-sharing plan, he undoubtedly enjoys some advantage either through reduction of share price or from company matched contributions.

At recent sharply oversold levels, Litton shares are an attractive long-term commitment. A strong earnings uptrend was interrupted in the '67-'68 fiscal year, precipitating a sell-off last year. More recent weakness reflects less-than-expected recovery in earnings for second quarter and the Justice Department's investigation of conglomerate companies.

For fiscal 1969, ending July, estimates of $2.50 a share seem within reason. On that basis, shares trading at 21x are at an historically low multiple and, in relation to Litton's long-term prospects, a good buy.

Q. I have investments paying dividends in every month but February, May, August and November. What blue-chip issues pay dividends in these months? — R. H.

A. More than I would be willing to list here. Five stocks that pay in the months you mention which are well worth your consideration are: Cincinnati Gas & Electric, Consolidated Natural Gas, Diamond International, Marshall Field and Sierra Pacific Power. The first two stocks yield over 5 per cent the latter three under 4 per cent.

Q. Can anyone sell at any time through their broker these bonds: N. Y. Telephone 7½s of 2009 and Public Service Electric & Gas 7⅝s of 1999? What possible loss might one have to take in selling? — L. R.

A. Yes, both issues are salable in the open bond market. Most recent quotes were at a premium, thereby lowering yield to maturity closer to 7 per cent. However, if interest rates continue to climb, the price of these 7½ and 7⅝ per cent bonds would decline, since a drying up of demand would force their prices down to a level where the yield was more nearly in line with current rates. If, however, these bonds were held until redemption, there would be no loss of capital.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By HARRY CRAFT

Securities Firm May Become Subsidiary Of Own Creation

The investment securities firm, York Securities Corp., which has one of its four Bay Area offices in San Rafael, may become the subsidiary of its own creation — Portsmouth Square, Inc.

The first move toward this end was taken last week when Portsmouth Square stockholders held their annual meeting in San Francisco and voted to acquire York Securities. They also voted to increase Portsmouth authorized common shares from 250,000 to 750,000 to make the transaction possible.

York organized Portsmouth Square almost two years ago — not as a holding company — but to supply 25 per cent of the equity and also the organizational management for a 572-room hotel to be operated by Holiday Inns and a 460-stall garage to be operated by Evon Garage Corp. at the site of the old Hall of Justice on Kearny Street, San Francisco.

Since then Portsmouth has expanded its equity to 67 per cent, its assets to $3.4 million and its shareholders to 600. In April it also acquired Robo Bay Cities, Inc., which has an exclusive franchise for automatic car wash installations in seven Northern California counties (its first installation was in San Rafael). Along with the acquisition of York, Portsmouth will also take on Crowe Investment Services of Castro Valley.

All this requires the approval of the Board of Governors of the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange (of which York is a member) and of the Commissioner of Corporations to issue more Portsmouth Square capital stock. But if and when this is received, shareholders who thought they were simply acquiring an interest in a hotel and garage will find themselves also with two investment firms and a car wash system all over Northern California.

NEW NAME for the C. A. Rypinski Co., San Rafael, is Rydax, Inc. The company manufactures specialized digital communications equipment. Rydax will also enter into the manufacture of remote control terminals for teleprinters used at high-frequency radio stations.

MEDIA S SALES, INC., formerly located in San Francisco and now at 101 Casa Buena Drive, Corte Madera, has purchased the publication Pacific Air and Truck Traffic from Pacific Shipper, Inc. Media Sales was formerly advertising sales representative for the publication.

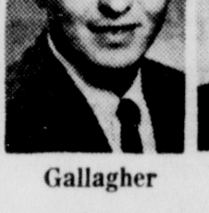
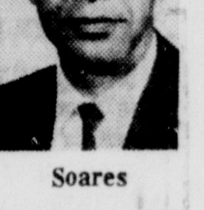
TWO NEW STAFF ADDITIONS have been made at Pacific Coast Title Co., San Rafael.

Richard J. Soares of San Rafael has joined the company as an escrow officer. For the past four years he has been a title officer at Marin Title Guaranty Co. Previously he was 10 years with Belcher Abstract and Title Co., Eureka — six years as manager.



Gallagher



Soares

Another new addition is Michael P. Gallagher of Tomales, also appointed an escrow officer. He was formerly with Western Title Guaranty Co. and Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.

JAMES BERGDALL of Mill Valley has been named board chairman of Little Lambs Nursery School in Tiburon. Other new board members include John Radovich of Mill Valley, vice chairman; Leonard Peck, Mill Valley, secretary; Mrs. Flavio Gomez, Tiburon, treasurer; Mrs. Lawrence Bogel, Tiburon, publicity chairman, and Mrs. Charles Beardsley, Tiburon, educational supervisor.

The school is now completing plans for its summer program July 1 - 24, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from 9 to 11:30 a.m.

HERB MICHELSON

Too Good In One Stretch And You'll Suffer Later

OAKLAND — One of the dumb things about baseball is the built-in irony of being so good during one stretch that you suffer later.

The A's were confronted with this curious mini-nuisance last month. While winning 9 of 11 early in May, their front-line pitching was so consistently good that the relief pitchers got little work. And when the starters soured slightly later in the month and help was needed from the bullpen, there were problems.

The relief pitchers were suffering from lack of exercise — and game conditions. They had grown too stale to be steady. It's not that a relief pitcher needs to work every day to be sharp. But in most cases, a reliever is used when the slightest variation from concentration and sharpness can be fatal.

"ONE MISTAKE and a relief pitcher has had it," said former Oakland bullpenner Diego Segui, now a Seattle relief fellow. "Starters can get away with letting down once in a while. But not us guys in the bullpen."

The unemployment charts on the A's relievers in May are revealing. Rollie Fingers pitched only three innings between May 4 and 21. For Lew Krausse there were but five frames of toil — and ineffective labor at that — between May 1 and 21. In those five innings Lew gave up seven runs. He's simply used to working more.

Between May 2 and 20, Paul Lindblad, the number one left-handed reliever, worked only three innings. Jim Roland, the ex-Twin lefty, pitched only one-third of an inning in a 25-day period. He might have been happier sitting at home waiting for an extension of the bullpen phone to ring.

JOHN WYATT toiled for one inning on May 1 and never saw action again before he was cut May 26. He could always maintain he didn't have a chance to prove himself. And would any jury return a guilty finding?

Lastly, side-arming Eddie Sprague, who was idled part of the month after falling on the clubhouse steps and bruising an ankle, worked only three innings between May 2 and 25. Thus when it came time for him to do some serious relief pitching on May 29 and 30, he was bashed for three home funs and nine runs in seven innings.

LINDBLAD, THE most savvy and frequently most capable of the Athletic bullpen fraternity, can do naught but smile disgustedly over the peculiar problem of a good streak turning into a bad one.

"They try to work us somehow even when we're not seeing any game action," says Lindy. "But of course, it's not the same.

"FOR INSTANCE, every day each of us will try to throw an inning in the bullpen sometime. Our inning will correspond to the same time as one inning the guy's working on the mound, except we'll throw four times as many pitches. But of course it's not the same."

Of course. But there are no B games in the regular season as at spring training. And young pitchers need consistent work and pressure if they're to learn and mature.

JUST SITTING around may be fine for bullpen veterans like Wilhelm, Abernathy, Regan, Wood, Perranoski — although they aren't that idle because their clubs have fewer good starters. But gathering splinters in May cost the A's some half dozen games on Minny, which could mean an awfully painful paradox come September.

Novato To Host Cross Country Race June 14

The cross-country race, which has drawn hundreds of entries from all over the Bay Area in past years, will again be a featured part of Western Weekend Country Fair in Novato, according to Carl Jensen, chairman of the run sponsored by the Marin Athletic League.

The run is 6.87 miles long and will start at the main fire station on Grant Avenue at Highway 101 at 9:30 a.m., June 14, Jensen said. Runners should report in to the fire station at 7:30 a.m. for assignment of their numbers, he said.

There will be trophies for the first three winners and ribbons for the next 75, as in previous years.

Why Wes Westrum Would Never Be Giant Manager

By JACK HANLEY

MONTREAL — As Air Canada's flight 773 sped toward Montreal, Wes Westrum turned to his seat mate and pointed to the scene thousands of feet below.

Manhattan's towering skyscrapers looked like little needles. Shea Stadium, where the Giants had just finished a weekend series with the Mets, already had faded from sight.

"DO YOU miss it?" Westrum was asked.

"Both."

"They both treated me good," said Westrum, "the city and the ball park. But as for missing them, no. I'm happy where I am — with the Giants. I began my career with them almost three decades ago. I guess I'll wind it up with them. Not that I have any thoughts about retiring in the near future. After all, I still have a few years to go before I'm even 50."

When Westrum's playing days with the Giants were over, Horace Stoneham gave him a coaching berth but repeatedly passed him over as manager. Stoneham is a sentimental club owner when it comes to former ball players, particularly ex-Giant greats such as Westrum.

Stoneham respects Westrum's knowledge of the game. He admired the job Westrum did as manager of the Mets for three seasons after Casey Stengel's retirement was hastened by a hip injury. He didn't try to dissuade Westrum in 1963 from quitting his job as a Giant coach to become Casey's chief assistant and heir apparent.

"You'll always have a coaching job with us if things don't work out," Stoneham told Westrum.

And Stoneham was as good as his word. When Westrum resigned as Met manager because he knew Gil Hodges was being groomed as his successor, Stoneham contacted him immediately and requested him to return to the Giants.

"We need you on the coaching lines," said Stoneham who knew that Westrum had been offered a front office Met job at $17,000.

Stoneham pays his coaches more than any other club — $15,000. But he matched the $17,000 the Mets had offered Westrum.

"I never had a better boss," Westrum has said on many occasions when Stoneham's name has popped up in conversations.

BUT WESTRUM'S happiness with the Giants never will be complete because he knows Stoneham never will appoint him manager of the team. Why? Not because Stoneham lacks confidence in Westrum.

Some years ago when the Pacific Coast League farm club of the Giants at Phoenix had a managerial opening, Westrum's name was brought up.

"No," said Stoneham. "I don't want him to take the job. Sooner or later the time comes when a manager must be fired. I never want to fire Westrum. I like him too much."

Students At Tomales Make Democracy Work

Young people get their first practice in the workings of democracy in the schools, and how they respond may tell us something of the kind of citizens we are building.

Especially heartening, we think, is the response at Tomales High School, where student preference in a student body election ran up against an administrative veto, and the students today are balloting on a proposed constitutional change to give them greater autonomy hereafter.

THE ISSUE AROSE because Supt.-Principal Anthony Matulich ruled one of two candidates for next fall's student president was ineligible — for reasons he has refused to state publicly.

The student, Robert Borello, is a popular young man on campus — so popular that, despite the superintendent's ruling, a majority of voting students wrote in his name.

Matulich then ruled young Borello could not serve.

This brought on a brief "confrontation" in the manner that is becoming traditional on campus, followed by a "strike" of 50 to 75 students for two class periods.

BUT THEN the Tomales students showed their maturity and their ability to deal sensibly and democratically with the issue. One hundred and sixty-five of them — out of a student body of 201 — presented a petition declaring they felt young Borello should have the office — 74 more than voted for him in the first place. But a student committee accepted the superintendent's adverse decision on behalf of the student body, then arranged for an election today to amend the constitution so the superintendent cannot hereafter veto a candidate on unspecified grounds.

IT IS ALSO worth noting that in the the election, there were 177 votes cast for student president out of the 201 students at the school.

This turnout was in sharp contrast with those in some other recent student elections hereabout.

At Sonoma State College, a series of elections have been challenged on various grounds. First, Jon Owen of Novato was elected to be student body president. That election was challenged for alleged voting irregularities. Then James Gillette defeated Owen by 23 votes. That result was challenged on a rather flimsy basis.

But of the 8,000-odd students at Sonoma State, little more than 1,300 voted in either of the contested elections.

AT SAN FRANCISCO State College, acting president S. I. Hayakawa threw out one student body election on the grounds that insufficient time was given for candidates to qualify. He was hoping to get more student involvement. Of the 16,000 students, only about 2,000 had voted. But in the second election, only 1,800 voted.

It appears that the high school students at Tomales know a good deal more about making democracy work than do the college students at Sonoma State or San Francisco State.

27 Legislators Ready To Cut Funds For Higher Education

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The amazing 27 Assembly votes for a budget amendment eliminating funds for higher education, proposed by Assemblyman Ray Johnson, R-Chico, indicated lawmakers are at the point where they need but little more prodding by their constituents to take drastic steps toward curbing campus disorders.

Not long ago the Johnson proposal would have been lucky to receive the support of a half dozen assemblymen. But sentiment is changing in the legislature, as evidenced by the vote, and although the proposal was voted down, 35-27, it is significant it was given serious consideration at all.

EFFORTS to shape up the administrators and faculties of the university and colleges have been under way for some time in the legislature, which has more than 100 bills before it regarding various phases of higher education unrest.

One of the most potent suggestions came from the state Senate Republican caucus, headed by Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Pasadena. Senator George Deukmajian, R-Long Beach, the majority floor leader in the upper house, issued a statement on behalf of the caucus which said in part:

"We affirm our belief that the most basic responsibility for maintaining order and resolving problems within a college community lies with the administrators and the faculty of the college.

"We believe it is time that all administrators in the University of California and state college systems acquire a new resolve. It is time for them to make this flat declaration to their students:

" 'If you choose to cause violence and disruption, you shall be subject to suspension or expulsion. If you choose to break the law, you shall be subject to arrest and punishment. There shall be no amnesty.'

"We also believe that constructive leadership by concerned faculty members can do much to ease the current climate of conflict. We submit that all UC and state college professors, especially those who are sympathetic to student complaints and requests, should spend some time teaching one of the great lessons of history, namely, that violence only breeds more violence.

"Further, it is time that certain faculty members stop following their hypocritical policy of 'selective indignation.'

"WHEN VIOLENCE occurs and police or the National Guard must be brought to the campus, these persons become indignant over the so-called 'intrusion' into the academic community. We submit that they should also become indignant when a handful of students walk into their classrooms and tell them it has been arbitrarily decided by a tiny minority that there will be no classes.

"Reform cannot be born in chaos. In a free society, intimidation, violence and coercion cannot be tolerated, either on a college campus or in the city streets. And we stand with the governor when he says that we will not tolerate such tactics."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

A Rose By No Other Name . . .

This is in response to the editorial of Saturday, May 23, in which, among other ideas, it was stated that correctional officers should be called guards because this is really what they are.

Many of our 360 uniformed officers have expressed their dismay at this statement. These men are serving their community and their state in a conscientious and professional manner. They are employed through a selective process so rigorous that only 10 or 12 per cent of the initial applicants are hired. Employees undergo many hours of both classroom and on-the-job training. At least one year and perhaps two are required before a correctional officer becomes really effective.

The term "correctional officer" is not merely an euphemism for guard. A guard does just that — guards and nothing else. Our correctional officers are expected to counsel angry men, be good public relations representatives in working with visitors, to supervise maintenance crews, work effectively with psychiatric problems, and to remain mature and professional in the face of physical danger or verbal abuse. . . .

'Causes' Cloak Personal Interests

Little did I dream, when we were sloshing around here in hip boots, a few years back, that our dilemma would eventually distress Roger Kent, frustrate Mrs. Jones, upset Mr. Graham, arouse college students, pit highlanders against lowlanders, Democrat against Republican, conservationist against concrete, neighbor against neighbor, young against old, friend against friend, and put the Corps of Engineers and the Department of Public Works on the rack.

What amazes me in the current disunity in the county is that the culprit, flood, is ruthlessly democratic, a fact that united College Park in a determined effort to prevent a reoccurrence. Interested residents met, again and again, with city, county and college officials to work out a long-range, financially feasible solution to a problem of magnitude, confronting many people in many areas.

The Corps of Engineers was invited to participate after all local avenues of assistance were exhausted. To infer that these public meetings, which extended over many, many months, were somehow held underground belies the fact that those concerned enough about their homes did their homework. They found out when the meetings were held.

It would seem to me that the time for the prodigal outpouring of zeal, creativity and political expertise now in evidence should have been back when the page was blank. Colonel Boerger and Don Frost have taken their lumps, but one thing can not be denied, they were there!

I criticize no one for past apathy. Concern for our fellow man rises in all of us as the problem directly concerns ourselves. What I do object to is cloaking honest, personal worry about property in grand, humanitarian, ecological causes. . . .

Even if we were released from all future destruction, we would be smug to the extreme to ignore the need of those in the upper Ross Valley. For anyone, no matter how dedicated his motives, to demand the perfect esthetic ditch at the expense of those in the path of floods and taxpayers footing the bill, seems callous and cavalier.

I would consider it a pyrrhic victory indeed if by salvaging a few feet of sylvan beauty I was responsible for even one family's despair and financial loss as the result of a flood.

Suspects Likened To Park Proponents

Those pictures of the suspects on the first page of the May 28 issue might well have been taken of the dealers of the dissidents, namely the brainless ones that are being used by the glib-tongued anarchist crowd. I saw them last night (May 29) at the meeting of the Berkeley councilmen. Ugh!

I think the best thing the U.S. can do is to turn that piece of ground over to the "bums" and let them farm it. Before snow falls they would all be gone. . . .

Don't Despoil Lake Lagunitas!

The proposal to expend $250,000 to commercialize Lake Lagunitas must be, repeat, must be a hoax.

No one can be seriously recommending this defilement of one of the last unspoiled natural wonders of our beautiful county. We have, right in our backyard, so to speak, what is no longer available even in the distant Sierra Nevadas and that is: accessible peace and quiet. Let's not pollute this gem, our own pure Lake Lagunitas.

(Editor's note: Attractive Lake Lagunitas is not actually a natural wonder. It was created by construction of a dam in Lagunitas Creek in 1872 to impound a water supply for the area. It was acquired by Marin Municipal Water District when the district purchased facilities of Marin Water and Power Co. in 1916.)

Unity At Meeting In Bangkok Spurs Hope For SEATO Revival

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

HONOLULU — There is the growing awareneess among Southeast Asian nations that they must act in concert if they are to prevent future Vietnams.

They know by now that this is the only basis on which they can expect the United States to help keep the peace on the Asian mainland.

Unexpectedly, the SEATO countries are beginning to move in this direction.

THIS BECAME evident at their recent Bangkok meeting, attended by the foreign ministers of Australia, New Zealand, Thailand, Pakistan, the Philippines, Great Britain, and the United States, at which these lessons of Vietnam began to be more clearly faced:

1—The need to create a regional defense system for Southeast Asia;

2—The need to recognize that the threat of Communist "wars of liberation" will not cease even when the fighting ends in South Vietnam;

3—The need to build and pool sufficient collective strength to deter aggression.

SOME HAVE BEEN talking about the Southeast Asian Treaty Organization as though it were dead or so helpless that it ought to be put out of its misery.

That's not the story which comes out of the Bangkok meeting, where both the ministers and their military advisers found themselves more united than in the past.

There are two reasons for the new interest among the SEATO nations in a stronger regional defense system.

One is that, in light of the pain and frustration of Vietnam, the United States will not likely again defend a Southeast Asian country unless the region as a whole has already shown it is prepared to defend itself.

The other is that the Communist guerrilla infiltration into non-Communist Asian countries will almost certainly continue until it becomes evident that it can't succeed.

THE EVIDENCE which accounts for this mounting concern is considerable.

Laos is in the most immediate peril. It is already half-controlled by Communists, mostly infiltrated by North Vietnamese. It is a tempting and nearly open highway for infiltration to most of Southeast Asia.

Foreign Communist guerrillas are keeping up their terrorist and propaganda activity against the Thai government in the north and northeast parts of the country and in its southern pit.

With the imminent withdrawal of the British everywhere east of the Suez, Singapore is peculiarly exposed, an inviting target since 80 per cent of the petroleum needed to sustain Japan's burgeoning economy goes through the Strait of Malacca.

NORTH KOREA'S reckless and unpredictable actions add to the uncertainty throughout Asia. Its avowed aim is to try again to conquer South Korea by force. It is so fearful of the growing prosperity in South Korea that it hopes to create enough trouble to scare away further foreign investment. In seizing the Pueblo and shooting down the U.S. reconnaissance plane, it was feeling out how far the United States could be pushed.

The United States is not going to be pushed out of international waters and airways by North Korea or any other country. And the unity at the Bangkok meeting showed that all SEATO allies will not be pushed into making a counterfeit peace in Vietnam.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Turnover To Saigon Price-Tagged $6.2 Billion

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The cost of modernizing South Vietnamese troop units, so they can take over the fighting there from U.S. forces, is estimated by the Pentagon to be at least $6.2 billion.

That is the whopping price-tag which is being supplied in response to congressional inquiries. Maj. Gen. Henry A. Miley Jr., the Army's deputy chief of staff for logistics, is the Pentagon's authority on the matter.

He says the $6.2 billion will finance equipment, ammunition and other consumable supplies to upgrade South Vietnamese fighting units. Additional sums apparently will be required, however, to complete modernization of South Vietnamese air and naval forces.

ABOUT $400 MILLION worth of Army equipment has already been delivered to the South Vietnamese army, along with some $370 million worth of ammunition. Equipment supplied has included M-16 rifles, M-60 machine guns and the like.

More transfers will be financed under a supplemental appropriations bill recently passed by the House and awaiting Senate approval. The bill includes about $300 million in modernization funds.

The Pentagon is setting no deadline, now, for completion of the modernization program. Pentagon spokesmen say the completion schedule, like the ultimate cost, will depend on future events — including developments at the Paris peace talks.

THE MODERNIZATION program began in March 1968 with the decision to supply South Vietnamese units with the M-16 rifle. Initially it was to be a two-phase operation.

Under phase one, South Vietnamese ground forces were to be upgraded under guidelines which assumed that the United States forces would remain and provide logistical services together with air-naval support. Phase two assumed that the United States and North Vietnam would withdraw, at some future date. It called for a balanced modernization of all South Vietnamese armed forces.

With the start of the peace talks in Paris, the Pentagon decided to telescope the two phases and move them ahead simultaneously.

CHINA SLOWDOWN — Mao Tse-tung's cultural revolution has probably delayed Peking's nuclear weapons program, but its major damage has been to Communist China's fledgling technical and industrial base.

That is the growing conviction within the intelligence community here.

In the past, there has sometimes been a tendency for U. S. policy makers to underestimate the technological potential of the Communist Chinese. Early accomplishments in China's nuclear weapons program consistently surprised the experts here.

That situation is significantly changed now. Deployment of medium range ballistic missiles, to blackmail China's neighbors, has apparently been deferred. Communist China has not yet tested a ballistic missile of intercontinental range.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, June 4, the 155th day of 1969 with 210 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn. The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1800 the finishing touches were put on the White House.

In 1896 Henry Ford wheeled his first car from a brick shed in Detroit and drove it around the darkened streets for a trial run.

In 1942 the Battle of Midway began, an encounter in which the Japanese fleet suffered its first decisive defeat of World War II.

In 1967 war broke out between Israel and Egypt. It lasted five days and Israel got much Arab territory.

A thought for the day: Roman playwright Terence said, "Nothing is so difficult but that is may be found out by seeking."

45 To Graduate At St. Anselm's

Forty-five students are to be graduated at St. Anselm's School in San Anselmo on Saturday.

There will be a mass for the class at 10 a.m. at Saint Anselm's Church. Following mass, Rev. John J. Hayes will address the graduates at a breakfast to be held in the school hall.

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE

Traditional Lead Can Telegraph Your Hand To Other Players

The traditional lead against a notrump contract is the fourth-highest card in your longest and strongest suit. This practice permits other players to draw inferences about the nature of your hand.

SPADE PLAY

West opened the deuce of spades, and South immediately assumed that West had led from a four-card suit. Sometimes a player has a card lower than his lead, a fifth-best card, but the leader cannot have a card lower than the deuce.

South confirmed the spade position by refusing East's queen and then the king. East continued with a low spade, and South on. Now it was clear that West had led from a four-card spade suit headed by the jack.

This information became important when declarer then began to run his heart tricks and discovered that, West had started with only one heart. Oddly enough, the fact that West was known to have four spades and one heart in his original hand told South how to play the diamonds.

NO FIVE-CARD SUIT

Since North and South had bid only notrump, West could yave had no reason to avoid leading a suit. He would surely lead his best suit, whichever it happened to be. If he had a five-card suit he would open it in preference to leading from a four-card suit. In other words, West could not have five diamonds or five clubs since he had chosen to open from a four-card spade suit.

South knew that West had started with eight cards in clubs and diamonds combined. If West couldn't have a five-card suit, he surely held four clubs and four diamonds.

To play the diamonds correctly, therefore, South took the ace and king and then led his low diamond to win a finesse with dummy's ten. This somewhat unusual finesse was necessary for the contract.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with no trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold:

♠—A 7 4
♥—K Q 10 6
♦—A K 6
♣—10 9 7

ANSWER: Bid two clubs, the Stayman Convention, asking partner to show a major suit of four or more cares.

If partner bids two hearts, you will raise to four hearts; and if he bids two diamonds you can afford to bid two hearts. But if partner bids two spades, you plan to bid two notrump since your hand is not quite strong enough for a bid of three hearts.

More One-Way Streets Seem Likely As Opposition Fails To Develop

Ten years ago when San Rafael thought about making Second and Third one-way streets, merchants protested but the system passed and traffic was confused only briefly when it went into effect.

Since then, city officials have periodically eyed more one-way streets to help ease downtown congestion.

Public Works Director Norris Rawles has talked of making Fourth, Fifth and Mission one way and prohibiting parking along more thoroughfares during commute hours (such as already in effect on Lincoln Avenue).

But expected opposition from businessmen seems to have kept a damper on enthusiasm — until last January when the city council authorized a study on one-way streets and parking downtown.

The report, from D. Jackson Faustman, a Sacramento traffic engineering consultant, is almost certain to recommend more one-way streets in downtown San Rafael.

City Mgr. Dan Andersen expects to receive it within about a week — in time for the June 16 council meeting.

MEANWHILE, there have been indications that the expected opposition from businessmen may not materialize, at least not to the extent expected.

Glenn Adair, the new manager of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, said several businessmen have spoken to him of the need for more one-way streets and the chamber is planning a meeting with City Engineer Ely Caillouette to talk about the Faustman report.

ROSS MAY HAVE the most civilized dogs in Marin, but Belvedere has one that would give any high-class pooch competition.

The dog is walked carefully down one of Belvedere's quiet streets, with the master holding the leash in one hand and the steering wheel of his classic Corvette in the other.

A WORKSHOP for department heads who would be involved in the New Careers program and who are viewing it with some apprehension was suggested last week by the county board of supervisors.

Supervisors also indicated dissatisfaction with a compromise New Careers proposal which would cost $63,100 instead of the no-cost approach of Dr. Arthur Pearl, one of the originators of the program.

They asked the county administrator's office to set up a weekend seminar with College of Marin after Asst. Administrator Thomas Campanella reported some department heads are reticent about the program.

Dr. Pearl, a professor at the University of Oregon who was in Marin for the board meeting, volunteered his time to the seminar. So far, nothing definite has been set.

The board delayed action on any New Careers program until budget time.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Teachers' Lobby Shows Where Its Interests Lie

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

The most powerful education lobby in Sacramento is most interested in teacher pay, retirement benefits, leaves, and credentials, and least interested in campus discipline.

That most powerful lobby is, of course, the California Teachers Association. An assessment of where its interests lie may be drawn from the positions it has taken on more than 100 bills in the current legislature.

THE CTA SPONSORED 17 measures this year — bills which in most cases were actually written at its Burlingame headquarters. It has also taken positions on nearly 100 others.

Of the 17 CTA bills, four would improve benefits for retired teachers and their survivors. Three are to improve teachers' pay. Three deal with teaching credentials. Two add to mandatory leaves for teachers.

The CTA always backs a school finance measure. This year it sponsored AB 409 by Assemblymen James W. Dent, R-Concord, and Carlos Bee, D-Hayward. This provides for gradually increased state support of school districts on a basis of percentage of what the districts spend rather than on a dollar basis.

THE TEACHER PAY bills sponsored by CTA would raise the minimum starting salary to $6,800 (AB 1088, Alan Sieroty, D-Los Angeles), require summer school pay on a prorata with that of the regular school term (SB 1193, Albert S. Rodda, D-Sacramento), and permit school boards to raise teachers' pay at any time rather than limiting such increases to twice a year (AB 747, William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights).

Among the credential measures is SB 708 by Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Watsonville, which would repeal the Fisher Act — the law requiring teachers to have majored in "academic subjects" and forcing a fifth year of college attendance for a credential.

The leave measures call for mandatory leaves of absence for teachers elected to public office (AB 543, Dent) and for teachers becoming pregnant (AB 1564, March K. Fong, D-Oakland).

Another CTA-sponsored measure, SB 430 by Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-San Pedro, would put all health and welfare benefits of teachers on the taxpayer. Most districts now have teachers contribute part of the costs.

AB 29 (Eugene A. Chappie, R-Eldorado), making it a misdemeanor to send an insulting or abusive not to a teacher, and AB 803 (Lewis F. Sherman, R-Oakland), making it a misdemeanor for a parent or guardian to encourage a child to cut school.

AB 53 (Leroy F. Greene, D-Sacramento), repealing the requirement that the State Board of Education adopt minimum academic standards for pupil achievement.

WHAT THE CTA OPPOSES in the way of legislation is just as revealing as what it supports. It went all-out this year against AB 5 (Robert H. Burke, R-Huntington Beach) and SB 35 (John G. Schmitz, R-Tustin), identical bills to repeal the 1971 removal of all ceilings on school tax rates.

Others in a long list of bills opposed by CTA include:

SB 217 (H. L. Richardson, R-Pasadena), authorizing dismissal of a teacher for advocating disobedience to law, and SB 261 (Richardson), authorizing dismissal of a teacher who falsifies a job application.

SB 382 (Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose), cancelling tenure of any teacher who goes on strike, and SB 431, by the same senator, doing away with tenure in state colleges.

SB 520, a measure with a long list of sponsors, which would provide additional state funds if school districts reduced their tax rates.

CTA also opposed several bills aimed at prohibiting or postponing sex and "family life" education.

Northwest Route For Oil Tapping

WASHINGTON (AP) — A "$30 million gamble" to open up a 20th Century Northwest Passage—across the Arctic ice to Alaska oil fields—was announced yesterday by one of the nation's largest petroleum producers.

Humble Oil Co. officials said a giant ice-breaking tanker, the Manhattan, is scheduled to leave Philadelphia July 15, to plow through ice across the top of North America to the oil fields on the north coast of Alaska.

If the route proves practical, they said, they hope to be freighting oil year-around to the East Coast by 1972.

Beyond that, they said, the experiment could open up a new international searoute that could cut the London-Tokyo sea distance by almost half — from 14,000 miles to 8,000—and open up Canada's and Alaska's rich northern mineral resources.

Humble President Charles F. Jones said one point on the route is equidistant from London, New York and Tokyo and added:

"History teaches us that new sea routes have frequently had unforeseen consequences, actually altering the relationships and balance among nations."

Jones and other company officials announced their plans in an elaborate news conference conducted by closed-circuit television simultaneously in Washington and New York.

They said they have no assurance the Northwest Passage will be practical.

If it's not, they indicated, the alternative will be oil delivery by pipeline, probably across the northern United States.

"Right now the whole operation is a big question," said project manager Stanley B. Haas, "a $30 million gamble."

The ice-clogged passage has been crossed several times. Haas indicated the question to be answered is whether drifting ice conditions will prevent regular, year around trips by ice-breaking tankers.

Il the passage can be opened, he said, various companies should be sending some 30 ships back and forth on an average of every day and a half—maintaining a channel through most of the passage in which ice would have little time to build up.

Humble's goal, said Jones, is to tank up to two million barrels of oil a day to the East Coast by 1980 from the oil fields it operates with Atlantic Richfield near Prudhoe Bay near the middle of Alaska's north coast.

Atlantic Richfield and the British Petroleum Oil Co. each are contributing $2 million to the Manhattan's attempt to open up the passage this summer, officials said.

The 1,000-foot Manhattan was cut up into four sections and distributed to shipyards from Bath, Maine, to Mobile, Ala. for modifications, including a n32 125-foot ice-breaking bow.

The 9,000-ton ship is being reassembled at Chester, Pa.

It is to break through the up to seven-foot ice thicknesses on a "down breaking principle." The ship moves up and over the ice, collapsing it as well as cutting it.

Stocks Close Weak After Firm Start

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks closed on a weak note today after holding firm for most of the session.

Early strength stemmed from a report President Nixon and South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu may announce plans for the first unilateral withdrawal of U.S. forces from Vietnam at their meeting Sunday.

The overall easiness was traced to growing concern over the possibility of tighter money. Also discouraging was a decline in late May automobile sales.

The UPI stock market indicator, measuring all stocks traded, showed a loss of 0.07 per cent on 1,579 issues traded. Of these, 731 declined and 603 advanced.

Motors showed slight easiness following the disappointing industry news. Oils moved in both directions, with Atlantic Richfield generally on the winning side. Superior, however, backtracked.

Steels were narrowly mixed, with conglomerates also moving on both sides of previous closings.

CBS Acquisition

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS) has announced acquisition of Tele-Vue Systems Inc., a community antenna television system operator in California and Washington State. CBS said the acquisition involved an exchange of 346,424 shares of CBS common stock for the outstanding shares of Tele-Vue stock. A spokesman said 79,868 additional shares of CBS common stock may be issued if the results of Tele-Vue's operations through Jan. 1, 1972, fulfill conditions which have been agreed upon.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Force has awarded General Electric Co. a $12.2 million contract for seven computerized information systems.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Litton Shares Good For Growth Income

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. My husband buys shares of Litton Industries through a company plan. We know nothing about stocks and wonder if we should hold the share. — W. R.

A. Because your husband is buying stock through an employe profit-sharing plan, he undoubtedly enjoys some advantage either through reduction of share price or from company matched contributions.

At recent sharply oversold levels, Litton shares are an attractive long-term commitment. A strong earnings uptrend was interrupted in the '67-'68 fiscal year, precipitating a sell-off last year. More recent weakness reflects less-than-expected recovery in earnings for second quarter and the Justice Department's investigation of conglomerate companies.

For fiscal 1969, ending July, estimates of $2.50 a share seem within reason. On that basis, shares trading at 21x are at an historically low multiple and, in relation to Litton's long-term prospects, a good buy.

Q. I have investments paying dividends in every month but February, May, August and November. What blue-chip issues pay dividends in these months? — R. H.

A. More than I would be willing to list here. Five stocks that pay in the months you mention which are well worth your consideration are: Cincinnati Gas & Electric, Consolidated Natural Gas, Diamond International, Marshall Field and Sierra Pacific Power. The first two stocks yield over 5 per cent the latter three under 4 per cent.

Q. Can anyone sell at any time through their broker these bonds: N. Y. Telephone 7½s of 2009 and Public Service Electric & Gas 7⅝s of 1999? What possible loss might one have to take in selling? — L. R.

A. Yes, both issues are salable in the open bond market. Most recent quotes were at a premium, thereby lowering yield to maturity closer to 7 per cent. However, if interest rates continue to climb, the price of these 7½ and 7⅝ per cent bonds would decline, since a drying up of demand would force their prices down to a level where the yield was more nearly in line with current rates. If, however, these bonds were held until redemption, there would be no loss of capital.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By HARRY CRAFT

Securities Firm May Become Subsidiary Of Own Creation

The investment securities firm, York Securities Corp., which has one of its four Bay Area offices in San Rafael, may become the subsidiary of its own creation — Portsmouth Square, Inc.

The first move toward this end was taken last week when Portsmouth Square stockholders held their annual meeting in San Francisco and voted to acquire York Securities. They also voted to increase Portsmouth authorized common shares from 250,000 to 750,000 to make the transaction possible.

York organized Portsmouth Square almost two years ago — not as a holding company — but to supply 25 per cent of the equity and also the organizational management for a 572-room hotel to be operated by Holiday Inns and a 460-stall garage to be operated by Evon Garage Corp. at the site of the old Hall of Justice on Kearny Street, San Francisco.

Since then Portsmouth has expanded its equity to 67 per cent, its assets to $3.4 million and its shareholders to 600. In April it also acquired Robo Bay Cities, Inc., which has an exclusive franchise for automatic car wash installations in seven Northern California counties (its first installation was in San Rafael). Along with the acquisition of York, Portsmouth will also take on Crowe Investment Services of Castro Valley.

All this requires the approval of the Board of Governors of the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange (of which York is a member) and of the Commissioner of Corporations to issue more Portsmouth Square capital stock. But if and when this is received, shareholders who thought they were simply acquiring an interest in a hotel and garage will find themselves also with two investment firms and a car wash system all over Northern California.

NEW NAME for the C. A. Rypinski Co., San Rafael, is Rydax, Inc. The company manufactures specialized digital communications equipment. Rydax will also enter into the manufacture of remote control terminals for teleprinters used at high-frequency radio stations.

MEDIA S SALES, INC., formerly located in San Francisco and now at 101 Casa Buena Drive, Corte Madera, has purchased the publication Pacific Air and Truck Traffic from Pacific Shipper, Inc. Media Sales was formerly advertising sales representative for the publication.

TWO NEW STAFF ADDITIONS have been made at Pacific Coast Title Co., San Rafael.

Richard J. Soares of San Rafael has joined the company as an escrow officer. For the past four years he has been a title officer at Marin Title Guaranty Co. Previously he was 10 years with Belcher Abstract and Title Co., Eureka — six years as manager.

Gallagher

Soares

Another new addition is Michael P. Gallagher of Tomales, also appointed an escrow officer. He was formerly with Western Title Guaranty Co. and Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.

JAMES BERGDALL of Mill Valley has been named board chairman of Little Lambs Nursery School in Tiburon. Other new board members include John Radovich of Mill Valley, vice chairman; Leonard Peck, Mill Valley, secretary; Mrs. Flavio Gomez, Tiburon, treasurer; Mrs. Lawrence Bogel, Tiburon, publicity chairman, and Mrs. Charles Beardsley, Tiburon, educational supervisor.

The school is now completing plans for its summer program July 1 - 24, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from 9 to 11:30 a.m.

Students At Tomales Make Democracy Work

Young people get their first practice in the workings of democracy in the schools, and how they respond may tell us something of the kind of citizens we are building.

Especially heartening, we think, is the response at Tomales High School, where student preference in a student body election ran up against an administrative veto, and the students today are balloting on a proposed constitutional change to give them greater autonomy hereafter.

THE ISSUE AROSE because Supt.-Principal Anthony Matulich ruled one of two candidates for next fall's student president was ineligible — for reasons he has refused to state publicly.

The student, Robert Borello, is a popular young man on campus — so popular that, despite the superintendent's ruling, a majority of voting students wrote in his name.

Matulich then ruled young Borello could not serve.

This brought on a brief "confrontation" in the manner that is becoming traditional on campus, followed by a "strike" of 50 to 75 students for two class periods.

BUT THEN the Tomales students showed their maturity and their ability to deal sensibly and democratically with the issue. One hundred and sixty-five of them — out of a student body of 201 — presented a petition declaring they felt young Borello should have the office — 74 more than voted for him in the first place. But a student committee accepted the superintendent's adverse decision on behalf of the student body, then arranged for an election today to amend the constitution so the superintendent cannot hereafter veto a candidate on unspecified grounds.

IT IS ALSO worth noting that in the the election, there were 177 votes cast for student president out of the 201 students at the school.

This turnout was in sharp contrast with those in some other recent student elections hereabout.

At Sonoma State College, a series of elections have been challenged on various grounds. First, Jon Owen of Novato was elected to be student body president. That election was challenged for alleged voting irregularities. Then James Gillette defeated Owen by 23 votes. That result was challenged on a rather flimsy basis.

But of the 8,000-odd students at Sonoma State, little more than 1,300 voted in either of the contested elections.

AT SAN FRANCISCO State College, acting president S. I. Hayakawa threw out one student body election on the grounds that insufficient time was given for candidates to qualify. He was hoping to get more student involvement. Of the 16,000 students, only about 2,000 had voted. But in the second election, only 1,800 voted.

It appears that the high school students at Tomales know a good deal more about making democracy work than do the college students at Sonoma State or San Francisco State.

27 Legislators Ready To Cut Funds For Higher Education

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The amazing 27 Assembly votes for a budget amendment eliminating funds for higher education, proposed by Assemblyman Ray Johnson, R-Chico, indicated lawmakers are at the point where they need but little more prodding by their constituents to take drastic steps toward curbing campus disorders.

Not long ago the Johnson proposal would have been lucky to receive the support of a half dozen assemblymen. But sentiment is changing in the legislature, as evidenced by the vote, and although the proposal was voted down, 35-27, it is significant it was given serious consideration at all.

EFFORTS to shape up the administrators and faculties of the university and colleges have been under way for some time in the legislature, which has more than 100 bills before it regarding various phases of higher education unrest.

One of the most potent suggestions came from the state Senate Republican caucus, headed by Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Pasadena. Senator George Deukmajian, R-Long Beach, the majority floor leader in the upper house, issued a statement on behalf of the caucus which said in part:

"We affirm our belief that the most basic responsibility for maintaining order and resolving problems within a college community lies with the administrators and the faculty of the college.

"We believe it is time that all administrators in the University of California and state college systems acquire a new resolve. It is time for them to make this flat declaration to their students:

" 'If you choose to cause violence and disruption, you shall be subject to suspension or expulsion. If you choose to break the law, you shall be subject to arrest and punishment. There shall be no amnesty.'

"We also believe that constructive leadership by concerned faculty members can do much to ease the current climate of conflict. We submit that all UC and state college professors, especially those who are sympathetic to student complaints and requests, should spend some time teaching one of the great lessons of history, namely, that violence only breeds more violence.

"Further, it is time that certain faculty members stop following their hypocritical policy of 'selective indignation.'

"WHEN VIOLENCE occurs and police or the National Guard must be brought to the campus, these persons become indignant over the so-called 'intrusion' into the academic community. We submit that they should also become indignant when a handful of students walk into their classrooms and tell them it has been arbitrarily decided by a tiny minority that there will be no classes.

"Reform cannot be born in chaos. In a free society, intimidation, violence and coercion cannot be tolerated, either on a college campus or in the city streets. And we stand with the governor when he says that we will not tolerate such tactics."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

A Rose By No Other Name . . .

This is in response to the editorial of Saturday, May 23, in which, among other ideas, it was stated that correctional officers should be called guards because this is really what they are.

Many of our 360 uniformed officers have expressed their dismay at this statement. These men are serving their community and their state in a conscientious and professional manner. They are employed through a selective process so rigorous that only 10 or 12 per cent of the initial applicants are hired. Employees undergo many hours of both classroom and on-the-job training. At least one year and perhaps two are required before a correctional officer becomes really effective.

The term "correctional officer" is not merely an euphemism for guard. A guard does just that — guards and nothing else. Our correctional officers are expected to counsel angry men, be good public relations representatives in working with visitors, to supervise maintenance crews, work effectively with psychiatric problems, and to remain mature and professional in the face of physical danger or verbal abuse. . . .

'Causes' Cloak Personal Interests

Little did I dream, when we were sloshing around here in hip boots, a few years back, that our dilemma would eventually distress Roger Kent, frustrate Mrs. Jones, upset Mr. Graham, arouse college students, pit highlanders against lowlanders, Democrat against Republican, conservationist against concrete, neighbor against neighbor, young against old, friend against friend, and put the Corps of Engineers and the Department of Public Works on the rack.

What amazes me in the current disunity in the county is that the culprit, flood, is ruthlessly democratic, a fact that united College Park in a determined effort to prevent a reoccurrence. Interested residents met, again and again, with city, county and college officials to work out a long-range, financially feasible solution to a problem of magnitude, confronting many people in many areas.

The Corps of Engineers was invited to participate after all local avenues of assistance were exhausted. To infer that these public meetings, which extended over many, many months, were somehow held underground belies the fact that those concerned enough about their homes did their homework. They found out when the meetings were held.

It would seem to me that the time for the prodigal outpouring of zeal, creativity and political expertise now in evidence should have been back when the page was blank. Colonel Boerger and Don Frost have taken their lumps, but one thing can not be denied, they were there!

I criticize no one for past apathy. Concern for our fellow man rises in all of us as the problem directly concerns ourselves. What I do object to is cloaking honest, personal worry about property in grand, humanitarian, ecological causes. . . .

Even if we were released from all future destruction, we would be smug to the extreme to ignore the need of those in the upper Ross Valley. For anyone, no matter how dedicated his motives, to demand the perfect esthetic ditch at the expense of those in the path of floods and taxpayers footing the bill, seems callous and cavalier.

I would consider it a pyrrhic victory indeed if by salvaging a few feet of sylvan beauty I was responsible for even one family's despair and financial loss as the result of a flood.

Unity At Meeting In Bangkok Spurs Hope For SEATO Revival

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

HONOLULU — There is the growing awareneess among Southeast Asian nations that they must act in concert if they are to prevent future Vietnams.

They know by now that this is the only basis on which they can expect the United States to help keep the peace on the Asian mainland.

Unexpectedly, the SEATO countries are beginning to move in this direction.

THIS BECAME evident at their recent Bangkok meeting, attended by the foreign ministers of Australia, New Zealand, Thailand, Pakistan, the Philippines, Great Britain, and the United States, at which these lessons of Vietnam began to be more clearly faced:

1—The need to create a regional defense system for Southeast Asia;

2—The need to recognize that the threat of Communist "wars of liberation" will not cease even when the fighting ends in South Vietnam;

3—The need to build and pool sufficient collective strength to deter aggression.

SOME HAVE BEEN talking about the Southeast Asian Treaty Organization as though it were dead or so helpless that it ought to be put out of its misery.

That's not the story which comes out of the Bangkok meeting, where both the ministers and their military advisers found themselves more united than in the past.

There are two reasons for the new interest among the SEATO nations in a stronger regional defense system.

One is that, in light of the pain and frustration of Vietnam, the United States will not likely again defend a Southeast Asian country unless the region as a whole has already shown it is prepared to defend itself.

The other is that the Communist guerrilla infiltration into non-Communist Asian countries will almost certainly continue until it becomes evident that it can't succeed.

THE EVIDENCE which accounts for this mounting concern is considerable.

Laos is in the most immediate peril. It is already half-controlled by Communists, mostly infiltrated by North Vietnamese. It is a tempting and nearly open highway for infiltration to most of Southeast Asia.

Foreign Communist guerrillas are keeping up their terrorist and propaganda activity against the Thai government in the north and northeast parts of the country and in its southern pit.

With the imminent withdrawal of the British everywhere east of the Suez, Singapore is peculiarly exposed, an inviting target since 80 per cent of the petroleum needed to sustain Japan's burgeoning economy goes through the Strait of Malacca.

NORTH KOREA'S reckless and unpredictable actions add to the uncertainty throughout Asia. Its avowed aim is to try again to conquer South Korea by force. It is so fearful of the growing prosperity in South Korea that it hopes to create enough trouble to scare away further foreign investment. In seizing the Pueblo and shooting down the U.S. reconnaissance plane, it was feeling out how far the United States could be pushed.

The United States is not going to be pushed out of international waters and airways by North Korea or any other country. And the unity at the Bangkok meeting showed that all SEATO allies will not be pushed into making a counterfeit peace in Vietnam.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Turnover To Saigon Price-Tagged $6.2 Billion

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The cost of modernizing South Vietnamese troop units, so they can take over the fighting there from U.S. forces, is estimated by the Pentagon to be at least $6.2 billion.

That is the whopping price-tag which is being supplied in response to congressional inquiries. Maj. Gen. Henry A. Miley Jr., the Army's deputy chief of staff for logistics, is the Pentagon's authority on the matter.

He says the $6.2 billion will finance equipment, ammunition and other consumable supplies to upgrade South Vietnamese fighting units. Additional sums apparently will be required, however, to complete modernization of South Vietnamese air and naval forces.

ABOUT $400 MILLION worth of Army equipment has already been delivered to the South Vietnamese army, along with some $370 million worth of ammunition. Equipment supplied has included M-16 rifles, M-60 machine guns and the like.

More transfers will be financed under a supplemental appropriations bill recently passed by the House and awaiting Senate approval. The bill includes about $300 million in modernization funds.

The Pentagon is setting no deadline, now, for completion of the modernization program. Pentagon spokesmen say the completion schedule, like the ultimate cost, will depend on future events — including developments at the Paris peace talks.

THE MODERNIZATION program began in March 1968 with the decision to supply South Vietnamese units with the M-16 rifle. Initially it was to be a two-phase operation.

Under phase one, South Vietnamese ground forces were to be upgraded under guidelines which assumed that the United States forces would remain and provide logistical services together with air-naval support. Phase two assumed that the United States and North Vietnam would withdraw, at some future date. It called for a balanced modernization of all South Vietnamese armed forces.

With the start of the peace talks in Paris, the Pentagon decided to telescope the two phases and move them ahead simultaneously.

CHINA SLOWDOWN — Mao Tse-tung's cultural revolution has probably delayed Peking's nuclear weapons program, but its major damage has been to Communist China's fledgling technical and industrial base.

That is the growing conviction within the intelligence community here.

In the past, there has sometimes been a tendency for U. S. policy makers to underestimate the technological potential of the Communist Chinese. Early accomplishments in China's nuclear weapons program consistently surprised the experts here.

That situation is significantly changed now. Deployment of medium range ballistic missiles, to blackmail China's neighbors, has apparently been deferred. Communist China has not yet tested a ballistic missile of intercontinental range.

U.S. 'New Isolationists' Blasted

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — President Richard M. Nixon pledged today to keep U.S. defenses strong despite what he called an "open season" on criticism of the armed forces. The President also ruled out unilateral disarmament by the United States.

Nixon, using some of the strongest terms he has ever used as President against the advocates of unilateral disarmament and critics of American military power, said it would be easy to "buy some popularity by going along with the new isolationists—but it would be disastrous for our nation and the world."

"If America were to turn its back on the world, a deadening form of peace would settle over this planet—the kind of peace that suffocated freedom in Czechoslovakia," he said.

"We must rule out unilateral disarmament," Nixon said. "In the real world, that simply will not work."

Speaking in Falcon Stadium to 676 seniors and other members of the academy cadet corps, the President said "the aggressors of this world are not going to give the United States a period of grace in which to put our domestic house in order—just as the crises within our society cannot be put on a back burner until we resolve the problem of Vietnam."

Nixon's aggressive attitude against critics of the American military was broadly aimed, apparently to include opponents of his ABM Safeguard system, as well as advocates of unilateral withdrawal from Vietnam.

"It is open season on the armed forces," he told the graduating air cadets, over two-thirds of whom will go immediately into pilot training.

"On a fighting front," he told the future officers of the Air Force, "you are asked to be ready to make unlimited sacrifice in a limited war. On the home front, you are under

GOP Chiefs Back Withholding Tax

Monagan, Way Air Opinions

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The legislature's two leading Republicans, in a position directly opposite to Gov. Ronald Reagan's, today tentatively endorsed payroll withholding of the state income tax.

Senate President Pro Tem Howard Way and Assembly Speaker Robert T. Monagan discussed withholding of the income tax at a joint news conference. The get-together apparently will be a regular successor to the old "Hughie-Jessie Show" featuring former pro tem Hugh M. Burns and former speaker Jess M. Unruh.

WAY 'RETHINKS'

Way, previously an opponent of withholding, said he is "rethinking priorities" in view of the state's mounting fiscal needs for building construction.

Monagan said he, too, would support withholding if it were a part of a major tax reform program involving the shift of burden from the property tax to the income tax.

The disclosure of Way and Monagan's position gives Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, vital support for his bill to install full withholding. Bagley, as chairman of the lower house Revenue and Taxation Committee, will lead the drive for passage of the bill in the Legislature.

Reagan is an adamant foe of compulsory withholding, although his tax reform program provides a system of "voluntary" withholding of the income tax.

NO MIRACLES

But Way told reporters, "I'm personally not expecting any miracles in tax reform this session."

He said tax reform "comes about gradually. Hopefully we can take some significant steps this session and one of them might be the implementation of withholding."

Way, of Exeter, said he will soon appoint a task force of Senate tax and fiscal staff consultants to analyze and

MILL VALLEY, FAIRFAX

School Tax Hikes Drubbed At Polls

Mill Valley's bid for a 75-cent increase in the district's general purpose tax rate limit was defeated by a vote of 3,084 to 2,585.

With 12,063 voters eligible; the Mill Valley turnout was about 47 per cent.

The proposed increase would have boosted the general purpose limit from $2.25 to $3 per $100 assessed valuation, and the total tax rate, including overrides and bond redemption, from $3.135 to $3.885.

Fairfax School District voters rejected a proposed 95-cent increase in the maximum general operating tax rate by a vote of 843 to 711.

If the increase had been approved the district's operating tax rate would have been hiked from $2.05 to $3 per $100 assessed valuation; and the total tax rate from $3.015 to $3.965.

If the increase had been approved the district's operating tax rate would have been hiked from $2.05 to $3 per $100 assessed valuation: and the total tax rate from $3.015 to $3.965.

With 3,603 voters eligible, the turnout was about 43 per cent.

Defeat came in Mill Valley although trustees had promised they wouldn't levy more than 55 cents of the proposed increase during the 1969-70 fiscal year, and would operate within the 75-cent hike for at least three years. Before the vote in Fairfax; Supt. H. Reginald Hammon said the district would have to stop running the district's two buses if the increase were rejected.

New Deputies Up County Tax Rate

Next year's anticipated basic county tax rate, which started at $2.445 on Monday, rose a penny this morning with the addition of four sheriff's deputies and a sergeant to the sheriff's patrol division.

For the patrol division, Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos asked for seven additional deputies, two sergeants and one meter maid to patrol the Civic Center and Hall of Justice. County Administrator Alan Bruce recommended against any additions, but county supervisors compromised by adding four deputies and a sergeant.

This would require the addition of two patrol cars with radio equipment, for a total cost in manpower and equipment of $66,708, Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell reported. That represents 1.3 cents on the tax rate, bringing the basic county rate to $2.455, as compared with this year's $2.27.

The total anticipated rate would have been slightly higher, except that the county assessor on Monday agreed to leave one position unfilled, thus lowering the anticipated tax rate by three mills.

Supervisors this morning spent most of their time on a portion of the sheriff's total budget of $1,942,156, as compared with this year's $1,766,361.

Only the patrol division was decided this morning. Other divisions in the sheriff's department still to be considered include investigation, civil, identificaion, drug abuse, crime laboratory, administration and county jail.

Supervisors Ask Army To Speed Creek Job

By WAT TAKESHITA

Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday voted 4 to 1 to write the Army Corps of Engineers, urging that flood control work on controversial Tamalpais Creek in Kent Woodlands proceed posthaste "to minimize exposure to damage."

(Other supervisors stories, page 26, 27.)

Over strenuous objections by attorney Roger Kent of Kent Woodlands, the supervisors voted a go-ahead for repair and construction of a concrete channel between Kent Avenue and Goodhill Road. The action came on a motion by Louis H. Baar and a second by William A. Gnoss.

Lone dissenter, Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., argued that residents in the area never had a chance to reject the Tamalpais Creek portion of the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control project.

The majority action came on the recommendation of both Public Works Director Donald R. Frost and Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino, who warned that further delays could subject the county to damage liability.

The stopwork order issued by Marin Superior Court and damage that resulted from flooding of the creek by vandals has already caused about $75,000 worth of damage, reported Frost.

Kent, who filed the stopwork action, declared that in his opinion, the county is not yet liable for damages, but it would be liable if the letter is sent to the Army Corps of Engineers urging that the work proceed.

"The Army was in error," said Kent. "They cannot throw any liability on the county unless you sign this letter . . ."

Kent pointed out that Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court had described the legal proceedings on the Tamalpais Creek portion of the project as "void." He asked for more time so that a private engineer can meet with the Army Engineers and work out some solution.

Supervisor Baar, in moving for a go-head, explained he must take the advice of the county counsel. There may be a better design, but with the channel collapsing and trees in danger of toppling, he said, it is too late to stop the work.

Supervisor Gnoss recalled that the county had paid damages when work was halted on the Civic Center about eight years ago. "I don't want to go through with that again. I'll have to depend on the advice of the county counsel and the Department of Public Works."

Immediately after the vote, the supervisors voted unanimously to urge Kent Woodlands property owners to meet with the Army and the county staff to work out any improvements on Tamalpais Creek that would not halt or delay the work.

Assemblymen Debate Smut Crackdown

BULLETIN

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Assembly overwhelmingly approved legislation today aimed at tightening restrictions on the sale of pornography to youngsters under 18 years of age.

The bill setting up a special standard for judging obscenity for minors was approved 65-6.

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Legislature's major antipornography bills, backed by both Gov. Ronald Reagan and Atty. Gen. Thomas Lynch, today faced their final crucial hurdle.

The measures were set for debate in the Assembly. The floor sponsor, Assemblyman Frank Murphy, R-Santa Cruz, predicted passage. If correct, only routine Senate concurrence in previous Assembly amendments would remain before being signed into law by Reagan.

The bills, authored by Sen. Robert Lagomarsino, R-Ojai, do two key things: establish a separate standard for judging what is obscene for juveniles and what is obscene for adults; and incorporate a "pandering" concept so advertising methods can be used to determine if literature legally is obscene.

This "pandering" concept, explained Murphy, means that "if a seller puts stuff out on the basis it is the most titillating, wild, erotic, way-out stuff that will give somebody a big

Words Replace Acts Over People's Park

BERKELEY (AP) — Debate has replaced violence and mass marches here as city and University of California officials try to resolve the People's Park controversy.

Berkeley's City Council spent all morning yesterday listening to heated discussion about the three acres of fenced university land that precipitated violence May 15, a march to the state Capitol and marches through Berkeley streets.

The U.C. Board of Regents' Grounds and Buildings Committee is scheduled to discuss on Saturday, a proposal that Berkeley lease the U.C. acreage for park use.

Catherine Hearst, who resigned yesterday as vice chairman of the committee, said the full 24-member Board of Regents might not accept the committee's decision when it meets June 19 in Berkeley.

"I don't want to be a party to anything that might inflame any more violence," she said. "I want the whole matter attended to with dispatch and promptness."

The city council adopted a resolution commending Friday's peaceful march but condemning noise during the weekend at the "people's park annex" a mile northwest of the disputed land.

Meanwihle, the Alameda County Board of Supervisors rejected a Berkeley City Council request that the supervisors order the sheriff to investigate alleged cruel treatment of "people's park" demonstrators.

The sheriff, Frank Madigan, already has said the complaints are under investigation.

"Let Berkeley mind its own business," declared Supervisor Robert Hannon. "It is no business of the Berkeley City Council to demand to know how the sheriff runs his job."

Further debate is expected on the park annex. The location is owned by the Bay Area Rapid Transit District, which has offered to lease it to the city for a park.

Mayor Wallace Johnson said he will ask BART to sell the land to help pay for bonds be-

State Sleuths Ask Anti-Mafia Laws

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A special "mob squad" organized by California Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch today requested tough new legislation to permit it to crack down on Mafia activities.

The special 18-man crime unit, organized nine months ago, said the Mafia, Cosa Nostra, Syndicate and "The Mob" have moved into the legitimate fields of banking, savings and loan associations, restaurants, night clubs, real estate and other businesses.

The report, prepared at the request of the Legislature, cites several reputed crime lords by name, including Frank Anthony (Big Frank) Matranga, now in San Quentin, and Salvatore Vincent Bonanno, alias Bill Bonanno, of San Jose, son of reputed New York Mafia chieftain Joe Bonanno.

The crime busters asked for legislation which would grant immunity to persons who testify against mob leaders and would permit a conviction for perjury when two statements under oath are in conflict and one is "necessarily false."

"The war against organized crime is a continuing battle requiring the maximum efficiency of a well-coordinated unit working in cooperation with local, federal and other state law enforcement agencies to conduct a comprehensive investigation...and to prosecute and convict the criminal offenders," the report said.

Although the law officers did not attempt to explore the complete extent of organized crime in California, it said an "insight into the existence and scope of organized crime can be achieved."

The unit report also said an investigation of paramilitary organizations in the state showed these private armies were "well equipped and well organized" and pose a "real and immediate threat to all citizens.

"Although the goals and objectives of these paramilitary groups are distinguishable from those aims normally associated with organized crime, the basic elements of a conspiratorial entity functioning through the use or threatened use of violence present a common (method of operation) and hence a formidable target," the report said.

More One-Way Streets Seem Likely As Opposition Fails To Develop

Ten years ago when San Rafael thought about making Second and Third one-way streets, merchants protested but the system passed and traffic was confused only briefly when it went into effect.

Since then, city officials have periodically eyed more one-way streets to help ease downtown congestion.

Public Works Director Norris Rawles has talked of making Fourth, Fifth and Mission one way and prohibiting parking along more thoroughfares during commute hours (such as already in effect on Lincoln Avenue).

But expected opposition from businessmen seems to have kept a damper on enthusiasm — until last January when the city council authorized a study on one-way streets and parking downtown.

The report, from D. Jackson Faustman, a Sacramento traffic engineering consultant, is almost certain to recommend more one-way streets in downtown San Rafael.

City Mgr. Dan Andersen expects to receive it within about a week — in time for the June 16 council meeting.

MEANWHILE, there have been indications that the expected opposition from businessmen may not materialize, at least not to the extent expected.

Glenn Adair, the new manager of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, said several businessmen have spoken to him of the need for more one-way streets and the chamber is planning a meeting with City Engineer Ely Caillouette to talk about the Faustman report.

ROSS MAY HAVE the most civilized dogs in Marin, but Belvedere has one that would give any high-class pooch competition.

The dog is walked carefully down one of Belvedere's quiet streets, with the master holding the leash in one hand and the steering wheel of his classic Corvette in the other.

A WORKSHOP for department heads who would be involved in the New Careers program and who are viewing it with some apprehension was suggested last week by the county board of supervisors.

Supervisors also indicated dissatisfaction with a compromise New Careers proposal which would cost $63,100 instead of the no-cost approach of Dr. Arthur Pearl, one of the originators of the program.

They asked the county administrator's office to set up a weekend seminar with College of Marin after Asst. Administrator Thomas Campanella reported some department heads are reticent about the program.

Dr. Pearl, a professor at the University of Oregon who was in Marin for the board meeting, volunteered his time to the seminar. So far, nothing definite has been set.

The board delayed action on any New Careers program until budget time.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Teachers' Lobby Shows Where Its Interests Lie

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

The most powerful education lobby in Sacramento is most interested in teacher pay, retirement benefits, leaves, and credentials, and least interested in campus discipline.

That most powerful lobby is, of course, the California Teachers Association. An assessment of where its interests lie may be drawn from the positions it has taken on more than 100 bills in the current legislature.

THE CTA SPONSORED 17 measures this year — bills which in most cases were actually written at its Burlingame headquarters. It has also taken positions on nearly 100 others.

Of the 17 CTA bills, four would improve benefits for retired teachers and their survivors. Three are to improve teachers' pay. Three deal with teaching credentials. Two add to mandatory leaves for teachers.

The CTA always backs a school finance measure. This year it sponsored AB 409 by Assemblymen James W. Dent, R-Concord, and Carlos Bee, D-Hayward. This provides for gradually increased state support of school districts on a basis of percentage of what the districts spend rather than on a dollar basis.

THE TEACHER PAY bills sponsored by CTA would raise the minimum starting salary to $6,800 (AB 1088, Alan Sieroty, D-Los Angeles), require summer school pay on a prorata with that of the regular school term (SB 1193, Albert S. Rodda, D-Sacramento), and permit school boards to raise teachers' pay at any time rather than limiting such increases to twice a year (AB 747, William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights).

Among the credential measures is SB 708 by Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Watsonville, which would repeal the Fisher Act — the law requiring teachers to have majored in "academic subjects" and forcing a fifth year of college attendance for a credential.

The leave measures call for mandatory leaves of absence for teachers elected to public office (AB 543, Dent) and for teachers becoming pregnant (AB 1564, March K. Fong, D-Oakland).

Another CTA-sponsored measure, SB 430 by Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-San Pedro, would put all health and welfare benefits of teachers on the taxpayer. Most districts now have teachers contribute part of the costs.

AB 29 (Eugene A. Chappie, R-Eldorado), making it a misdemeanor to send an insulting or abusive not to a teacher, and AB 803 (Lewis F. Sherman, R-Oakland), making it a misdemeanor for a parent or guardian to encourage a child to cut school.

AB 53 (Leroy F. Greene, D-Sacramento), repealing the requirement that the State Board of Education adopt minimum academic standards for pupil achievement.

WHAT THE CTA OPPOSES in the way of legislation is just as revealing as what it supports. It went all-out this year against AB 5 (Robert H. Burke, R-Huntington Beach) and SB 35 (John G. Schmitz, R-Tustin), identical bills to repeal the 1971 removal of all ceilings on school tax rates.

Others in a long list of bills opposed by CTA include:

SB 217 (H. L. Richardson, R-Pasadena), authorizing dismissal of a teacher for advocating disobedience to law, and SB 261 (Richardson), authorizing dismissal of a teacher who falsifies a job application.

SB 382 (Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose), cancelling tenure of any teacher who goes on strike, and SB 431, by the same senator, doing away with tenure in state colleges.

SB 520, a measure with a long list of sponsors, which would provide additional state funds if school districts reduced their tax rates.

CTA also opposed several bills aimed at prohibiting or postponing sex and "family life" education.

Vietnam Struggle Turning To 'De-Americanized' War

Reds Planning Countermoves

SAIGON (AP) — Piles of captured documents show the Communist high command in Vietnam is acknowledging grave battlefield reverses, but insisting its forces still occupy "the most advantageous position."

Plans have been drawn for a series of summer and fall campaigns which the Reds hope will drive that latter point home to the United States and to the world.

FEAR OF SAIGON

Extensive documentation indicates that the prime fear of Hanoi's war strategists is that a strong government may emerge in Saigon behind a shield of American guns, a shield that stays in place even though U.S. public opinion seeks a troop pullout.

Instructions carried by courier to many parts of Vietnam in the past month make future strategy clear: "Destroy the belief of the United States in the illusion that the war can be de-Americanized successfully, and that they can attain a superior position in peace negotiations."

To bring this about the high command evidently has ordered a new summer offensive against Saigon.

The objective is to collapse or discredit the central government "and force the United States to accept the inevitable one way or another, either honorably or dishonorably," as one recent document from Liberation Army headquarters put it.

RED WORRIES

The Communist command sees a pressing urgency for a new military offensive for these reasons:

The South Vietnamese army is being rapidly consolidated and rebuilt.

A "much more sophisticated and consequently much more dangerous" pacification plan is bringing back under control areas lost long ago to enemy forces.

B52 bomber strikes are becoming more effective.

The defenses of Saigon and its Chinese quarter, Cholon, are being expanded into the rural areas, making it much more difficult for attacking forces to function.

South Vietnamese political forces are being consolidated.

PRO-RED FACTORS?

Differences are increasing between the U.S. government and the Saigon administration, and in the political field the United States is becoming increasingly confused and isolaed.

Having been forced by last year's Tet offensive into negotiations, America is seeking a political solution to a problem that it once throught could be settled by arms, and this has greatly shaken its reliance in the force of weapons.

The 'honeymoon period" President Nixon's political opponents accorded him will soon end, and Nixon will be compelled to take a new course of action which, in all likelihood, will decide the outcome of the war.

Central Florida's rich mineral beds, discovered accidentally by boar hunters in 1881, yield 28 million tons of phosphate rock annually — 70 per cent of United States and 30 per cent of world need.

RED JET WINS SPUR SEARCH FOR WEAPONS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Faster-firing, harder-hitting guns are being planned for U.S. jet fighters because of dramatic progress made by North Vietnamese pilots against American planes.

Air Force work on developing the gun will start in the coming fiscal year and the weapon will be installed in the F15, a jet fighter designed to provide clear U.S. superiority over any Russian-built jets in the 1970s.

Dr. John S. Foster, the Pentagon's research chief, disclosed recently that North Vietnam's fighter pilots were battling U.S. war planes on almost even terms in the latter stages of the air war.

One Survives Long Trip In Jet's Wheel

MADRID (AP) — Two young Cubans stowed away above the wheels of a Spanish jetliner in Havana last night, but one apparently fell to his death a few minutes after the plane took off.

The other stowaway, 22-year-old Armando Socarras Ramirez, fell unconscious and half frozen from his hiding place behind the DC8's left wheel after it landed in Madrid. He was reported in grave condition.

Later, Dr, Juan Amalbia said at Madrid General Hospital that Socarras had regained consciousness and was out of danger. "He's going to live, definitely," the physician said.

ADMITS COMPANION

After regaining consciousness, he told hospital officials that he had a companion who hid behind the plane's right wheel.

The pilot of the Iberia Airlines plane, Cmdr. Valentin Vara del Rey, had said earlier he noticed nothing unusual about the flight. But later he told officials his right wheel didn't retract properly after he took off.

Vara del Rey said he notified the Havana tower of this, but he said a second attempt brought the wheel up without any trouble. Officials theorized that Socarras' companion fell out when the pilot lowered the wheel for the second retraction try.

Hospital officials did not immediately disclose the identity of the second stowaway.

Two other Latin Americans stowed away in the wheel wells of jetliners, but only one was successful.

1966 PIONEER

The pioneer was Francisco Cuevas Garcia, a 17-year-old Mexican, who traveled that way in 1966 from Bogota, Colombia, to Mexico City with no ill effects. His flight lasted four hours.

In 1967, the body of another 17-year-old Mexican, Humberto Garcia Gutierrez, was found on a Los Angeles playground. Police said he apparently had stowed away in Mexico City and then fallen out when the pilot let his wheels down to land.

To Show Works

Lithographer Kenjilo Nanao of Homestead Valley will exhibit selected works at the "Art for Better Living" program which opens at 8 p.m. Friday and runs through 4 p.m. Sunday at Brown's Hall in Mill Valley. The program will benefit the hall, owned by the Homestead Valley Community Association.

ARVN Bearing Battle Load

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese troops and heavy American air and artillery strikes have killed 945 North Vietnamese in three weeks of fighting around Dak To in the Central Highlands, military spokesmen reported today.

The South Vietnamese and their American advisers also suffered heavy losses. More than 700 casualties were reported, including 157 government troops and 13 Americans killed, 455 South Vietnamese and 32 Americans wounded; 71 government soldiers and two Americans missing.

TEST OF STRATEGY

The operation, named People's Rights, is providing a test of U.S. plans to turn over more and more of the war to South Vietnamese forces so American forces can begin withdrawing from Vietnam.

"It is an entire ARVN (Army of the Republic of Vietnam) show with the exception of such American combat support as artillery, tactical air strikes, gunships and medical evacuation helicopters," one U.S. spokesman said.

Other spokesmen said that American support had accounted for roughly half of the North Vietnamese killed. Hundreds of U.S. B52 bombers and smaller fighter-bombers have pounded the enemy with more than 10,000 tons of bombs.

HANOI VERSION

Hanoi claimed more than 3,000 government soldiers had been killed or wounded, wiping out one South Vietnamese battalion and crippling or decimating six others.

"The new victory of the liberation forces has further proved that for all the efforts of the U.S. to help the puppet army get back on its feet, the latter is irrevocably doomed to complete disintegration," said the Hanoi newspaper Quan Doi Nhan Dan.

The South Vietnamese army is using the equivalent of about two regiments in Operation People's Rights, perhaps as many as 3,000 troops. Field reports said their mission is to smash the North Vietnamese 66th and 28E infantry regiments and an artillery regiment which in early May moved out of bases in neighboring Cambodia and Laos to threaten Dak To and the nearby Ben Het special forces camp.

OTHER ACTION

Elsewhere in South Vietnam, tank-riding troops of the U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment clashed twice with North Vietnamese forces and killed 43 while sweeping an enemy staging area in War Zone C, 55 miles northwest of Saigon.

Twenty-two Vietnamese civilians were killed and 27 wounded in two incidents in the Mekong Delta today. A bus hit a mine 60 miles south of Saigon, killing 17 civilians and wounding seven. Five other civilians were killed and 20 wounded when a bomb exploded in a market place 15 miles southwest of Saigon.

A U.S. Air Force F100 Super Sabre jet was shot down deep in the delta 161 miles southwest of Saigon and the pilot was killed yesterday. An Army observation helicopter was destroyed by enemy fire 65 miles southeast of Da Nang, killing the three Americans aboard.

Volpe Wants 'Airbags' On All New Cars

NEW YORK (AP) — Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe wants all new automobiles to come with "airbags"—a balloon-like device that inflates to protect passengers in event of a crash.

Volpe told an Automotive Safety Foundation luncheon yesterday: "I would think by 1972, they should be a must."

The secretary said the Nixon administration was prepared to "get tough" with automobile manufacturers if they don't step up safety efforts.

"I would hope they do it voluntarily," he said, "but if they don't I can get tough." He said the federal government might require installation of airbags if car makers were reluctant to adopt them voluntarily.

Volpe said the device is stored in a car's steering wheel hub, dashboard or behind the front seat, and inflates almost instantly on impact to cushion passengers from a crash.

He said the airbag "promises to be a major breakthrough in injury prevention." The new safety feature would replace seat belts.

In 1790, the population of New York City was 33,131.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Strike Is Off

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao (AP) — Union leaders on this riot-scarred Caribbean island have dropped plans for a general strike following a government pledge to dissolve Parliament this week and hold new elections.

The union men suffered a defeat in Parliament yesterday but then put more pressure on Prime Minister Ciro Kroon and persuaded him to bow to their demands.

Striking oil workers went on a rampage Friday when police fired into their ranks. Four persons were killed and 70 per cent of Willemstad's business district was burned out. Labor leaders charged following the riots that the island's workers, who are mostly blacks, are not adequately represented in the government, which is dominated by Dutch settlers. They demanded that the government resign.

Sailboat Found

Belvedere police yesterday recovered a seven-foot fiberglass sailboat drifting in the Belvedere Lagoon shortly after it was reported stolen. Boat owner Vivian Whitney of 84 Lagoon Road told police the boat had been missing since May 28.

Sees Relatives

LEMBACH, France (AP) — Astronaut Russell Schweickart of Apollo 9 has met a crowd of his relatives in this Alsatian village which was the original home of his grandfather, Jacques.

In a visit yesterday, Schweickart and his wife met two of his granduncles, two grand-aunts and about 50 cousins.

Results Pleasing

OTTAWA (AP) — The Canadian government is pleased with inflation but plans to step up indlation but plans to step up the battle go get at some remaining trouble spots.

Finance Minister Edgar Benson told the House of Commons last night that his 1969-70 budget includes a one-year extension of the 3 per cent income tax surcharge, an air travel tax and immediate inplementation of the final Kennedy Round tariff cuts.

The tariff cuts, which were not scheduled to be in full effect until 1972, are designed to spur foreign competition for Canadian industry. Benson said they should help keep prices and wages down.

Probe Explosions

An estimated six explosions ripped through a 10-square-block area of the Glen Park suburb in about 15 minutes yesterday. Officials said six homes were demolished and concussion and fire triggered by the blasts damaged 19 other residences.

The exact cause of the blasts was under investigation, but Mayor Richard G. Hatcher of Gary said, "One thing is very clear — that is there was a buildup of gas pressure in this particular area which created several explosions. As to why they occurred, we don't know"

Witness At Mutiny Trial Is Arrested

FORT ORD (UPI) — A defense witness dressed in civilian clothes startled the court trying 14 San Francisco Presidio GIs for mutiny yesterday when he announced he was an AWOL soldier and then surrendered.

George Rey, 21, of San Francisco, was taken into custody by a swarm of military police after testifying that informers among Presidio stockade prisoners received special privileges and that living conditions were bad for the inmates.

Rey testified on behalf of the 14 soldiers who were among 27 prisoners at the stockade to participate in a singing sit-down strike in the prison's courtyard.

Members of the group said they were protesting poor conditions in the stockade and the fatal shooting of inmate Richard Bunch, 19, who was shotgunned by a guard while allegedly trying to escape.

When asked his status, Rey replied, "I am AWOL."

attack from those who question the need for a strong national defense, and indeed see a danger in the power of the defenders.

"You are entering the military service of your country when the nation's potential adversaries abroad were never stronger and your critics at home were never more numerous."

Then the chief executive proceeded to list some of the fundamental differences of opinion between his critics and his thoughts on defense. He rejected one school of thought that held to the idea that understanding with the Soviet Union and Communist China would come through downgrading of American alliances and what would amount to a unilateral reduction of U.S. arms.

He rejected, too, the idea that by becoming conciliatory, accommodating and unable to cope with the threat of war that the United States would increase the chances of peace.

Some critics, he asserted, picture the United States as "blocking the road to peace by maintaining its military strength at home and its defense forces abroad."

Such attitudes, he said, ignored the reality of the world situation.

"Can we ever be left in peace if we do not actively assume the burden of keeping the peace?" he asked.

As for specific criticism of the military and so-called military-industrial complex, Nation said first that he had to bear the responsibility for determining the necessary level of military spending and that his requests thus far were, in his belief, the minimum essential for the United States to meet its current and long-range obligations to itself and the free world.

Nixon planned to fly during the afternoon to his new California residence at San Clemente for two days of intensive activity involving domestic programs either pending before Congress or about to be submitted, before going to Hawaii then.

Employees Veto New Merit Plan

College of Marin classified employees voted 72-14 yesterday not to accept the merit system of personnel operations.

If the employees had approved the civil service type system, it would have meant appointing a three-man commission with a paid personnel director. The system would also entail a testing system for prospective employees. Ninety-five persons were eligible to vote.

Correct Donor

The Independent-Journal erred Memorial Day in reporting the wreath placed on the doughboy statue at the Marin County Courthouse was presented by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The wreath was placed by the Veterans of World War 1, Barracks 550.

Muskie Denies Panel Feuding

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie has denied he quit the investigative subcommittee of Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., because of personal conflict with the Arkansas senator.

In a letter to McClellan, revealed yesterday, Muskie said "the only reason for my resignation was that, in my judgment, I cannot give the time which I expect the subcommittee's work will require this year."

Muskie, a possible presidential candidate in 1972 and presently keeping to an intensive speaking schedule, added that he was, "deeply distressed" by reports "attributing my resignation to 'repeated disagreements' with you."

Fairfax Woman Is Found Dead

The body of a 45-year-old Fairfax housewife was found at 7:40 a.m. yesterday on the floor of the living room of her home at 7 Crescent Lane by her 7-year-old son.

The county coroner's office said the woman, Lois Edna Cannon, mother of four children, appeared to have intentionally taken an overdose of sleeping pills. There was an empty pill bottle near her body and notes indicating despondency were found, the coroner's office said.

She was the wife of Alton I. Cannon and mother of children ranging in age from 7 to 22.

make recommendations on a tax reform program developed in the Assembly.

A special bipartisan committee of assemblymen was named by Monagan earlier to study the six major reform packages pending in the lower house and to make recommendations for a committee bill to the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee led by Bagley.

The recommendations are expected soon.

Way said he had discussed his new position on withholding with Reagan, but said he detected no changes in the governor's opposition.

Monagan repeated his belief that the Legislature can enact a tax reform program during the current session but indicated a major reform is not likely.

He said if a reform program failed, a joint Senate-Assembly tax reform committee should be created to develop a program acceptable to both houses and report back to the 1970 session in January.

Monagan expressed opposition to holding a special session later in the year on tax reform.

"I see no value to be gained from holding a special session of the Legislature on this," he said. "I think we ought to do it in this session if we can."

Backhoe Cuts Phone Service

Approximately 50 Bolinas telephone subscribers were without service for six to eight hours yesterday after a backhoe cut through an underground cable at Mesa Road and the Bolinas-Olema Road.

A workman for the Bolinas Community Public Utility District cut the cable at 9:15 a.m., reported Steven C. Kanewske, Mill Valley manager of Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.

charge, it can be construed to be utterly without redeeming social importance" and therefore possibly obscene.

Lynch has contended that "the sex-oriented industry is determined to solicit every household in the state." He says "one million pieces of sex mail are mailed in California each month."

The bills passed the Senate overwhelmingly in March. Then they underwent an extensive technical overhaul in Murphy's Criminal Procedure Committee. The idea was to make reasonably sure they were constitutional.

The legislation defines obscenity as, "matter, taken as a whole, the predominant appeal of which to the average person, applying contemporary standards, is to prurient interest, i.e., a shameful or morbid interest in nudity, sex or excretion; and is matter which taken as a whole goes substantially beyond customary limits of candor in description or representation of such matters; and is matter which taken as a whole is utterly without redeeming social importance."

The definition is the same for juveniles, except tacked onto the end are two words: "for minors." A jury would decide what was obscene for minors.

Driver Booked In Drug Probe

A Cleveland, Ohio, man was booked at Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of possessing marijuana after his car was stopped for an equipment violation, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The patrol said Winnen's car was stopped at 2:20 p.m. on Highway 101 north of Sausalito for lacking an outside mirror. Seeing furtive movements inside the car, the officer reported, the searched the car and found a plastic bag containing enough suspected marijuana for four cigarettes. A hitchhiker with Winnen was released.

Injuries Minor In Collision

A four-car crash yesterday on Third Street west of Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, sent a 16-year-old girl to Marin General Hospital for treatment of a scalp cut.

The girl, Carol Johnson of San Geronimo, was a passenger in a car driven by Ronald D. Grubb, 20, also of San Geronimo, who, according to police, said his brakes failed while westbound on Third Street. His auto, police said, struck a parked car, setting off a chain reaction crash involving autos driven by Doreen L. Kahler, 19, of 105 H Street, San Rafael, and Lars A. Pedersen, 24, of El Cerrito.

The accident happened shortly after 1 p.m.

The meeting will be in conjunction with the wine tasting and art preview portion of the "art for better living" program which will be at Brown's Hall Friday through Sunday, according to secretary Audrey Peterson.

Traffic Brought To Hissing Halt

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — Forty cars and a big truck and trailer hissed to a stop with flat tires on the Bayshore Freeway yesterday seconds after 5,008 nails were scattered on the highway.

The hiss of escaping air was overwhelming, said Highway Patrolman Don Osterman, and the resulting traffic jam was monumental. The truck alone had five flats.

Osterman said a case of roofing nails bounced off a southbound truck and the case burst when it hit the pavement —with predictable results.

An emergency call went out for a street sweeper, but by the time it arrived, most of the nails had been picked up by tires or scattered to the side of the road.

ing used to put the transit underground in Berkeley.

Irene Hickman, the Sacramento County assessor, planted a flower at the annex yesterday and said the whole controversy stems from an unfair tax system.

She said she favors "involvement of the people in the activities of the community . . . even if they make some mistakes along the way."

Meanwhile, the Senate's 1969 subcommittee report on un-American activities will cover "mainly the Berkeley situation," Sen. Hugh M. Burns said today. in the report, and this year's

Burns, D-Fresno, is chairman of the Senate Fact-Finding Committee on Un-American Activities, which has issued reports since the 1940s. He said this year's version probably won't be ready until late August or September.

Burns said this month's "Peoples' Park" turmoil near the University of California's Berkeley campus would be included in the report.

Burns said that this year's findings will include "mainly the personalities involved," as in past reports.

In a television interview (over station KOVR) earlier this month, Burns said Red China and other Communist nations were supporting student unrest in the United States.

The support is "mostly right now from China," Burns said.

AMONG DESTROYER VICTIMS — Three brothers (from left) Gary, Gregory and Kelly Sage, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Sage of Niobrara, Neb., are among the 73 seamen who lost their lives when the U.S. destroyer Evans was cut in half by an Australian carrier during SEATO operations in the South China Sea. Navy Halts Hunt For 73 Lost Seamen

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) — The Navy has called off its search for 73 seamen missing from a U.S. destroyer cut in half by an Australian carrier during SEATO maneuvers.

"We have absolute confidence that we have picked up all survivors" said a Navy spokesman in announcing the end of search operations by 10 ships from three nations.

Most of those given up for lost —nearly a third of the destroyer Evans' crew—were presumed sleeping in their bunks in the forward part of the ship when it was hit by the carrier Melbourne, flagship of the Australian Navy, in predawn hours about 650 miles southwest of Manila in the Philippines late Monday. The forward section quickly sank in 5,400 feet of water.

Seas were calm and skies clear at the time of the collision and remained so during the rescue efforts.

Adm. John J. Hyland, Pacific Fleet commander, ordered a court of inquiry similar to the Navy's probe into the seizure of the intelligence ship Pueblo.

The still-floating stern section of the Evans was being towed to the Philippines by a fleet tug late yesterday when the Pentagon began releasing names of the casualties.

Among the lost were the three Sage brothers of Niobrara, Neb. — Boatswain's Mate 2/C Gary, 22, Radarman 3/C Gregory, 21, and Seaman Appren. Kelly, 19.

Fireman Lawrence J. Reilly Jr. of Costa Mesa perished, but his father, Senior Chief Gunner's Mate Lawrence J. Reilly Sr. was a survivor.

Navy headquarters listed 199 Evans survivors and one dead in addition to the 73 missing. The Melbourne had no casualties.

One of the survivors was Seaman Marcus Rodriguez, 20, Fresno, who was flown to a hospital in Cam Rahn Bay with a broken leg.

"I still can't believe it," he said. "The only thing I recall is a helicopter taking me somewhere."

Other survivors were en route to Subic Bay, the Philippines, aboard the carrier Kearsarge. They included the skipper, Cmdr. A. S. McLemore.

Brazil Still Keeping Rockefeller Date

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazil's foreign minister, Jose de Magalhaes Pinto, yesterday lamented the interruption of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's Latin-American fact-finding mission but said the U.S. government already has the facts it needs.

Magalhaes said the New York governor's three-day visit to Brazil beginning June 16 is still on. Uruguay and Chile are reported considering cancellation of Rockefeller's trips to those countries, and Argentina is in the midst of an internal political crisis.

The first two legs of the four-part mission for President Richard M. Nixon were marred by protest demonstrators and at least 10 deaths. The trip was cut short Sunday after Peru had said Rockefeller was not welcome because of curtailment of U.S. arms aid, Venezuela asked him to stay away because of the threat of violence, and the Bolivians wouldn't let him out of the La Paz airport.

Last night, about 500 rock-throwing students battled police in Montevideo, the Uruguyan capital, and two senators called for Rockefeller to cancel his trip there. Some 200 high school students stoned the U.S. consulate in Santiago, Chile, in protest against the Rockefeller mission.

There have been reports that students may attempt to organize demonstrations in Rio and in Sao Paulo during Rockefeller's visit, but Brazil's military dictatorship seems confident it can control any outbreaks.

Instructions Are Discussed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Prosecution and defense attorneys yesterday discussed with Superior Court Judge oseph Karesh instructions he will give the jury when the murder case of Larry Taylor and John Lynn is given to it next week.

The jury of eight women and four men got a two-day vacation in the seven week trial while Karesh discussed instructions and various motions. Final arguments will begin tomorrow and the jury will get the case sometime next week.

The two 24-year-old men are being tried for the slaying of a Lake County deputy sheriff, William David Hoyt, during a jailbreak attempt in Lakeport in 1967.

The case was transferred to San Francisco on a defense motion for change of venue.

Safeguards For Free TV First Says FCC Chairman

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pay-television will be yanked off the air in any area where it begins putting free TV out of business, says Rosel H. Hyde, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission.

Hyde said in an interview yesterday, however, that fears the proposed authorization of pay TV would spell the end of free programs are unjustified.

In two months, the FCC has received about 150 letters from TV fans who believe—as opposition advertising suggests—that free TV is in danger.

Last Dec. 13, the FCC issued general rules for permitting pay-TV service, in which a broadcast signal is transmitted in a scrambled form that can only be unscrambled on the home TV set by use of a rented decoder.

The rules take effect June 12, but this does not mean an immediate start on pay TV.

An appeal by the National Association of Theater Owners and Joint Committee Against Toll TV is under consideration by the District of Columbia Circuit Court of Appeals, and the FCC has agreed not to authorize any pay-TV operations for 60 days after the court decision.

Bushmen in Africa's Kalahari region never take women on a hunt or allow them to touch arrows. To do either brings bad luck, they believe.

Irate Youths Considering Ways To Watchdog Police

By JOANNE GRANT

A rally calling for formation of a committee to keep watch on police activities in Marin County — sparked by incidents at a dance in Fairfax Friday — was held yesterday in Fairfax Memorial Park.

The rally prompted another meeting, last night, at the San Anselmo home of Betty Huddleston, to continue plans for forming a group to keep a continual check on police.

THIRD MEETING

Last night's gathering was the third in 24 hours. The initial meeting, attended by about 35 persons Monday night, grew out of concern for the arrest of David E. Pratt, 17, for investigation of resisting arrest and assaulting an officer outside the dance.

Pratt was released from juvenile hall following a detention hearing yesterday, his attorney, Salle Seaman Soladay, reported. The tall, slender Shasta High School student appeared at the rally but on the advice of his attorney did not comment on the Friday incident.

A statement recounting the Memorial Day incident, commenting generally on police oppression and racism and announcing the rally was distributed at College of Marin and in Fairfax yesterday.

The unsigned statement, developed at the Monday meeting at the Huddleston home where Pratt stays, said "peace officers had been hassling 'hip' looking people all night (at the Friday dance) — ordering and pushing them around as well as making derogatory remarks.

"Bad as these police actions were, their 'police violence' virtually exploded when Chief (James R.) Orr arrived out of uniform at the pavilion."

The statement gave one of several conflicting accounts of the incident and noted Pratt was "busted for resisting and assaulting those four or five fully equipped policemen."

The statement contends that the arrest of Pratt, a black man, was an act of racism. No one else was arrested.

Witnesses to the incident have contacted the Marin district attorney's office but because of the possibility of a civil rights violation local authorities have asked the U.S. Attorney's office in San Francisco to investigate.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Michael Anthony, assigned to the case locally, said it would take about a week before federal authorities decide whether they will handle it.

Meanwhile, Fairfax Mayor Francis J. O'Connell reported he has asked for a written report from everyone involved in the park and recreation department sponsored dance.

"I have to see something in writing besides the police report," O'Connell said.

O'Connell emphasized he didn't want to do anything that would stop the teen recreation program in Fairfax.

He said one of the problems appeared to the the lateness of the dance. Scheduled to begin at 8 p.m., it didn't get underway until 9 p.m. because the band, the Sons of Champlin, was late. The crowd was then let in slowly and it was some time before the hall was filled, he said.

O'Connell said such Friday night dances are held regularly in Fairfax but usually only 150 to 200 young people attend. Last Friday, a more popular band was hired — "I guess Fairfax can't stand success," the mayor said.

He said the expected the matter would be discussed at the council meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the Women's Club.

Persons attending the rally yesterday, about 40 in all, were urged to go to the city council meeting Monday.

Speaking above the noise of the motorcycle policeman who drove up and down Bolinas Road regularly during the rally, John Turner, a student at the University of California at Berkeley predicted there would be an increasing number of persons joining the group and urged them to find a means of rapid, widespread communication.

Among the suggestions for a central system was Switchboard of Marin.

Computer Finds Duplicate Claims

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Computers have uncovered about 15,700 duplicate claims for the $70 property tax rebate which goes to California homeowners soon.

About 2.5 million homeowners have filed for the rebates and checks will be mailed June 13.

A spokesman for the controller's office said most of the double claims are considered to be honest mistakes made by persons who own more than one home. A homeowner can qualify only once for the rebate, approved by the legislature and the voters last year as a form of property tax relief.

Double filing for claims were discovered when computers detected duplicate Social Security numbers, which had to be listed on the rebate claim forms.

S. African Orange Import Permit Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — A permit allowing the importing of South African oranges could lead to a latter day version of the Boston Tea Party—an "Orange Party," says Rep. Charles eC. Diggs Jr., D-Mich.

Diggs, in a telegram to the Agricultuhe Department yesterday, protested the import permit granted to Amcan Sales Inc., saying, "to foster the further economic growth of racist South Africa spreads an even worse kind of pestilence."

Ex-Planner Is Found Guilty Of Permit Violation

A Marin Municipal Court judge yesterday found a former Marin County planning commissioner guilty of a misdemeanor offense of keeping a horse and a pony at his San Rafael home without a permit.

A secon charge of refusing to remove a public nuisance against Edward K. Wachsman of 50 Palm Avenue was dismissed by Judge Peter Allen Smith at the request of San Rafael City Atty. David Menary Jr.

Judge Smith set sentencing for 10 a.m. Friday.

Wachsman's animals have been the subject of complaints from his neighbors in the Dominican section since last December, when neighbors appeared before the San Rafael City Council to say that Wachsman was not complying with an order to clean the horse area daily.

Army Cadets Advised They'll Face Critics

Westmoreland, Army Chief of Staff, spok at a ceremony in sunny Michie Stadium before 800 graduates, the largest class in the academy's 167-year history.

"We find our military establishment, that has helped to forge the shield behind which this country has lived in prosperity, is now under attack," Westmoreland said.

"We find some of our countrymen are ever clamoring louder for us to pull out, to withdraw, to reduce our international comitments."

"As young officers about to embark on a military career in the midst of an unpopular war, you are aware of public attitudes. You will require an unusual sense of balance and rare judgement to avoid discouragement and disillusionment."

Westmoreland said the graduates would have to expect periodic criticism of the military as inevitable, even if it were unfair and irresponsible.

"However, you should not be a slave to this criticism," he said. "But take solace in the knowledge that you are defending a civilian society that permits free expression."

Profs Blast Dumke Over Screen Plan

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A presidential selection committee at San Francisco State College yesterday accused Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke of a "breach of trust" in the search for a permanent head for the strife-torn school.

Dumke, the committee told the San Francisco State Academic Senate, wants to bypass the usual selection methods and establish a special screening group to choose a successor to Acting President S. I. Hayakawa of Mill Valley.

The committee suggested by the chancellor would consist of himself; two state college trustees; Dr. Mansel Keene, special assistant to the chancellor's office; a member of the advisory board of the college, and three members of the faculty. The usual committee consists solely of members of the Academic Senate.

"The members of this committee refuse to participate in a 'rainbow' selection procedure," the group told the senate. "We have informed the chancellor of this fact. This would put more say in the hands of the state people."

The Academic Senate, during a two and a half hour meeting, elected new officers. Fred Terrien, professor of sociology, is the new chairman and Curtis Aller, professor of economics and a key negotiator in settling a campus student strike, is the vice chairman.

In one of its first actions, the senate passed a resolution calling for a third attempt to elect officers of the Associated Students—the campus governing organization.

Two earlier elections were voided because of "serious flaws" which could "well lead to further campus difficulties."

Judge Orders Houseboat Electricity

A Marin Superior Court judge today issued a preliminary injunction which orders the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. to provide power to houseboats at Gate 5 until the case is decided on its merits.

Judge E. Warren McGuire said that although the shutting of the electricity had been properly noticed to residents, that they were more likely to suffer irreparable damage than PG&E.

The electicity was cut off for a few hours last Thursday when the county ordered PG&E to discontinue service because of hazardous wiring. The houseboat dwellers led by landscape architect Piro Caro won a temporary court order restoring power later in the day.

In his ruling, Judge McGuire noted that the county had set a time limit for faulty wiring to be corrected and said that the evidence "showed little if any corrective work had been done."

However, he said shutting off electricity would make pumps inoperable as well as causing dangers from lack of lights and refrigeration.

His order today does not apply to the county, he said, which presumably could disconnect the electricity again.

No date has been set yet for the case to come to trial.

Sentence Date For Robbery

Robert Eugene Waller, 48, will be sentenced June 13 in U.S. District Court for the May 23 holdup of the Fidelity Savings and Loan Co. office in Mill Valley, a court spokesman reported today.

Waller, of Menlo Park, entered a guilty plea to the robbery charge earlier this week. Sentence is to be imposed by Judge Oliver J. Carter.

Waller was arrested about five minutes after he fled the office at 130 Throckmorton Avenue with $180 in the first robbery of a Mill Valley bank or savings company company in more than 35 years.

Net Gain: $1,000 From Reassessment

Fairfax School District has gained $14,000 and lost $15,000 as the result of a hike in the assessed valuation of the district.

Supt. H. Reginald Hammond reported the district gained 5.6 per cent in assessed valuation in the recent reassessment. The district had counted on a 2 per cent gain in its original revenue estimates of about $812,000 so the extra 3.6 per cent is expected to add $14,000.

The gain in assessed valuation, however, put the district in a different category for state aid and will result in a loss of about $15,000 from that source, Hammond said.

The district board, meeting last night, directed Hammond to prepare a working budget based on known income in time for the next meeting. Hammond said the board would probably adopt a budget slightly higher than that because "it's unrealistic to expect the state won't do anything."

The Farifax School District board also:

INSURANCE — Areed to comply as far as possible with insurance company requirements in order to get reasonable premiums. Hammond said firms are becoming reluctant to issue policies to shcools because of the losses and the firms are asking such things as annual inspections of heating and electrical systems and a public statements on riots.

TITLE I — Learned that funds for the Title I program aimed at helping youngsters who have a difficult time in school have been cut from the currrent $22,473 to $18,466 for the 1969-70 fiscal year.

WATER MAIN — Worried that Marin Municipal Water District's plan to run a water main through district property at White Hill School might limit future building plans and directed Hammond to work with the water company to find a better place.

READING — Agreed to submit a Miller-Unruh reading project for state funding but decided not to staff it had not been funded.

PERSONNEL — Accepted the resignation of Lorraine Haaland; who is moving from the state, and hired Jean Van Gundy, first grade, at $7,800; Barbara Jean Snowgrass, first grade, Julia Ann Broadfoot, second grade, and Barbara O'Neill; Title I, each at $7,400; George Fanakos at $10,100 and David Mangine at $7,700, both as seventh and eighth grade teachers.

Three Hurt In Two Accidents

Three Novato residents received minor injuries in two separate accidents last night in Novato, according to Novato police.

Treated for minor head injuries at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in Terra Linda were Cynthia Marie Keyes, 17, and her sister, Patricia Ann, 16, both of 1373 Denlyn Street.

Police reported that the girls pulled out from Novato Fair Shopping Center onto Diablo Avenue at 7:05 p.m. and collided with a car eastbound on Diablo driven by Arthur B. Christiana, 19, of 55 Paladini Drive. Cynthia Keyes was cited for failure to yield the right-of-way.

David B. Colclough Sr. 40, 1020 Greenwood Drive, was treated for skinned areas on his face and lips at Novato General Hospital. He was injured at 8:20 p.m. when his motorcycle overturned at Greenwood and Leafwood Drives, Novato poice reported.

'Angel Dust' Booster Guilty

William Olaf Hendrickson, 25, of San Anselmo, who claimed that his "angel dust" was the coming thing in narcotics, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to possessing cocaine and LSD.

A marijuana possession charge was dismissed by Judge Peter Allen Smith. Hendrickson was ordered to appear in Superior Court Monday for a sentencing date.

Dep. Disty. Attny. Joshua Thomas said that chemists have not yet been able to ascertain what is in Hendrickson's chemically treated parsley which he claimed was 30 times as powerful as marijuana.

Hendrickson, who was arrested at his home at 867 San Anselmo Avenue, May 18, is on parole for an earlier burglar conviction, Thomas said.

Chamber To Tell Of Bonds Need

The Petaluma Chamber of Commerce will host "bond information days" Saturday and Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. at the Kenilworth Recreation Center to explain the five bond measures on the June 10 ballot.

President Rollan Rea said displays have been prepared to illustrate the two measures that deal with street improvements. Slides, maps and pictures will illustrate the routes of the work intended to improve traffic flow.

Also to be exhibited are the design and location of proposed park improvements and descriptions of fire and police station additions. City staff members will be present to answer questions.

Alto Sanitary District Budget May Be Sliced

A preliminary budget of $3,800 for fiscal 1969-70, a decrease of $3,200 from the current budget, has been approved by the Alto Sanitary District board, Carl O. Heynen Jr., director, reported.

Heynen said he did not know how much the district's tax rate would drop next year from the current 41.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

A major reason for the decrease, Heynen said, was that the board, meeting Monday night, did not allocate funds for capital outlay. During the current year, the board has spent $3.500 on capital outlay.

Of the budget total, approximately $3,000 will be used to pay sewage treatments fees charged by the City of Mill Valley and $800 for maintenance and supplies, Heynen said.

A public hearing on the proposed budget will be held at 8 p.m. July 7, at the Alto-Richardson Bay Fire Station, 27 Shell Road.

The board adjourned in memory of Franklin W. Gamble of Alto, founder of the Alto Sanitary District, who died May 26.

Building Permit Tangles Bring Work Halt Of New Restaurant

A tangled web of charges and counter-charges was laid before the Sausalito City Council last night as the council ordered a halt on work for a proposed new restaurant at Bridgeway and Turney Street.

The order backed up a stop-work order issued Thursday by city officials on complaints that Edgewater Yacht Co. had taken out building permits improperly.

Edgewater's attorney, Albert Bianchi, said the complaints were part of a continuing "legalistic," fight by San Zagessian had threatened to fight the new restaurant until it "went down the tubes."

Zakessian's lawyer, Richard V. Bettini, said Edgewater had made major structural changes on the Turney Street building although city codes limit remodeling of the nonconforming structure to less than half its valuation. Nearly $50,000 worth of work on the building has been started, Bettini said.

Bettini also charged Edgewater had violated the city's orders by presenting a different plan to the Bay Conservation and Development Commission to get permission for bay fill for a parking lot.

Bianchi said Edgewater had proceeded with fill and remodeling at the same time. Bettini said this violated the city's conditions in granting a variance, which he said was not to take effect until approval of the parking and landscaping plans by city planners.

The issue cleared somewhat when City Atty. Leland H. Jordan told the council the only issue at present was to decide what the council's aim was in issuing the variance — to require approval of plans before construction could start, or simply to require approval before the restaurant could be used.

The council was divided on its intentions of the Feb. 4 action, but at length agreed on a motion Jordan outlined — to suspend the building construction permits and variance issued, to require Edgewater to past a bond guaranteeing completion of the fill and to let Edgewater proceed with construction at its own risk until the planning commission approves plans for parking, landscaping and access.

The city staff will investigate factual questions raised, including whether alterations exceeded 50 per cent of the building's value, and whether the parking plan, has the required street access.

The council would have to set a public hearing before revoking building permits permanently, Jordan said.

Sausalito Council Splits On Location Of Sculpture

The Sausalito City Council split 3-2 last night on location of a proposed 24-foot sculpture offered the city by Chilean artist Sergio Castillo, but agreed unanimously in praising the proposed design.

The council agreed 3-2 the sculpture should go in Carl Gabrielson Park on the sandspit, as proposed by the artist. Mayor Earl N. Dunphy and Councilman Robin Sweeny opposed the location, favoring a site near the city entrance on lower Bridgeway. They were outvoted by Councilmen George Hoffman, Jan Paul Dyk and Alexander R. Imlay.

The statue will cost approximately $4,000, but the Sausalito People to People Program plans to raise funds for it, Mrs. Sweeny said.

The council opened the path for the Sausalito Arts Association when it approved conditions for a variance sought by the association to use the old Bayside School as an arts center.

The council ordered a ban on amplified sound outside the building, an end to outside activities at 9 p.m. during Daylight Saving Time and 7 p.m. the rest of the year, closing of inside activities at 11 p.m. weekdays and 1 a.m. Friday and Saturday nights. No sound from inside may be audible to neighbors, the council said.

The Sausalito City Council also:

PARADE — Approved a patriotic Fourth of July parade and festival by Operation Give a Damn, which will raise funds to expand its program of helping black youths in Marin City. The parade will start at 11 a.m. in the new city parking lot behind the Post Office and proceed to Martin Luther King school where booths, games and refreshments are are scheduled.

PARKING — Amended the parking ordinance to let the city set higher parking requirements for educational uses in cases where it is needed. The present requirement is one space for each two employees.

LEGISLATION — Went on record opposing Senate Bill 994, which would require cities to pay for subdivision land dedicated for parks, and Assembly Bill 1400, requiring arbitration of labor disputes with police and firemen.

APPOINTMENT — Reappointed Mary L. Perrone to the recreation commission, and announced the city still wants applicants for the recreation commission post of Eleanor Cruikshank, who resigned last month.

ORDINANCES — Adopted a dog control ordinance and an ordinance prezoning the American Distillery property north of the city.

Doctor To Leave Private Practice

Dr. Richard Redalia, of Terra Linda, announced yesterday he plans ot discontinue his practice in Marin June 13 to accept a National Institute of Health fellowship.

Redalia said he would study the effect of radiation on cancer with the fellowship. His work will be done at the University of California Medical Center, San Francisco.

The physician said he would be available to his pateints through June 13 to aid them in acquiring another doctor.

Master Plan Given Review In Petaluma

In reviewing the growth of the city, McGivern said the east side has shown the most rapid growth and recommended that additional development on the west side be encouraged to achieve a better balance. He recommended, specifically, that multiple residentail areas be developed on the west side to balance growth and also to meet increasing demands for rentals.

The planner also urged that the potential of growth along the Petaluma River be encouraged with emphasis on eliminating pollution and channel obstructions. He also suggested that park planning could be stepped up with revenue from the recently enacted "bedroom tax."

He also said the general plan map should be redrawn to show increased commercial development on East Washington Street and North McDowell Boulevard and proposed increased commercial development at Ely Road and East Washington Street and east of the Petaluma River between East Washington and D Streets.

The commission will continue its review of the general plan at the June 17 meeting and will later make recommendations to the city council.

The Petaluma Planning Commisspon also:

MOBILE HOMES — Continued discusspon on the proposed ordinance to regulate mobile home parks. Regulations on density and building standards will be continued at the June 17 meeting.

ACADEMY — Recommended the county planning commission grant a use permit to Mrs. Marie F. Wolff to operate a riding academy at 1815 Chapman Lane.

REZONING — Recommended the county planning commission grant the rezoning request of Norman P. Higby to rezone land on the east side of Highway 101 near Kastania Road from agricultural to heavy industrial.

Fatal Wreck Victim Is Identified

The man killed yesterday in a flaming crash in Lagunitas was Pat Morgan of Huntington Beach, Los Angeles County, his companion has told the California Highway Patrol.

Francisco Lujan of South Gate, questioned at Letterman Hospital in San Francisco, also said he, himself, was driving the sports car when it crashed into a tree at 2:05 a.m., killing Morgan and injuring himself.

The highway patrol report, however, maintained that Morgan was driving, and said Lujan may have been confused by shock, drink or drugs. Lujan suffered hand burns, a head cut and a severed finger on the left hand.

Lujan told the patrol they were driving from San Francisco to Inverness where Morgan was staying with a girlfriend.

Morgan's body was badly burned when the car was gutted by fire after the crash. The Marin County Coroner's office is still seeking further identification of Morgan. Funeral is pending at Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

FBI Arrests 7 Black Panthers In Chicago Raid

CHICAGO (AP) — Federal agents raided the headquarters of the militant Black Panthers today, arrested eight persons and seized a quantity of weapons and ammunition.

About 35 FBI agents conducted the early morning raid on the two-story headquarters.

A number of city police were stationed nearby in case of trouble in the predominantly Negro neighborhood.

Marlin W. Johnson, special agent in charge of the Chicago FBI office, said the agents were seeking George Sams Jr., a fugitive from New Haven, Conn., who is charged with murder and kidnaping.

Sams was not among those arrested.

The agents cordoned off the area around the headquarters and then, using a bullhorn, called on those inside to come out. The agents were armed with machine guns, shotguns, rifles and pistols. Several took up positions on the roof of the headquarters.

Johnson said two women were among those arrested. The surrenders were without resistance.

High-Speed Tire Advertising Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tire manufacturers whose advertising implies safety for their products at high speeds have 30 days to stop the claims or face formal action from the Federal Trade Commission.

The FTC yesterday offered these examples of advertising it objects to: "Built low and wide like a racing car; tested at 130 miles per hour" and, "Certified safe at 100 miles per hour, so you're sure you're safe at 60, 70 or 80."

Speed tests cannot foretell how tires will perform under all road conditions, the FTC said, adding, "such deception involves obvious and serious hazards to life and safety.

Home Is Looted

Penelope Chambers told Larkspur police that between 10:15 a.m. and 1:10 p.m., yesterday, someone entered her home at 36 Francis Avenue through an unlocked front door and stole $400 worth of radio equipment including an amplifier, turntable and two speakers, police reported today.

Fatal Wreck To Petaluma Motorcyclist

A 19-year-old Petaluma motorcyclist was killed yesterday at 12:15 p.m. after colliding with a car on Magnolia Avenue near Cherry Street in Petaluma.

Andrew Phillip Deaton, 1459 Magnolia Avenue, was pronounced dead on arrival at Hillcrest Hospital.

Police reported that Deaton was apparently speeding when he entered a curve in the road near Cherry Street and collided with a car driven by Mrs. Marie L. Andrea, 27, of 619 Kentucky Street, Petaluma, who was turning right onto Magnolia from Cherry.

Deaton was thrown 20 feet from the motorcycle and Mrs. Andrea's car struck a high embankment after attempting to avoid Deaton. She and her daughter, Connie, 5, were treated by a private physician for head cuts.

A native of Petaluma, Deaton was a 1968 graduate of Petaluma Senior High School and attended Santa Rosa Junior College. He was employed by Van Bebber Brothers Plumbing Contractors, Petaluma.

He is survived by his wife, Erin; his parents, Jan and Phyllis Deaton of Petaluma; a brother, J. D. Sumner of San Rafael, and a sister, Joanne Kruger of Santa Rosa.

Funeral will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at the Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma. Burial wil be at Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

The world's first electric street car was operated in Montgomery, Ala., April 7, 1885.

Transfer Of Bolinas Title Is Delayed

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislative action on a bill to transfer title to Bolinas Lagoon to Marin County from the Bolinas Harbor District whose dissolution was approved by voters in March was delayed last night when Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, failed to get enough votes for it.

The bill was put "under submission," a move designed to delay action until enough members of the ways and means committee are available to take a vote. Only 11 of the 19 committee members were at last night's session.

Bagley, sponsor of the bill (AB 2295) declared yestrday he would accept no "harbor of refuge" amendment or any other amendement which would weaken his bill.

He also said he would oppose an amendment tagged to the bill in the Assembly Natural Resources Committee by Minority Leader Jesse M. Unruh, D-Los Angeles, which would require Marin County to submit its plans for development of the lagoon to the State Lands Commission within three years. If the commission rejected the plans, the lagoon would then revert to the state.

Usual policy is to grant state lands a 10-year deadline for "substantial improvements" but no deadline on planning.

Mail Order Pastor Loses Doctor Right

I-J Special Report

STOCKTON — Controversial mail order minister Kirby J. Hensley yesterday lost the right to issue doctor of divinity degrees by mail for his Universial Live Church Inc. of Modesto — but he can still create instant ministers.

Hensley "makes" ministers two ways — through doctor of divinity degrees and minister certificates. San Joaquin County Superior Court Judge John B. Cechine issued a permanent injunction barring Hensley from issuing the doctorate degrees only.

The doctorate degrees cost $20, but Hensley issued them for less, sometimes for free, according to state Deputy Atty. General William Goode. It was his main source of income, Goode said.

The minister certificates were generally free, said Goode, who prepared the case against Hensley. He was not restrained from that part of the operation because "we haven't gone into whether it's a church," Goode reported.

Hensley announced yesterday he would appeal the decision and instead of continuing to represent himself would be represented by attorney Vincent Hallinan of Belvedere.

Hensley maintained the action was an attempt at interference by the state with affairs of the church, forbidden under the Bill of Rights.

Hallinan said his interest in the case centered on discrimination against Hensley.

"I think Hensley is a fake, but he's no more a fake than all the others who claim they have a special in with God," said Hallinan who has been involved in anticlerical causes in the past.

Hallinan maintained it shows discrimination to allow "the richer and more ancient churches" to claim the right to put others in communication with God and not allow Hensley to do essentially the same thing.

Hensley claims he has ordained some 17,000 clergymen at fees up to $20 each.

JAMES KIMO CAMPBELL
Wins by two votes

Campbell Is Winner In Close Vote

James Kimo Campbell squeaked out a two-vote victory over Harry C. Gilbert in runoff elections held Monday and yesterday to become College of Marin student body president next fall.

Campbell received 290 votes to Gilbert's 288.

In other runoffs the tallies were also close. George J. Shea received 293 votes for vice president to Larry Mariani's 273. Melanie Annin was named secretary with 296 votes to Bonnie Aby's 267 while Luana Lang beat out Richard W. Beban for treasurer by a 299 to 280 tally.

Campbell, a Sausalito resident and a part-time sports writer for the Independent-Journal, ran on a slate with Shea, Miss Aby and Beban.

Brother's Dope Charge Referred

The case of one of two Novato brothers charged with selling drugs at their father's service station in Novato has been referred to the probation department by Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court for possible transferral to juvenile court.

George Bonomolo, 19, who is charged with selling marijuana to a narcotics agent, was told to return to court June 17.

The judge also reduced bail to $2,500 for his older brother, Frank Joseph, 22, who is charged with selling LSD, and continued his case until Friday.

The older brother also faces charges of possessing LSD and marijuana for sale in Sonoma County, where he lives.

Compromise On Bagley Ballot Bill

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A compromise "political incest" bill authorized by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, cleared the Senate Elections Committee yesterday for a floor vote.

Bagley said the compromise virtually assures the bill's passage and signature by Gov. Ronald Reagan who vetoed, a similar bill last year.

As originally drawn this year, Bagley's bill would have prevented an appointee to any governing body from using the term "incumbent" or any comparable designation on the ballot. The appointee, if appointed for reasons other than to fill a vacancy caused by death or disability, also could not use the favored ballot placement of an incumbent.

Under the compromise, due to go before the Senate Elections Committee next week, the appointee could use the designation "appointed incumbent" on the ballot and would be listed on the ballot after the regular incumbents but before other candidates.

A similar bill by Bagley was vetoed by Reagan last year without explanation. There was heavy lobbying against it, however, by small election districts, particularly irrigation districts.

Bagley told the Independent-Journal yesterday that representatives of groups that opposed the original bill have agreed to the compromise and would ask Reagan to sign it when passed by the Assembly and Senate.

Bagley introduced the bill, he said, to end the practice of "instant incumbency" by which a board member resigns and allows other board members to appoint a friend right before the election so he can take advantage of the title "incumbent."

Tape Recorder And Cash Are Stolen

Edward F. Owen of 2 Kensington Road told police that burglars entered the office by breaking a window, then opened a filing cabinet with a key found in the office and removed the cash box.

College Airmen Due Sunday To Begin Training

A contingent of 190 Air Force Officers Training Corps cadets will arrive Sunday at Hamilton Air Force Base to begin a six-week summer training program.

They will come from more than 25 colleges in the western portion of the United States.

While at Hamilton they will see what types of jobs will be open to them when they become commissioned officers. They will get instruction in marksmanship, survival, first aid and other subjects during their training.

For many of them it will be their first chance to see the Air Force in action in its role of the defense of the nation.

After completing summer camp, the students will be eligible to enroll in the two-year professional officer course at their schools next fall.

S/Sgt. Ervin A. Feher of Hamilton Air Force Base received the honor graduate award during the recent graduation exercises at the noncommissioned Officers Academy at Hamilton.

RELAXES AFTER TESTIMONY — Suspended Detroit policeman Ronald August, on trial for the slaying of a Negro during Detroit's 1967 racial riot, relaxes following four hours on the witness stand yesterday. The trial is being held in Mason, Mich. (UPI Telephoto)

Policeman Details Algiers Motel Death

MASON, Mich. (AP) — A suspended white policeman on trial for murder says he killed a Negro youth in a struggle for a shotgun during Detroit's 1967 racial riot.

"I felt sick," Ronald August, 30, told an all-white jury of 13 women and one man yesterday.

August was on the witness stand for nearly four hours giving his version of what happened on the night of July 26, 1967, at the Algiers Motel, where three black youths were slain by close-range shotgun blasts.

August is charged with first-degree murder in the death of 19-year-old Aubrey Pollard.

The bodies of Pollard, Fred Temple, 18, and Carl Cooper, 17, were left behind at the motel by police and National guardsmen who had raided the building in a search for reported snipers.

August testified he took Pollard into a room after being advised that the youth wanted to talk to a police officer.

August said he was carrying a shotgun and the youth asked whether he intended to shoot him. August said he told Pollard he had no intention of shooting anyone.

Pollard pushed the shotgun away and said "don't point that gun at me," August testified.

After he aimed the gun back at Pollard, August said, the teen-ager grabbed it by the barrel and pulled. Both fell onto a bed, August added, with Pollard on top.

He said he pushed Pollard away but the youth lunged at him again. August said he pulled the shotgun trigger but the safety was on.

"He ducked and came back again—and the gun went off" August said, his voice choking.

"Pollard fell to the floor. I bent down and looked at the man and he was dead. I was sick.

"I walked . . . outside and leaned against a tree. I was weak and I wanted to vomit."

Los Angeles Suburb Picks Negro Mayor

COMPTON (AP) — City councilman Douglas F. Dollarhide defeated Dr. Walter Tucker yesterday in a runoff election between two Negroes for mayor of this Los Angeles suburb of 78,000 persons.

Officials complete returns from all 30 precincts gave Dollarhide 5,711 votes, 58 per cent of the total cast. Tucker had 4,072 for 42 per cent.

New industries and need for more and better schools were key issues of the nonpartisan race.

Compton, 12 miles south of downtown Los Angeles, has growing industry and residential sections where family income averages $9,736. Its population is 65 per cent Negro and 10 per cent Mexican-American.

Richmond Seats A Negro Mayor

Livingston, a city councilman since 1965, was selected unanimously as mayor this week by the council. He succeeds John H. Sheridan, who was defeated last month in a re-election bid.

The new mayor is a 36-year-old salesman for Continental Paper Co.

George D. Carroll was the first black mayor of this city of 71,000. He served from 1959 to 1961.

New Jersey Ex-Governor Renominated

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Former Democratic Gov. Robert B. Meyner and Republican U.S. Rep. William T. Cahill emerged as the candidates today for a November governor's race matching two men of similar political style and similar political problems.

Both won nominations yesterday in crowded primary contests that left potentially party-damaging scars. Both stressed party unity.

Cahill, a moderate, narrowly defeated U.S. Rep. Charles W. Sandman Jr., who campaigned as the only unmistakable conservative in the Republican field of five.

Meyner withstood a dual challenge—from the old-line Democratic organization in populous Hudson County and from a new coalition of liberals. But his margin was 3-to 2 in a field of six.

Meyner scheduled an immediate meeting with Gov. Richard J. Hughes, a Democrat who succeeded him eight years ago. Hughes, neutral in the primary, promised general election support. Meyner called on his primary opponents "to join ranks so we can have a great Democratic victory on Nov. 4."

As recently as the early 1950s, horse-drawn freight wagons and buggies were a common sight on the streets of Papeete, capital of Tahaiti. Today you can't find a parking space.

Voters Drub Oakland School Tax Rate Hike

OAKLAND (AP) — Final returns showed today that voters rejected a proposed tax increase for Oakland schools by more than a 2-1 margin.

With the count complete in all 133 precincts, the totals were 36,334 no and 17,484 yes. The figures included all absentee ballots.

The measure to boost the tax $1.95 to a new rate of $4.72 had been supported by the chamber of commerce and the League of Women Voters, but it lost the support of the Alameda County Central Labor Council following a demonstration protesting the hiring of Dr. James Mason of Las Vegas, Nev., as superintendent.

Mason, who had been involved in a controversy over alleged conflict of interest in Las Vegas, resigned later before assuming office.

The Support Oakland Schools Committee said the additional money would have been used to eliminate double school sessions, beef up counseling, restore summer sessions and raise teachers' salaries.

The result of yesterday's election contrasted with balloting last November in which San Francisco voters approved a measure boosting the school tax to $3.53.

Low Operating Train Bid Is Boom To BART

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Bay Area Rapid Transit — with its latest bid far below estimates —hopes it is over its last financial hump.

Rohr Corp., a Southern California aerospace firm from Chula Vista, submitted a bid of $59.1 million yesterday to manufacture BART trains. This was $1.8 million lower than the nearest other bidder and $6 million to $8 million below estimates.

BART previously developed a deficit of more than $100 million, but to eliminate the red ink the Legislature voted a half-cent increase in the state sales tax in counties where BART will operate.

Now, the new bid will permit BART to operate within its projected budget.

Terra Linda High Slates Awards Night

Five National Merit Scholarships, the second annual Human Relations Award and various other scholarships awards and certificates of merit will be given to Terra Linda High School students at awards night ceremonies at 8 p.m. today in the school cafeteria.

Among the presentations, 12 certificates and engraved plaques will be awarded by the Terra Linda High School PT-A to outstanding students in each department.

Burglary Case Charge Delayed

No complaint was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against John Perry Teters, 20, of San Geronimo, who was arrested Monday in San Anselmo on suspicion of burglary.

Further investigation is planned by the district attorney's office, a spokesman said.

Teters was arrested in back of the U and I Trading Post, where police said burglary had taken place.

Tips On Use Of British Condiments

British condiments and their use will be a part of the Festival of British Foods to be held by the Marin Co-op in Corte Madera tomorrow through Saturday.

One of the drawbacks of following the sea is the monotony of the diet. This was the case before the days of refrigeration; when British sailing ships ruled the waves and hordes of young Englishmen left home comforts for the rigors of the maritime world. At the same time thousands of other young English men were pursuing careers overseas in the Indian civil service, the army or in busines. To make their daily fare more varied they would take along chests of relishes; pickles, chutneys and preserves. When in India or the far east they would sample other relishes; those used by Indians, Chinese, Malayans, to season their basic rice or pulses.

Home again, they would instruct their womenfolk in the preparation of exotic chutneys and pickles hot enough to disguise poor meat or stringy chicken. Thus a great industry came into being, commercial pickling and preserving which had its beginnings in the kitchens of the homes that sent their young men overseas.

THE ENGLISH kitchen garden yields a great variety of produce suitable for preserves and pickles. Pickled onions, walnuts, cauliflower, beetroot, cucumber, tomatoes, to name but a few, are staples in the store cupboard of the frugal countrywoman.

Pickled walnuts, made from the whole fruit before the nut is formed, are delicious with cold meats; and especially veal. Pickled onions are always to be found in English pubs; since with bread, cheese and beer they make up a favorite lunch. Long before the little cocktail onion had made its dive into the martini the crunchy pickled onion of old England was delighting the epicure as well as the peasant.

Pickled red cabbage and pickled beetroot are excellent with cold beef; as is grated horse radish sauce and, of course, piccalili. The latter is a hot, mustard sauce with many vegetables added.

CAPERS ARE essential to accompany a favorite English dish which brings shudders to Americans, boiled mutton. However try capers chopped and added to a sauce for fish; or braised lamb. A few put zest into scrambled eggs. Nasturtium seeds, pickled when tender and green, are sometimes used as a substitute.

On the subject of preserves, the English are adamant on one point—marmalade. This is only eaten at breakfast, when other preserves are never in sight. There are many varieties of marmalade to choose from, but all are made from citrus fruits. Coarse marmalade is considered an excellent hangover remedy. This perhaps is why Oxford marmalade is so popular among students at the university of the same name.

A word on semi-sweet biscuits, packaged cookies as they are found on the shelves of supermarkets. These time-honored varieties, Marie, Osborne, Petit Beurre, are similar to arrowroot cookies. They are delicious with coffee or tea. English children prefer them to the richer cookies considered children's fare here.

At Marin Co-op during the festival there will be many British imports for tasting. There wil be tea-making and trifle, Scotch eggs and Scottish dancing, and helpful suggestions as to the use of unfamiliar items.

Take Golden Syrup to be found on the same shelf as molasses — this canned sweet extract of pure cane sugar is delicious as a pie filling when used with half its own weight of soft bread crumbs and a dash of ginger or lemon.

A word of warning on the uses of jelly—red currant jelly is not a spread, but an accompaniment to veal. Mint jelly; although imported from England, is never to be seen there. Mint sauce, made from malt vinegar is the usual accompaniment to roast lamb. As for mustard, the English like it very hot, mixed to a paste with water. They also use it in a hot bath as a precaution against catching cold

RELISHES, PICKLES and preserves are all an important part of traditional British cuisine, and they have their traditional use in English households. UNDER THE WATCHFUL eye of a parent, teens can learn the art of firebuilding safely with barbecue briquets and the art of broiling a popular cut of lamb as these chops shown sizzling on a hibachi placed in a fireplace or other well ventilated area. This is something young people can enjoy indoors or outdoors.

Let The Teen-Agers Do The Indoor-Or Outdoor Grilling

Cave men with no room partitions enjoyed meat cooked over an open fire in their living quarters and now there is a trend toward more of this type feasting. Today's fireplace cookery equipment may be found in the kitchen, the family room, the living room, the patio or the backyard.

The occasion makes no difference. It's frequently in operation for breakfast, lunch, dinner or snack time. Ham, hot dogs, bacon, pork chops, beef steaks, hamburgers, spareribs, popcorn or marshmallows — a grill in the fireplace is fun for cooking them.

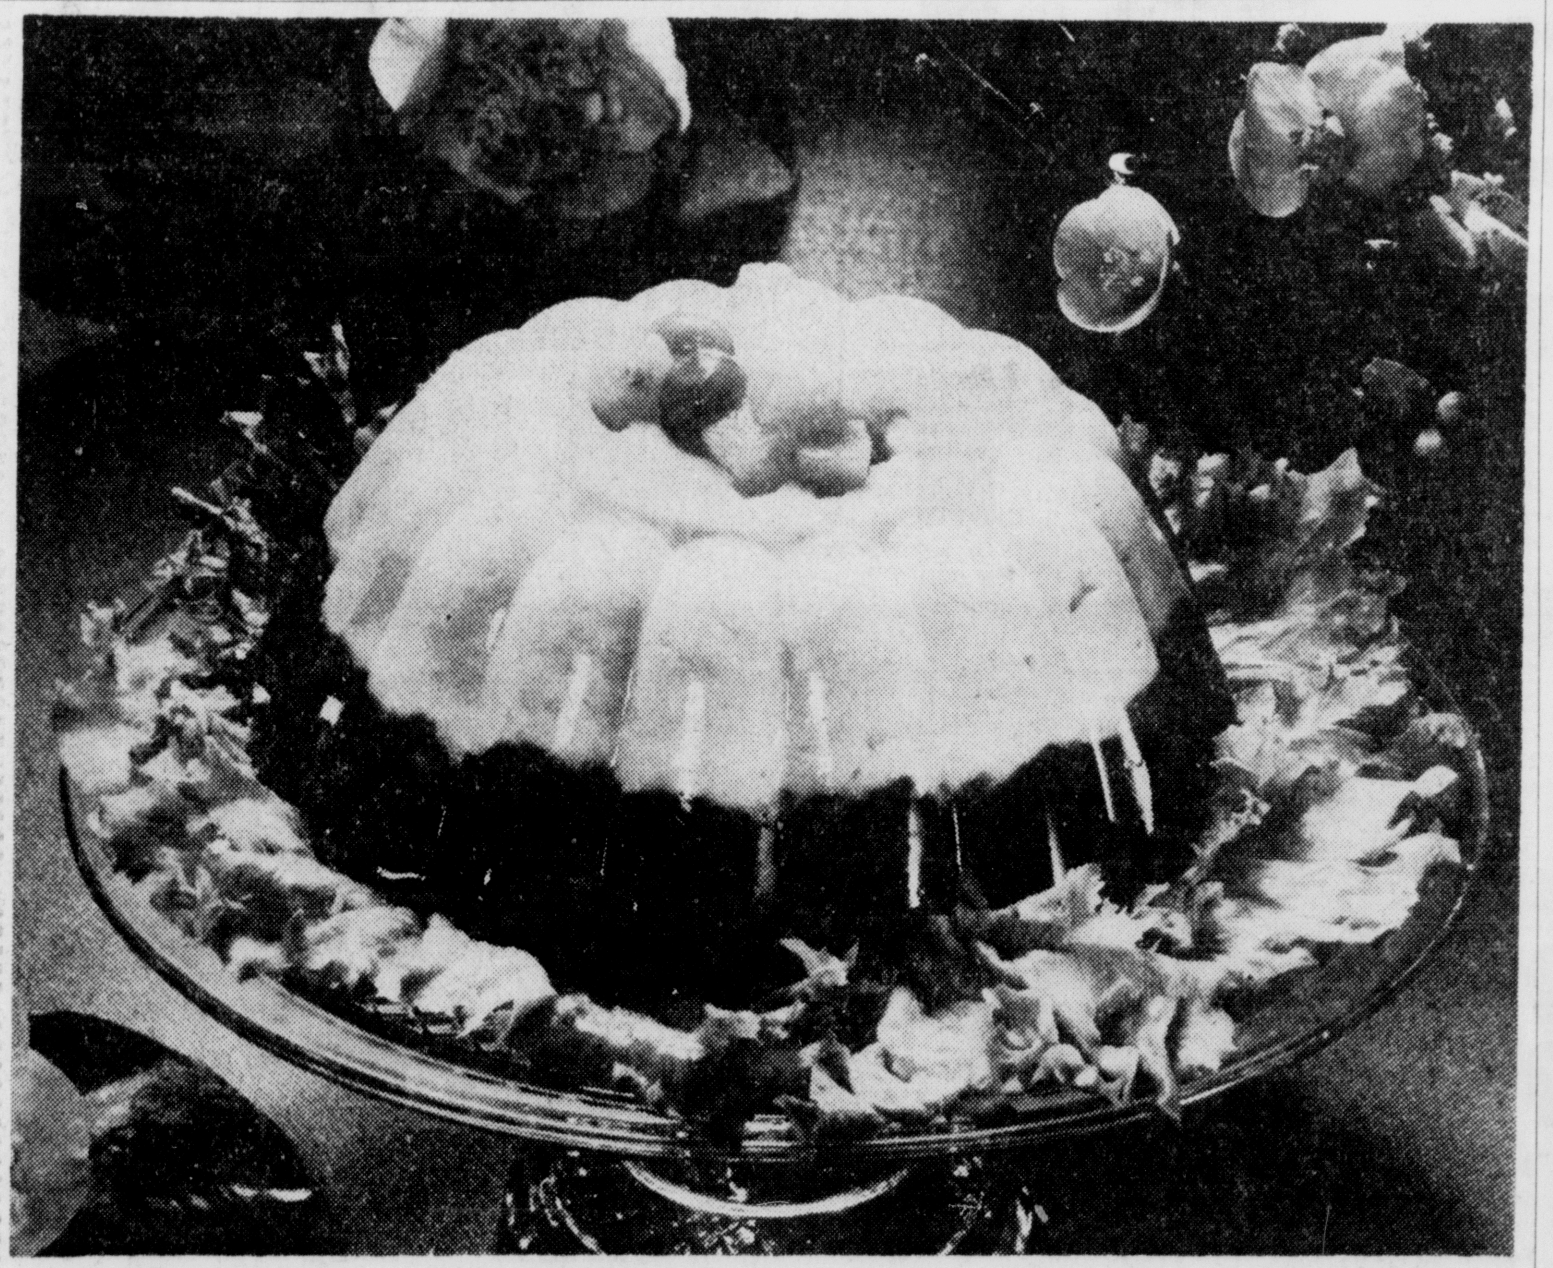
A FEW REMINDERS make the grilling easy. Shape heavy duty aluminum foil to form a shallow pan for placing under the grill. This will catch the ashes and any drippings, making it easier to keep the fireplace clean. Use enough briquets to keep the heat at a moderate rather than hot temperature at the surface of the food. It will cook more uniformly, and meat cooked at a moderate temperature will lose fewer drippings and be more juicy. A moderate temperature also means less turning and less watching during grilling. A bit of experimenting will soon show how hot the fire should be.

Beef sirloin, porterhouse, club, filet mignon, strip, rib eye (Delmonico) — all are super fare and fireplace grilling or broiling can provide them rare, medium or well done.

Arrange charcoal on the grate in a pyramid shape. Light briquets and let them burn until covered with gray ash. Spread briquets for grilling and put grill over coals. Place steaks on grill and broil until the first side is browned. Turn, season and broil second side. Turn steaks with long-handled tongs. Cooking time will vary from 6 to 8 minutes per side for a 1-inch medium-rare steak to 10 to 15 minutes for a 1½-inch medium-well steak.

Use a grill thermometer to measure temperature at grill level. Control temperature by adding or removing coals. Keep a small supply of ignited briquets along edge of fire bowl.

Other menu accompaniments including potatoes, corn on the cob or foil packets of vegetables can be cooked easily alongside the steaks.



SPRING-GREEN SALAD made with cottage cheese and fruit cocktail has a special taste surprise—crunchy celery, a touch of onion and a dash of vinegar.

Serve A Crunchy Spring Green Salad

Cottage cheese blends so well with so many other foods that an imaginative cook need never duplicate a dish containing this dairy food.

Because one-half cup of cottage cheese has as much protein as two cups of fresh milk, this dairy food is ideal for a family which includes a weight-watching father, a calorie counting daughter, a teen-age athlete and a very young child. They all need lots of good body-building protein, calcium, and other minerals and vitamins.

The great variety of cottage cheese available makes daily menu-planning a simple matter. Choose from small or large curd, creamed or diet-packed, mixed with fruit or chives, or blend your own with herbs, onion or fresh canned fruits.

"Spring-Green Salad" gives a hint of the many ways a simple cottage-cheese gelatin salad can be varied.

Crunchy celery, a touch of onion, and even a dash of vinegar make this a special salad.

SPRING-GREEN SALAD

2 packages (3 oz. each) lime gelatin
2½ cups boiling water
1 can (1 lb.) fruit cocktail
2 tablespoons vinegar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups cottage cheese
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 teaspoon grated onion
¼ cup chopped celery
Lettuce

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Drain fruit cocktail. Set fruit aside. Add fruit syrup to gelatin with vinegar and salt. Pour off 1 cup gelatin mixture and chill until mixture mounds on a spoon. Stir in cottage cheese, mayonnaise and grated onion. Pour into bottom of six cup mold. Chill. Chill remaining gelatin mixture until mixture mounds on spoon. Stir in drained fruit cocktail and celery. Pour over cheese layer in mold. Chill until set. Unmold on lettuce. Serves eight.

Of course, there's virtually no end to the things you can do with cottage cheese in salads. It is as compatible with any combination of fruits as it is with vegetables.

Cottage cheese will not only taste good, in itself, but the protein in the cheese will act as an appetite appeaser to stretch your lunch while slimming your figure.

For an especially eye-appealing salad, select a red, ripe tomato and slice it horizontally into three uniformly thick slices. Spread a thick layer of chive flavored cottage cheese between each slice of tomato, like a three decker sandwich. The amount of serving is determined by the size of the tomato and can range from a main dish salad to a colorful accompaniment to your entree.

Marin Stewardess With Medic Team In Laos

By BETTY FROST

For three months Doris Dieter, who now makes her home in Tiburon, was a volunteer with a team of five persons, making a medical survey of conditions in Laos under the auspices of the Thomas A. Dooley Foundation.

Glad to have assisted with the project, the World Airways stewardess nevertheless said, "I wouldn't do it again. You have to be really idealistic about it and have more training to really help the people."

THE STEWARDESS, working with Loren Senseman, a medical technician, usually went ahead to map out the town and make the initial contact with the villagers. Then the three members of the medical team would come in later to observe environmental conditions, make routine medical examinations and inquire about health problems.

Near the small town of Ban Houei Sai in Northern Laos, Doris and Senseman were stranded when the boat that was supposed to pick them up did not arrive.

"When it didn't come by dusk, we knew it wasn't coming," she explained. "It is too dangerous to cruise the Mekong River after dark because of the rapids in that part of the river and because of the activities of the Pathet Lao, the communist party fighting against King Sri Savang Vatthana of Laos."

After radio contact with the rest of the team failed, as did an attempt to flag down a plane taking off from a landing strip near the edge of the next town, they stayed in a nearby village, resting on small mattresses in an empty wooden building, as the guests of the King of Laos. Miss Dieter did not meet the King, but she did have an audience with his brother, the prime minister, Prince Souvanna Phouma.

THE MEDICAL survey, making a year-long investigation of 30 villages in Laos, is being conducted jointly by the Foundation and the School of Public Health, University of Hawaii. Findings will be turned over to the Lao Ministry of Health as a guide to a nation-wide medical care and health education program.

The Tiburon girl is one of 130 stewardesses from 15 airlines who have volunteered to help in the Dooley Foundation's overseas programs. The Foundation also operates programs in India, Nepal and Vietnam.

An advantage to Doris in her assignment was her skill in French. A native of Darmstadt, Germany, she was living and working in Paris as a French-German translator, when she was recruited by World Airways.

"Lots of European girls want to come to California," she said. She frequently flies to Europe where she has an opportunity to visit her family.

The brown-haired young woman with sparkling blue eyes has also been in Cambodia, Thailand and Vietnam in the course of her airline duties. She felt that the mission of her group in Laos was useful.

"The most underdeveloped country I've ever seen," she called Laos. "There is a lot of culture, but behind this people are poor. There is electricity only in the capital, Vientiane. Rarely is there running water."

AS FOR THE need for medical guidance, she observed "They need a great deal of help with medical problems. In the beginning it would have to come from outside the country. There is no university where medicine is taught, and people are too poor to send their children out of the country for training. The French established schools, but they are for the lower grades only. It is rare to find anyone in Laos with more than a fourth-grade education."

The German-born girl continued "Travel is difficult. The roads are dangerous because of the political situation. Laos is land-locked, and it has no seaport. The Mekong River however, provides a means of travel and is also important to the country's economy because it provides fish, crab and frogs for food."

After her education in Germany, where she completed the abitur of the gymnasium in her home town, she took secretarial training, then spent two years in Paris.

Doris said "I had no medical background, and without it, I don't think I could be very helpful in making the next step in the program to improve health in Laos."

BACK IN Tiburon, Doris shares an apartment with two German stewardesses, one Swedish stewardess and an American girl from Miami, Fla. Their apartment is furnished with objects from their travels. Pottery from Peru, a kangaroo rug from Australia and paintings from Europe are eye-catching.

After their long flights, "We love to be at home and to cook. Everybody has a specialty from all over," she confided in her soft voice with a trace of German accent.

What is Doris's contribution to the culinary department? "French cuisine, learned in my two years in Paris," she said.

"BEING STRANDED in the mountains of Laos was just one of the adventures we came across in our trek along the Mekong River Regino", said Doris Dieter, airline stewardess, at home in Tiburon. Doris spent three months assisting with a health survey sponsored by the Thomas A. Dooley Foundation in Laos. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

JUST 50 YEARS AGO

Bitter, Militant Campaign Resulted In Vote For Women

NEW YORK (UPI)—The wording of the 19th Amendment to the Constitution is simple —"The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex."

It's called the Women's Suffrage Amendment and on this day it is 50 years old, having been approved by the U.S. Senate June 4, 1919. (It wasn't until Aug. 26, 1920, however, that the necessary three quarters of the states had ratified the amendment.)

Behind that right that women won in 1919-1920 lies one of the most militant, most courageous, often bitterest, most prolonged campaigns for a cause in the nation's history.

AND THE BATTLE is not over; Florida, for instance, only got around to ratifying the amendment last May 13 and sources at the Lucy Stone League say New Mexico still is lagging.

Even so, the early suffragettes were convinced that with the right to vote, women could change the world for the better.

Did they? Are they?

At least they haven't blown it off the map as some of the anti-suffrage leaders direly predicted.

THEY HAVE accomplished much in the half century, but the consensus is they still have a long way to go. The fact stands in a sampling of opinions of women leaders, from the comments of one who helped to lead the movement in the early 1900's to modern day females like Betty Friedan who are starting "the second wave of women's campaign for equality."

One of these women doers is Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, who says, "women have made encouraging progress . . . but not nearly enough. If the rate of progress is unsatisfactory, then we can blame only ourselves for lack of initiative."

Mrs. Smith is the only woman in the nation's 100-member Senate and is the ranking Republican on the powerful Armed Services and Aeronautical and Space Sciences committees.

ANOTHER POWERFUL woman in Washington, Virginia Mae Brown, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, agrees with Mrs. Smith. "They (the women) have been responsible for many changes" she says," . . . but much still remains to be accomplished."

"The women who have done things have had to assert themselves . . . be more aggressive," says Mrs. Bruce Benson, of Amherst, Mass., president of the powerful League of Women Voters.

One of the women leaders who thinks that feminine accomplishments in the last 50 years have been "almost unbelievable" is Mrs. Walter Varney Magee, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs (GFWC), which worldwide has 11 million members.

"We supported suffrage, you know," she said. She conceded that women may not hold many top spots in government, but adds, "we're active in pushing legislation. . .our women keep after officials at the local, state and national levels."

To those who underestimate the power of feminine persuasion, Mrs. Magee points out that "we started kindergarten in this country, the U.S. Children's Bureau. . .we were campaigning for conservation as early as 1898. Of course, now it's a red hot issue in Washington."

BETTY FRIEDAN is less enthusiastic. The author, who set off a world of debate on women's role with her "the Feminine Mystique" in 1963, currently heads an activist group called the National Organization for Women NOW. One of its objectives — to "outlaw" any discrimination in any way against women.

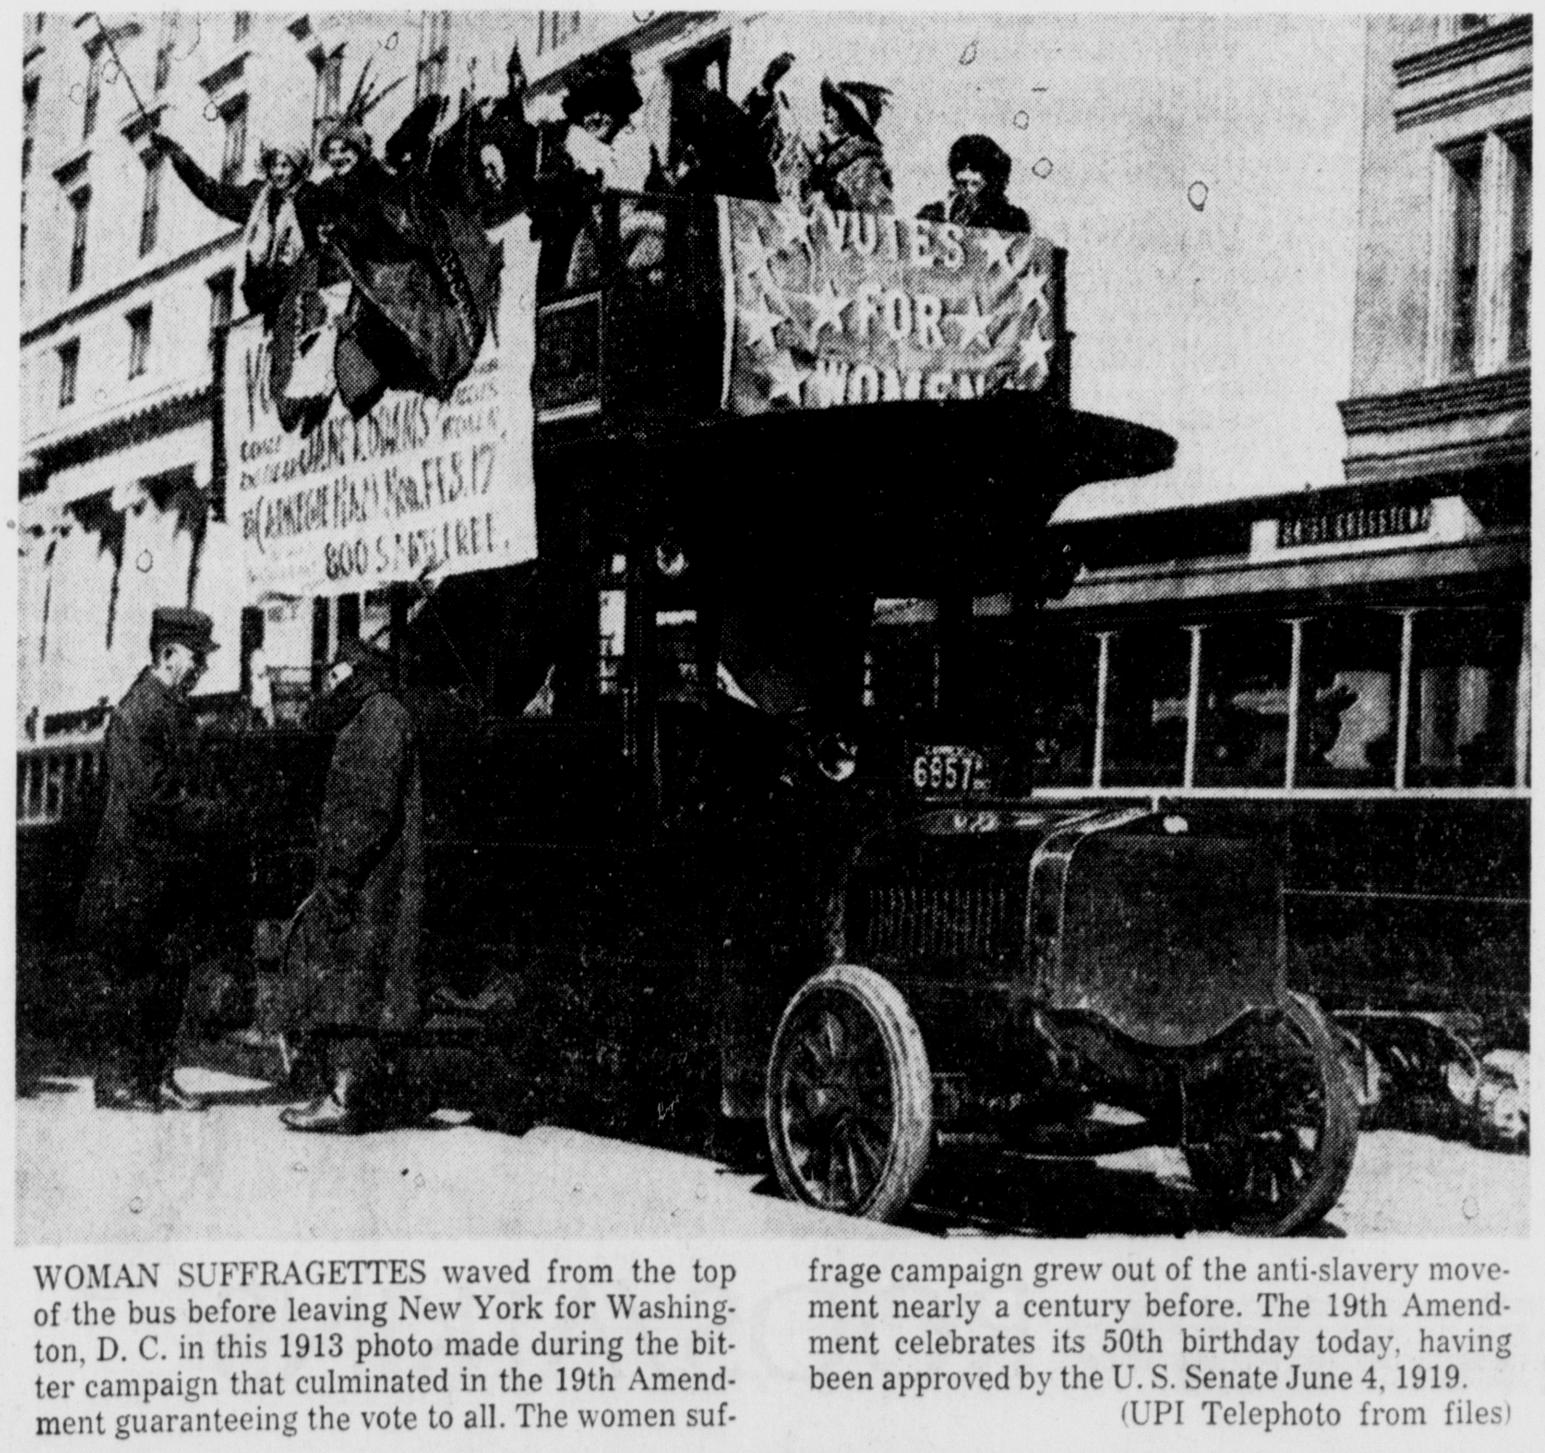
NOW currently has chapters in 45 states and to Miss Friedan this "second wave" is a "whole new ball game. We've got to reconstruct society so that mom no longer is the woman-at-home symbol."

What do the women who helped with the suffragette movement "way back when" think their voting rights have wrought?

"Well, we've managed to change a lot of laws that needed changing," says Elsie Hill, of South Norwalk, Conn.

"BUT YOU KNOW," says lively woman of 85, "the suffrage amendment doesn't even mention women." She argues that women still do not have equality and that just a few words in the Constitution would take care of the matter— "equality of rights under the law shall not be abridged . . . ."

The onetime suffragette belongs to the Lucy Stone organization, named for one of the first leaders of the suffrage movement and still active in the battle to banish numerous discriminations it contends still exist—such as the right to equal pay for equal work, the right for equal education.



WOMAN SUFFRAGETTES waved from the top of the bus before leaving New York for Washington, D. C. in this 1913 photo made during the bitter campaign that culminated in the 19th Amendment guaranteeing the vote to all. The women suffrage campaign grew out of the anti-slavery movement nearly a century before. The 19th Amendment celebrates its 50th birthday today, having been approved by the U. S. Senate June 4, 1919.

Suggestions Listed For Care Of Gifts

June . . . the month for wedding bells, brides and the excitement of furnishing a new home. A typical young couple's wedding gifts will include many small appliances, and they will have to purchase some major home appliances. Here are some tips from the San Francisco Better Business Bureau to make homemaking a bit easier.

With more than 200 million major home appliances in use, the average American housewife operates thousands of dollars worth of complex mechanical equipment.

IT IS not necessary for the brides of today to be mechanical experts regarding these appliances, either large or small, if they remember the following suggestions.

Most new appliances are under either a guarantee or warranty. These, usually, are for a definite period of time specified on the tag. In some instances, defective parts are covered for an additional period, but this does not include labor costs.

Terms and conditions of these guarantees or warranties differ in many respects. Therefore, it is advisable to read them carefully and ask questions regarding warranty terms, rights and obligations. It does not generally provide for replacement of the entire appliance and does not apply to mishandling or misuse.

A MANUFACTURER may have his own service organization in your area. Or he may depend upon authorized dealers or distributors to carry out the guarantee. The manufacturer directs how his guarantee shall be honored and may decline responsibility except as authorized.

As in most lines of business, the Better Business Bureau finds the majority of dealers are fair and honest. However, the bureau cautions new homemakers to be aware of objectionable selling and advertising practices by a small minority, such as:

BAIT ADVERTISING which is an alluring offer to sell something which the advertiser does not intend to sell but will either bring the customer to the store or the salesman to the home to sell an item at a higher price.

BUY WHOLESALE . . . dealers claiming to sell to the retail trade at wholesale prices, which are usually not true, since it is virtually impossible to sell to the public at wholesale prices and stay in business.

FICTICIOUS, COMPARATIVE, DISCOUNT AND LIST PRICES . . . These are found on the tags attached to the appliances listing two prices, one of which is the price the appliance is actually sold for, and the other, a higher price which indicates a ficticious higher than customary price or value.

IF IN DOUBT as to the value of the offer, don't hesitate to shop around. See if it is, in fact, the best price you can get for the purchase you wish to make.

Never sign a contract just to get rid of the salesman. Contracts are legally binding and enforceable.

Don't sign any contract without getting a copy of it.

Small Budgets Are No Handicap

By JEANNE LESEM

NEW YORK (UPI)—A small kitchen and a budget to match are not necessarily handicaps for a bride. She's more likely to choose utensils and appliances for their practicality as well as their prettiness.

Take multiple-use articles: A covered shallow metal casserole shaped like a skillet but with two short metal handles can double as a skillet and an oven utensil. Some come in decorator colors, intended for cook-and-serve use. Remove the lid and add a rack, sold separately and you have a small roasting pan or broiler.

A dutch oven also can serve many purposes, particularly if it is flame and oven proof. The enameled iron ones make handsome serving dishes and, because they hold heat so well, are especially good for buffet service. Oval shapes are ideal for braising whole chickens or ducks or making pot roasts. The foods cook better and need less liquid when the solids fit the shape of the container.

IF YOU WANT to use the dutch oven as a deep fat fryer, buy a round model and a frying basket, sold separately. The same pan can be used for boiling small amounts of spaghetti or macaroni and for heating boil-in-bag frozen prepared foods. The boiling point returns more quickly in a large quantity of liquid than it does in a small amount.

Add a rack to the dutch oven to convert it to a steamer for puddings and custards or to a sterilizer for small canning jars and jelly glasses.

Another versatile utensil is a deep saucepan with tightfitting lid—for cooking vegetables, especially rice and other foods that have a tendency to foam and boil over. This, too, can be used as a steamer when you add a rack—either the shallow variety or an adjustable one with metal petals that fold out to make the rack skillet-size.

MOST STARTER sets of pots and pans include a double boiler but a makeshift one works as well or better for some foods. Since egg yolk mixtures may discolor when cooked in aluminum, I prefer to use a heat-proof mixing bowl that fits the top of a saucepan for making sauces and puddings that require indirect heat.

Gratin dishes or pans in graduated sizes have many uses. The classic French shape is a shallow oval but rectangular ones also are available, usually in ovenproof china of ceramic. These and the metal variety are useful as small roasting pans for cooking cut-up chicken, small fish or fish fillets in a single layer. Metal ones can go into the broiler for top-browning. China and ceramic ones also are handy serving dishes for celery and carrot sticks, relishes and snacks.

Cookie sheets, the sideless kind, are good for more than cookies. Used under shallow disposable aluminum trays of frozen prepared food, the food heats faster because of reflected heat. The rigid tray also makes for easier und safer removal of the flexible light-weight containers from the oven. Unless you plan to bake muffins regularly, forget about a conventional muffin pan. Instead, buy disposable aluminum baking cups and place them on a cookie sheet before filling and baking them.

IF YOUR KITCHEN has metal cabinets, use magnetized hooks on the outside of them to keep frequently used small utensils within easy reach of the work areas where you use them. Things like tongs, strainers, a vegetable peeler, graduated measuring cups and spoons can go here.

Another space-saver: Stacking canisters, particularly plastic-topped glass ones. To avoid mixups of look-alike ingredients — such as cornstarch and confectioner's sugar — use adhesive-backed labels, usually available at variety and stationery stores.

The labels are easy to change, if you remember to peel them off before you wash the container. Hot water tends to make the adhesive more so. Once set, it can be removed from glass with cotton swabs soaked in nail polish remover, but this solvent will damage plastic and painted surfaces.

How's this for a summer clean-up?

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Son Attempts To Break Up Mother's Marriage With Threat

DEAR HELEN:

My son, age 18, told me I must leave my present husband of three years or he will show me.

I was widowed over 10 years ago, and until I met my wonderful second husband my son was my whole life. But the two don't get along. I love them both but evidently I can't have them both. My husband says Dirk is selfish and spoiled, and Dirk calls him bossy and mean. Sparks fly whenever they're together. As Dirk wants to live at home, you can see this is an impossible situation. He says I must leave my husband, and I'll always have a home with him, even when he is married. Otherwise he may go bad, just to teach me how wrong I am.

My family says I should protect my son, but my minister says I should stay with my husband. What would you suggest?
—TORN APART

DEAR TORN:

Your son has been protected long enough. Only a spoiled and selfish child would make such demands, and only a boy who is looking for an excuse would say "I'll go bad to get even."

If a talk with your minister doesn't straighten Dirk out, then I'd suggest 1. Further counselling, and 2. Either college or a job away from home. —H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm a black, 33-year-old live-in maid. Although I'm fully aware of the racial turmoil, I'm thoroughly confused about one thing. Why do people who visit act as though I'm the poor soul? I am not.

Is there some reason why I should be made to feel pitied because I'm a maid? My work requires skill, patience, thought and time. Except for the depression I feel when guests arrive, I am proud of being able to handle what is expected of me, and I am well paid for my services.

This situation doesn't exist, as far as I know, in the southern city from which I come. My employer is a fine person who accepts people as they are, but some of her wealthy friends — I'm embarrassed by their inability to treat me as another human beng. How does one cope?
—M.T.

DEAR M:

. . . With pride in your work, your ability and yourself — and humor for those poor small souls who think they're doing their bit for the race problem when they view with pity. You should learn what I'm sure your employer has already discovered: Certain uncomfortably rich people can best be taken with a grain of laughter. —H.

DEAR HELEN:

In spite of what they'd like you to believe, husbands do need a change of wife. They're great happy guys at home after an occasional affair, and they're better husbands for it.

I don't know why, because what Ben Franklin said is certainly true, but I'll wager 90 per cent of married men would step out on their wives if given the chance. This doesn't mean they want divorces — just a small harmless spree. A man gets tired of the same old routine, but when he compares, finds he is pretty lucky after all, then he becomes a new man at home.—
GEORGE

DEAR GEORGE:

Sorry, Im the reactionary type who thinks a marriage license rules out comparison shopping. And in spite of your 90 per cent estimate, I think most men still agree with me.
—H.

Clean Clothing

When it looks as though winter really isn't going to reappear, ready winterwear for storage. The rule when storing clothing: pack it or hang it clean. Clean fibers will not deteriorate as rapidly as soiled fabric. So wash, rinse and dry those that are washable. Also mend rips, replace buttons and make other repairs as you go.

OPERA REVIEW

Rich Voices In Puccini Work Get Season Off To Good Start

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

SAN FRANCISCO — While the San Francisco Spring Opera may still be in its formative years, it rang up its ninth season last night with a winner in Puccini's lyrical beauty, "La Rondine."

Revived last year, it proved such a success, opera chieftans decided to bring this work of Puccini's later years back as this year's opener with much the same stellar cast.

And what a blessing. The four principals — Carol Todd as Madga, Vahan Khanzadian as Ruggero, Karan Armstrong as the maid Lisette and Bernard Fitch as the poet Prunier — were sheer delight in solo, duet and quarter offerings of the velvety Puccini lyrics.

Miss Todd, no stranger to the Opera House, was in rich vocal control from the opening "ore dolci e divine" (what hours of sweetness divine) to the tearful farewell lovers' duet with Khanzadian, whose tenor voice seemed to take on richer scope as the opera developed.

Fitch, who sang the same role last year had an excellent partner in 1966 Metropolitan Opera auditions winner Karan Armstrong, who added spice in her saucy lyrical portrayal of Lisette.

As operas go "La Rondine" is like a delicious sundae to enjoy and savor. The dye is cast in the first act in the salon of Magda's home in Paris, where she decides to take a young lover. She works her spell in the ballroom scene of Act II. In the final act it comes crashing down. Like "La Rondine" which means swallow, Magda abandons her lover and returns to her elderly keeper Rambaldo, who was portrayed by Archie Drake.

Giving able support as Madga's friends in the first act were Shigemi Matsumoto as Yvette, Claudia Lindsey as Bianca and Karen Wilson as Suzy. They later added strength to Also Danieli's fine choral work in Act II.

While guest conductor Anton Guadagno of the Philadelphia Lyric Opera Company seemed to let the orchestra overpower the singers in the first few minutes of the production, he soon leveled it off, bringing the singers and instruments into tightly honed harmony. This was especially evident in the principals' love toast near the end of Act II.

Adding to the overall enjoyment of the bouncy second act was Dennis Rosa's choreography. The corps de ballet work was delicate to almost an understatement — the element which gave it so much charm.

The production was wrapped up in colorful period costumes and light, airy sets under the artful eye of Matthew Farruggio.

It was an excellent starter for the season which will also offer Menotti's "The Consul," "The Marriage of Figaro" by Mozart and Gounod's Romeo et Juliette.

"La Rondine" will be presented for the final time at 8 p.m. on Friday. "The Consul" follows next Tuesday and June 13.

$500 Accordion Taken From Home

Burglars who broke a window and entered the home of Harry Webster at 304 Melrose Avenue, Mill Valley while he was on vacation took a $500 accordion, a jewelry box, $20 in cash and five bottles of liquor as well as assorted canned goods, sheriff's deputies said yesterday.

Webster reported the burglary Friday.

'Dead End Kid' Leo Gorcey Succumbs At 52

OAKLAND (AP) — From the day he began acting as one of the original "Dead End Kids" Leo Gorcey was typecast.

It was 1935 and he was 18 when the stage play opened. It was about a gang of tough New York slum kids on a street deadending at the East River. Leo was the leader, Spit.

Samuel Goldwyn put the Kids in the movies in 1937 in a film starring Humphrey Bogart. Warner Brothers next signed them for gangster films starring Bogart and Edward G. Robinson. In their "Angels With Dirty Faces" the stars were James Cagney and Pat O'Brien.

Gorcey is survived by his fifth wife, the former Mary E. Gannon, 26, whom he married last year, and his son, Army Pfc. Leo B. Gorcey Jr.

Aquacade To Benefit Marindale

A cast of 217 Marin girls will participate in two afternoons of splashy pageantry at the 24th annual Marin Ballet-Aquacade this weekend at the Peacock Gap Beach Club.

The show will feature seven numbers, with such intriguing titles as Pink Flamingo, Yellow Submarine and Space Odyssey, and a grand finale with the entire cast.

The swimmers and dancers range in age from 5 to 18-year-old. The show, a benefit to aid the Marindale School for orthopedically handicapped children in Terra Linda, will climax months of rehearsals.

Musical arrangements for the displays will run the gamut from classical to jazz.

Show time both Saturday and Sunday is 2:30 p.m.

Black Thespians Aid Boys Club

A benefit performance of "Back to Black" by the Black Thespians, an Oakland acting group, will be presented at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Manzanita Center in Marin City.

Playwright and director is Dezie Jones. Narrator will be her husband, Bob Jones, a disk jockey with Radio KDIA.

Proceeds from the performance will go to the Boys' Club of Southern Marin. Producing the performance are Gabe Jackson and Melvin Randolph of Marin City.

'Hair' To Open San Francisco Run In August

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The American Conservatory Theatre today announced it was cutting its third San Francisco season a month short to make room for a local production of "Hair."

ACT will co-produce the rock musical, opening in mid-August at the Geary, with Michael Butler, producer of the Broadway and Los Angeles versions; Tom Smothers, comedian and television producer, and Martheater owner who unsuccessfully tried to stage "Hair" recently in Acapulco, Mexico.

"Hair" will become the final play of the current ACT season.

Strike Idles Tiburon Ferries Across Bay

A strike by marine engineers idles Tiburon ferry service to San Francisco and Angel Island State Park today.

About 200 Marin residents who normally commute to and from their jobs in San Francisco across the waters of the Golden Gate were forced to join other thousands on the freeway.

A spokesman for Harbor Tours, Inc., which operated the ferry service, said no negotiations had yet been scheduled with representatives of the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association.

He said the regular commuters were informed yesterday afternoon on their return to Tiburon of the strike.

Only a few cars were parked this morning at the normally heavily-used parking lot near the ferry dock in Tiburon.

Lester Bedient, general manager of Harbor Tours, said the dispute was "basically over wages."

A union spokesman said ferry engineers were seeking raises over three years from $690 to "at least" $1,000 a month. The company's last offer, made three days before the old contract expired June 1, called for raises to $790, he said.

The union also is seekeing in pensions from $50 to $100 a month. About 20 engineers are involved.

The union said negotiations broke off Monday when representatives of both sides could not reach agreement on counter proposals to the company.

Accord On Sewer Service Along Sonoma County Line

The North Marin County Water District and Novato Sanitary District boards agreed last night on sewer service to the area along the Sonoma County line.

The water board voted 5-0 to refer a request for sanitary service to the sanitary district; according to Eugene Churchill; water district manager.

John D. Kinney asked the water district for further studies for sanitary service for the proposed Enchanted Valley mobile home park west of Highway 101, just south of the Sonoma County line, which is San Antonio Creek.

The original request for sanitary service in this area had come in 1967, Churchill said.

Thomas D. Hardcastle, sanitary district board chairman, told the water board that they considered their area of expansion to go to the Sonoma County line, Churchill reported.

At Hardcastle's request Kinney was told to take his request for sanitary service to the Novato Sanitary District, according to Churchill.

North Marin Water District Board Also:

SALARY — Increased Churchill's salary by 5.5 per cent, from $17,500 to $18,360.

BLACK POINT — Appointed James D. Fritz, chief engineer, to be the engineer of work on the Black Point Improvement District 1, replacing former manager Jerome B. Gilbert. Although construction has been completed, an engineer is required to split assessments when land is divided. Fritz was asked to report on this at the 8 p.m. June 17 meeting and hold a public hearing on recent lot splits at 8 p.m., July 1.

AGREEMENT — Approved a $39,536 agreement for water service to Pleasant Valley Unit 6 of 71 homes on Sutro Avenue at Center Road.

Budget Of $775,014 Asked For Water District

A $775,014 operating budget for fiscal 1969-70 was presented last night to the North Marin County Water District board by Eugene Churchill, manager.

This is $45,950 more than the current budget of $729,064.

Operating expenditures for next year were estimated at $504,200, which is $17,840 more than the current $486,360, according to Churchill.

The budget calls for keeping the present tax rate of 15 cents per $100 assessed valuation, Churchill said.

The budget has listed $545,930 for capital improvements in the coming year, the largest item $410,000 for a five-million-gallon tank to be located above San Marin Drive. The board asked Churchill to see if another location could be found for the tank, he said.

Churchill's budget estimated the cash surplus at the end of the coming fiscal year at $1,110,317.

Philip Brown To Branson Board

Philip F. Brown Jr., who was one of the male students who attended the Katherine Branson School before it adopted an all-girl policy, has been named to the school's board of trustees.

Brown's appointment to a three-year term was announced by William R. Kimball Jr., board president.

Brown, of Ross, is regional vice president for the Otis Elevator Co. His wife, Dorothy, and daughter, Ruth, are graduates of the school. Another daughter, Elizabeth, is currently enrolled.

Bonds Are Sold

Old Adobe School District bonds totalling $50,000 were sold yesterday to the Bank of America at an interest rate of 5 per cent, according to Supt. Dean D. Magowan. He said the funds would be used to develop building plans and to purchase school

Six students will be graduated in commencement exercises at Magnolia Park School in San Rafael at 8 p.m., Friday, at the school.

Lucy Sokoloff, Jeanette A. Norcap, Suzanne Ellen Sherrick and Susan Nygren are to be graduated from the special education program while Ronald M. Quilici and Marguerite Kirby are to be graduated from the occupational training class.

Stanley H. Friese, deputy superintendent of county schools will speak on "New Horizons," the students will present a musical program and refreshments will be served.

Trial Opens In Sabella Kidnaping

The trial of two men accused of robbing and kidnaping restaurant owner Luciano A. Sabella last November opened today in Marin Superior Court with a deputy district attorney saying that an alleged former confederate of the pair will testify for the prosecution.

On trial are Daniel Thomas Stathos and Kenneth Lee Harnal, both 22. Stathos is also charged with the armed robbery of the Greenbrae Lanes in October.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Jerry Herman said today that Walter John Hoefler of Petaluma, who has already confessed his part in the Sabella crime as well as the bowling alley robbery, will be a witness.

Hoefler is now serving a term at San Quentin, Herman said.

Other witnesses to be called by the prosecution include Sabella, employees of the Greenbrae Lanes and Hoefler's wife, Herman said.

Carleton Innis, attorney for Stathos, told prospective jurors that his witnesses will include Stathos' wife, Sharon, who entered the courtroom today with another young woman.

Public defender Jerome C. Durham declined to name possible witnesses for Harnal.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner today asked a clerk to call more prospective jurors from another courtroom as he said he thought the case might require an unusually large number.

Sack Of Mail Found Inside Stolen Car

A San Francisco deputy postal inspector said today that a sack full of U.S. mail, discovered yesterday in an abandoned stolen car in San Anselmo, may connect with recent wholesale thefts of mail in Marin County.

A San Anselmo policeman, on patrol, found a 1957 Volkswagen sedan at 11 a.m. at 475 Scenic Road and stashed in the car was the bag of mail.

The car was found to have been stolen May 21 from Ann Diesane in San Francisco.

Police Chief Raymond R. Buchignani said his department did not open the sack but immediately notified the chief postal inspector in San Francisco.

"We are investigating particularly from the standpoint that this may connect with the prior wholesale mail thefts which have occurred in Marin," deputy inspector Elmer L. Jacobson reported.

Jacobson said he could not disclose at this time where the mail was stolen from or what type of mail the bag contained.

Jail Ordered In Burglary Try

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court yesterday sentenced Claude William Allen Jr., 25, of Oakland to 60 days in the county jail for the attempted burglary of a San Rafael home.

He also placed Allen on one year probation.

Allen pleaded guilty last month to attempting to burgle the home of Kerry W. Hill at 190 Bayview Acres.

Long-Haired Teen Hurt By Taunters

A 14-year-old San Anselmo boy was under observation today at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Francisco after a fight over his long hair with four other youths yesterday while en route to school, police reported.

John Andrew Fatooh, sonm of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Fatooh of 21 Holstein Road, was reported in fair condition but hospital authorities would not specify his injuries.

However, Mrs. Fatooh told police last night that her son is being observed to see if he has a ruptured spleen.

Frank Mulholland, dean of boys at Sir Francis Drake High School where John is a student, reported to police at 9 a.m. yesterday that the boy learned of his injuries when he visited the school nurse complaining of a pain in his left side.

The boy told Mulholland, police said, that he has been bothered the last week by four youths — all Hidden Valley School students — enroute to school. They harassed him, he told Mulholland, touching his long hair, pulling at his clothing and taunting him about hippies.

One of them yesterday grabbed a paper from him. Then all four jumped him, he reported to Mulholland.

The boys, two of whom are 13, one 14 and one 12 years old, were reprimanded by school authorities and told to raise $2.50 for John's torn shirt.

Reed District Employees Get 8 Per Cent Pay Hike

An 8 per cent cost-of-living increase across the board for district employees was approved last night by the Reed School District board, according to Supt. Robert B. Gaw.

Exempted from the increase were administrative personnel, who receive merit raises instead, Gaw said.

The district will allocate $992,647 for teachers salaries in its 1969-70 budget, Gaw said, an increase of $13,207 over the current year's allocation.

Classified salaries will cost the district $194,857 next year, compared to $221,844 during the current fiscal year, a decrease of $26,997.

The salary hike for 140 employees covers cost-of-living increases for both the 1968-69 and 1969-70 fiscal years because employees received only a 1 per cent cost of living increase this past year, Gaw said.

In addition, trustees agreed to pay an additional $10 per month per employee on the district's health plan, Gaw said. The fringe benefit will cost the district an additional $26,800, he noted.

Salary increases were also granted to James Justeson, principal of Granada School, and John Finch, principal of Del Mar School. Juteson will receive $16,200 next year, an increase of $1,200, and Fitch will be paid $17,800, an hike of $1,300.

The board also hired Robert Gowan, former superintendent-principal of the Ross School District, as principal of Bel Aire School at an annual salary of $16,000. Gowan has taught for 11 years and has four years' administrative experience, Gaw said.

Edward Mosconi; former principal in the Jefferson School District in Daly City, was hired as principal of the Reed School complex at an annual salary of $17,400. Mosconi has taught for nine years and has nine years, administrative experience.

The Reed School District Board Also:

TESTING — Heard that fourth, sixth and seventh grade students scored above national norms at all grade and age levels in intelligence and reading tests administered last fall.

SUMMER WORKSHOP — Approved a schedule for a summer workshop for teachers.

BONDS — Authorized the sale of $180,000 in bonds for the Reedland Woods School.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted the resignation of phoebe McConnell, kindergarten teacher at Tiburon School, who is leaving to be married, and Jack Mitchell, Omega teacher at Granada School, who resigned to move to San Luis Obispo.

GIFT — Received a gavel and block as a gift from the student councils of Bel Aire, Reed, Granada and Del Mar schools.

Tentative Nod To Stinson's Water Budget

A tentative 1969-70 budget of $9,530 was adopted last night by the Stinson Beach County Water District board, an increase from this year's figure of $8,875.

No tax rate will be set until the district gets assessment figures from the county assessor, secretary Harriet M. Greene reported. She said a tax rate increase was likely, since last year the district financed approximately half the budget from reserves, raising only $4,505 by a 10-cent tax levy.

The board will use reserves again this year but the amount will be determined after assessment figures are in, Mrs. Greene said.

The board also was told that the Bolinas Community Public Utility District board has approved in principle the latest draft of a joint powers agreement to set up a Bolinas-Stinson sewage treatment system.

Shoplift Charge Follows Chase

A 40-year-old Bel Marin Keys man was arrested yesterday on suspicion of shoplifting two sweaters, worth $30, from the Emporium at the Northgate Shopping Center.

A store security guard said he chased the suspect, Jack William Martin of 168 Montego Key, a long distance through the shopping center before catching him.

Martin, booked into Marin County Jail, was released under $315 bail to appear for arraignment today in Municipal Court.

Drill Stolen

$13 Million Marin City Development Plan Unveiled

An outline of a $13 million, three-year program for development of housing, shopping center and industrial park in Marin City was unveiled last night by a San Francisco urban consultant.

Ulysses J. Montgomery, former consultant to the Development Corp. of Marin City, unexpectedly presented the outline to the Marin County Redevelopment Agency at the Manzanita Center in Marin City.

"Marin City has been a half-baked potato too long," Montgomery said as he urged completing development of the community.

He proposed development in three phases, with 123 multi-family units, 40 single family homes and a neighborhood shopping center in the first phase (1969-70) estimated to cost $4.25 million.

The second phase, 1970-71, would consist of 123 multifamily units of 39 single family homes at a cost of $3.75 million, he reported.

The third phase, 1970-71, would be development of a science and industrial park in the flatland area, once designated for a high school site, at a cost of $5 million.

As planned there would be federal financing with Federal Housing Administration mortgages and planning grants, Montgomery said.

Montgomery said the interests of residents of Marin City would have top priority in any planning, and the proposal will be presented to groups thro7ghout the community for their reaction.

He explained that it was being presented to put the agency "on notice" that he had a proposal, and that it just happened to be presented to groups throughout "because you met first."

Development would be under a "community-based, nonprofit corporation, he explained.

"We have to go down in the ditch with the people and find out what's needed, and get the job done," Montgomery asserted.

He said he represented a group in San Francisco which handled the Martin Luther King Square project, and said the Fillmore Community Association could co-sponsor development along with the community group.

Montgomery pointed out that although he was no longer associated with the Development Corp. of Marin City, he was presenting the proposal "at the request of a number of people" in Marin City.

Montgomery's proposal, which wasn't listed on the agenda, overshadowed earlier discussion about the status of plans by Marin Development Co. to construct 17 townhouses in Marin City.

Attorney Richard M. Adams, representing the firm, reported that the possibility of leasing some of the proposed homes under the housing authority's program didn't "appear hopeful."

Adams said the firm is still studying ways to present "a better package to serve the community," and asked that the firm not be found in default of its contract during the study time.

Directors didn't act one way or the other on the default matter.

The plan for 17 townhouses on tht north side of Donahue Street, opposite Buckelew Street, ran into strong opposition from residents at a meeting of the Marin City Council last month.

"We're trying to meet the needs of the community, and we're not sure 17 houses would do it adequately, and we'd like to reexamine," Adams said.

He emphasized that the firm wasn't withdrawing its proposal, but it didn't want to proceed immediately.

Directors noted the need for a survey of the community on housing needs, and agreed if the Marin City Council's bid for a planning grant, which would include a survey, wasn't approved in two weeks, the agency would start its own.

The Marin County Redevelopment Agency also:

OFFICERS — Reelected James O. Quiett as chairman and elected Vera Schultz as vice chairman to succeed Richard S. Harding, who noted that he had increased demands on his time.

GEODETIC HOMES — Heard a report from William Kirsch, Sausalito architect, on the advantages of houses of geodetic design, which he said can be easily constructed at low cost, and referred him to the housing committee of the Marin County Human Rights Commission.

Director Collie B. Gaines was absent.

Marin City's Fire Protection Due Study

Marin County Housing Authority directors last night agreed to review fire protection in Marin City after a rash of weekend brush fires and charges that firemen were lax.

Melvin Randolph, Marin City housing manager, reported that the Black Panther Party distributed a bulletin yesterday criticizing firemen because they don't seem to be showing real concern when fires break out.

During a three-day period, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, there were 17 grass fires and two false alarms in Marin City, and County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom believes they were set by youngsters.

"We're facing a 'cry wolf' situation," Randolph said. There are so many small fires that firemen don't hurry, but there's always the possibility that with "wind the wrong way" a blaze could get away, he noted. The calls "still have to be treated as important," Randolph asserted.

Director Arthur Miller said possibly the fire station is short-handed, noting that there was only one man responding when there was a fire at Manzanita School.

"If they are short-handed, they're doing all you can expect," he said.

Directors agreed to ask Chief Bloom for a report on the number of personnel and number of calls handled at the Marin City substation.

Several residents suggested that the fire department burn off the high grass in the flatland area where many fires have broken out.

Jesse Berry, a member of the Marin City Homeowners and Improvement Association, pointed to the responsibility of parents to be aware of what their children are doing. "It's everybody's job," he said. "We can't leave it to two or three men."

It was proposed that a volunteer fire force might be formed in Marin City, and directors felt this idea could be explored by the Marin City Community Services District board.

The Marin County Housing Authority Also:

HILARITA HOUSING — Heard a report from Wallace K. Shepherd, administrative assistant, that the Ecumenical Association for Housing in Marin has expressed interest in obtaining options on land at Hilarita Housing project in Tiburon, scheduled to be phased out by the authority.

AIR RIGHTS — Gave Donald O. Stutsman, executive director, approval to continue studying the possibility of obtaining air rights over existing developments, such as city parking lots, for low-cost housing.

AFDC REPORT — Received a report from the task force on Aid to Families to Dependent Children recommending promoting low cost housing for such families, and agreed to discuss it at its June 18 meeting. Chairman Philip S. Ehrlich Jr. suggested changing the meeting place from Marin City that night since the topic was of countywide interests, and other directors agreed, but the location wasn't set.

MEETING PLACE — Agreed that whenever appropriate the agency would meet at various locations in Marin, rather than holding all sessions at the Manzanita Center in Marin City.

MODERNIZATION — Approved applying for $298,731 in federal funds to upgrade the low-rent project with painting, grounds improvements, outside lighting and renovating.

Director Norman Campbell was absent.

County Keeps Own Radio Maintenance

The county will continue to maintain its own radio equipment instead of contracting the work with a private firm for at least the next fiscal year, the Marin County Board of Supervisors decided yesterday in a 4 to 1 vote.

The decision came on a motion by William A. Gnoss, with Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. dissenting.

Arrigoni said he would rely on figures provided by the county's communications director, who reported the county can save $17,500 next year by letting a private firm maintain the county's radio equipment.

Chairman John F. McInnis said he had heard from qualified electronics men that the $17,500 savings and cost figures provided by Communications Director John H. Atkinson "are unrealistic."

Since the communications budget review is coming up in three days, McInnis said there is no time to gather enough factual information to make a change for the next fiscal year.

Supervisors also took note of requests by several cities including San Rafael, Ross, Fairfax and Novato that the matter be postponed for further study.

Chief opposition to having a private company maintain county radio equipment came from J. Mansfield Lewis, retired county communications director. Lewis began shooting down Atkinson's cost figures, declaring that the county can maintain its own equipment more cheaply than a private firm.

The supervisors authorized the county administrator to dig up accurate figures on what savings if any would come from a private contract.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

FLOOD CONTROL — Set 4 p.m., June 24 as time for public hearing on phase 3 of the Corte Madera Flood Control Project, which would extend from College Avenue Bridge through the Town of Ross.

FIXED BASE OPERATOR — Assigned to Spectrum Air Incorporated the fixed base operator's lease now owned by Navair Corp., which did not provide services as agreed. Spectrum Air is owned by Holiday Magic, the San Rafael cosmetics firm.

BOLINAS PARK — Approved condemnation proceedings to acquire 11 acres of tidelands on the northwest side of Bolinas Lagoon, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Letter.

TYPEWRITERS — Authorized the county purchasing agent to buy Remington typewriters through the State Cooperative Purchasing Program. Supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and John F. McInnis warned that Remingtons may not hold up as well as other makes. The county administrator said he is making an experimental purchase because the cost difference is so great — $235 for Remingtons as compared with $495 for IBM.

JANITOR SERVICE — Awarded a $12,840 per month contract to Service Technicians Inc. of San Rafael for maintenance of the Civic Center Administration Building, new Hall of Justice and Juvenile Hall school complex. Five bonds ranged to a high of $14,272.

BUS SUBSIDY — Turned down a request by Tamalpais High School District for $20,000 to finance bus transportation for Marin City students attending Tamlapais High School. The county counsel said such payment is illegal under present law, and supervisors feared that such an appropriation would bring similar requests from other high school districts.

CONDOLENCE — Voted a resolution of condolence to the family of the late Ethel H. Tomkins, who organized the Marin County Humane Society in 1907.

AGE LIMIT — Decided to retain the present maximum age limit of 35 for hiring of safety personnel such as sheriff's deputies and firemen. The Marin County Personnel Commission had asked that the age 35 limit be lifted so that older sheriff's matrons could be hired.

CHILD CENTERS — Approved an amendment to the county zoning code to permit child care centers for more than six children in apartment districts by use permit.

HOWARD JOHNSON — Set 9 a.m., June 17 as time for hearing on the Howard Johnson motel, restaurant and service station development in front of Fireside Motel. The Mill Valley Planning Commission objected to the site plan and six-story high rise.

NURSERY SCHOOL — Set June 17 as hearing time for a rifle range planned on the William Souza ranch near the Sonoma County border, and a nursery school planned at 1100 Las Gallinas Avenue in Terra Linda.

WASHINGTON TRIP — Received a report from Chairman John F. McInnis on his May 25 trip to Washington, where he urged top officials in the Bureau of Budget and the Department of Interior to approve $38 million appropriation to purchase Point Reyes Seashore land.

AFDC — Accepted the report of the task force on Aid to Families with Dependent Children, promised to consider all recommendations and referred the report to the Marin Housing Authority, county planning department and county administrator for study and reports.

Board Clamps Muzzle On Noises, Bans Damage To Public Property

Ordinances to prohibit loud and unnecessary noises and to protect public property were approved by unanimous vote of Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday.

The ordinances, which will go into effect in 30 days, were drawn up by County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney at the request of Supervisor Louis H. Baar.

The antinoise ordinance would prohibit loud and unnecessary noises that disturb others such as prolonged honking of horns; loud music that can be heard plainly at 50 yards; and yelling, shouting and singing on public roads between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m. that would disturb others.

The second ordinance, to protect public property, prohibits damaging public property of any kind, erecting structures on public property, or loitering and blocking public access.

Violations are misdemeanors and subject to a maximum of six months in jail, $500 fine or both.

"This was brought about by problems in the county, more particularly in Muir Beach, Stinson Beach and San Geronimo Valley," said Baar.

Supervisor Michael Wornum wanted to know if motorcycle noises and chain saws early in the morning can be controlled, and Chairman John F. McInnis wondered about the "shirtless monsters" in the downtown areas.

County Counsel Maloney explained that motorcycles come under the state vehicle code, but chain saws and youths without shirts would be difficult to control by county ordinance.

Baar reported that nudity had been considered, but this is preempted by the state.

"We considered it because a couple in Bolinas likes to go around in the nude outside their home, and the fella likes to go up the ladder all the time."

Wornum wanted to make sure this was not an emergency ordinance, and that anyone who objects would have 30 days in which to express his views.

$50,000 Asked In Shooting Case

STOCKTON (AP) — A young Negro man filed a $50,000 damage suit yesterday against owners and employees of a Stockton liquor store where he was shot in the chest and his football star brother was killed a year ago.

Clifton Watkins, 24, an employee of the U.S. Public Health Service, filed the suit in Superior Court through his attorney, Lawrence K. Karlton of Sacramento.

Killed in the incident June 2, 1968 was Ted Watkins, 27, star offensive end for the Hamilton, Ont., Tiger Cats.

Clifton was acquitted April 2 of a robbery charge after a six-week trial.

Named in the suit were the owners of Delta Liquor and Sporting Goods Store, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taylor; a clerk, Louis Huerta, 26, who wounded Clifton, and the former manager, Fred E. Larsen, who shot Ted to death in the store after a violent struggle.

Guilty Plea Averts Heroin Charge Trial

As his trial was about to start in Marin Superior Court yesterday, David Forbes Allen, 21, of San Rafael, pleaded guilty to a felony charge of pssessing heroin July 21, 1968.

Judge Harold J. Haley set sentencing for June 23.

Health Plan Set Instead Of Hike

Teachers in the Bolinas-Stinson School district will have a dental and medical plan paid for by the district but will get no pay increase beyond the automatic annual step increae for the 1969-70 school year.

The action approving the health plan was taken at a special meeting of the board of trustees last night.

Cost of the plan, the board estimated, will add approximately 3 cents to the district tax rate, currently $2.14 per $100 assessed valuation. Vote on the proposal was 4-0 in favor with trustee Alyce Thompson absent.

Houseboat Dwellers Face Cleanup Again

County supervisors voted yesterday to go ahead with plans to clean up houseboats and debris from county streets at Waldo Point in Richardson Bay, despite an impassioned plea by landscape architect Piro Caro of the ferryboat San Rafael.

On a motion by Louis H. Baar and a unanimous vote, the supervisors called for bids on the cleanup project, which Public Works Director Donald R. Frost estimated would cost $44,000.

The cleanup area is on Donlan J. Arques' property, and Arques has signed an agreement to allow the county to enter his property. That agreement ends on Aug. 25.

"Tell us what to do and we'll do it," pleaded white-haired Caro, who claims ownership of the old ferryboat San Rafael. "When you vote for this, you are either going to put me in jail or shoot me."

Caro and several other houseboat dwellers expressed indignation over last Thursday's sudden cutoff of electricity from the houseboats in Arques' harbor. They charged that a power cutoff can cause baby food to spoil and some boats to sink because pumps would stop operating.

"I'm not voting to demolish anyone's house," said Supervisor Michael Wornum. He said the county merely wants to clean out the underwater streets to keep as much of the bay in open water as possible, in line with the county's efforts to save the bay. He said the houseboat encroachments on underwater streets "is like a person who builds a house on the highway."

Bids on the cleanup project will be opened on June 23.

63 Cases Of Strep Reported

Sixty-three cases of streptococcus were reported in Marin County last week, Health Officer Carolyn B. Albrecht said yesterday.

Novato had 29 cases and San Rafael 13. Four cases were reported in Mill Valley, three in San Anselmo and Corte Madera and 11 elsewhere.

Fifteen incidents of gonorrhea were reported. Eight were in San Rafael, two in Sausalito and one each in Novato, Fairfax, Larkspur, Mill Valley and Marin City.

Five cases of infectious hepatitis were reported in outlying areas and one each in Mill Valley and San Rafael.

Dangerous Drug Sale Denied By Novatan

David Lee Worley, 21, of Novato has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court ot charges of selling a dangerous drug (desoxephedrine), selling marijuana and possessing marijuana. A preliminary hearing was set for July 17.

Worley is accused by drug agents of being responsible for sales of drugs to young persons in Novato.

Seashore Plans To Be Described

Plans for completion of Point Reyes National Seashore will be discussed tomorrow on the KTIM Sounding Board at 9 a.m.

Scheduled to participate are Edward J. Kurtz, superintendent of the seashore; Douglas J. Maloney, county counsel; Boyd Stewart, an Olema rancher, and Dr. Joel Gustafson, president of the Point Reyes National Seashore Foundation.

Maloney, Stewart and Gustafson will report on their visit to Washington, D.C., on behalf of seashore completion.

The show, during which audience questions may be phoned in, will be rebroadcast Sunday at 10:45 a.m.

Unitarians To Hear Former Dope Addicts

Two reformed narcotics addicts have been invited to speak Friday at 8 p.m. at a public meeting sponsored by the Unitarian Fellowship of Marin, 240 Channing Way, San Rafael.

The pair will discuss their personal experiences as addicts and offer views on Synanon, the self-help organization established for persons seeking to rechannel their energies away from the drug scene.

Supervisors Veto Tarrant Apartments

The design and layout of a 56-unit apartment project in Gallinas Village was turned down late yesterday by unanimous vote of the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

On a motion by William A. Gnoss, the supervisors rejected developer P. J. Tarrant's design and layout for the two-story apartments at North San Pedro Road and La Brea Way.

The Marin County Planning Commission had approved the design, but a delegation of irate residents appealed for a rejection of the plans and won their point.

McINNIS ASKS TIME

Chairman John F. McInnis, in whose area the project is located, asked for the rejection "simply in an effort to give more time to reconsider and to develop to better standards."

Tarrant, represented by his attorney son, Richard T. Tarrant, presented plans with adequate parking, play area and some landscaping to meet all zoning requirements. Werner Von Gundell, chief of current planning, said the project was a "minimal" one that he can accept.

Herbert C. Belben, representing the Gallinas Village Improvement Association, led a group of about 40 residents, who declared they had been saddled with poor county planning for years and would not stand for what they termed "slum development."

Belben charged that the residents in Gallinas Village and Santa Venetia had to pay for a million-dollar bond issue to correct sewer, flood and subsidence problems resulting from poor planning, "and we can't stand any more."

NEIGHBORS' STAND

Other residents complained that fire protection is inadequate, schools are overflowing, and 56 units are too much for less than two acres of land.

McInnis declared that Tarrant was not to blame because the lot was zoned for apartments in 1963, long before Tarrant bought it. He blamed the county for lag in planning on sewer, fill and subdivision requirements in the Santa Venetia area.

The supervisors asked that the plans go back to the planning commission for revision and expressed hope that the density can be reduced.

"I'd like to see fewer units, say 40 or 35 units," said Michael Wornum.

Marin Teener In Resort Arrest

William Marvin Cuneo of 3 Golden Hinde Boulevard, a 19-year-old student, was charged with sale of heroin and released on $3,125 bail. A preliminary hearing in Central Sonoma Municipal Court was set for June 10 at 9:15 a.m.

Thousands of Bay Area youngsters converged on the resort area with Sonoma sheriff's deputied and California highway patrolmen making more than 40 arrests. Most charges involved possession of drugs and failure to disperse.

AN IDEA
Are you reading the Want Ads every day, hoping to spot a good buy? Then consider for a moment another way of doing the same thing which we think may be better.

It is a fact that often OUR best buys never get advertised at all. We have over $13 million in Marin property listed for sale at any one time, and naturally we can't advertise all we have for sale every day. And furthermore, we call OUR buyers BEFORE a property gets to the papers, and if it is what they want, it is sold before it is advertised at all!

So our suggestion is that you tell us what it is that YOU are looking for in Marin. Chances are we have it listed now, or if not, that we will have it listed soon, because we have a continuous flow of new listings from a backlog of FIFTY-NINE YEARS of selling here (relistings) as well as from our complete coverage with SIX MARIN COUNTY OFFICES.

As soon as we spot what you are looking for, WE WILL CALL YOU FIRST, BEFORE WE ADVERTISE THE PROPERTY. Become one of our buyers . . . call

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Initiative Launched On School Tax Curb

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The effort to block elimination of school tax override elections today moved from the legislature to the streets.

An initiative petition was filed yesterday with the attorney general's office in a new effort to repeal a law permitting school boards after 1971 to set higher tax rates without voter approval.

Repeal of the law is favored by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Reagan told his news conference yesterday: "That is one of our proposals...this giving the people the right to vote and decide on whether there will be an increase in their property taxes.

"There is no question but that the school financing is tied right into the tax reform. You can't have one without the other," he said.

It appeared doubtful the Legislature would approve a bill repealing the scheduled end to maximum school district tax rates.

A repeal bill by Sen. John G. Schmitz, R-Tustin, passed the Senate but was killed by an Assembly education subcommittee.

Schmitz said he might try to tack his repealer to another education bill and if that failed would re-introduce the bill next year.

The initiative petition was filed by Ronald J. Kennedy of Penryn. He said he was acting as an individual but hoped other persons and organizations would volunteer help to collect signatures.

Antotal of 325,173 signatures would be needed to put the initiative on the June 1970 primary election ballot.

LOBBYIST BAN?

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Two Republican senators warned an upper house committee yesterday a bill to outlaw picketing in the State Capitol also could ban lobbyists from the building.

Sens. George Deukmejian of Long Beach and Gordon Cologne of Indio made the observation as the Judiciary Committee considered a measure primarily aimed at preventing persons from parading through the Capitol carrying signs.

"Some of the third house members (lobbyists) are more disruptive and take up more time than picketers who walk up and down corridors," said Cologne, a committee member.

Deukmejian, another member, said, "Yes, this (bill) could outlaw lobbyists."

TEACHERS GAIN

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—California teachers would be able to count up to three years of out-of-state teaching experience toward retirement benefits under a bill which cleared the Assembly Ways and Means Committee yesterday.

The bill, sent to the lower house floor, won approval despite strong objections by Gov. Ronald Reagan's administration which fears the measure will set a precedent allowing all state employees to obtain retirement credits for employment in other states.

OIL BILL DELAY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A Senate committee has decided to take a longer look at a petroleum industry-opposed measure requiring oil companies to pay for damage caused by ruptured wells.

An industry spokesman told the Governmental Efficiency Committee yesterday that the bill by Assembly Democratic Leader Jess M. Unruh may be unconstitutional.

The committee took the proposal under submission for more study after Unruh amended it to meet certain industry objections.

The Inglewood Democrat removed a provision imposing liability on oil company works such as storage tanks and made the bill apply only to oil extraction and production.

DDT PROBE

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Assembly Public Health Committee yesterday voted to authorize a state investigation of the effects of the bug killer DDT on plants an animals.

The study, proposed in a resolution by Assemblyman Charles Warren, D-Los Angeles, would be carried out by the Public Health Department and the University of California. The resolution was sent to the Ways and Means Committee.

HOUSING PLAN

SACRAMENTO (AP)—A bill designed to increase production of low cost housing by setting up statewide standards for construction and installation of prefabricated units has passed its first Assembly committee test.

The measure by Assemblyman Pete Wilson, R-San Diego, was approved by voice vote last night in the Urban Affairs and Housing Committee and sent to the Ways and Means Committee.

Wilson said factory-built housing offers the possibility of home ownership to families with annual incomes under $7,000 who are priced out of the conventional housing field.

Huge Crowd At School Hearing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Dozens of speakers lauded and condemned a controversial plan to integrate some of San Francisco's elementary schools last night.

About 2,000 persons and the city's board of education heard speakers alternate five-minute talks for and against the report.

The plan was drafted by a citizens committee and has been backed by Supt. Robert Jenkins. It calls for the creation of more closely integrated elementary school complexes in the Richmond District and in the area southeast of Golden Gate Park.

San Rafael High Hit By Holiday Burglars

Two electric typewriters, value not listed, were stolen during the Memorial Day weekend from the main office of San Rafael High School, school officials have reported to police.

Other parts of the school also were entered by the thieves, but nothing was apparently missing. The school was entered via a broken window.

Novato Trims Only $11,250 From Budget In Long Session

After reviewing eight sections of the $1,761,680 budget for fiscal 1967-70, the Novato City Council last night succeeded in cutting only $11,250.

This was for the city's animal control officer, who was left in the budget but will not be needed under the new countywide animal control ordinance. Councilman M. E. (Babe) Silva said that if the county ordinance does not work, the city may have to put part of that back into the budget.

The budgets which were left as recommended by City Mgr. Charles A. Brown were city council, $10,700, up $1,450 from the current $9,250; administration, $40,400, up $395 from $40,005; finance, $39,385, down $5,365 from $44,750; city attorney, $8,500, down $3,500 from $12,050 because the city has no major legal cases pending; planning, $71,855, up $19,730 from $52,125, which calls for the addition of two planners and a secretary not formally approved by the council; nondepartmental, $132,660, down $2,730 from $135,390; memberships and community promotion, $14,680, down $11,250, and the cost of the animal control officer and elections, $2,500, up $250 from $2,250.

At the request of the planning commission, the council voted to retain Paule Schwabacker as recording secretary to the commission, a position which she has held since the commission was formed. Her position had been eliminated in the city manager's budget as the new secretary for the planning department.

The council adjourned to 8 p.m. today in the Novato Community House to continue its budget study.

Police Post Applications Now At 107

The Novato Police Department has more applications than in five years, and this is due to the pay, prestige of the department and the educational opportunities offered in the department, City Mgr. Charles A. Brown told the Novato City Council last night.

The subject came up when Brown proposed hiring a psychiatrist on a part-time basis to give police officers counseling, as does the City of Sausalito.

Mayor Harley A. McAskill said he understood that Novato now had more applications for police positions than ever before. (The department is three men below authorized strength.)

Police Chief Robert Di Grazia today confirmed that Novato has 107 applicants at the present time. Of these, 17 will not be required to take the written examination because they are working for other police departments. The other 90 will be given the written examination Friday in Los Angeles, Sacramento and Novato. The oral examinations for those that pass the written examination will be given June 19 and 20, DiGrazia said.

Bus Commuters Face Greyhound Mechanic Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Mechanics at Greyhound Bus Lines have authorized a strike which could strand 23,000 Bay Area commuters and eventually affect the firm's operations in 11 Western states.

More than 4,000 commuters in Marin would be affected.

Greyhound last week issued notices of a possible layoff of about 500 drivers who work in Greyhound's Division 5—stretching from Novato to Palo Alto. The notices were required under the drivers' contract.

More than 300 members of the International Association of Machinists Lodge 1350 gave strike authorization to their negotiating committee yesterday, after rejecting a company offer of a three-year contract providing for wage increases totaling 67 cents hourly and other improvements.

No date was set for the threatened walkout. Despite the stalemate, federal mediator Roger Randall said both sides have indicated a willingness to resume bargaining at any time.

BSU Leader's Victory Gets Panel Approval

The Sonoma State College Elections Commission yesterday voted to validate last week's election that saw James Gilette of Cotati, leader of the Black Students Union, chosen student body president.

Russell Grindle, elections commissioner, said five students appeared before the commission and charged that high school students had stuffed ballot boxes and that candidate Gilette was politicking at voting areas.

Grindle said the commission, however, found no evidence to substantiate the charges. A high school student, who was mentioned by name in a ballot box stuffing charge, submitted an affadavit denying the charge, Grindle said.

He said the students can continue their appeals when the commission decision is weighed by the Student Senate directors tomorrow at noon. He said if the dissatisfied students wished to carry the fight even further, they could appeal to the student-faculty judicial board or directly to the administration.

Gilette defeated Jon Owen of Novato by a margin of 673 to 650. Owen, a junior political science major, had previously won both the general and runoff elections, which were overturned when procedures were questioned.

Winner Gilette was elected chairman of the BSU in April and drew up a new statement of purposes for the organization that was more militant in nature than in the past. Quoting occasionally from Ho Chi Minh, Gilette said the group will work for freedom, justice and equality for black people "by any means necessary."

During the San Francisco State College disorders last winter, Gilette led a large group of Sonoma State students to San Francisco to participate in the demonstrations. He also assisted in organizing Sonoma State's ineffectual strike in support of San Francisco students.

Goldstein Proposes New Category In Drug Crimes

A new classification of crimes, classified as self-destructive crimes, is proposed by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein, Jr. of Marin Municipal Court.

Such crimes, suggests Judge Goldstein, would be classified as misdemeanors only. They would include drug use and public drunkenness — but not the sale of narcotics, which would remain punishable as a felony.

The Marin judge's proposal is contained in "Judicial Dilemmas in Enforcement of Drug Abuse Laws," in Cal Law, published by Bancroft-Whitney Co., San Francisco law book publishers.

The article deals at length with the difficulties of finding proper punishment in marijuana cases. Judge Goldstein takes the position that, since marijuana is nonaddictive, its use is "conscious volitional disregard of law" and should be punished as such. But since the user is injuring only himself, Goldstein holds, the punishment should not be so severe as for a felony.

Also, he contends, since most marijuana arrests are of young users, "the very group society has set out to protect through enactment of drug laws (but who nonetheless have been victimized by the purveyors of illicit drugs) have become the primary targets of the enforcement scheme."

Treasurer Picked In Drake Runoff

The two girls were the top finishers in a three-way race. The regular election was May 29.

In two other runoffs Kate McKee outpolled Marianne Soldavini for senior class secretary and Millie Mensing downed Sue Conine for sophomore class vice president.

The school administration withheld vote counts, which it said might embarrass defeated candidates.

Apartment Hit; TV Set Dropped

Burglars took a portable radio, camera, clothes, jewelry and a tape recorder from the apartment of James Talley, 255 East Blithedale Avenue between 8 a.m. and 2 p.m. yesterday, police reported.

Police said the burglars also took a portable television set but dropped it in the carport on their way out.

Newsman's Wife Killed In Wreck

MENDOCINO (UPI) — Mrs. Nina de Leom Dusheck, 42, wife of a San Francisco newsman, George Dusheck, was killed yesterday when theilr small foreign-made bus collided with a logging truck on Coastal Highway 1.

Dusheck, a regular commentator on television station KQED's "Newsroom" program, suffered minor injuries. Truck driver Larry Carpenter of Navarro was treated at a hospital and released.

The California Highway Patrol said Dusheck's vehicle apparently pulled onto the highway in front of the truck and was cut in half by the impact, which scattered debris for more than 100 feet. The truck went over a 90-foot embankment.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Trichinosis Is Acquired By Failing To Cook Pork Well

VAN DELLEN

We know a great deal about human trichinosis, a disease acquired by eating partially cooked or raw pork products. These edibles may contain the larvae of tiny roundworms that are activated on reaching the intestines. Here the parasites become adults, mate, and the offspring burrow through the wall of the intestine and invade the bloodstream. Their next stop is muscles tissue where they are covered with a protective membrane and exist as larvae. The life cycle stops here because man is not cannibalistic. Pigs get the disorder when they eat raw or uncooked infested garbage, dead rats, or wild fowl. The difference is that the pig finally goes to market where he ends up as a nice thick chop. Humans might escape the disease if they cooked pork products thoroughly before eating them. But many people continue to eat raw hamburger and sausage containing infested pork. Bear meat was recently implicated in Alaska.

Inspecting pork in the market is of little value because the larvae are too small to be seen. On the other hand, the critters are destroyed when the pork is frozen for 30 days at -5 to -20 degrees Fahrenheit or at -31 degrees Fahrenheit for one to two hours, depending upon the thickness of the meat.

This adds to the expense and some housewives prefer fresh meat to that which is frozen and thawed. Wursts, sausages, and frankfurters are usually heat processed.

BUT AGAIN, not all packing plants are inspected by federal agents. Hence the housewife must rely on the thorough cooking of pork. No longer can raw garbage be fed to pigs unless it is heated under agitation to 212 degrees Fahrenheit for one-half hour. This also takes government red tape. And the farmer must not throw dead rats or other animals into the hog pen.

Thiabendazole kills the trichinae worms in humans and swine but this is another story. Thankfully there have been no deaths from the disease and its prevalence in humans has decreased from 16 to 5 per cent in the past 20 years.

HARD SLEEPING

M. S. writes: Is it beneficial or harmful to sleep on a board, with only a blanket for a mattress?

REPLY

Sleeping on this type of bed does no harm; people slept on the ground for thousands of years before beds were invented. In fact, the original meaning of the word mattress was a mat thrown on the floor to make a bed. Many with back trouble find a hard mattress more satisfactory than a soft one.

AIRLESS HEADACHE

H. A. writes: I have been told that my headache is referred to as vacuum-type head pain. Please tell me what this means.

REPLY

It doesn't mean empty headed but refers to the vacuum that develops in the frontal sinuses when these structures are blocked and the air within is absorbed. As a result, pain occurs over the eyebrows.

PROVING PATERNITY

A reader writes: To roll the clouds away in doubtful paternity, can the family doctor do the blood test?

REPLY

These tests should be done in special laboratories where it is possible to identify O-A-B, M-N, and Rh-Hr factors. The evidence should be used only to exclude the man as being the father.

Tax Structure On Suburban Building Is Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Present tax rules encourage building in the suburbs and the city's edge may be tomorrow's slum, House subcommittee members have been told.

In testimony yesterday, real estate appraiser McCloud B. Hodges Jr., criticized the practice of taking the maximum depreciation on a building, then selling it to another operator who repeats the process.

"A companion of short term ownership is bad property management and maintenance," Hodges said. "We are merely adding more instant slums in the periphery areas.

"The real victims of greed exercised in connection with land are not the first, second, or third occupants of inexpensively built and poorly located apartments.

"They are the lowest income families who will be compelled to live in these concrete slab rooms in the last stages of their economic existence," Hodges said.

A Blood Donor Day Is Planned

Blood donor day will be reactivated in Marinwood this month, president Jerry C. Leith of the Marinwood Association announced last night at a meeting of association directors.

A bloodmobile from the Irwin Memorial Blood Bank will be at Lucas Valley Community Church at Las Gallinas Avenue and Lucas Valley Road on Saturday, June 14, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The donor day is sponsored by the association, with help from Boy Scouts, who will distribute literature, and art students from Mary Silveira and Lucas Valley schools, who will provide posters.

Leith said that a committee, headed by Robert Wales, was appointed to see if apartment residents are paying their share of school taxes as compared with homeowners.

Marin Trio Still Facing Giant Marijuana Tax Liens

Three Marin residents still face $1.5 million in property liens imposed by the Internal Revenue Service despite a U.S. Supreme Court ruling on self-incrimination in the marijuana case of psychedelics advoate Timothy Leary.

An IRS spokesman said yesterday the San Francisco division has been levying liens on bank accounts and other properties of the three ever since they were arrested in marijuana raids last October and in March 1968.

The IRS slapped a $412,850 lien on the property of Frank N. Werber after narcotics agents allegedly seized 250 pounds of marijuana at his Richardson Bay home last Oct. 15.

Two liens of $544,017 were levied against Mr. and Mrs. Darren Erlin following their arrest in a raid March 23, 1968, at their Fairfax home. Agents allegedly seized 300 pounds of marijuana at the house.

The Supreme Court May 19 overturned Leary's conviction of possession and importing marijuana on grounds federal laws requiring payment of a $100-an-ounce tax on marijuana were self-incriminatory.

The Erlins and Werber also were accused of failure to pay the tax.

However, the spokesman said, local authorities are not basing their cases against the three solely on the alleged failure of pay the tax.

He said local cases have never been prosecuted on the tax matter only.

But he acknowledged that division IRS offices have been advised by Washington that future proesecution of alleged marijuana offenders could be impaired under the Leary ruling if law enforcement authorities are allowed to use tax payment lists to secure arrests.

Mrs. Erlin pleaded guilty to possession charges and was fined $500. She filed for an annulment from her husband, whose case is pending.

Mills Co-Ed Is Offered Planned Parenthood Post

OAKLAND (AP) — A pretty co-ed who renounced motherhood in her commencement valedictory says she has received an appropriate job offer — from the Planned Parenthood Association.

Stephanie Mill of Phoenix, Ariz., 20-year-old valedictorian of Mills College, shocked a commencement audience by declaring that in view of mankind's present condition "the most humane thing for me to do is to have no children at all."

That was Sunday and since then it's been nothing but television, radio and newspaper interviews, plus a flood of requests for copies of her speech.

Will she take the job with Planned Parenthood?

She is not yet certain of her career plans.

Medical Bag With Narcotics Stolen

A physician's bag containing narcotics was stolen Monday night, Petaluma police reported yesterday.

Dr. Raymong Jewell said his medical bag was taken from his locked car while parked in front of Hillcrest Hospital. The bag contained mostly antibiotics, he said, but also a supply of morphine and codeine.

Summer School Plans Announced

Registration is now open for the Pacific Day School summer school which will run for five weeks beginning June 23.

Jail Sentence In Money Case

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court on Monday sentenced Warren Dahl, 39, of Corte Madera to 30 days in jail and ordered him to make restitution to his employer from whom he had stolen about $1,500.

Dahl had earlier pleaded guilty to taking the money from Goodman Building Supply Co. in Mill Valley and spending it gambling in Nevada.

The judge also placed Dahl on three years probaton.

Auto Racing Can Be Fun For Commuters To See

Those of you who commute along 101 each day should thoroughly enjoy this weekend's NASCAR races at Sears Point International Raceway.

I will, because I commute a bit daily and find myself spitting bullets, growing ulcers, losing hair and cussing at some of the frustrating conditions I inevitably come upon. And, being the pilot and chief navigator of a Volkswagen, I blame all the traffic mess on the big, noisy Detroit iron which surrounds me coming and going. I'm not saying those big bullies make me feel insignificant, but I'm the only commuter with a security blanket, pacifier and, hanging from the rear-view mirror, a bronzed baby shoe. Mine.

Well, what I'm getting around to is that the races this weekend will feature those same type cars that bully me around on the highways—late model Fords, Chevvies, Plymouths, Pontiacs, Oldsmobiles, Dodges, etc. and it will be a delight to sit high in the safety of the Sears Point natural amphitheater to watch Michigan marauders maul THEMSELVES around for a change without a chance of taking a shot at me, my VW or my fellow small, economy car drivers.

Deserve Special Hillside

I think Sears Point officials should reserve a special spectating hillside for us drivers of small cars so that we can organize a rooting section against the Detroit iron. Give me a beanie, a pom pon, a megaphone, a St. Christopher medal and a canteen of STP and I'll be the head jeer leader.

"Hit 'em again, hit 'em again, harder, HARDER!"

"Two, four, six, crash, give 'em another whiplash."

"A tisket, a tasket, we hope you blow your gasket."

Our motto will be: "Don't tread on me, Buster; I'm already tired."

NASCAR races usually are merry-go-rounders on an oval track, making it difficult to get lost, so it will be fascinating to watch these lead-footed rounders negotiate the hairy, 12-turn asphalt ribbon at Sears without a road map. The course at one point reaches an elevation of 175 feet. I hope they get the bends. Or at least vapor lock.

Nyaah, nyaah, the big bullies, I hope when they pull in for pit stop for some Wiki-Wiki Dollars they find the biffy locked and three VWs, three Datsuns, two Toyotas and four Volvos ahead of them at the pumps.

And if that won't do it. then I dearly hope the bluebirds of happiness will dirty their windshields. So there!

Top Stockers In Lineup

Some of the top stockers on the West Coast will be in the lineup for the weekend program, first NASCAR event at the new Sonoma County raceway, opening with qualifying on Saturday and capped by the Weibel-150 on Sunday.

As the 150-miler will award points toward season championship competition, all the leaders in the Pacific Coast Division of NASCAR will be on hand, led by Ray Elder of Caruthers, Jack McCoy of Modesto, 1968 champion Scotty Cain of Fresno and Marty Kinerk of Southgate, winner of a recent Sacramento 100-miler.

They may be good, but I'll take the 101 commute crowd any day.

Palmer Makes The Grade

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Arnie's Army will march again in the U.S. Open golf championship this year, but the followers of Tommy Bolt, Bob Goalby and Ed Furgol will have to break ranks and parade elsewhere.

Arnold Palmer, whose army of followers has attracted attention for over a decade, yesterday earned the right to compete in the 1969 Open at Houston, June 12-15, by turning in the low medal score at the McKeesport, Pa., qualifying site.

Palmer, forced to qualify for the Open for only the second time in his illustrious career, had rounds of 70 and 68 and was one of eight qualifiers from a field of52 at McKeesport.

However, Bolt, Goalby and Furgol failed to qualify at their respective sites and thus will deprive the Open of three of professional golf's biggest names.

Dutch Harrison, who finished second once in the Open, and Charlie Sifford were two other "name" pros who failed to make the grade.

Among the current crop of tour regulars who did qualify Tuesday were Bob Rosburg, Mike Souchak, George Knudson, Al Balding Lee Elder and Deane Beman.

Marin Golfer Fails In Bid For U.S. Open

Gary Nolen, assistant pro at Marin Country Club golf course in Novato, failed in his bid yesterday to make the field for the U.S. Open June 12-15 at Houston.

Nolen, who lives at Bel Marin Keys, shot 18-hole rounds of 82 and 78 for a 160 at Napa's Silverado South Course, finishing far down the list of aspirants in the regional playoffs for three open berths in the big golf tournament.

Scotty McBeath, associate pro at Cambrian Golf Club in San Jose led qualifiers at Silverado with a five-under par 139. Also qualifying for the Open were amateur Terry Small, a Presidio soldier, 143, and Francisco Lopez, pro at Skywest G. C., Hayward, 144.

Texas Junior College Wins Baseball Title

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (UPI)—Pitcher Doug Ault and his teammates from Panola Junior College of Carthage, Tex., scored six times in the fourth inning yesterday for an 8-6 win over Mesa, Ariz., for the National Junior College baseball championship.

S.F. Gives Canadians The Willies

MONTREAL (UPI) — This Canadian city's baseball populace got its first look at San Francisco's Willies—Mays and McCovey, naturally and it came away impressed.

With a crowd of 19,399 looking on, McCovey cracked his 17th home run of the season, tops in the National League, and Mays added his sixth to power the Giants to a 9-3 victory over the fledgling Expos, whose defeat—their 17th straight—equalled the major league record for an expansion team.

In addition to his homer, McCovey also chased in two runs with a bases-loaded double to highlight the Giants' five-run third inning. After San Francisco refilled the bases, Dave Marshall smacked a two-run single and Jack Hiatt accounted for the final run of the inning with a hit.

Don Mason led off the fourth inning with a single and then Mays and McCovey hit back-to-back homers which boosted the Giants' lead to 8-2. Their final run came in the sixth as Bobby Bonds was hit by a pitch, Mays singled and McCovey hit into a double play.

All told, Mays scored three times and batted in a pair of runs and McCovey scored twice and drove in three markers.

The two teams conclude their rain-shortened series tonight with a pair of Mikes opposing each other. For the Giants, it will be McCormick (2-2) and for the Expos, Wegener (1-2).

After tonight's game, San Francisco returns home Friday to host the Philadelphia Phillies in the start of a 13-game homestand.

MAY LOCK DOORS

NFL Meetings Again Bog Down

NEW YORK (UPI)—If past performances are any indication, National Football League club owners will wait until they are again locked behind closed doors before agreeing on divisional realignment.

The 13 NFL owners have another six months before they will be forced to reach a decision, since schedules for the 1970 season will not be drawn up until December and the realignment, which is part of the National and American League merger, does not go into effect until next year. Another attempt to reach some sort of agreement failed yesterday.

NON-STOP

It took a series of continuous, all-night sessions last month before NFL owners could agree on which three teams would shift to the AFL to balance both leagues with 13 teams for the start of the merger agreement. And non-stop meetings might be needed again before the owners can agree on internal realignment.

The biggest hangup confronting the owners, according to Commissionar Pete Rozelle, is the provision calling for a unanimous vote on any realignment plan. Rozelle revealed yesterday that the owners had reduced from 16 to nine the number of plans still under consideration, but admitted "at least one or two owners' objected to each plan. In each case, different owners voiced their disapproval.

TEAMS SHIFT

Following the shifting of Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Baltimore from the NFL to the AFL the American League quickly agreed on its three division makeup for the start of the 1970 season. Cleveland and Pittsburgh joined with Cincinnati and Houston to form one division while Baltimore, New York, Boston, Buffalo and Miami formed a second grouping. Denver, San Diego, Oakland and Kansas City will comprise the third division.

The desire to preserve traditional rivalries and play "money-making" opponents motivates each NFL owner and each, naturally, has his own ideas about what's best for his team and the league.

Speedy Maury Quietly Quits

Fast as a whippet, Wills flashed past baseball immortal Ty Cobb to establish the major league record of 104 stolen bases while playing for the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1962. Cobb's record was 96 set in 1915.

Wills, now with the Montreal Expos, retired just before his team took the field against the San Francisco Giants. The announcement was made by Jim Fanning, general manager of the Expos.

"Tonight, Maury Wills asked for and submitted a letter requesting voluntary retired status," said Fanning. "We had a nice visit and there is no doubt in my mind that he is sincere. We hate to lose him, but we are respecting his wishes"

Wills had no immediate comment, but called a press conference for today.

Full Racing Program Planned For Andretti

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A full program of American racing confronts Mario Andretti in his quest of the national driving championship, and will preclude more than an occasional jaunt to Europe.

Andretti, the Indianapolis 500 miles auto race champion, and car owner Andy Granatelli outlined their plans for the coming year at a West Coast victory celebration yesterday.

"We plan to run in every single championship race in order to make Mario the national U.S. Auto Club driving champion," Granatelli told a news conference.

Andretti agreed with those plans, and said he will drive the same Hawk-Ford this weekend at Milwaukee that he piloted to victory at Indianapolis.

The Memorial Day win was the first at the Indianapolis Speedway for Both Andretti and Granatelli and they toasted each other in a spaghetti dinner at an Italian restaurant while conducting the news conference.

"It wasn't easy losing for 22 years," Granatelli said as he recalled the many years he had tried to win the most famous auto race in the nation. "But it was worth waiting 23 years for Mario."

And the owner praised the young driver for his courage in coming back two days after crashing a Lotus-Ford to qualify in the backup car, and then using it to score his clearcut victory.

Joe Frazier Lashes Out At Cassius

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Frazier, who holds a piece of the world heavyweight boxing title, blasted Cassius Clay today as a "big mouth phony" and a "disgrace" and said "I think the public is fed up with all his fussin' and fumin'."

The unbeaten, 25-year-old Philadelphian made the comments in a telephone interview with the Associated Press from his training camp at the Concord Hotel at Kiamesha Lake, N.Y. He is preparing for a defense of his six-state title against Jerry Quarry of Bellflower at Madison Square Garden, June 23.

"All this hollerin' he's doing about not wanting to fight is just a defense," said Frazier. "He knows I can beat him...knock him out. I'd like to button his big mouth once and for all, knock him out and get rid of him. I think the public is fed up with his fussin' and fumin'."

"What kind of a man is this, who don't want to fight for his country? If he was in Russia, or some place else, they'd put him up against the wall. He walks around like he's one kind of a big hero, but he's just a phony, a disgrace."

FOUR OUT OF FOUR

Orioles Continue Mastery Over A's

OAKLAND (UPI) — Young slugger Reggie Jackson has dispelled any doubt he is a team player.

After swatting an offering of southpaw Mike Cuellar 435 feet into the rightfield seats to open the seventh inning for the Oakland Athletics last night to tie Baltimore 1-1, he laid down a perfect sacrifice bunt in the ninth inning to advance a baserunner.

The efforts went for naught, however, as Frank Robinson and Boog Powell hit back-to-back homers off reliever Lew Krausee (0-3) leading off the 11th inning to give the Orioles a 3-1 win and spoil a fine pitching performance by John Odom. Oakland has dropped all four of its games with Baltimore this season.

HUNTER VS. PHOEBUS

Jackson, who turned 23 last month, hit a slider for his 17th homer of the season to tie him with Willie McCovey and Rico Petrocelli for the major league lead. The next time he came up, he laid down his first bunt of the season.

"Sure (A's manager Hank) Bauer told me to lay it down," said Jackson. "It made perfect baseball sense. We needed a run and I had two .300 hitters (Sal Bando and Danny Cater) coming up behind me.

Oakland leadoff batters reached base in 8 of the 11 innings but seven runners were erased by three Baltimore double plays.

FANS SIX

Odom, unsuccessful for the third straight time in trying to notch his eighth victory, allowed only five hits and fanned six over 10 innings. An errant pickoff throw got him into hot water in the first inning.

Krausse came on in the 11th and ran the count to 2-1 on Frank Robinson before he clouted his 13th homer of the season 375 feet into the leftfield stands. Powell then tagged a 2-2 pitch deep over the center-field fence for his ninth of the year.

RELIEF HELP

Bauer, hurting for bullpen help, said he plans to give rookie righthander Marcel Lachemann some relief work in the near future. Lachemann was called up yesterday along with Cater Federico Valazquez from Des Moines, Iowa, of the American Association. Lachemann had a 4-2 record, earned-run average of 2.25 and 25 strikeouts in 39 innings.

To make room for the two players, Oakland assigned pitcher Ed Sprague and reserve outfielder Joe Nossek to Des Moines.

Pro Football 'Hams' Excel In Hollywood

I guess the only sports star who ever made it big in pictures (unless you count Seabiscuit) with Esther Williams. And even of her, a disgruntled exhibitor once observed, "Wet, she's a star. Dry, she ain't."

Esther shared billing with her bathing suit. But football heroes, track stars, and other star swimmers had to share it with animals — usually monkeys who got more lines than they did. Their dialog consisted solely of chest-beating and screaming from treetops for a friendly elephant. The pictures might as well have been silents except for an occasional, "Me, Tarzan. You, Jane."

THEY EVEN tested Lou Gehrig for an ape man once but Lou had trouble keeping a straight face and, since the producers didn't want to make Tarzan into a baggy-pants comedian, they contented themselves with releasing a series of embarrassing stills of Lou in a leopard skin, bending a crowbar over his knee.

Occasionally, sports stars have played their own lives. The results were fairly ludicrous as might have been expected, because the casting made as much sense as putting Greer Garson in the Giant outfield or having Paul Newman fight Sonny Liston.

HOLLYWOOD CONTENTED itself thereafter with putting wrestlers in roles where they stood outside the boss' office with their arms folded. Or, they wore turbans and held Tony Curtis' camel for him in sand operas co-starring Piper Laurie.

But, lately, pro football, of all things, has been turning out more leading men than the Pasadena Playhouse. And, while none of them could play the Old Vic, they do give a little masculine charm to movies which, Lord knows, could use it.

JIM BROWN is never going to make anyone forget Spencer Tracy — or even Lee — but he does project a kind of sullen, good-looking menace, and seasoned actors would rather play a scene with a dimple-dancing moppet or a cute dog than with him. When Brown is on screen the rest of the people might as well be wearing masks. They get his shirt off at every opportunity, and, if they gave an Academy Award for muscles, he would win it.

MERLIN OLSEN of the Rams is the latest to crash the sound stages. They cast Merlin (and Roman Gabriel) in an oater called "The Undefeated" (the title prompted someone to wonder if Ohio State players wouldn't be more appropriate).

The plot didn't call for Merlin to say anything more than "Ugh!" at first. They thought they might beef up his role to an "Aw, shucks!" with cue cards.

THE MOVIE was one of those John Waynes where everybody goes around hitting everybody, and the trouble with casting John Wayne flicks is, Wayne himself comes 6-5 or 6-6 and a horse sags when he climbs on. So, he can't go around beating up on chorus boys or actors who might have to wear elevator shoes so he wouldn't step on them. The audience wouldn't like it.

Merlin, who was a Phi Beta Kappa in college, was so good at it, and believable as a guy who was so strong he was afraid of hitting somebody hard for fear he'd put a hole through them, that he ended up with more speaking lines than some actors get in a life-time of hanging around Central Casting. They're not thinking of putting him in "Hamlet" yet, or dusting off a few old John Barrymore leads for him, but he may have as lively a career as the late Ward Bond, another football player who parlayed a career out of playing Wayne's sidekick. If Merlin gets any better, Wayne may play HIS sidekick in the next boots-and-saddles.

MERLIN THINKS there is a reason football players excel in films where other athletes from other fields embarrass themselves. "First of all, there's college," he theorizes. "That's not critical, but football is because we're used to taking orders and executing them in unison. We are used to working ourselves up to an emotional pitch. You have to have a little ham in you to play football. Also, athletes today can't be just big, uncoordinated hulks. You have to have grace as well as strength, agility as well as speed. You have to FEEL a football game, too, if you know what I mean. I wouldn't be surprised to see more and more pro football players in acting."

That, of course, will solve Hollywood's problem — but where do the Chicago Bears go then? To the June Taylor dancers? Or do they ring up the William Morris office and say, "We need somebody who can run a buttonhook. Have him report to wardrobe at 9 o'clock and we'll rush him right over to makeup so they can put his muscles on. And, by the way, that placekicker you sent last week had the gout. And, no more fullbacks who lisp, please!"

Gals Duel For Berths In French Tennis

PARIS (UPI)—Three professionals and a lone Australian "amateur" bid today for women's singles semifinals berths at the French Open tennis championships.

The non-pro is Lesley Turner Bowrey, current Australian No. 2, who upset predictions by eliminating French professional Francoise Durr, seeded seventh at the Roland Garros Hard Courts tournament.

She meets formidable opposition in second-seeded Billie Jean King of Long Beach, who lost in a semifinal last year to fellow American Nancy Richey.

TWO PROS

The other two professionals, diminutive Rosemary Casals of San Francisco, and Britain's Ann Jones, clash for the right to meet the winner of the King-Bowrey encounter.

Miss Casals, who lost a memorable semifinal to Mrs. Jones two years ago, reached the quarters here by beating another Briton, tempestuous Virginia Wade.

The other semifinal pairing has already been settled. Miss Richey of San Angelo, Tex., meets top-seeded Margaret Court of Australia.

VICTORIES

The American, defending champion but seeded no. 4 this year, ousted Julie Heldman of New York 6-3, 9-7 and Mrs. Court dismissed fellow Australian Kerry Melville 9-7, 6-1 in quarterfinals play Tuesday.

The four survivors in the men's ranks rest today after a bristling action yesterday which saw Tom Okker of the Netherlands oust fourth-seeded John Newcombe of Australia and top-seeded Australian Rod Laver down Andres Gimeno of Spain.

Okker and Laver will meet in one semi, with defending champion Ken Rosewall facing Tony Roche in the other, an all Australian match. Rosewall and Roche had gained the round by victories on Monday.

Mets Really Flying High; Mauch Low

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The New York Mets have never before been so high and Gene Mauch is still trying to forget the only other time he has been so low.

The Mets, once a synonym for defeat, moved past the .500 mark for the first time in their eight-year history when they beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-2 last night. They've won six straight and have become so confident that Ed Kranepool, once one of their biggest disappointments, insisted no fluke is involved.

Mauch, manager of the Philadelphia Phillies when they lost a major league record 23 straight games in 1961, had the kind of a night which makes a manager think of the gas pipe.

WILLS RETIRES

First, Mauch lost one of his best players when third baseman Maury Wills retired moments before the Montreal Expos' game with the San Francisco Giants. Then Mauch was ejected in the third inning of the game for disputing a call by umpire Richard Stello. And then Gene sweated in the clubhouse as the Giants romped 9-3 and dealt the Expos their 17th straight loss.

The 17 straight losses equal the record for an expansion team which was set—you guessed it—by the Mets in 1962.

SCORES

The Chicago Cubs defeated the Houston Astros, 4-2, the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Atlanta Braves, 5-2, the Cincinnati Reds downed the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-3, and the San Diego Padres shaded the Philadelphia Phillies, 6-5, in other National League games.

Randy Hundley singled home one run and Don Young followed with a run-scoring double in the sixth inning to help extend the Cubs' winning streak to five games.

Steve Carlton struck out nine batters in a five-hitter.

PERPENDICULAR TUG-O'-WAR

With an assist from bleacherites, an unidentified youth climbed out of reach of pursuing ushers during some hi-jinks at Cubs-Houston baseball game in Chicago yesterday. The lad and two others interrupted the game by running around the infield, then raced to the safety of the grandstands. The others were apprehended, but this one escaped. (AP Wirephoto)

Killebrew Living Up To His Nickname

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The New York Yankees are learning why Harmon Killebrew is called "The Killer."

Killebrew smashed a two-run home run in the first inning last night to start the Minnesota Twins on their way to a 4-0 victory over the Yankees. Killebrew had beaten the Yankees with a home run only the night before when he smashed a three-run shot off Stan Bahnsen in a 3-2 Twins' victory.

Tony Oliva had a solo home run in the sixth inning and tripled in Killebrew with the other Minnesota run.

BOSTON WINS

Elsewhere in the American League, Boston ripped Chicago, 8-2, Kansas City downed Washington, 5-3, Baltimore outlasted Oakland, 3-1 in 11 innings, California beat Detroit, 4-2, and Cleveland shaded Seattle, 3-1.

Rico Petrocelli, Carl Yastrzemski and Reggie Smith homered to give Jim Lonborg his fifth straight victory as the Red Sox drubbed the White Sox. Petrocelli hit his 17th homer of the season in the fifth to tie Oakland's Reggie Jackson and Willie McCovey of San Francisco for the major league lead.

Joe Foy's two-run single ignited a four-run fifth inning rally which enabled the Kansas City Royals to snap a six game losing streak with their victory over the Senators.

Wally Bunker pitched a six-hitter and struck out 10 in pitching his first complete games since last August. The Royals trailed 2-1 in the fifth when they put runners on second and third with two walks and an infield out. Foy singled to give Kansas City a 3-2 lead and they boosted the advantage to 5-2 when Ed Kirkpatrick walked and Lou Piniella ripped a two-run double.

SIX-HITTER

Aurelio Rodriguez and Jim Hicks hit home runs and Andy Messersmith pitched a six-hitter for his first victory of the year after five consecutive losses as the Angels stunned the Tigers.

Rodriguez homered in the fourth to snap a 1-1 tie and Hicks, acquired last Friday from St. Louis, homered in the fifth after Rodriguez was safe on an error. It was Hicks' first hit in an Angels' uniform.

Too Good In One Stretch And You'll Suffer Later

OAKLAND — One of the dumb things about baseball is the built-in irony of being so good during one stretch that you suffer later.

The A's were confronted with this curious mini-nuisance last month. While winning 9 of 11 early in May, their front-line pitching was so consistently good that the relief pitchers got little work. And when the starters soured slightly later in the month and help was needed from the bullpen, there were problems.

The relief pitchers were suffering from lack of exercise — and game conditions. They had grown too stale to be steady. It's not that a relief pitcher needs to work every day to be sharp. But in most cases, a reliever is used when the slightest variation from concentration and sharpness can be fatal.

"ONE MISTAKE and a relief pitcher has had it," said former Oakland bullpenner Diego Segui, now a Seattle relief fellow. "Starters can get away with letting down once in a while. But not us guys in the bullpen."

The unemployment charts on the A's relievers in May are revealing. Rollie Fingers pitched only three innings between May 4 and 21. For Lew Krausse there were but five frames of toil — and ineffective labor at that — between May 1 and 21. In those five innings Lew gave up seven runs. He's simply used to working more.

Between May 2 and 20, Paul Lindblad, the number one left-handed reliever, worked only three innings. Jim Roland, the ex-Twin lefty, pitched only one-third of an inning in a 25-day period. He might have been happier sitting at home waiting for an extension of the bullpen phone to ring.

JOHN WYATT toiled for one inning on May 1 and never saw action again before he was cut May 26. He could always maintain he didn't have a chance to prove himself. And would any jury return a guilty finding?

Lastly, side-arming Eddie Sprague, who was idled part of the month after falling on the clubhouse steps and bruising an ankle, worked only three innings between May 2 and 25. Thus when it came time for him to do some serious relief pitching on May 29 and 30, he was bashed for three home funs and nine runs in seven innings.

LINDBLAD, THE most savvy and frequently most capable of the Athletic bullpen fraternity, can do naught but smile disgustedly over the peculiar problem of a good streak turning into a bad one.

"They try to work us somehow even when we're not seeing any game action," says Lindy. "But of course, it's not the same.

"FOR INSTANCE, every day each of us will try to throw an inning in the bullpen sometime. Our inning will correspond to the same time as one inning the guy's working on the mound, except we'll throw four times as many pitches. But of course it's not the same."

Of course. But there are no B games in the regular season as at spring training. And young pitchers need consistent work and pressure if they're to learn and mature.

JUST SITTING around may be fine for bullpen veterans like Wilhelm, Abernathy, Regan, Wood, Perranoski — although they aren't that idle because their clubs have fewer good starters. But gathering splinters in May cost the A's some half dozen games on Minny, which could mean an awfully painful paradox come September.

Novato To Host Cross Country Race June 14

The cross-country race, which has drawn hundreds of entries from all over the Bay Area in past years, will again be a featured part of Western Weekend Country Fair in Novato, according to Carl Jensen, chairman of the run sponsored by the Marin Athletic League.

The run is 6.87 miles long and will start at the main fire station on Grant Avenue at Highway 101 at 9:30 a.m., June 14, Jensen said. Runners should report in to the fire station at 7:30 a.m. for assignment of their numbers, he said.

There will be trophies for the first three winners and ribbons for the next 75, as in previous years.

Why Wes Westrum Would Never Be Giant Manager

By JACK HANLEY

MONTREAL — As Air Canada's flight 773 sped toward Montreal, Wes Westrum turned to his seat mate and pointed to the scene thousands of feet below.

Manhattan's towering skyscrapers looked like little needles. Shea Stadium, where the Giants had just finished a weekend series with the Mets, already had faded from sight.

"DO YOU miss it?" Westrum was asked.

"Do you mean Shea or New York?" Westrum inquired of his seat companion.

"Both."

"They both treated me good," said Westrum, "the city and the ball park. But as for missing them, no. I'm happy where I am — with the Giants. I began my career with them almost three decades ago. I guess I'll wind it up with them. Not that I have any thoughts about retiring in the near future. After all, I still have a few years to go before I'm even 50."

When Westrum's playing days with the Giants were over, Horace Stoneham gave him a coaching berth but repeatedly passed him over as manager. Stoneham is a sentimental club owner when it comes to former ball players, particularly ex-Giant greats such as Westrum.

Stoneham respects Westrum's knowledge of the game. He admired the job Westrum did as manager of the Mets for three seasons after Casey Stengel's retirement was hastened by a hip injury. He didn't try to dissuade Westrum in 1963 from quitting his job as a Giant coach to become Casey's chief assistant and heir apparent.

"You'll always have a coaching job with us if things don't work out," Stoneham told Westrum.

And Stoneham was as good as his word. When Westrum resigned as Met manager because he knew Gil Hodges was being groomed as his successor, Stoneham contacted him immediately and requested him to return to the Giants.

"We need you on the coaching lines," said Stoneham who knew that Westrum had been offered a front office Met job at $17,000.

Stoneham pays his coaches more than any other club — $15,000. But he matched the $17,000 the Mets had offered Westrum.

"I never had a better boss," Westrum has said on many occasions when Stoneham's name has popped up in conversations.

BUT WESTRUM'S happiness with the Giants never will be complete because he knows Stoneham never will appoint him manager of the team. Why? Not because Stoneham lacks confidence in Westrum.

Some years ago when the Pacific Coast League farm club of the Giants at Phoenix had a managerial opening, Westrum's name was brought up.

"No," said Stoneham. "I don't want him to take the job. Sooner or later the time comes when a manager must be fired. I never want to fire Westrum. I like him too much."

it's a long walk back.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Traditional Lead Can Telegraph Your Hand To Other Players

The traditional lead against a notrump contract is the fourth-highest card in your longest and strongest suit. This practice permits other players to draw inferences about the nature of your hand.

SPADE PLAY

West opened the deuce of spades, and South immediately assumed that West had led from a four-card suit. Sometimes a player has a card lower than his lead, a fifth-best card, but the leader cannot have a card lower than the deuce.

South confirmed the spade position by refusing East's queen and then the king. East continued with a low spade, and South on. Now it was clear that West had led from a four-card spade suit headed by the jack.

This information became important when declarer then began to run his heart tricks and discovered that, West had started with only one heart. Oddly enough, the fact that West was known to have four spades and one heart in his original hand told South how to play the diamonds.

NO FIVE-CARD SUIT

Since North and South had bid only notrump, West could yave had no reason to avoid leading a suit. He would surely lead his best suit, whichever it happened to be. If he had a five-card suit he would open it in preference to leading from a four-card suit. In other words, West could not have five diamonds or five clubs since he had chosen to open from a four-card spade suit.

South knew that West had started with eight cards in clubs and diamonds combined. If West couldn't have a five-card suit, he surely held four clubs and four diamonds.

To play the diamonds correctly, therefore, South took the ace and king and then led his low diamond to win a finesse with dummy's ten. This somewhat unusual finesse was necessary for the contract.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with no trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold:
♠—A 7 4
♥—K Q 10 6
♦—A K 6
♣—10 9 7

ANSWER: Bid two clubs, the Stayman Convention, asking partner to show a major suit of four or more cares.

If partner bids two hearts, you will raise to four hearts; and if he bids two diamonds you can afford to bid two hearts. But if partner bids two spades, you plan to bid two notrump since your hand is not quite strong enough for a bid of three hearts.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, June 4, the 155th day of 1969 with 210 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn. The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1800 the finishing touches were put on the White House.

In 1896 Henry Ford wheeled his first car from a brick shed in Detroit and drove it around the darkened streets for a trial run.

In 1942 the Battle of Midway began, an encounter in which the Japanese fleet suffered its first decisive defeat of World War II.

In 1967 war broke out between Israel and Egypt. It lasted five days and Israel got much Arab territory.

A thought for the day: Roman playwright Terence said, "Nothing is so difficult but that is may be found out by seeking."

Northwest Route For Oil Tapping

WASHINGTON (AP) — A "$30 million gamble" to open up a 20th Century Northwest Passage—across the Arctic ice to Alaska oil fields—was announced yesterday by one of the nation's largest petroleum producers.

Humble Oil Co. officials said a giant ice-breaking tanker, the Manhattan, is scheduled to leave Philadelphia July 15, to plow through ice across the top of North America to the oil fields on the north coast of Alaska.

If the route proves practical, they said, they hope to be freighting oil year-around to the East Coast by 1972.

Beyond that, they said, the experiment could open up a new international searoute that could cut the London-Tokyo sea distance by almost half — from 14,000 miles to 8,000—and open up Canada's and Alaska's rich northern mineral resources.

Humble President Charles F. Jones said one point on the route is equidistant from London, New York and Tokyo and added:

"History teaches us that new sea routes have frequently had unforeseen consequences, actually altering the relationships and balance among nations."

Jones and other company officials announced their plans in an elaborate news conference conducted by closed-circuit television simultaneously in Washington and New York.

They said they have no assurance the Northwest Passage will be practical.

If it's not, they indicated, the alternative will be oil delivery by pipeline, probably across the northern United States.

"Right now the whole operation is a big question," said project manager Stanley B. Haas, "a $30 million gamble."

The ice-clogged passage has been crossed several times. Haas indicated the question to be answered is whether drifting ice conditions will prevent regular, year around trips by ice-breaking tankers.

Il the passage can be opened, he said, various companies should be sending some 30 ships back and forth on an average of every day and a half—maintaining a channel through most of the passage in which ice would have little time to build up.

Humble's goal, said Jones, is to tank up to two million barrels of oil a day to the East Coast by 1980 from the oil fields it operates with Atlantic Richfield near Prudhoe Bay near the middle of Alaska's north coast.

Atlantic Richfield and the British Petroleum Oil Co. each are contributing $2 million to the Manhattan's attempt to open up the passage this summer, officials said.

The 1,000-foot Manhattan was cut up into four sections and distributed to shipyards from Bath, Maine, to Mobile, Ala. for modifications, including a n32 125-foot ice-breaking bow.

The 9,000-ton ship is being reassembled at Chester, Pa.

It is to break through the up to seven-foot ice thicknesses on a "down breaking principle." The ship moves up and over the ice, collapsing it as well as cutting it.

Stocks Close Weak After Firm Start

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks closed on a weak note today after holding firm for most of the session.

Early strength stemmed from a report President Nixon and South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu may announce plans for the first unilateral withdrawal of U.S. forces from Vietnam at their meeting Sunday.

The overall easiness was traced to growing concern over the possibility of tighter money. Also discouraging was a decline in late May automobile sales.

The UPI stock market indicator, measuring all stocks traded, showed a loss of 0.07 per cent on 1,579 issues traded. Of these, 731 declined and 603 advanced.

Electronics showed scattered strength, with a few such issues up a point or more.

Motors showed slight easiness following the disappointing industry news. Oils moved in both directions, with Atlantic Richfield generally on the winning side. Superior, however, backtracked.

Steels were narrowly mixed, with conglomerates also moving on both sides of previous closings.

CBS Acquisition

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS) has announced acquisition of Tele-Vue Systems Inc., a community antenna television system operator in California and Washington State. CBS said the acquisition involved an exchange of 346,424 shares of CBS common stock for the outstanding shares of Tele-Vue stock. A spokesman said 79,868 additional shares of CBS common stock may be issued if the results of Tele-Vue's operations through Jan. 1, 1972, fulfill conditions which have been agreed upon.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Litton Shares Good For Growth Income

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. My husband buys shares of Litton Industries through a company plan. We know nothing about stocks and wonder if we should hold the share. — W. R.

A. Because your husband is buying stock through an employe profit-sharing plan, he undoubtedly enjoys some advantage either through reduction of share price or from company matched contributions.

At recent sharply oversold levels, Litton shares are an attractive long-term commitment. A strong earnings uptrend was interrupted in the '67-'68 fiscal year, precipitating a sell-off last year. More recent weakness reflects less-than-expected recovery in earnings for second quarter and the Justice Department's investigation of conglomerate companies.

For fiscal 1969, ending July, estimates of $2.50 a share seem within reason. On that basis, shares trading at 21x are at an historically low multiple and, in relation to Litton's long-term prospects, a good buy.

Q. I have investments paying dividends in every month but February, May, August and November. What blue-chip issues pay dividends in these months? — R. H.

A. More than I would be willing to list here. Five stocks that pay in the months you mention which are well worth your consideration are: Cincinnati Gas & Electric, Consolidated Natural Gas, Diamond International, Marshall Field and Sierra Pacific Power. The first two stocks yield over 5 per cent the latter three under 4 per cent.

Q. Can anyone sell at any time through their broker these bonds: N. Y. Telephone 7½s of 2009 and Public Service Electric & Gas 7⅝s of 1999? What possible loss might one have to take in selling? — L. R.

A. Yes, both issues are salable in the open bond market. Most recent quotes were at a premium, thereby lowering yield to maturity closer to 7 per cent. However, if interest rates continue to climb, the price of these 7½ and 7⅝ per cent bonds would decline, since a drying up of demand would force their prices down to a level where the yield was more nearly in line with current rates. If, however, these bonds were held until redemption, there would be no loss of capital.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By HARRY CRAFT

Securities Firm May Become Subsidiary Of Own Creation

The investment securities firm, York Securities Corp., which has one of its four Bay Area offices in San Rafael, may become the subsidiary of its own creation — Portsmouth Square, Inc.

The first move toward this end was taken last week when Portsmouth Square stockholders held their annual meeting in San Francisco and voted to acquire York Securities. They also voted to increase Portsmouth authorized common shares from 250,000 to 750,000 to make the transaction possible.

York organized Portsmouth Square almost two years ago — not as a holding company — but to supply 25 per cent of the equity and also the organizational management for a 572-room hotel to be operated by Holiday Inns and a 460-stall garage to be operated by Evon Garage Corp. at the site of the old Hall of Justice on Kearny Street, San Francisco.

Since then Portsmouth has expanded its equity to 67 per cent, its assets to $3.4 million and its shareholders to 600. In April it also acquired Robo Bay Cities, Inc., which has an exclusive franchise for automatic car wash installations in seven Northern California counties (its first installation was in San Rafael). Along with the acquisition of York, Portsmouth will also take on Crowe Investment Services of Castro Valley.

All this requires the approval of the Board of Governors of the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange (of which York is a member) and of the Commissioner of Corporations to issue more Portsmouth Square capital stock. But if and when this is received, shareholders who thought they were simply acquiring an interest in a hotel and garage will find themselves also with two investment firms and a car wash system all over Northern California.

NEW NAME for the C. A. Rypinski Co., San Rafael, is Rydax, Inc. The company manufactures specialized digital communications equipment. Rydax will also enter into the manufacture of remote control terminals for teleprinters used at high-frequency radio stations.

MEDIA S SALES, INC., formerly located in San Francisco and now at 101 Casa Buena Drive, Corte Madera, has purchased the publication Pacific Air and Truck Traffic from Pacific Shipper, Inc. Media Sales was formerly advertising sales representative for the publication.

William G. Fitzgerald, formerly managing editor, became editor. Richard C. Alcorn of Novato, president of Media Sales, is publishing director and John P. Eichorn of Tiburon, vice president of Media Sales, is publisher. Pacific Air and Truck Traffic has an audited circulation of 15,000 readers in the western states.

TWO NEW STAFF ADDITIONS have been made at Pacific Coast Title Co., San Rafael.

Richard J. Soares of San Rafael has joined the company as an escrow officer. For the past four years he has been a title officer at Marin Title Guaranty Co. Previously he was 10 years with Belcher Abstract and Title Co., Eureka — six years as manager.

Gallagher

Soares

Another new addition is Michael P. Gallagher of Tomales, also appointed an escrow officer. He was formerly with Western Title Guaranty Co. and Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.

JAMES BERGDALL of Mill Valley has been named board chairman of Little Lambs Nursery School in Tiburon. Other new board members include John Radovich of Mill Valley, vice chairman; Leonard Peck, Mill Valley, secretary; Mrs. Flavio Gomez, Tiburon, treasurer; Mrs. Lawrence Bogel, Tiburon, publicity chairman, and Mrs. Charles Beardsley, Tiburon, educational supervisor.

The school is now completing plans for its summer program July 1 - 24, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from 9 to 11:30 a.m.

Students At Tomales Make Democracy Work

Young people get their first practice in the workings of democracy in the schools, and how they respond may tell us something of the kind of citizens we are building.

Especially heartening, we think, is the response at Tomales High School, where student preference in a student body election ran up against an administrative veto, and the students today are balloting on a proposed constitutional change to give them greater autonomy hereafter.

THE ISSUE AROSE because Supt.-Principal Anthony Matulich ruled one of two candidates for next fall's student president was ineligible — for reasons he has refused to state publicly.

The student, Robert Borello, is a popular young man on campus — so popular that, despite the superintendent's ruling, a majority of voting students wrote in his name.

Matulich then ruled young Borello could not serve.

This brought on a brief "confrontation" in the manner that is becoming traditional on campus, followed by a "strike" of 50 to 75 students for two class periods.

BUT THEN the Tomales students showed their maturity and their ability to deal sensibly and democratically with the issue. One hundred and sixty-five of them — out of a student body of 201 — presented a petition declaring they felt young Borello should have the office — 74 more than voted for him in the first place. But a student committee accepted the superintendent's adverse decision on behalf of the student body, then arranged for an election today to amend the constitution so the superintendent cannot hereafter veto a candidate on unspecified grounds.

IT IS ALSO worth noting that in the the election, there were 177 votes cast for student president out of the 201 students at the school.

This turnout was in sharp contrast with those in some other recent student elections hereabout.

At Sonoma State College, a series of elections have been challenged on various grounds. First, Jon Owen of Novato was elected to be student body president. That election was challenged for alleged voting irregularities. Then James Gillette defeated Owen by 23 votes. That result was challenged on a rather flimsy basis.

But of the 8,000-odd students at Sonoma State, little more than 1,300 voted in either of the contested elections.

AT SAN FRANCISCO State College, acting president S. I. Hayakawa threw out one student body election on the grounds that insufficient time was given for candidates to qualify. He was hoping to get more student involvement. Of the 16,000 students, only about 2,000 had voted. But in the second election, only 1,800 voted.

It appears that the high school students at Tomales know a good deal more about making democracy work than do the college students at Sonoma State or San Francisco State.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

27 Legislators Ready To Cut Funds For Higher Education

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The amazing 27 Assembly votes for a budget amendment eliminating funds for higher education, proposed by Assemblyman Ray Johnson, R-Chico, indicated lawmakers are at the point where they need but little more prodding by their constituents to take drastic steps toward curbing campus disorders.

Not long ago the Johnson proposal would have been lucky to receive the support of a half dozen assemblymen. But sentiment is changing in the legislature, as evidenced by the vote, and although the proposal was voted down, 35-27, it is significant it was given serious consideration at all.

EFFORTS to shape up the administrators and faculties of the university and colleges have been under way for some time in the legislature, which has more than 100 bills before it regarding various phases of higher education unrest.

One of the most potent suggestions came from the state Senate Republican caucus, headed by Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Pasadena. Senator George Deukmajian, R-Long Beach, the majority floor leader in the upper house, issued a statement on behalf of the caucus which said in part:

"We affirm our belief that the most basic responsibility for maintaining order and resolving problems within a college community lies with the administrators and the faculty of the college.

"We believe it is time that all administrators in the University of California and state college systems acquire a new resolve. It is time for them to make this flat declaration to their students:

" 'If you choose to cause violence and disruption, you shall be subject to suspension or expulsion. If you choose to break the law, you shall be subject to arrest and punishment. There shall be no amnesty.'

"We also believe that constructive leadership by concerned faculty members can do much to ease the current climate of conflict. We submit that all UC and state college professors, especially those who are sympathetic to student complaints and requests, should spend some time teaching one of the great lessons of history, namely, that violence only breeds more violence.

"Further, it is time that certain faculty members stop following their hypocritical policy of 'selective indignation.'

"WHEN VIOLENCE occurs and police or the National Guard must be brought to the campus, these persons become indignant over the so-called 'intrusion' into the academic community. We submit that they should also become indignant when a handful of students walk into their classrooms and tell them it has been arbitrarily decided by a tiny minority that there will be no classes.

"Reform cannot be born in chaos. In a free society, intimidation, violence and coercion cannot be tolerated, either on a college campus or in the city streets. And we stand with the governor when he says that we will not tolerate such tactics."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

A Rose By No Other Name . . .

This is in response to the editorial of Saturday, May 23, in which, among other ideas, it was stated that correctional officers should be called guards because this is really what they are.

Many of our 360 uniformed officers have expressed their dismay at this statement. These men are serving their community and their state in a conscientious and professional manner. They are employed through a selective process so rigorous that only 10 or 12 per cent of the initial applicants are hired. Employees undergo many hours of both classroom and on-the-job training. At least one year and perhaps two are required before a correctional officer becomes really effective.

The term "correctional officer" is not merely an euphemism for guard. A guard does just that — guards and nothing else. Our correctional officers are expected to counsel angry men, be good public relations representatives in working with visitors, to supervise maintenance crews, work effectively with psychiatric problems, and to remain mature and professional in the face of physical danger or verbal abuse. . . .

'Causes' Cloak Personal Interests

Little did I dream, when we were sloshing around here in hip boots, a few years back, that our dilemma would eventually distress Roger Kent, frustrate Mrs. Jones, upset Mr. Graham, arouse college students, pit highlanders against lowlanders, Democrat against Republican, conservationist against concrete, neighbor against neighbor, young against old, friend against friend, and put the Corps of Engineers and the Department of Public Works on the rack.

What amazes me in the current disunity in the county is that the culprit, flood, is ruthlessly democratic, a fact that united College Park in a determined effort to prevent a reoccurrence. Interested residents met, again and again, with city, county and college officials to work out a long-range, financially feasible solution to a problem of magnitude, confronting many people in many areas.

The Corps of Engineers was invited to participate after all local avenues of assistance were exhausted. To infer that these public meetings, which extended over many, many months, were somehow held underground belies the fact that those concerned enough about their homes did their homework. They found out when the meetings were held.

It would seem to me that the time for the prodigal outpouring of zeal, creativity and political expertise now in evidence should have been back when the page was blank. Colonel Boerger and Don Frost have taken their lumps, but one thing can not be denied, they were there!

I criticize no one for past apathy. Concern for our fellow man rises in all of us as the problem directly concerns ourselves. What I do object to is cloaking honest, personal worry about property in grand, humanitarian, ecological causes. . . .

Even if we were released from all future destruction, we would be smug to the extreme to ignore the need of those in the upper Ross Valley. For anyone, no matter how dedicated his motives, to demand the perfect esthetic ditch at the expense of those in the path of floods and taxpayers footing the bill, seems callous and cavalier.

I would consider it a pyrrhic victory indeed if by salvaging a few feet of sylvan beauty I was responsible for even one family's despair and financial loss as the result of a flood.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

June 4, 1959

A resolution to name one of the state parks in Marin or an area within a park in honor of Caroline E. Livermore of Ross was introduced in the state Senate.

Actor Mickey Rooney disclosed that he had married blonde starlet Barbara Thomason, his fifth wife, after getting a quickie Mexican divorce from his fourth wife, Elaine Mahnken.

20 YEARS AGO

June 4, 1949

San Rafael's 35-year-old municipal bathhouse, occupied by H. C. Little Burner Inc., stove and furnace manufacturers, was destroyed by fire.

Tyrone Power and Linda Darnell starred in the film, "Blood and Sand," at the Motor Movies in San Rafael.

Suspects Likened To Park Proponents

Those pictures of the suspects on the first page of the May 28 issue might well have been taken of the dealers of the dissidents, namely the brainless ones that are being used by the glib-tongued anarchist crowd. I saw them last night (May 29) at the meeting of the Berkeley councilmen. Ugh!

I think the best thing the U.S. can do is to turn that piece of ground over to the "bums" and let them farm it. Before snow falls they would all be gone. . . .

Don't Despoil Lake Lagunitas!

The proposal to expend $250,000 to commercialize Lake Lagunitas must be, repeat, must be a hoax.

No one can be seriously recommending this defilement of one of the last unspoiled natural wonders of our beautiful county. We have, right in our backyard, so to speak, what is no longer available even in the distant Sierra Nevadas and that is: accessible peace and quiet. Let's not pollute this gem, our own pure Lake Lagunitas.

(Editor's note: Attractive Lake Lagunitas is not actually a natural wonder. It was created by construction of a dam in Lagunitas Creek in 1872 to impound a water supply for the area. It was acquired by Marin Municipal Water District when the district purchased facilities of Marin Water and Power Co. in 1916.)

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

THAT MATCHLESS comedienne, Beatrice Lillie, was once maneuvered into giving a lift to town to an actor she loathed. Approaching the northern terminus of the New Jersey Turnpike, she murmured sweetly to him, "Can I drop you somewhere — off the George Washington Bridge, for instance?"

"Frequent water drinking," advised a specialist, "prevents you from becoming stiff at the joints." "You're right," agreed the patient, "but most of the joints I frequent don't serve water."

Unity At Meeting In Bangkok Spurs Hope For SEATO Revival

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

HONOLULU — There is the growing awareneess among Southeast Asian nations that they must act in concert if they are to prevent future Vietnams.

They know by now that this is the only basis on which they can expect the United States to help keep the peace on the Asian mainland.

Unexpectedly, the SEATO countries are beginning to move in this direction.

THIS BECAME evident at their recent Bangkok meeting, attended by the foreign ministers of Australia, New Zealand, Thailand, Pakistan, the Philippines, Great Britain, and the United States, at which these lessons of Vietnam began to be more clearly faced:

1—The need to create a regional defense system for Southeast Asia;

2—The need to recognize that the threat of Communist "wars of liberation" will not cease even when the fighting ends in South Vietnam;

3—The need to build and pool sufficient collective strength to deter aggression.

SOME HAVE BEEN talking about the Southeast Asian Treaty Organization as though it were dead or so helpless that it ought to be put out of its misery.

That's not the story which comes out of the Bangkok meeting, where both the ministers and their military advisers found themselves more united than in the past.

There are two reasons for the new interest among the SEATO nations in a stronger regional defense system.

One is that, in light of the pain and frustration of Vietnam, the United States will not likely again defend a Southeast Asian country unless the region as a whole has already shown it is prepared to defend itself.

The other is that the Communist guerrilla infiltration into non-Communist Asian countries will almost certainly continue until it becomes evident that it can't succeed.

THE EVIDENCE which accounts for this mounting concern is considerable.

Laos is in the most immediate peril. It is already half-controlled by Communists, mostly infiltrated by North Vietnamese. It is a tempting and nearly open highway for infiltration to most of Southeast Asia.

Foreign Communist guerrillas are keeping up their terrorist and propaganda activity against the Thai government in the north and northeast parts of the country and in its southern pit.

With the imminent withdrawal of the British everywhere east of the Suez, Singapore is peculiarly exposed, an inviting target since 80 per cent of the petroleum needed to sustain Japan's burgeoning economy goes through the Strait of Malacca.

NORTH KOREA'S reckless and unpredictable actions add to the uncertainty throughout Asia. Its avowed aim is to try again to conquer South Korea by force. It is so fearful of the growing prosperity in South Korea that it hopes to create enough trouble to scare away further foreign investment. In seizing the Pueblo and shooting down the U.S. reconnaissance plane, it was feeling out how far the United States could be pushed.

The United States is not going to be pushed out of international waters and airways by North Korea or any other country. And the unity at the Bangkok meeting showed that all SEATO allies will not be pushed into making a counterfeit peace in Vietnam.

Turnover To Saigon Price-Tagged $6.2 Billion

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The cost of modernizing South Vietnamese troop units, so they can take over the fighting there from U.S. forces, is estimated by the Pentagon to be at least $6.2 billion.

That is the whopping price-tag which is being supplied in response to congressional inquiries. Maj. Gen. Henry A. Miley Jr., the Army's deputy chief of staff for logistics, is the Pentagon's authority on the matter.

He says the $6.2 billion will finance equipment, ammunition and other consumable supplies to upgrade South Vietnamese fighting units. Additional sums apparently will be required, however, to complete modernization of South Vietnamese air and naval forces.

ABOUT $400 MILLION worth of Army equipment has already been delivered to the South Vietnamese army, along with some $370 million worth of ammunition. Equipment supplied has included M-16 rifles, M-60 machine guns and the like.

More transfers will be financed under a supplemental appropriations bill recently passed by the House and awaiting Senate approval. The bill includes about $300 million in modernization funds.

The Pentagon is setting no deadline, now, for completion of the modernization program. Pentagon spokesmen say the completion schedule, like the ultimate cost, will depend on future events — including developments at the Paris peace talks.

THE MODERNIZATION program began in March 1968 with the decision to supply South Vietnamese units with the M-16 rifle. Initially it was to be a two-phase operation.

Under phase one, South Vietnamese ground forces were to be upgraded under guidelines which assumed that the United States forces would remain and provide logistical services together with air-naval support. Phase two assumed that the United States and North Vietnam would withdraw, at some future date. It called for a balanced modernization of all South Vietnamese armed forces.

With the start of the peace talks in Paris, the Pentagon decided to telescope the two phases and move them ahead simultaneously.

CHINA SLOWDOWN — Mao Tse-tung's cultural revolution has probably delayed Peking's nuclear weapons program, but its major damage has been to Communist China's fledgling technical and industrial base.

That is the growing conviction within the intelligence community here.

In the past, there has sometimes been a tendency for U. S. policy makers to underestimate the technological potential of the Communist Chinese. Early accomplishments in China's nuclear weapons program consistently surprised the experts here.

That situation is significantly changed now. Deployment of medium range ballistic missiles, to blackmail China's neighbors, has apparently been deferred. Communist China has not yet tested a ballistic missile of intercontinental range.

More One-Way Streets Seem Likely As Opposition Fails To Develop

Ten years ago when San Rafael thought about making Second and Third one-way streets, merchants protested but the system passed and traffic was confused only briefly when it went into effect.

Since then, city officials have periodically eyed more one-way streets to help ease downtown congestion.

Public Works Director Norris Rawles has talked of making Fourth, Fifth and Mission one way and prohibiting parking along more thoroughfares during commute hours (such as already in effect on Lincoln Avenue).

But expected opposition from businessmen seems to have kept a damper on enthusiasm — until last January when the city council authorized a study on one-way streets and parking downtown.

The report, from D. Jackson Faustman, a Sacramento traffic engineering consultant, is almost certain to recommend more one-way streets in downtown San Rafael.

City Mgr. Dan Andersen expects to receive it within about a week — in time for the June 16 council meeting.

MEANWHILE, there have been indications that the expected opposition from businessmen may not materialize, at least not to the extent expected.

Glenn Adair, the new manager of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, said several businessmen have spoken to him of the need for more one-way streets and the chamber is planning a meeting with City Engineer Ely Caillouette to talk about the Faustman report.

ROSS MAY HAVE the most civilized dogs in Marin, but Belvedere has one that would give any high-class pooch competition.

The dog is walked carefully down one of Belvedere's quiet streets, with the master holding the leash in one hand and the steering wheel of his classic Corvette in the other.

A WORKSHOP for department heads who would be involved in the New Careers program and who are viewing it with some apprehension was suggested last week by the county board of supervisors.

Supervisors also indicated dissatisfaction with a compromise New Careers proposal which would cost $63,100 instead of the no-cost approach of Dr. Arthur Pearl, one of the originators of the program.

They asked the county administrator's office to set up a weekend seminar with College of Marin after Asst. Administrator Thomas Campanella reported some department heads are reticent about the program.

Dr. Pearl, a professor at the University of Oregon who was in Marin for the board meeting, volunteered his time to the seminar. So far, nothing definite has been set.

The board delayed action on any New Careers program until budget time.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Teachers' Lobby Shows Where Its Interests Lie

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

The most powerful education lobby in Sacramento is most interested in teacher pay, retirement benefits, leaves, and credentials, and least interested in campus discipline.

That most powerful lobby is, of course, the California Teachers Association. An assessment of where its interests lie may be drawn from the positions it has taken on more than 100 bills in the current legislature.

THE CTA SPONSORED 17 measures this year — bills which in most cases were actually written at its Burlingame headquarters. It has also taken positions on nearly 100 others.

Of the 17 CTA bills, four would improve benefits for retired teachers and their survivors. Three are to improve teachers' pay. Three deal with teaching credentials. Two add to mandatory leaves for teachers.

The CTA always backs a school finance measure. This year it sponsored AB 409 by Assemblymen James W. Dent, R-Concord, and Carlos Bee, D-Hayward. This provides for gradually increased state support of school districts on a basis of percentage of what the districts spend rather than on a dollar basis.

THE TEACHER PAY bills sponsored by CTA would raise the minimum starting salary to $6,800 (AB 1088, Alan Sieroty, D-Los Angeles), require summer school pay on a prorata with that of the regular school term (SB 1193, Albert S. Rodda, D-Sacramento), and permit school boards to raise teachers' pay at any time rather than limiting such increases to twice a year (AB 747, William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights).

Among the credential measures is SB 708 by Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Watsonville, which would repeal the Fisher Act — the law requiring teachers to have majored in "academic subjects" and forcing a fifth year of college attendance for a credential.

The leave measures call for mandatory leaves of absence for teachers elected to public office (AB 543, Dent) and for teachers becoming pregnant (AB 1564, March K. Fong, D-Oakland).

Another CTA-sponsored measure, SB 430 by Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-San Pedro, would put all health and welfare benefits of teachers on the taxpayer. Most districts now have teachers contribute part of the costs.

MEASURES ACTIVELY supported by the CTA lobby cover a wider range. Among interesting ones are these:

AB 29 (Eugene A. Chappie, R-Eldorado), making it a misdemeanor to send an insulting or abusive not to a teacher, and AB 803 (Lewis F. Sherman, R-Oakland), making it a misdemeanor for a parent or guardian to encourage a child to cut school.

AB 53 (Leroy F. Greene, D-Sacramento), repealing the requirement that the State Board of Education adopt minimum academic standards for pupil achievement.

WHAT THE CTA OPPOSES in the way of legislation is just as revealing as what it supports. It went all-out this year against AB 5 (Robert H. Burke, R-Huntington Beach) and SB 35 (John G. Schmitz, R-Tustin), identical bills to repeal the 1971 removal of all ceilings on school tax rates.

Others in a long list of bills opposed by CTA include:

SB 217 (H. L. Richardson, R-Pasadena), authorizing dismissal of a teacher for advocating disobedience to law, and SB 261 (Richardson), authorizing dismissal of a teacher who falsifies a job application.

SB 382 (Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose), cancelling tenure of any teacher who goes on strike, and SB 431, by the same senator, doing away with tenure in state colleges.

SB 520, a measure with a long list of sponsors, which would provide additional state funds if school districts reduced their tax rates.

CTA also opposed several bills aimed at prohibiting or postponing sex and "family life" education.
